DC: Defense Exhibit C for identification is offered in evidence as Defense Exhibit C (and permission is requested to withdraw it at the conclusion of the trial and substitute a written description (true copy) therefor).

—objection

TC: I object because ----------.

NOTE: An exhibit need not be offered in evidence at the time referred to by the witness, and may be held for introduction later in the trial. However, opposing counsel must be given an opportunity to examine it in order that proper cross-examination of the witness in regard to the exhibit may be conducted.

NOTE: After making the offer, opposing counsel is again given the opportunity to examine the exhibit. Cross-examination may be conducted by opposing counsel, and other evidence may be offered and arguments made by either side prior to a ruling by the LO (president of a special court-martial) as to whether the exhibit will be admitted in evidence.

LO (Pres): (Subject to the objection of any member of the court) the objection is overruled. Defense Exhibit C for identification is admitted in evidence as Defense Exhibit C [(and a description) (true copy) may be substituted].

—description of article for the record

NOTE: Unless the testimony of a witness has developed a full and accurate description of an object to be withdrawn later (54*d*), counsel or the LO (president of a special court-martial) should give a verbal description at this time, for the record, of such an object, thus affording all par[illegible] an opportunity to advise in regard to such description. See 138*c*.

NOTE: If an exhibit is offered, but is not admitted by the court, the side offering it may request that it be attached to the record for the information of the convening authority (54*d*).

—depositions and authenticated official records

NOTE: In the case of depositions and properly authenticated official records, the item is marked by the reporter and shown to the opposing counsel. In an appropriate case, the offer might be as follows:

TC: Prosecution Exhibit 17 for identification, a duly authenticated extract copy of the morning report of ----------, is offered in evidence as Prosecution Exhibit 17.

—confessions; admissions

NOTE: Before a confession may be received in evidence the prosecution ordinarily must show that it was voluntary. See 140*a*. If, upon objection by the defense to the admission in evidence of a confession or admission on the ground that it was not voluntary, it appears to the court that the accused does not understand his right to testify for the limited purpose of showing the circumstances under which the confession or admission was obtained without subjecting himself to cross-examination upon other issues (149*b*), the LO (president of a special court-martial) should explain to the accused his rights in accordance with 53*h* and 140*a* as follows:

—cross-examination (accused's right to limit his testimony to circumstances)

LO (Pres): ----------, the prosecution has offered in evidence a confession (admission) allegedly made by you and has introduced evidence tending to show that it was voluntarily made by you. As the accused in the case you have the right at this time to introduce any evidence you may desire relevant to the circumstances under which the confession (admission) was obtained. You also have the right to take the stand at this time as a witness for the limited purpose of showing the circumstances under which the confession (admission) was obtained. If you do that, whatever you say will be considered and weighed as evidence by the court just as is the testimony of other witnesses. You may be cross-examined upon your testimony, but if you limit your testimony to the circumstances surrounding the taking of the confession (admission) you cannot be cross-examined on the question of your guilt or innocence of the offense itself, nor can you be asked on cross-examination whether the confession (admission) is true or false. In other words, you can only be cross-examined upon the issues concerning which you testify and upon your credibility, but not upon anything else.

On the other hand, you need not take the stand at all. You have a perfect right to remain silent, and the fact that you do not take the stand yourself will not be considered as an admission that your confession (admission) was voluntary, nor can it be commented upon in any way by the trial counsel in addressing the court. Do you understand your rights?

Accused: Yes, sir.

LO (Pres): Proceed.

*Excluding members of general courts-martial:

NOTE: See 57*d* (2), 57*g* (2), and 73*c* (2) for rules governing certain proceedings had outside the presence, view, or hearing of members of a general court-martial. The procedure for an in-court conference requested by counsel may be as follows:

—in-court conference

DC (TC): I would like to confer with the law officer out of the hearing of the members of the court.

LO: Counsel for both sides and the accused will come forward.

NOTE: After an in-court conference, the procedure may be as follows:

LO: Let the record show that the accused and counsel for both sides conferred with the law officer out of the hearing of the members of the court. (The trial will proceed.) (The court will recess until ------- so that counsel may present certain additional matters to the law officer outside the presence of the members of the court.) (The court will recess. If the members of the court will remain in the vicinity of the courtroom, I shall, as soon as practicable, notify the president of the approximate time of reassembly of the court for the continuation of the trial.)

—out-of-court hearing

NOTE: During the recess, the law officer will, in the presence of the accused, counsel for both sides and when appropriate, the reporter, conduct a preliminary hearing to determine whether the members of the court should be excluded during the presentation of the matter in question. If the law officer decides to hear the matter out of the presence of the members, he should advise the president of the court informally of the approximate time when the court can reassemble to proceed with the trial. All persons, except those whose presence is necessary, may be excluded from any out-of-court hearing. When the court has reassembled after such a hearing, and the personnel have been accounted for, the following procedure may be appropriate:

—recording out-of-court hearing

LO: Let the record show that, during the recess, a hearing was held out of the presence of the members of the court. It was attended by the law officer, the accused, counsel for both sides, and the reporter. The proceedings of the hearing (will not be appended to the record) (will be appended to the record as Appellate Exhibit 1). The trial will proceed.

—recording presentation of additional instructions

LO: Let the record show that, during the recess, a hearing was held out of the presence of the members of the court. It was attended by the law officer, the accused, counsel for both sides, and the reporter. Counsel for (both sides) (the defense) (the prosecution) presented proposed additional instructions and argument in support thereof. The additional instructions proposed by the prosecution will be appended to the record as Appellate Exhibit 2. The additional instructions proposed by the defense will be appended to the record as Appellate Exhibit 3. The arguments of counsel (will not be appended to the record) (will be appended to the record as Appellate Exhibit 4). The court is advised that the elements of the offense(s) are as follows: ----------.

Adjournment

NOTE: In the event of adjournment (a period extending beyond the same day) or a recess, the procedure should be substantially as follows:

LO (Pres). The court will (adjourn) (recess) until ------ hours, (------ 19--).

Reconvening

Pres: The court will come to order.

NOTE: If the place of trial is changed, or the court reconvenes at a place other than that where it adjourned, the TC will so state for the record. See 54e as to views and inspections.

Accounting for personnel after adjournment or recess

TC: All parties to the trial who were present when the court (adjourned) (recessed) are again present in court (except ------).

NOTE: The term "parties to the trial," as used above, includes, when appropriate, the law officer and members of the court as well as counsel, the accused, the reporter, and the interpreter. It also includes a witness who was not excused prior to the adjourning, recessing, or closing of the court. If a member of the court is absent after arraignment, the absence must be shown to have been the result of challenge, physical disability, or the order of the convening authority (41d (4); Art. 29a).

New member:

TC: Captain ------ is now present and has been appointed to the court by ------.

NOTE: If such member was appointed by the same orders as convened the court, it will be so announced; if by an order not heretofore incorporated in the record, the trial counsel will announce:

TC: A copy of the orders appointing Captain ---------- will be attached to the orders appointing the court which are to be inserted in the record.

NOTE: Proceedings concerning excusing, swearing, and challenging of the new member are substantially as for original members. If the individual joins the court as a member, the record continues:

—reading record

LO (Pres): The record of the proceedings so far had in this case will be read to the new member (by the reporter) (----------).

NOTE: After the record is read:

LO (Pres): The proceedings having been read to date, the trial counsel (defense counsel) may proceed.

Prosecution rests

NOTE: When the prosecution has completed its case:

TC: The prosecution rests.

Presentation of defense case

DC: The defense has (no) (an) opening statement.

NOTE: The defense presents an opening statement, if desired, and introduces stipulations, witnesses, and material evidence in a manner similar to that followed by the TC, except the TC administers the oath to all witnesses and asks the first formal questions; DC then takes over direct examination, the prosecution has cross-examination, etc.

Accused as a witness:

NOTE: The accused may take the stand as a witness in his own behalf, but only at his own request; if he elects to remain silent no comment can be made upon his silence. If he testifies concerning certain specifications only, cross-examination of TC and the court must be limited accordingly. Counsel should announce:

DC: The rights of the accused as a witness have been explained to him and he (elects to remain silent) (wishes to take the stand as a witness).

—explanation of rights

NOTE: Unless there is an affirmative showing of record that the accused understands his rights as a witness, the court should assure itself through the LO (president of a special court-martial) by questions addressed directly to the accused that he understands his rights. The following explanations may be used:

LO (Pres): ------, as the accused in this case you have these rights:

First, you may be sworn and take the stand as a witness. If you do that, whatever you say will be considered and weighed as evidence by the court just as is the testimony of other witnesses, and you can be cross-examined on your testimony by the trial counsel and the court. (The following may be used if there is more than one specification: If your testimony should concern less than all of the offenses charged against you and you do not desire to or do not testify concerning the others, then you may be questioned about the whole subject of those offenses concerning which you do testify, but you will not be questioned about any offenses concerning which you do not testify.)

Second, you may remain silent, that is say nothing at all. You have a right to do this if you wish, and if you do so the fact that you do not take the witness stand yourself will not count against you in any way with the court. It will not be considered as an admission that you are guilty, nor can it be commented on in any way by the trial counsel in addressing the court.

Take time to consult with your counsel and then advise the court whether you wish to testify or to remain silent.

DC: The accused ----------.

NOTE: Should the accused elect to take the stand as a witness, the TC will administer the oath and ask the following preliminary questions, after which the procedure follows that of other defense witnesses:

—preliminary questions

TC: State your full name, rank, organization, and station.

Accused: ------.

TC: Are you the accused in this case?

Accused: Yes, sir.

Defense rests

NOTE: When the defense has completed its case:

DC: The defense rests.

Rebuttal

NOTE: The TC may call or recall witnesses in rebuttal; thereafter, the DC may call or recall witnesses in rebuttal. Upon completion of any rebuttal testimony, the TC should announce:

TC: The prosecution has no further evidence to offer. Does the defense have any further evidence to offer?

DC: It does (not).

TC: Does the court wish to have any witnesses called or recalled?

LO (Pres): It does (not).

Witness called by court

NOTE: If any member desires that any witness be called or recalled the president of a special court-martial may direct such witness to be called, subject to objection by any other member, or close the court and determine its wishes by majority vote. In a trial by general court-martial the LO will rule finally as to whether the witness will be called, except that as to a witness expected to testify in relation to the sanity of the accused the LO will rule subject to objection by any member.

The procedure in the case of a witness called by the court is the same as outlined above; the court may, if it wishes, take over the questioning of the witness at any time after the two formal questions. In the absence of directions from the court to the contrary, however, the TC conducts the examination of a witness called by the court in the same manner as if the witness had been called by the prosecution.

Arguments by counsel

TC: The prosecution waives opening argument. (----------.)

NOTE: See 72. The TC has the right to make the opening argument, and if any argument is made on behalf of the defense, the closing argument. Arguments are not required; they may be oral or written. Either the TC or DC may call to the attention of the court any matters likely to be overlooked by it, and make any reasonably pertinent argument on the law or the facts of the case. Oral arguments are recorded verbatim. A written argument will be attached as an exhibit for the side which presented it.

After arguments or waiver thereof:

Conclusion of case

LO (Pres): Has the prosecution anything further to offer?

TC: It has (not).

LO (Pres): Has the defense anything further to offer?

DC: It has (not).

NOTE: See 73c (2) as to preparation of additional instructions in general courts-martial. After both sides have rested and before the court retires into closed session, the LO (president of a special court-martial) will, in open court, instruct the court (Art. 51c):

Charge to court

LO (Pres): The court is advised that the elements of the offense(s) are as follows: ----------.

NOTE: As to each offense charged, a reading of the elements of proof from the discussion of the punitive article involved ordinarily will suffice.

LO (Pres): The court is further advised:

First, that the accused must be presumed to be innocent until his guilt is established by legal and competent evidence beyond reasonable doubt;

Second, that in the case being considered, if there is a reasonable doubt as to the guilt of the accused, the doubt shall be resolved in favor of the accused and he shall be acquitted;

Third, that if there is a reasonable doubt as to the degree of guilt, the finding must be in a lower degree as to which there is no reasonable doubt; and

Fourth, that the burden of proof to establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt is upon the Government.

*Concluding charge by law officer

NOTE: See 73c (1). The LO of a general court, following his advice to the members of the court and any additional instructions he may have given, should conclude by stating:

LO: In addition to the instructions I have given you, you should observe the rules set forth in paragraph 74a, Manual for Courts-Martial. The final determination as to the weight of the evidence and the credibility of the witnesses in this case rests solely upon you members of the court. You must disregard any comment or statement made by me during the course of the trial which may seem to indicate an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused, for you alone have the independent responsibility of deciding this issue. Each of you must impartially resolve the ultimate issue as to the guilt or innocence of the accused in accordance with the law, the evidence admitted in court, and your own conscience.

*Not applicable in special courts-martial.

Court closed for findings

LO (Pres): The court will be closed.

Closed session

NOTE: All persons including the LO now leave the room except the members of the court. Neither LO nor counsel may consult with the court in closed session. Advice of the LO may be sought whenever necessary, but the court will be opened and the advice will be obtained in open court in the presence of counsel for both sides and the accused. Such proceedings shall be made a part of the record. See 74c and Articles 26b and 39. For example, request for such assistance properly may be made in regard to additional information concerning the weight which may be given a certain presumption (138a); lesser included offenses; reference to the evidence or the rereading of portions of the record; and other matters of law and fact which will enable the court to reach a fair and proper conclusion.

Voting on findings

When the court has been closed the members vote on the findings. For the method of voting, see 74d and Article 52. A two-thirds vote is essential to a finding of guilty of any offense (except spying which carries a mandatory death penalty and the vote must be unanimous).

In determining the number of votes required, fractions are counted as one—thus, it requires five votes of a seven, or six votes of an eight, member court for a two-thirds vote. See 74d (3).

When there is more than one accused, separate findings will be made as to each accused.

Voting procedure

Voting is by secret written ballot and is obligatory. Normally, a vote is first taken upon the specifications under a charge, and then upon the charge. The members normally vote upon a specification or charge by marking on their ballots: "Guilty;" "Not guilty;" or "Not guilty, but guilty of ------." The junior member of the court shall in each case count the votes; the count shall be checked by the president, who shall forthwith announce the result of the ballot to the members of the court. The court may reconsider any finding before it is announced. See 74d (3) as to reconsideration of findings of guilty after announcement. Members of the court may discuss the case freely in closed session before and after voting, but the particular vote of any member shall not be disclosed.

*LO called after findings made

NOTE: When a general court-martial has finally voted on the findings, it may request the LO and reporter to appear before it and assist in putting the court's findings (Art. 39) in proper form. The reporter records these proceedings (74f (1)). Advice should be requested in open court at any time before a final vote is taken on findings in any case of doubt which may arise, as for example, from an apparent variance between the evidence adduced and the offense charged. In this connection, see 74e. If the LO did not assist the court to put the findings in proper form, the president, before announcing the findings, should present them to the LO to permit him to examine them for defects in form. If it appears to the LO that the court has made an ambiguous or inconsistent finding, he may give the court appropriate instructions and advise it to close and deliberate and vote further. If the court is in doubt as to whether it intended to find in accordance with the form of a finding prepared by the LO, the court may close and deliberate and vote further.

Findings announced:

Pres: The court will come to order.

TC: All parties to the trial who were present when the court closed are now present (except ----------).

NOTE: If the accused is found not guilty of all specifications, the president announces:

—acquittal

Pres: ----------, it is my duty as president of this court to advise you that the court in closed session and upon secret written ballot has found you not guilty of (the) (all) Specification(s) and Charge(s). The court will adjourn to meet at my call.

NOTE: If the accused is found guilty of any specifications, the president announces:

—conviction (itemized)

Pres: ----------, it is my duty as president of this court to inform you that the court in closed session and upon secret written ballot, (two-thirds) (all) of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring in each finding of guilty, finds you: [Of (all) the Specification(s) and Charge(s): Guilty] [Of Specification ------, Charge ------: (Guilty) (Not guilty). Of Charge ------: (Guilty) (Not guilty).

(with exceptions and substitutions)

Of Specification ------ of Charge ------: Guilty, except the words "------" and "------", (, substituting therefor, respectively, the words "------" and "------" of the excepted words, not guilty, of the substituted words, guilty). Of Charge ------: (Guilty) (Not guilty, but guilty of a violation of Article ------)].

NOTE: For further instructions as to the forms of findings, see 74b and c; for examples of proper findings, see the pertinent portions of 158 and appendices 10a and 15a.

NOTE: Announce only the required fraction of votes, not the actual number of members who concurred in the findings of guilty.

Presentence procedure

LO (Pres): The court will now hear the personal data concerning the accused shown on the charge sheet, and will receive evidence of previous convictions, if any.

Personal data from charge sheet:

TC: The first page of the charge sheet shows the following data concerning the accused: ----------.

—verified by accused

TC: Are these data correct?

DC: (They are correct.) (The accused objects to ------.)

NOTE: If in error, corrections should be made. Errors claimed by the accused which the TC is not able readily to verify will, if of minor importance, be noted in the record and no further action taken upon them by the court; if of material importance the court may direct verification of the error claimed before proceeding to vote upon the sentence.

Evidence of previous convictions:

TC: I have evidence of (no) (------) previous convictions of (an) offense(s) committed [during the current enlistment (current voluntary extension) and within three years preceding the commission of an offense of which the accused has been convicted at this trial] [------] to submit (as follows: ----------).

—verified by accused

TC: Has the accused any objection to the evidence of previous convictions read?

DC: (No objection.) (The accused objects to ----------.)

NOTE: See 75b (2). The accused may object, on proper grounds, and require production of proper evidence of such convictions, or the rejection of improper evidence offered. Admissible evidence of previous convictions should be offered in evidence, marked, and admitted as an exhibit in the usual manner.

Matter in aggravation, mitigation, or extenuation

NOTE: This is the proper time for counsel to introduce evidence in aggravation (75b (3)), extenuation, or mitigation, and for accused to make a statement if he desires (75c).

NOTE: Unless there is an affirmative showing of record that the accused understands his right to make an unsworn statement in mitigation or extenuation of the offenses of which he stands convicted, advice will be given substantially as follows:

Rights of accused

LO (Pres): ----------, you are advised that you may now present evidence in extenuation or mitigation of the offenses of which you stand convicted. You may, if you wish, testify under oath as to such matters, or you may remain silent, in which case the court will not draw any inferences from your silence. In addition, you may, if you wish, make an unsworn statement in mitigation or extenuation of the offenses of which you stand convicted. This unsworn statement is not evidence, and you cannot be cross-examined upon it, but the prosecution may offer evidence to rebut anything contained in the statement. The statement may be oral or in writing, or both. You may make it yourself, or it may be made by your counsel, or by both of you. Consult with your counsel and advise the court what you desire to do.

DC: The accused ----------.

NOTE: Any statement made by the accused or his counsel will be recorded verbatim, even though submitted in writing.

Court closed for sentence

LO (Pres): The court will be closed.

NOTE: Before closing, the LO may advise the court of the maximum punishment which may be imposed (76b (1)). For procedure in rehearings and new trials, see 81d. All present including LO leave the room except the members of the court.

Voting procedure

NOTE: Customarily members propose sentences after which the court votes on each sentence beginning with the lightest until one proposed sentence receives the required number of votes. A sentence of death requires a unanimous vote; a sentence of imprisonment in excess of 10 years requires the concurrence of three-fourths of the members present. Any other sentence requires concurrence of two-thirds of the members present (Art. 52b).

If all the proposed sentences are voted upon and none adopted, further discussion may be had and either new proposals sought or the sentences already proposed plus any new ones, again put to vote.

Limitation on sentence

NOTE: The sentence must be within the maximum limits prescribed in Chapter XXV and within the jurisdiction of the court to adjudge. As to rehearings and new trials, see 81d and Article 63. The court will adjudge a single sentence for all the offenses of which the accused was found guilty. A separate sentence must be adjudged for each accused.

For approved forms of sentences see appendix 13.

*Not applicable in special courts-martial.

Court opens

Pres: The court will come to order.

TC: All the parties to the trial who were present when the court closed are now present (except ----------).

Sentence

Pres: ----------, it is my duty as president of this court to inform you that the court in closed session and upon secret written ballot (two-thirds) (three-fourths) (all) of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring, sentences you: ----------.

NOTE: It is customary for the accused to stand immediately before the president when the sentence is pronounced.

NOTE: As in the case of findings, announce only the required fraction of votes, not the actual number of members who concurred in the sentence.

LO (Pres): Has the prosecution any other cases to try at this time?

TC: I have nothing further.

Adjournment

Pres: The court will adjourn to meet at my call.

b. CONTEMPT PROCEDURE.

NOTE: When it becomes necessary for a court to take summary action on a contempt (118a), an example of its proceedings would be:

Advising offender

LO (Pres): The proceedings in the case now before the court will be suspended. ----------, you (have used menacing words and gestures in the presence of this court) (have disturbed the proceedings of this court by (riotous and) disorderly conduct) (----------). As the record will show, you (have been warned repeatedly about your conduct) (have persisted in disturbing the proceedings of this court) (----------). For example, you (have threatened the court with action you will take against it because of its rulings;) (have been contemptuous and insolent in your objections and arguments;) (----------).

Opportunity to show cause

You now have an opportunity to show cause why you should not be held in contempt.

NOTE: After hearing pertinent argument and evidence, if any, the following ruling will be made:

Preliminary ruling

LO (Pres): Subject to objection by any member of the court, it is my ruling that you should (not) be held in contempt.

NOTE: If, as a result of a ruling of the law officer (president of a special court-martial) that is not objected to, there has been a preliminary determination that the person involved not be held in contempt, the court will resume its regular proceedings.

Voting on preliminary ruling

If any member objects to a ruling of the LO (president of a special court-martial), the court will close and determine by majority vote whether the ruling shall be sustained. See 116*b*. A tie vote shall be a determination against the person involved.

Closed session

If, as a result of the vote of the court, or a ruling of the LO (president of a special court-martial) that is not objected to, there has been a preliminary determination that the person involved be held in contempt, the court will determine in closed session whether the person involved should be held in contempt, and, in the event it so determines, will assess a punishment. See 118*a*. Thereafter, the court opens and:

Holding of contempt and punishment

Pres: It is my duty as president of this court to inform you that the court in closed session and upon secret written ballot, [has held you not guilty of contempt of this court] [two-thirds of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring, holds you guilty of contempt of this court. And also in closed session and upon secret written ballot, two-thirds of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring, adjudges the following punishment: (To pay to the United States a fine of $50, and to be confined at hard labor for 10 days) (---------)].

LO (Pres): Proceed with the case.

c. REVISION PROCEDURE.

Proceedings in revision:

LO (Pres): The court will come to order.

TC: All parties who were present when the court adjourned are now present (except ------).

NOTE: No mention need be made of those who were not present at the close of the previous session. No member will sit in revision proceedings who was not present at the close of the last session in the case, but all members who were present at the last session should be there. See 80 and Article 29*a*.

—directed by

TC: These proceedings in revision have been (directed by the following communication: ---------- which will be inserted at this point in the record) (undertaken by the court on its own motion in order to --------).

NOTE: When appropriate, the court may request the TC or LO to give it further advice in regard to the matters before it. The case will not be reopened by calling witnesses or otherwise.

LO (Pres): The court will be closed.

NOTE: After such deliberation and action as is appropriate, the proceedings continue.

Pres: The court will come to order.

TC: All parties who were present when the court closed are now present (except ----------).

Court votes

Pres: The court in closed session and upon secret written ballot, a majority of the members concurring, revoked its former (findings) (and) (sentence). Further, in closed session and upon secret written ballot (two-thirds) (all) of the members present at the time (etc.) ----------.

New findings and sentence

NOTE: The proceedings continue and are recorded as before indicated with reference to findings and sentence.

or

Pres: The court was closed and upon secret written ballot, (the majority) (two-thirds) (three-fourths) (all) concurring, the court respectfully adheres to its former ----------.

Adjournment

Pres: The court will adjourn to meet at my call.

NOTE: The record is authenticated in the same manner as the record of trial. See appendix 9*b*.

Appendix 9—Guide for Preparation of Record of Trial by General Court-Martial and by Special Court-Martial When a Verbatim Record Is Prepared

a. RECORD OF TRIAL.

Erasures

NOTE: Erasures or interlineations will be initialed by those who authenticate the record.

Margins

Pages will be numbered at the bottom; margins of 2½ inches will be left at the top to permit binding, and 1 inch at the bottom and left side of each page, using legal size paper.

Marginal notes

Words on the left margin of this appendix are not part of the form of record.

Record to be complete

Unless otherwise provided in this manual (e. g., 57*g* (2); 73*c* (2)), all proceedings in the case will be recorded verbatim, including oral arguments, subject to the instructional notes and examples shown in appendix 8 and herein.

Use of guide

This appendix is not a complete record of trial. It is to be used by the reporter and trial counsel as a guide to the preparation of the completed record of trial in all general court-martial cases, and in all special court-martial cases in which a verbatim record is prepared. See 82 for instructions pertaining to the preparation of a record of trial by general court-martial, and 83 for instructions pertaining to the preparation of a record of trial by special court-martial. The reporter and trial counsel should also consult appendix 8, as it shows the manner in which many items of procedure should be recorded.

Any request of an enlisted accused for enlisted court members will be inserted immediately following the appointing orders, together with any declaration of the non-availability of such enlisted persons.

Accounting for personnel

PERSONS PRESENT—PERSONS ABSENT

NOTE: List LO, if any, and all members of the court, prosecution, and defense as present or absent, as announced by the trial counsel. Only rank or grade and name will be shown unless service number is necessary to distinguish between two persons.

Presence of accused

The accused, ----------, was present.

Swearing reporter

The appointed reporter, ----------, was sworn.

NOTE: The remainder of the record of trial follows the actual proceedings had in court. The reporter records all the proceedings verbatim, subject to the instructions set forth in appendix 8 and herein.

Time of sessions

NOTE: The reporter will note and record the time and date of the beginning and ending of each session of court, including the opening and closing of the court during trial. For example:

The court was called to order at ------ hours, ------ 19--.

The court (adjourned) (recessed) at ------ hours, ------ 19--.

The court (closed) (opened) at ------ hours, ------ 19--.

Administration of oaths

NOTE: It is not necessary to record verbatim the oath actually used, whether it be administered to a witness, a challenged member, the law officer, counsel, or the court. By whatever form of oath, affirmation, or ceremony the conscience of the witness is bound (112 d; app. 8*a*), only the fact that a witness was sworn (or affirmed) is to be recorded. However, if preliminary qualifying questions are asked a witness prior to the administration of an oath (e. g., 148*b*), the questions and answers will be recorded verbatim. Note that such preliminary questions and answers do not eliminate the requirement that an oath be administered. There follow examples of the recording of the administration of various oaths:

The appointed interpreter, ----------, was sworn.

The members of the court (, the law officer,) and the personnel of the prosecution and defense were sworn.

The challenged (member) (law officer) was sworn to testify concerning his competency to act as a (member) (law officer) of the court, and testified as follows:

Accounting for personnel during trial

NOTE: After the reporter is sworn, he will record verbatim the statements of the trial counsel with respect to the presence or absence of personnel of the court, counsel, and the accused. The reporter will note whether, when a witness is excused, he withdraws from the courtroom or, in the case of the accused, whether he resumes his seat. Similarly, if a challenged member withdraws from the court while it votes on a challenge, is excused as a result of a challenge, or resumes his seat after the court has voted on a challenge, the reporter will note this fact in the record. Examples of the manner in which such facts should be recorded are as follows:

The witness (withdrew from the courtroom) (resumed his seat at the counsel table).

----------, the challenged member, withdrew from the court.

---------- resumed his seat as a member of the court.

Recording testimony

NOTE: The testimony of a witness will be recorded verbatim in the following form (assuming the witness to have been called by the prosecution):

---------- was called as a witness for the prosecution, was sworn, and testified as follows:

The procedure in court will follow appendix 8. This appendix is to be used as a general guide; the actual record may depart from it in numerous particulars. The manner of summarizing several items of procedure is shown in appendix 9a.

NOTE: Here insert a literal copy of the appointing orders and copies of any amending orders. Any request of an enlisted accused for enlisted court members, together with any declaration of the nonavailability of such enlisted persons, will be inserted immediately following the orders.

Members of the court and counsel present and absent

PERSONS PRESENT—PERSONS ABSENT

Accused and defense counsel present

The accused and the following (regularly appointed defense counsel and assistant defense counsel) (counsel introduced by him) were present:

Swearing reporter; interpreter

The appointed (reporter) (interpreter), ----------, was sworn.

NOTE: Applicable only when a reporter or interpreter is used.

Qualification of prosecution counsel

The trial counsel stated that the legal qualifications of all members of the prosecution were correctly stated in the appointing orders (except that ----------).

Prior participation of prosecution counsel

The trial counsel further stated that no member of the prosecution had acted as investigating officer, law officer, court member, or as a member of the defense in this case, or as counsel for the accused at a pretrial investigation or other proceeding involving the same general matter.

NOTE: If a member of the prosecution is disqualified because of prior participation in the same case, the disqualifying fact will be shown, and the record will reflect the withdrawal of disqualified counsel from the court.

Qualification of defense counsel

The defense counsel stated that the legal qualifications of all members of the defense were correctly stated in the appointing orders (except that ----------).

NOTE: Legal qualifications of all counsel for the defense not shown in the appointing orders, including individual counsel, will be shown.

Prior participation of defense counsel

The defense counsel stated that no member of the defense had acted as the accuser, a member of the prosecution, investigating officer, law officer, or member of the court in this case.

NOTE: If a member of the defense has acted as a member of the prosecution, the record will show that he was excused and withdrew from the court. If a member of the defense acted in another capacity, the record will show that the president explained to the accused that such counsel could represent him only at his express request, and that the accused so requested, or that suitable action was taken, either by excusing the particular counsel or by adjournment pending the procurement of a counsel satisfactory to the accused. Appendix 8a shows the procedure to be taken.

Enlisted membership

The trial counsel announced that the accused had (not) made a request in writing that the membership of the court include enlisted persons.

NOTE: This announcement will not be made if the accused is not an enlisted person.

Court and counsel sworn

The members of the court and the personnel of the prosecution and defense were sworn.

Challenges

The following members of the court were excused and withdrew for the reasons stated opposite their respective names:

Captain ---------- (excused without challenge as being the accuser).

Lieutenant ---------- (excused upon challenge for cause by the accused).

Lieutenant ---------- (excused upon peremptory challenge by the accused).

There was no contest with respect to the challenging of any of the members for cause (except as follows:).

NOTE: Insert a summary of the proceedings had with respect to each contest. For example, if a member was challenged for cause, but was not excused from the court, the record will show the grounds for the challenge, a summary of evidence presented, if any, and the action of the court.

Arraignment

The accused was then arraigned upon the following charges and specifications:

NOTE: Here insert the Charge Sheet (using in the accused's copy of the record, the copy of the charges furnished to him); if sufficient copies of the Charge Sheet are not available, copy verbatim from pages 2 and 3 of the Charge Sheet the charges and specifications and the name and description of the accuser, the affidavit, and the reference to the court for trial.

Motions

NOTE: The substance of any motions made by the accused will be recorded, together with the ruling of the court thereon.

Pleas

NOTE: The pleas of the accused will be entered in the following form:

The accused pleaded as follows:

To all the Specifications and Charges: (Not guilty) (Guilty).

or

To the Specification of Charge I: (Not guilty) (Guilty).

To Charge I: (Not guilty) (Guilty).

etc.

Explanation of plea of guilty

NOTE: When the president explains the meaning and effect of a plea of guilty, the record should show:

The president of the court explained to the accused the meaning and effect of his plea of guilty, after which the accused answered that he understood (but persisted in his plea of guilty) (and stated that he desired to change his plea of guilty to not guilty) (----------).

Opening statement

The trial counsel made (an) (no) opening statement.

Presentation of prosecution case

NOTE: The record will contain a summary of the testimony presented. An example of the manner in which testimony may be summarized follows:

Testimony

The following witnesses for the prosecution were sworn and testified in substance as follows:

Sgt Richard Roe, Co C, 31st Inf, Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

I know the accused, Sam Snooker, who is in the military service and a member of my company. We both sleep in the same barracks. When I went to bed on the night of October 17, 1951, I put my wallet under my pillow. The wallet had $7.00 in it; a $5.00 bill and two $1.00 bills. Sometime during the night something woke me up but I turned over and went to sleep again. When I woke up the next morning, my wallet was gone.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

I don't know the serial numbers on any of the bills. One of the $1.00 bills was patched together with scotch tape and one of the fellows told me that the accused had used a $1.00 bill just like that in a poker game the day after my wallet was missing.

Objection and ruling

Upon objection by the defense, so much of the answer of the witness as pertained to what he had been told, was stricken.

Introduction of exhibits

The prosecution offered in evidence a duly authenticated extract copy of the morning report of Company C, 31st Infantry, which contained entries pertaining to the accused for the dates 20 and 24 October 1951. The defense objected to the admission of this document on the ground that the reporting officer had no personal knowledge of the facts reported therein. After argument by counsel for both sides, the extract copy was admitted in evidence and marked Prosecution Exhibit 1.

Presentation of defense case

The defense counsel made (an) (no) opening statement.

Testimony

The following witnesses for the defense were sworn and testified substantially as follows:

Explanation of accused's rights

The rights of the accused as a witness were explained to him by the president of the court. The accused elected to take the stand as a witness. He was sworn and testified in substance as follows:

Stipulation

The defense offered in evidence a stipulation entered into between the trial counsel, defense counsel, and the accused. There being no objection, the stipulation was admitted in evidence and marked Defense Exhibit A.

Closing arguments

The prosecution made (an) (no) argument.

The defense made (an) (no) argument.

The prosecution made (a) (no) closing argument.

Instructions

Pursuant to Article 51c, the president instructed the court as to the elements of each offense charged, the presumption of innocence, reasonable doubt, and burden of proof.

Findings

Neither the prosecution nor the defense having anything further to offer, the court was closed. Thereafter, the court opened and the president announced that, in closed session and upon secret written ballot, (the accused was found not guilty) (two-thirds of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring in each finding of guilty, the accused was found:

Of all the Specifications and Charges: Guilty.

or

Of the Specification of Charge I: Guilty.

Of Charge I: Guilty.

Of the Specification of Charge II: Not guilty.

Of Charge II: Not guilty).

Data as to service, etc.

The trial counsel read the data as to age, pay, service, and restraint of the accused as shown on the charge sheet. The trial counsel (stated that he had no evidence of previous convictions to submit) (read the attached evidence of previous convictions, Prosecution Exhibit ------).

Evidence in extenuation or mitigation

After the accused was advised by the president of his right to present evidence in extenuation or mitigation, including the right to make an unsworn statement, (the defense counsel stated that he had nothing further to offer) (the accused made an unsworn statement, in substance as follows:) (----------).

Sentence

Neither the prosecution nor the defense having anything further to offer, the court was closed. Thereafter, the court opened and the president announced that in closed session and, upon secret written ballot, two-thirds of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring, the accused was sentenced:

To ----------.

Adjournment

The court adjourned at ------ hours, ------ 19--.

Authentication

NOTE: The record will be authenticated as prescribed in 83c and as shown in appendix 9b (2).

Examination by defense

I have examined the record of trial in the foregoing case.

(Captain) (Lieutenant)---, Defense Counsel

Appendix 12—Table of Commonly Included Offenses

NOTE: This table contains a list of certain principal offenses and, opposite them, certain offenses which are generally held to be lesser included offenses within the meaning of Article 79 and which are therefore included therein. It is not an all inclusive list, nor can it be applied mechanically in every case. The rules with respect to lesser included offenses are stated in 158. This table is intended as a general guide and must be used in all cases with caution.

Attempts are not listed in the table as lesser included offenses, for an attempt to commit an offense is necessarily included in an offense charged unless the offense charged is itself an attempt (such as an assault by attempting to do bodily harm) or unless the offense charged is one which is incapable of being intentionally committed (such as involuntary manslaughter). In this connection, see 159.

The table does not include those offenses which properly may be found by means of exceptions or exceptions and substitutions (74b (2)), but which differ from the offenses charged only with respect to the elimination or reduction of words of aggravation. For example, depending upon the proof, desertion terminated by apprehension properly may be found as desertion terminated in a manner not specified; similarly, larceny of property of a value of more than $50 properly may be found as larceny of property of a value of $50 or less and more than $20, or of a value of $20 or less. In such a case, although the offense found would be the same offense as that charged, a lesser punishment might be authorized. In this connection, see 127c (Section A).

[2] For limitations in the case of enlisted persons, see 126*h* (2) and 127*b*.

In the case of warrant officers of the other armed forces, when promotion is based upon length of service in grade, loss of seniority for a specified period of time should be adjudged in lieu of a loss of numbers.

Appendix 14—Forms for Action by Convening Authority

Show headquarters or ship, place, and date of action. Signature is followed by rank, unit, and the words "Commanding" or "Officer in Charge." The use of these forms is not mandatory and they are not intended to provide for every case; but whenever appropriate, these forms, or a combination or modification of them, should be used.

The place of confinement should be designated only after consulting pertinent departmental regulations. See 89c (5).

a. SUMMARY COURTS-MARTIAL.

Of rehearing (see 89c (7))

3. Approved and ordered executed. The accused will be credited with any portion of the punishment served or executed from ------ 19-- to ------ 19-- under the sentence adjudged at the former trial of this case.

DISAPPROVAL

Charges dismissed

7. Disapproved. The charges are dismissed.

Order of rehearing

8. It appears that the following error was committed: ------. This error being materially prejudicial to the substantial rights of the accused under the circumstances of this case, the findings of guilty and the sentence are disapproved, and a rehearing is directed before a summary court-martial to be hereafter designated.

NOTE: The reason for disapproval must be stated in the action if a rehearing is ordered (Art. 63a).

Of rehearing; restoration of rights (see 89c (7))

9. Disapproved. The charges are dismissed. All rights, privileges, and property of which the accused has been deprived by virtue of the execution of the sentence adjudged at the former trial of this case on ------ 19-- will be restored.

NOTE: Under the provisions of Article 75a the authority setting aside or disapproving a sentence must order a restoration of all rights, privileges, and property affected by any executed portion of a sentence which has been set aside or disapproved unless a rehearing is ordered and such executed portion is included in the sentence adjudged upon a rehearing. It follows that if a rehearing of a summary court-martial case is ordered pursuant to 94a (2) after the original sentence has been ordered into execution, any rights, privileges, and property affected by the former sentence must be restored if the rehearing results in an acquittal or a disapproval of the sentence adjudged.

If the rehearing results in an acquittal, the convening authority should omit from the action shown above the words, "Disapproved. The charges are dismissed."

WITHDRAWAL OF PREVIOUS ACTION (SEE 89b; 94a (2))

10. In the foregoing case of ------, the action taken by (me) (my predecessor in command) on ------ 19-- is withdrawn and the following substituted therefor (----------):

b. SPECIAL COURTS-MARTIAL.

Special court-martial sentences in cases which do not involve an approved sentence to bad conduct discharge. Forms 11–26 are appropriate for use in special court-martial cases in which the sentence, as approved, does not include a bad conduct discharge. They are also appropriate for use with respect to general court-martial sentences which, as approved, do not affect a general or flag officer, or extend to death or dismissal, or include a punitive discharge or confinement for one year or more.

APPROVAL

Execution

11. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

Partial; execution

12. In the foregoing case of ------, only so much of the sentence as provides for ------ is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

Partial; disapproval of findings

13. In the foregoing case of ------, the findings of guilty of Specifications 1 and 2, Charge II, are disapproved. (The sentence is approved and will be duly executed.) (Only so much of the sentence as provides for ------ is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

Partial; lesser included offense and substituted findings (see 87a (4))

14. In the foregoing case of ------, only so much of the findings of guilty of Charge I and its specification is approved as finds that the accused absented himself without proper authority from the (organization) (------) alleged at the place and time alleged and remained so absent until ------, in violation of Article 86. Only so much of the sentence as provides for ------ is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

15. In the foregoing case of ------, only so much of the finding of guilty of Specification 1 with respect to value as finds some value not in excess of ------ is approved. Only so much of the sentence as provides for ------ is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

16. In the foregoing case of ------, only so much of the finding of guilty of Specification 1, Charge I, is approved as finds that the accused did, at the time and place alleged, wrongfully appropriate the property described, of the value and ownership alleged. Only so much of the sentence as provides for ------ is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

17. In the foregoing case of ------, only so much of the findings of guilty of Charge I and its specification is approved as finds that the accused did, at the time and place alleged, willfully and maliciously attempt to set fire to a haystack, the property of ------, of some value not in excess of $20.00, in violation of Article 80. Only so much of the sentence as provides for ------ is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.)

Of rehearing (see 89c (7))

18. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved and will be duly executed. (------ is designated as the place of confinement.) The accused will be credited with (confinement from ------ 19-- to ------ 19-- and) any (other) portion of the punishment served or executed from ------ 19-- to ------ 19-- under the sentence adjudged at the former trial of this case.

SUSPENSION

Indefinite; conditional remission (see 88c (2)

19. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved, but the execution thereof is (suspended) (suspended for ------ months, at which time, unless the suspension is sooner vacated, the sentence will be remitted without further action).

20. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved and will be duly executed, but the execution of that portion thereof adjudging (forfeitures of pay) (confinement) is (suspended) (suspended for ------ months, at which time, unless the suspension is sooner vacated, the suspended portion of the sentence will be remitted without further action).

DISAPPROVAL

Charges dismissed

21. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is disapproved and the charges are dismissed.

Reason stated (see 89c (2))

22. In the foregoing case of ------, it appears from the record of trial that, although trial of the specification of the charge was barred under the provisions of Article 43, the accused was not advised of his rights in the premises. The findings of guilty and the sentence are disapproved and the charges are dismissed.

NOTE: Under the provisions of 89c (2) the convening authority should state the reasons for disapproval of the findings and sentence in certain cases even when he does not order a rehearing. Such statement of reasons for disapproval is generally appropriate where the disapproval of a finding of guilty may affect future administrative action, for example, when a finding of guilty of desertion is disapproved; or where the reason for disapproval is the insanity of the accused or the bar of the statute of limitations. Additional requirements for such statement may be prescribed by departmental regulations.

Of rehearing; restoration of rights (see 89c (7))

23. In the foregoing case of ------, the findings of guilty and the sentence are disapproved and the charges are dismissed. All rights, privileges, and property of which the accused has been deprived by virtue of the execution of the sentence adjudged at the former trial of this case on ------ 19-- will be restored.

NOTE: See also note under form 9.

Order of rehearing (see 92)

24. In the foregoing case of ------, it appears from the record of trial that (the confession of the accused was not shown to have been voluntarily made) (Exhibit 1, an improperly authenticated extract copy of a morning report, was erroneously received in evidence over the objection of the defense) (the prosecution erroneously cross-examined the accused on the merits after he had taken the stand for a limited purpose only) (the testimony of A as to the out of court identification of the accused by B was erroneously received in evidence) (------). Under the circumstances of this case, this error is materially prejudicial to the substantial rights of the accused. For this reason, the sentence is disapproved and a rehearing is ordered before another court-martial to be hereafter designated.

JURISDICTIONAL ERROR (SEE 92)

25. In the foregoing case of ------, it appears from the record of trial that (the person who signed the charges sat as a member of the court) (an enlisted person who is a member of the same unit as the accused sat as a member of the court) (the members of the court-martial who tried the case were not sworn) (the specification of the charge fails to allege any offense) (------). In view of the provisions of Article ------, the proceedings, findings, and sentence are invalid. Another trial is ordered before another court-martial to be hereafter designated.

WITHDRAWAL OF PREVIOUS ACTION (SEE 89b)

26. See form 10.

Sentences including an approved sentence to bad conduct discharge. Forms 27–33 are applicable to cases tried by special courts-martial convened by an officer who does not exercise general court-martial jurisdiction when the sentence as approved includes a bad conduct discharge.

27. In the foregoing case of ------, (the sentence) (only so much of the sentence as provides for bad conduct discharge and ------) is approved. The record of trial is forwarded for action under Article 65b.

Forfeitures and confinement

NOTE: When confinement, not suspended, is approved together with forfeitures, the forfeitures apply to pay and allowances becoming due on and after the date of the action of the convening authority unless he defers such application for good cause (88e (2) (c); Art. 57a). For the purpose of clarity, if confinement, unsuspended, and forfeitures are approved one of the following should be added to the form of action:

"The forfeitures shall apply to pay becoming due on and after the date of this action," or

"The application of the forfeitures is deferred until the sentence is ordered into execution."

SUSPENSION

Of bad conduct discharge (see 88e (2) (b))

28. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved and will be duly executed, but the execution of that portion thereof adjudging bad conduct discharge is suspended (until the accused's release from confinement or until the completion of appellate review, whichever is the later date) (for the period of confinement and ------ months thereafter, at which time, unless the suspension is sooner vacated, the bad conduct discharge shall be remitted without further action). (------ is designated as the place of confinement). The record of trial is forwarded for action under Article 65b.

Entire sentence

29. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved, but the execution thereof is suspended (for ------ months, at which time, unless the suspension is sooner vacated, it shall be remitted without further action). The record of trial is forwarded for action under Article 65b.

ACTION BY OFFICER EXERCISING GENERAL COURT-MARTIAL JURISDICTION

Approval

NOTE: The officer exercising general court-martial jurisdiction to whom the record of trial is forwarded under Article 65b may, in general, use the forms of actions indicated in forms 34–40 below except that, if the convening authority has modified or suspended the sentence, the superior should refer to the sentence as approved in the manner indicated in form 30.

30. In the foregoing case of ------, the (sentence) (only so much of the sentence) as (approved) (suspended) (approved and suspended) by the convening authority (as provides for ----------) is (approved ----------) (--------).

Cases forwarded for review by a board of review.

APPROVAL

34. In the foregoing case of ------, the sentence is approved.

Confinement and forfeitures (see 88e (2) (c))

NOTE: For the purpose of clarity, if confinement, unsuspended, and forfeitures are approved, one of the following should be added at this point:

established pursuant to said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the amended limitation of shipments, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the area regulated by said marketing agreement and order.

(b) Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) of § 959.306 (16 F. R. 3) shall, on and after the effective date hereof, read as follows:

(1) During the period beginning February 9, 1951, and ending June 30, 1951, both dates inclusive, each shipment of potatoes grown in the production area shall be limited to potatoes which are U. S. No. 2, or better grade, and which are not less than 2 inches minimum diameter or 4 ounces minimum weight, as such grades and sizes are defined in the U. S. Standards for Potatoes (7 CFR 51.366), including the tolerances set forth therein.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 8th day of February 1951, to be effective on February 9, 1951.

TITLE 9—ANIMALS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Chapter I—Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture

[B. A. I. Order 373, Amdt. 2]

PART 94—RINDERPEST, FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE, FOWL PEST (FOWL PLAGUE), AND NEWCASTLE DISEASE (AVIAN PNEUMOENCEPHALITIS): PROHIBITED AND RESTRICTED IMPORTATIONS

IMPORTATION OF CERTAIN ANIMALS AND PRODUCTS FROM UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA

Pursuant to the authority conferred by section 306 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (46 Stat. 689, 19 U. S. C. 1306) and section 2 of the Act of February 2, 1903, as amended (32 Stat. 792, as amended, 21 U. S. C. 111), § 94.1 of the regulations relating to prohibitions and restrictions upon importations of certain animals and products because of rinderpest, foot-and-mouth disease, fowl pest (fowl plague), and Newcastle disease (avian pneumoencephalitis), (15 F. R. 6907), is hereby amended by removing the words "and the Union of South Africa" in the first sentence, and inserting the word "and" between the words "Australia" and "New Zealand" as I have determined that foot-and-mouth disease now exists in the Union of South Africa and have so notified the Secretary of the Treasury.

The primary effect of the amendment is to prohibit the importation of cattle, sheep, other domestic ruminants and swine, and fresh, chilled or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb, and pork, and meat and meat products of wild ruminants and swine from the Union of South Africa, and to prohibit or restrict the importation of certain other meats and products and dressed poultry from the Union of South Africa. The protection of the livestock interests of the United States demands that this amendment be made effective at the earliest possible moment. Accordingly, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and public procedure on this amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such notice and hearing are not required by any other statute.

This amendment shall become effective immediately.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of February 1951.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

SUBPART A—FILING OF, AND COMMISSION ACTION OF APPEALS

§ 515.1 Basis for appeal. Any claimant whose claim is denied or is approved for less than the full allowable amount may appeal to the Commission from such determination.

§ 515.2 Form of request. (a) An appeal shall be made in writing on WCC Form 1105. Such form, to be acceptable, must be filed with the Commission within six months from the date of the award or disallowance letter informing the claimant of the original determination.

(b) Upon failure to file such an appeal within six months, the claimant will be deemed to have waived his right to appeal and the decision of the Commission shall constitute a full and final disposition of the case.

(c) Upon proper cause shown, the Commission may, in its discretion, extend the time within which an appeal may be filed.

§ 515.3 Appeal proceedings. Appeal proceedings may consist of:

(a) A review of the original determination and the material in support thereof, plus any additional supporting evidence or briefs which the claimant or his authorized representative may submit.

(b) A hearing before an Appeals Board for the purpose of considering the original determination and the material in support thereof, plus any additional supporting evidence or briefs which the claimant or his authorized representative may submit. The claimant will be permitted to appear personally, or through an authorized representative before the Commission, and to present the testimony of other witnesses.

(c) The Commission may, in its discretion, require a hearing in any proceeding and shall give to the parties to the proceeding at least thirty (30) days notice of the time and place of such hearing.

§ 515.4 Appeals calendar. Upon receipt of WCC Form 1105 the case shall be entered on the Appeals and Hearings Docket. Each appealed claim shall be assigned an appeal number in the order of its receipt. This number shall govern the order in which appealed claims are considered.

§ 515.5 Action by Commission on Appeals. (a) If the claimant has specified on WCC Form 1105 that he does not wish to make a personal appearance, his claim, when reached on the appeals calendar, will be reviewed by an Appellate Attorney. The Appellate Attorney will present the claim and a summary of the evidence to an Appeal Board, with his recommendation as to whether the Commission's original determination should be affirmed, modified or reversed.

(b) If the claimant in executing WCC Form 1105 has requested a personal appearance, the claim will be assigned to an Appellate Attorney who will set the case for hearing. He will notify the claimant, his authorized representative, and all witnesses of the time and place of the hearing thirty (30) days in advance. The Appellate Attorney will then review the claim preparatory to presenting it to the Appeals Board.

(c) Personal appearance may be waived by the interested parties at any time and the case submitted to an Appeals Board on briefs.

§ 515.6 Appeals Boards. An Appeals Board shall consist of three members. One of the Commissioners shall act as Chairman of the Board; the other two members of the Board shall consist of such officers or employees as the Commission may designate.

SUBPART B—HEARING PROCEDURES

§ 515.20 Pre-hearing conference. At the request of the claimant or by an order of an Appeals Board, at any time prior to the hearing, the Chairman of the Appeals Board, or the Appellate Attorney assigned to the claim may arrange for a conference at a designated time and place to consider, among other things, simplification of the issues and any other matter which would tend to expedite the disposition of the proceedings.

§ 515.21 Conduct of hearings. (a) Unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, hearings on appeals shall be closed. The hearing shall be stenographically reported and the transcript shall be a part of the record.

(b) The Chairman of an Appeals Board, or any employee of the Commission designated by him, may administer oaths and examine witnesses. The Chairman of an Appeals Board may, in accordance with Part 502, Subchapter A of the Commission's regulations, require by subpoena the attendance and testimony of witnesses, as well as the production of all necessary books, papers, documents, records, correspondence, and other evidence.

(c) The claimant shall have the burden of proof on all issues involved in the claim proceeding.

(d) The claimant, his authorized representative, or the Appellate Attorney, shall have the right and power to call, examine and cross-examine witnesses and to introduce for the record documentary or other evidence.

(e) The rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law and equity shall not be controlling. Any testimony or other evidence having probative value shall be received. However, it shall be the policy to exclude irrelevant, incompetent, immaterial or unduly repetitious evidence.

(f) In the discretion of the Chairman of an Appeals Board the hearing or prehearing may be adjourned from day to day, postponed to a later date, or to a different place by announcement thereof at the hearing, or by reasonable notice to the interested parties.

§ 515.22 Motions. (a) A motion by the Appellate Attorney to dismiss a hearing may be granted by the Appeals Board when the claim on its face is not allowable or when it appears that the appeal has been abandoned. Such a motion shall be made in writing and shall state the reasons in support thereof. The motion shall be filed with the Appeals Board, and a copy shall be served upon all interested parties by the Appellate Attorney.

(b) Hearing on the motion shall be held at a time and place as ordered by the Chairman of the Appeals Board.

(c) Briefs may be submitted before the hearing, at the hearing, or within a time fixed by the Chairman of the Appeals Board after the close of the hearing.

(d) The decision of the Appeals Board upon the motion shall be final and shall be the decision of the Commission. The rehearing and reargument provisions of § 516.32 of this subchapter shall apply to decisions of the Appeals Board upon such a motion.

§ 515.23 Oral argument at close of hearing. Any party shall be entitled upon request, at the close of the hearing, to such time as may be fixed by the Chairman of the Appeals Board for oral argument. Oral argument made with the consent of the Appeals Board shall be included in the stenographic report of the hearing.

§ 515.24 Proposed findings and conclusions. At the close of the reception of evidence, or within a reasonable time thereafter, to be fixed by the Appeals Board, any party may submit proposed findings and conclusions, together with a brief in support thereof. Such proposal shall be in writing and shall contain appropriate references to the record. Copies thereof shall be furnished to all parties. Reply briefs may be filed with the permission of and within a reasonable time to be fixed by the Appeals Board.

SUBPART C—FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

§ 515.30 Decisions of Appeals Board. The Appeals Board, as soon as practicable after receipt of the complete transcript and all exhibits, shall render a decision which shall become a part of the record and shall include a statement of the reasons and grounds therefor. Each decision by the Appeals Board, when concurred in by two or more of the Commissioners, shall constitute a full and final disposition of the case.

§ 515.31 Notice of findings. Notice of the final decision of the Appeals Board shall be delivered in person to all interested parties, or shall be sent by registered mail to such parties.

§ 515.32 Rehearing and reargument. Any party desiring a rehearing, reargument or any relief not specifically covered by this Part may file a petition with the Commission within ten (10) days after notice of the decision of the Appeals Board, stating the relief sought and the reasons in support thereof. The Commission may allow the petition, in whole or in part, as it deems proper.

MINIMUM WAGE RATES IN THE HANDICRAFT PRODUCTS INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO

NOTICE OF PROPOSED DECISION

On June 15, 1950, pursuant to section 5 (a) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, hereinafter called the act, the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, by Administrative Order No. 399, appointed Special Industry Committee No. 8 for Puerto Rico, hereinafter called the Committee, and directed the Committee to investigate conditions in a number of industries in Puerto Rico specified and defined in the order, including the handicraft products industry, and to recommend minimum wage rates for employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce in such industries.

For purposes of investigating conditions in and recommending minimum wage rates for the handicraft products industry in Puerto Rico, the Committee included three disinterested persons representing the public, a like number representing employers, and a like number representing employees in the handicraft products industry, and was composed of residents of Puerto Rico and of the United States outside of Puerto Rico.

After investigating economic and competitive conditions in the handicraft products industry in Puerto Rico, the Committee filed with the Administrator a report containing its recommendation for a minimum wage rate of 26 cents an hour to be paid to employees in the handicraft products industry who are engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

Pursuant to notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 20, 1950, and circulated to all interested persons, a public hearing upon the Committee's recommendations was held before Hearing Examiner Clifford P. Grant, as presiding officer, in Washington, D. C., on November 16, 1950, at which all interested parties were given an opportunity to be heard. After the hearing was closed the record of the hearing was certified to the Administrator by the presiding officer.

Upon reviewing all the evidence adduced in this proceeding and after giving consideration to the provisions of the act, particularly sections 5 and 8 thereof, I, as Administrator, have concluded that the recommendation of the Committee for a minimum wage rate in the handicraft products industry in Puerto Rico, as defined, was made in accordance with law, is supported by the evidence adduced at the hearing, and, taking into consideration the same factors as are required to be considered by the Committee, will carry out the purposes of sections 5 and 8 of the act.

I have set forth my decision in a document entitled "Findings and Opinion of the Administrator in the Matter of the Recommendation of Special Industry Committee No. 8 for Puerto Rico for a Minimum Wage Rate in the Handicraft Products Industry in Puerto Rico," a copy of which may be had upon request addressed to the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Accordingly, notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001) and the rules of practice governing this proceeding (15 F. R. 7029), that I propose to approve the recommendation of the Committee for the handicraft products industry and to issue a wage order to read as set forth below to carry such recommendation into effect.

Within 15 days from publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, interested parties may submit written exceptions to the proposed action above described. Exceptions should be addressed to the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. They should be submitted in quadruplicate, and should include supporting reasons for any exceptions.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 1-250]

CORN PRODUCTS REFINING CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO WITHDRAW FROM LISTING AND REGISTRATION, AND OF OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 7th day of February A. D. 1951.

Corn Products Refining Company, pursuant to section 12 (d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-12D2-1 (b) promulgated thereunder, has made application to withdraw from registration and listing on the Board of Trade of the City of Chicago its 7 Percent Cumulative Preferred Stock, Par Value $100, and its Common Stock, Par Value $25. The application for withdrawal alleges the following:

(1) The applicant does not wish to incur the expense incident to the listing on the Board of Trade of the City of Chicago of the additional shares of Common Stock issued on January 25, 1951 in payment of its 5 percent stock dividend, nor the considerable expense involved in the preparation and printing of an additional listing application on the Board of Trade of the City of Chicago.

(2) There have been no trades at all on the Board of Trade of the City of Chicago in either of the above securities of the applicant during the years 1950 and 1949, and practically no trading for a number of years.

(3) An adequate market for the securities of the applicant is provided by the New York Stock Exchange, which in effect is the only market used.

Upon receipt of a request, prior to March 6, 1951, from any interested person for a hearing in regard to terms to be imposed upon the delisting of these securities, the Commission will determine whether to set the matter down for hearing. Such request should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person requesting the hearing and the position he proposes to take at the hearing with respect to imposition of terms or conditions. In addition, any interested person may submit his views or any additional facts bearing on this application by means of a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D. C. If no one requests a hearing on this matter, this application will be determined by order of the Commission on the basis of the facts stated in the application, and other information contained in the official file of the Commission pertaining to the matter.

CONSOLIDATED NATURAL GAS CO. ET AL.

ORDER GRANTING AND PERMITTING AMENDMENTS TO PREVIOUS APPLICATIONS-DECLARATIONS TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 5th day of February A. D. 1951.

Consolidated Natural Gas Company ("Consolidated"), a registered holding company, and its subsidiaries, The Peoples Natural Gas Company ("Peoples"), New York State Natural Gas Corporation ("New York State"), and Hope Natural Gas Company ("Hope"), having filed amendments to previous joint applications-declarations, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Consolidated has heretofore issued to certain banks an aggregate of $20,000,000 of its 2 percent promissory notes pursuant to the Loan Agreement dated February 1, 1950, and the Supplemental Agreement dated July 14, 1950; and, in turn, 2 percent promissory notes of subsidiaries have been issued to Consolidated as follows:

Peoples	$8,000,000
New York State	10,000,000
Hope	2,000,000
	20,000,000

The said Loan Agreement and Supplemental Agreement and the said notes issued by subsidiaries provide an ultimate maturity at March 15, 1955, but, as set forth in the Commission's order of March 10, 1950, and supplemental order of September 6, 1950 in the above file, further approval must be secured in order to continue such notes in effect beyond March 15, 1951.

The General Financial Plan set forth in the joint applications-declarations contemplates that the said notes will be continued in effect and permanently refinanced along with other notes which may be issued by Consolidated in connection with its present construction program. In accordance with present estimates, it is contemplated that refinancing of said notes will not take place until after March 15, 1952 at the earliest.

The above subsidiary companies have each given notice to Consolidated of intention to continue this interim financing effect to March 15, 1952; and Consolidated likewise intends to give notice to the banks pursuant to the said Loan Agreements that it will continue its said outstanding notes in effect to March 15, 1952. All companies are reserving the right to continue the notes in effect beyond March 15, 1952 if at that time this course becomes advisable and is approved by the Commission.

In addition, Hope has heretofore issued to Consolidated its 2 percent promissory note in the face amount of $2,500,000 with an ultimate maturity of March 15, 1955, but, as set forth in the Commission's order of November 29, 1950, further approval must be secured in order to continue such note in effect beyond March 15, 1951.

The note is related to the General Financial Plan indicated above and will be continued in effect until the refinancing of the notes issued by Consolidated pursuant to File No. 70-2325.

Hope has given notice to Consolidated of intention to continue this interim financing in effect to March 14, 1952, but is reserving the right to continue the note in effect beyond March 15, 1952 if at that time this course becomes advisable and is approved by the Commission.

Consolidated and its above subsidiaries have requested the Commission to enter its order permitting all of the above outstanding promissory notes to be continued in effect to March 15, 1952.

Said amendments to the previous joint applications-declarations having been filed on January 11, and 15, 1951, and notice of said filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to the act, and the Commission not having received a request for a hearing with respect to said amendments within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding with respect to said amendments to the previous joint applications-declarations that no basis exists for adverse findings, that the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said amendments to the previous joint applications-declarations be granted and permitted to become effective:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, and subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, that the amendments to the previous joint applications-declarations be and they hereby are granted and permitted to become effective forthwith subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

SOUTHERN CO. ET AL.

ORDER RELEASING JURISDICTION OVER FEES AND EXPENSES

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 7th day of February A. D. 1951.

In the matter of the Southern Company, Alabama Power Company, File No. 70-2435; Electric Bond and Share Company, File No. 70-2436.

The Commission having by order dated August 24, 1950 granted and permitted to become effective applications and declarations filed by the Southern Company, Alabama Power Company, and Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share") relating, among other things, to the transfer by Bond and Share of its holdings of the common stock of Birmingham Electric Company to the Southern Company in exchange for common stock of the Southern Company; and

The Commission having in said order reserved jurisdiction with respect to the payment of accounting fees and expenses incurred by Bond and Share in connection with the proposed transactions; and Haskins and Sells having submitted evidence with respect to accounting services rendered in these proceedings and having requested the payment of $11,626.43 for services and $2,603.86 as reimbursement of expenses; and

The Commission having examined such evidence and finding that the proposed payment of fees and expenses to Haskins and Sells is not unreasonable and finding it appropriate in the public interest to release jurisdiction over the payment of such fees and expenses:

It is ordered, That the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the accounting fees and expenses incurred by Bond and Share in connection with these proceedings be, and the same hereby is, released.

It is further ordered, That said order of August 24, 1950, is, except as herein expressly modified, continued in full force and effect.

Chapter IV—Production and Marketing Administration and Commodity Credit Corporation, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Export and Diversion Programs

PART 571—WHEAT

SUBPART A—WHEAT AND WHEAT-FLOUR EXPORT PROGRAM—INTERNATIONAL WHEAT AGREEMENT

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION WHEAT AND WHEAT-FLOUR EXPORT PROGRAM

The Terms and Conditions of Commodity Credit Corporation Wheat and Wheat-Flour Export Program (15 F. R. 3046) are amended as follows:

1. Section 571.50 General conditions of eligibility is amended to read as follows:

§ 571.50 General conditions of eligibility: Payments under this program will be made to an exporter in connection with that quantity of wheat or wheat flour exported to an eligible country from the United States and that quantity of wheat or wheat flour in customs bond in Canada exported from Canadian ports, excluding West Coast Canadian ports, to an eligible country pursuant to a sale for which he has received a confirmation by the Vice-President, CCC, in accordance with § 571.67, subject to the additional conditions set forth in this subpart. Payment will also be made to an exporter for wheat or wheat flour exported prior to sale and for which the exporter has received a confirmation by the Vice-President subject to the conditions contained in § 571.58.

2. Section 571.53 Exports to eligible countries is amended to read as follows:

§ 571.53 Exports to eligible countries. Exports of wheat or flour under this program shall be made only to the eligible country named in the Notice of Sale and the Declaration of Sale, and to a buyer identified with the Declaration of Sale and supporting evidence of sale unless:

(a) The buyer identified with the Declaration of Sale directs that shipment be made to another Wheat Agreement country,

(b) The Government of the eligible country named in the Notice of Sale and Declaration of Sale or the Government of the eligible country to which shipment is directed consents to the recording of the sale against its guaranteed quantity, and

(c) The exporter obtains, prior to export, authority from the Vice-President to export to an eligible country other than the purchasing country named in the Notice of Sale and Declaration of Sale.

3. Section 571.67 Confirmation of sale is amended to read as follows:

§ 571.67 Confirmation of sale. Upon receipt of the Notice of Sale required by § 571.76 the Vice-President shall confirm the sale by telegram and specify that the transaction, or any part thereof, is eligible for payment upon proof that the conditions set forth in this program have been met, unless he determines that the transaction is ineligible for entry in the records of the Wheat Council under the provisions of the Wheat Agreement or unless he determines that the transaction would not obtain for the United States the maximum benefits under the Wheat Agreement.

4. Section 571.69 Responsibility of exporter is amended to read as follows:

§ 571.69 Responsibility of exporter. During certain periods it may be to the exporter's advantage to ascertain from the Vice President prior to making a sale whether there is a sufficient guaranteed quantity balance to permit recording in the Wheat Council's records or whether, as indicated in § 571.67, the sale may not otherwise be confirmed. It shall be the responsibility of the exporter to protect himself (for example by inserting an appropriate provision into his sales contract) against the possibility that the transaction will not be confirmed. It shall not be the duty or responsibility of the Vice President to guarantee that a transaction which appears to the exporter prior to sale to be eligible for recording in the Wheat Council's records, will be confirmed.

6. Section 571.77 Declaration of sale and evidence of sale is amended to read as follows:

§ 571.77 Declaration of sale and evidence of sale—(a) Time of submission and required copies. (1) The exporter should prepare a Declaration of Sale (Wheat Agreement Form No. 1) and mail it to the Vice-President normally within 24 hours after receipt of the Vice-President's confirmation of sale.

(2) The Declaration of Sale must be submitted in triplicate, the original and two copies of which shall be signed in an original signature by the exporter or his authorized representative and forwarded to the Vice-President. One copy of the Declaration of Sale will be acknowledged and returned to the exporter.

(3) All sales made to any one eligible country during any 24-hour period ending at 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., may be reported on one Declaration of Sale. It shall be normal practice when such multiple sales are submitted on one telegraphic Notice of Sale to assign one PMA Sales Number to apply to all sales to a particular country shown on that telegram. One Declaration of Sale should be submitted, in such instances, by the exporter, though this is not mandatory. If more than one Declaration of Sale is submitted, the letters A, B, C, etc., shall be added to the PMA Sales Number. Sales made to any one eligible country during any 24-hour period which are reported on separate telegrams will be assigned individual PMA Sales Numbers. It is requested that such sales be reported on separate Declarations of Sale.

(b) Information required. All information requested on the face of Wheat Agreement Form No. 1, Declaration of Sale, shall be entered. The information required is as follows:

(1) Date and time of sale.
(2) Name of purchaser.
(3) Quantity sold.
(i) Wheat in bushels.
(ii) Wheat flour in net hundredweight and in the equivalent bushels of wheat. (If the wheat or flour sales contract provides for a loading tolerance, the amount of such tolerance given in percentage figure shall be entered directly following the quantity sold.)
(4) Country of destination. (Purchasing country.)
(5) Delivery period specified in contract.
(6) Class and grade of wheat or type and extraction of flour. In the case of flour, the class of wheat from which the flour was milled must be shown where possible. For example "Hard Spring."
(7) Price and basis upon which price is determined. (Price for wheat must be given basis f. o. b. ocean vessel on exports from Gulf and East Coast ports and in store or f. o. b. vessel basis on exports from West Coast ports: Price for wheat flour may be given as stated in sales contract.) If because of marketing costs, carrying charges, and premiums, as provided for in § 571.64, the sales price of wheat exceeds the maximum price, the Declaration should show the total price and the amount thereof included as charges for marketing costs, carrying charges and premiums, each shown separately.
(8) Export rate in effect as determined by § 571.61.
(9) Coastal area from which exportation will be made should be entered directly following export rate.
(10) The PMA Sales Number as assigned in the Vice-President's confirmation of sale.

(c) Name in which filed. The Declaration of Sale must be filed in the name of the exporter who has sold the wheat or wheat flour to a foreign buyer. Persons or firms selling wheat or wheat flour to others who resell such wheat or wheat flour to foreign buyers are not exporters. If a sale is made in a trade name, the Declaration of Sale may be filed under such name provided the name of the actual exporter and the relationship between the two is clearly established by an appropriate signature on the Declaration and all other documents to it, such as:

American Milling Company
(Trade name)
U. S. Milling Company

(d) Proof of sale. Supporting evidence as proof of sale, in one copy only, must be filed with each Declaration of Sale. Such evidence may be in the form of certified true copies of offer and acceptance or other documentary evidence of sale including contracts exchanged between exporter and buyer. In the case of flour the exporter must also furnish a signed statement or other acceptable evidence, such as an exchange of cables, to the effect that buyer and seller agree that the price of the flour is consistent with Wheat Agreement prices.

7. Section 571.87 (a) Bills of lading or shipper's export declaration is amended to read as follows:

(a) Bills of lading or shipper's export declaration. Each voucher must be supported by one copy of the applicable on-board ocean carrier bill of lading signed by an agent of the ocean carrier (except that where loss, destruction or damage occurs subsequent to loading on board ocean carrier but prior to issuance of on-board bill of lading, one copy of a Loading Tally Sheet or similar document may be submitted in lieu of such bill of lading); or if exported wholly by rail or truck, one authenticated copy of the "Shipper's Export Declaration" which identifies the shipment(s) and shows date of clearance into the foreign country. Where shipment is exported from a Canadian port, the voucher must also be supported by one copy each of the following documents:

(1) For wheat:
(i) A signed or certified true copy of the bill of lading or other document covering the movement of the wheat from the United States to Canada and
(ii) A signed or certified true copy of document evidencing the holding of the wheat in customs bond in Canada.
(2) For flour:
(i) A signed or certified true copy of the bill of lading or other document covering the movement of the flour from the United States to Canada and

(ii) A statement by the exporter, certified as being a true and correct statement, that the flour for which export payment is claimed is the same flour covered by the bill of lading or other document as required by subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.

If the final destiation of the shipment is to an eligible country not shown on the ocean bill of lading, the exporter also shall furnish an authenticated copy of "Shipper's Export Declaration" showing country of final destination.

PART 3—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

PAN AMERICAN FOOD CO., INC., ET AL.

Subpart — Discriminating in price under Section 2, Clayton Act as amended—Payment or acceptance of commission brokerage or other compensation under 2 (c): § 3.820 Direct buyers. In the purchase or sale of food products or other merchandise in commerce, (1) receiving or accepting from any seller, directly or indirectly, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, on or in connection with purchases made for respondents' own accounts or while acting for or in behalf of a purchaser as an intermediate agent or subject to the direct or indirect control of such purchaser; or, (2) paying or granting anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, to any buyer upon purchases made for his own account or to any agent, representative, or other intermediary acting in fact for or in behalf or subject to the direct or indirect control of the purchaser to whom sale is made; prohibited.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 722; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 2, 49 Stat. 1527; 15 U. S. C. 13). [Cease and desist order, Pan American Food Company, Inc., et al., Docket 5658, December 4, 1950]

In the Matter of Pan American Food Company, Inc., a Corporation; Jack Gomperts & Company, Inc., a Corporation; Sun Crown Food Corporation; Victor Trubowitch, Individually and as President of Pan American Food Company, Inc., and as Director of Jack Gomperts & Company, Inc.; Jacob Gomperts, Individually and as President of Jack Gomperts & Company, Inc., and Vice President and Director of Pan American Food Company, Inc.; and Jacob Trubowitch, Individually and as President of Sun Crown Food Corporation and as Director of Pan American Food Company, Inc., and Also as Director of Jack Gomperts & Company, Inc.

Pursuant to the provisions of the act of Congress entitled "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," approved October 15, 1914 (the Clayton Act), as amended by the Robinson-Patman Act, approved June 19, 1936 (15 U. S. C. 13), the Federal Trade Commission on May 20, 1949, issued and subsequently served its complaint in this proceeding upon the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them with violation of subsection (c) of Section 2 of said act as amended. After the issuance of said complaint and the filing of the respondents' answers thereto, a hearing was held before a trial examiner of the Commission, theretofore duly designated by it, at which hearing all of the respondents filed substitute answers in which they admitted the material allegations of fact set forth in said complaint and waived all intervening procedure and further hearing as to such facts. With the filing of the substitute answers a stipulation was entered into, and made a part of the record, by counsel for respondents Pan American Food Company, Inc., Sun Crown Food Corporation, Victor and Jacob Trubowitch and counsel in support of the complaint, whereby it was agreed that said respondents would not contest findings of the accuracy of the charges in the complaint as to the acts committed by them nor an order requiring them to cease and desist from continuance thereof and that counsel in support of the complaint would not present any further evidence in said cause or request any order other than one requiring respondents to cease and desist from continuance of the acts charged in the complaint. Said stipulation expressly provides that upon appeal to, or review by, the Commission, the stipulation may be set aside by the Commission and this matter remanded for further proceedings under the complaint. On July 21, 1950, the trial examiner filed his initial decision.

The Commission, having reason to believe that the initial decision did not constitute an adequate disposition of this proceeding, subsequently placed this case on its own docket for review, and on September 5, 1950, it issued and thereafter served upon the parties its order affording the respondents an opportunity to show cause why said initial decision should not be altered in the manner and to the extent shown in a tentative decision of the Commission attached to said order. Respondents not having appeared in response to the leave to show cause, this proceeding regularly came on for final consideration by the Commission upon the record herein on review, and the Commission, having duly considered the matter and being now fully advised in the premises, makes the following findings as to the facts, conclusion drawn therefrom, and order, the same to be in lieu of the initial decision of the trial examiner.

FINDINGS AS TO THE FACTS

(b) That the intrarectal application of heat such as that supplied by respondents' device is a well recognized therapy used by doctors in the treatment of or for the relief of prostate gland troubles;

TITLE 29—LABOR

Chapter V—Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor

PART 526—INDUSTRIES OF A SEASONAL NATURE

EXEMPTION OF THE GINNING OF COTTON AS AN INDUSTRY OF A SEASONAL NATURE

An application was filed by the Texas Cotton Ginners Association for a determination that the industry engaged in the ginning of cotton constitutes an industry of a seasonal nature, under section 7 (b) (3) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (sec. 7 (b) (3), 52 Stat. 1063; 29 U. S. C. 207 (b) (3)) and the regulations contained in this part.

It appeared from the foregoing application that:

1. Cotton is harvested and sent to gins during the fall months. Most gins are active for only about four months out of the year and 80 to 90 percent of their cotton is ginned in less than three months.

2. Cotton must be ginned within a relatively short period after harvesting in order to prevent deterioration and to protect the maximum value of the cotton.

3. Cotton gins engage in the ginning and baling of cotton during a regularly annually recurring period of the year and cease operations, except for maintenance, repair, clerical and sales work, during the remainder of the year because the material processed, owing to climatic or other natural conditions, is not available in the form in which it is processed.

On January 15, 1951, upon consideration of the facts stated in the application, the Administrator determined, pursuant to § 526.5 (b) (2), that a prima facie case had been shown for finding that the industry engaged in cotton ginning constitutes an industry of a seasonal nature within the meaning of section 7 (b) (3) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 and § 526.3 (a) of this part. This preliminary determination was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 18, 1951 (16 F. R. 473) and interested persons were given 15 days from such date to file objections or a request for a hearing.

No objections or requests for hearing have been received within the said 15 days.

Accordingly, pursuant to § 526.5 (b) (2) of the regulations contained in this part, the Administrator hereby finds that the industry engaged in cotton ginning constitutes an industry of a seasonal nature within the meaning of section 7 (b) (3) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 and the regulations contained in this part.

For purposes of this determination, the term "industry engaged in cotton ginning" includes the following operations, when performed during the period or periods when cotton is being received for ginning: the receiving of seed cotton at the gin, the handling, cleaning, ginning and baling of the cotton, the handling of the baled cotton and cottonseed, and any operations or services necessary or incident to the foregoing, including the placing of the cotton and cottonseed in storage or transportation facilities on or near the premises.

NOTE: This determination will be tabulated under 29 CFR 526.101.

This determination shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of February 1951.

APPENDIX—STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

The General Ceiling Price Regulation issued by the Director of Price Stabilization on January 26, 1951, arrested to a large extent the sharp price increases in fats and oils which occurred after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea. That regulation, however, resulted in price disparities throughout the industry. The purpose of the present regulation is to correct several of the most serious of these disparities. Others will be corrected by supplementary regulations which will be issued by the Director of Price Stabilization as soon as practicable.

The provision to permit existing contracts to be performed, while an exception to the general policy of the Office of Price Stabilization, was included in this regulation because of certain compelling considerations. This regulation accomplishes rollbacks in prices. Producers of this type of oil normally operate on comparatively short gross margins over material costs. Traditionally, therefore, these oil producers, the small ones in particular, attempt to avoid the gamble involved in higher raw material costs by promptly entering into contracts for the sale of the oil to be produced from the raw material. If these contracts are invalidated, many of the producers will suffer a substantial hardship from being compelled to sell oil at prices which do not reflect higher costs of material which they were compelled to pay. An individual adjustment provision is administratively impracticable at this time. In order to achieve the rollbacks put into effect by this regulation, the existing contracts are permitted to be performed.

It is therefore the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization that, in order to avoid substantial hardships, written contracts legally entered into prior to this regulation should be permitted to be carried out according to their terms.

A principal purpose of this regulation is to establish ceiling prices for cottonseed, soybean, and corn oils which will bear fair and proper relationship to the ceiling prices established by the General Ceiling Price Regulation for such important products as shortening, salad oils, margarine, salad dressing and mayonnaise.

The pre-Korean price of crude soybean oil was about 12½ cents per pound, and of crude cottonseed oil about 13½ cents per pound. At their peak during the December 19–January 25 base period these oils touched 22 cents and 26 cents respectively. However, the prices of the finished products in which these oils are principally used did not advance by comparable amounts, thus squeezing seriously the profit margins of processors of such products. Relief for these processors achieved by increasing their ceiling prices would be a step which the Director for Price Stabilization would be most reluctant to take in view of his obligation to stabilize the cost of living. The alternative is to establish ceiling prices for soybean and cottonseed oils at levels which will diminish this squeeze. This will involve only a small price reduction. On December 19, 1950, crude soybean oil sold for 20 cents per pound, and crude cottonseed oil for 22¼ cents. On January 11, 1951, these oils reached 20½ cents and 23½ cents. Thereafter soybean oil advanced to 21½ cents, and cottonseed oil to levels generally to the range of 24½ to 25½ cents. As price control became increasingly imminent in January, the market for these oils tended to dry up, and the quotations at the higher prices, in the main, represented only scattered sales, or at the extreme, markets which were only nominal. The ceiling prices on crude soybean and cottonseed oils established by this regulation are consistent with the levels at or below which most of the trading in the December–January base period took place. They represent a material reduction only from the extreme levels established by scattered transactions.

Section 401 (d) of the Defense Production Act of 1950 requires that ceiling prices for soybean oil and soybean meal (the joint products resulting from processing the agricultural commodity, soybeans) must be such as to reflect minimum farm prices for soybeans. The soybean oil ceiling price established by this regulation and the soybean meal ceiling price provided under Supplementary Regulation No. 3 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation, meet the standards specified in the Act.

The spread between the crude soybean oil and cottonseed oil price ceilings is 3 cents per pound. This is lower than the spread which has generally prevailed in recent months but is far wider than normal. A wide spread has developed by reason of the small cottonseed oil supply which is expected to reach only 1,150 million pounds in the current crop year compared with 1,846 million pounds last year. This wide spread has performed the function of encouraging processors to substitute soybean oil for cottonseed oil to the maximum extent possible. Trade opinion indicates that the 3-cent spread established by this regulation will continue to perform this function. It is important to note in addition, however, that for the remainder of the current crop year, totally apart from price considerations, processors will have to ration their use of cottonseed oil simply because adequate supplies will not be available. In fact, for some time past processors have been following this course of action for this reason.

Corn oil nearly always sells for prices somewhat higher than those for cottonseed oil. The ceiling prices established by this regulation continue this relationship.

Under price control conditions the differentials between the prices of fats and oils at successive grades must reflect processor costs. This is essential if the oil is to move normally through these processing stages and be manufactured into finished products. The Director of Price Stabilization has obtained refining-costs data from representative refiners of cottonseed oil, large and small, and the differentials established by this regulation reflect their average current cost experience. This regulation sets the spread between Valley crude and New York bleachable prime summer yellow at 2.90 cents making the delivered price of bleachable at New York 26.40 cents. This latter ceiling also becomes the ceiling for transactions on the New York Produce Exchange. It is approximately equal to the Exchange prices on the March option on January 25 and 26, and is well above the level which prevailed on most trading days in the December–January base period. Similarly, the ceiling price for cottonseed oil contracts on the New Orleans Cotton Exchange is 25.95 cents. The soybean oil options contracts on the New York Produce Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade are both on a crude Decatur basis. The ceilings for these contracts are therefore identical to the Decatur price for actual crude oil.

The establishment of price ceilings on fats and oils has taken place in the latter part of a year extremely abnormal in respect to domestic supply, and to demand both domestic and foreign. The aim is to establish ceiling prices workable until new crop conditions can be visualized. All fats and oils ceilings will be subject to review at that time.

In formulating this regulation the Director of Price Stabilization has consulted extensively with industry representatives and has given full consideration to their recommendations. In his judgment the provisions of this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objective of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Amdt. 1]

AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this amendment 1 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 808) is hereby issued.

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment is contained in the attached appendix.

The General Ceiling Price Regulation is amended in the following respects:

1. Sec. 11 (a) is amended by deleting all of the first paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

(a) Commodities covered by this section. This section applies to commodities processed in substantial part from the following listed agricultural commodities. This section shall cease to apply, however, when any listed commodity is deleted by the Director of Price Stabilization, if, after consultation with the Department of Agriculture, he determines that the requirements of the Defense Production Act of 1950 are satisfied. This section shall also cease to apply to any processed commodity as soon as the Secretary of Agriculture has announced by publication that the price of the listed commodity has reached the highest of the "legal minima" required to be reflected to producers by Sec. 402 (d) (3) of the act, the two most important being (1) the parity price, and (2) the highest price received by producers of the commodity during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive, both as determined and adjusted by him. Any ceiling price previously determined under this section and in effect at the time this section ceases to apply shall remain as the ceiling price.

2. The words "Soybeans" and "Sugarcane" are deleted from the list of agricultural commodities in Section 11 (a), and the word "Honey" is added to that list above the word "Hops" under the heading "Miscellaneous."

3. The words "incurred or" are inserted between the word "you" and the word "paid" in the first sentence completed in Section 11 (b) (2).

4. Sec. 11 (c) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) You resell in substantially the same form any commodity, the cost of which has been increased by a processor or manufacturer under the provisions of Sec. 11 (b) of this regulation, and

5. The words "incurred or" are inserted between the word "you" and the word "paid" in the first sentence in Sec. 11 (c) (2).

6. Sec. 11 (e) is amended by deleting the words "commodity exchange operating under the jurisdiction of the Commodity Exchange Authority or the Sugar Exchanges" and by inserting in lieu thereof the following: "recognized commodity exchange that maintains daily records of transactions or quotations".

7. That part of Sec. 11 (f) before the colon is amended to read as follows:

(f) Notice of "Parity" Adjustment Increases. If you are a processor or manufacturer to whom the provisions of Sec. 11 (b) are applicable, you may not increase your ceiling price for the processed commodity you sell until you first notify the Director of Price Stabilization, Washington 25, D. C., by registered mail of the following information:

8. The heading of Section 14 (s) is amended to read as follows:

(s) The following food, agricultural and related commodities (including any that may be imported):

9. Section 14 (s) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(1) Any agricultural commodity listed in Section 11 (a) (the "parity" adjustment provision) in its raw or natural state, or if the commodity is not customarily sold by producers generally in its raw or natural state, in the first form or state beyond the raw or natural state in which it is customarily sold by producers generally.

10. Section 14 (s) (10) is amended to read as follows:

(10) Crude pine gum when sold by the producer.

11. Section 14 (s) (11) is amended to read as follows:

(11) The following oil seeds or nuts, their oils and fatty acids or combinations of these oils so long as the oils remain in a form customarily designated by the trade as "oil":

Babassu kernels.	Ouricury kernels.
Babassu oil.	Ouricury oil.

Cohune oil.	Poppyseed oil.
Coquito kernels.	Rapeseed, rapeseed oil.
Coquito oil.	Rubberseed.
Copra.	Rubberseed oil.
Cocoanut oil.	Sesame seed.
Hemp seed.	Sesame oil.
Hemp seed oil.	Shark oil.
Kapok seed.	Sperm oil.
Kapok seed oil.	Sunflower seed.
Muru-muru kernels.	Sunflower seed oil.
Muru-muru oil.	Tucum kernels.
Oiticica oil.	Tucum oil.
Olive oil, edible, sulphur and other inedible.	Tung oil.
	Whale oil.

12. Section 14 (s) is also amended by adding subparagraphs (12) through (16) to read as follows:

(12) Flue cured tobacco, types 11 to 14, when sold by the producer.

(13) Cotton seed when sold by the producer.

(14) Dried figs, raisins and prunes when sold by the producer.

APPENDIX—STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This amendment is designed to make certain changes in Section 11 relating to agricultural commodities below parity and to Section 14 (s) dealing with exemption of food, agricultural and related commodities.

Section 11 (a) is revised to provide that the "parity" adjustment provisions shall cease to apply to any listed commodity not only when the Secretary of Agriculture has announced by publication that the price of such commodity has reached the highest of the "legal minima" specified in Section 402 (d) (3) of the Defense Production Act of 1950, but also when the Director of Price Stabilization has determined, after consultation with the Department of Agriculture, that the requirements of that Act are satisfied with respect to the commodity. The necessity for this amendment arises from the fact that the legal minimum required to be reflected to producers of an agricultural commodity may be reached before the Secretary of Agriculture announces it by publication since publication is normally only at monthly intervals. If the Director of Price Stabilization were to wait until the announcement, it might well be that ceiling prices would be increased by operation of the pass-through provisions in amounts far in excess of those required to satisfy the provisions of the Defense Production Act. Furthermore, a study of the processing margins for given commodities may demonstrate that these margins are ample to permit the absorption of moderate increases in the costs of the uncontrolled agricultural commodities without requiring the increases of the pass-through provisions.

Soybeans and sugarcane have been deleted from the list in Section 11 (a) because they have reached the legal minimum set forth in the Defense Production Act, parity in the case of sugarcane, and the highest price between May 24 and June 24, 1950, in the case of soybeans. Honey is added to this list because it is below parity.

The words "incurred or" have been inserted between the words "you" and "paid" in the sentences in Section 11 (b) (2) and 11 (c) (2) which read as follows: "The cost to you of a current purchase of that commodity exceeds the highest price you paid for it during the base period." This insertion has been made for the purpose of covering an obligation incurred as well as a price actually paid.

Section 11 (e) is amended to clarify a number of misunderstandings which have occurred owing to the use of the language "commodity exchange operating under the jurisdiction of the Commodity Exchange Authority" in the regulation. This has been interpreted by many to mean only those exchanges which have made application to the Commodity Exchange Authority for authority to operate commodity futures contracts markets. This is too narrow an interpretation and this amendment will make it clear that it is the intention of this paragraph to make use of recognized commodity exchanges at as many locations as possible inasmuch as they are places where daily records of price quotations are kept for the various commodities.

The heading of Section 14 (s) is broadened to include the words "food" and "related commodities" since all the commodities listed in this section will not be, strictly speaking, agricultural commodities. The phrase "(including any that may be imported)", which refers to agricultural commodities, is added to resolve any doubt as to whether imported agricultural commodities are exempted. These are exempt on the same basis as domestic agricultural commodities. Subparagraph (1) of Section 14 (s) which exempted raw and unprocessed agricultural commodities when sold by their producers is replaced by a new subparagraph (1) which exempts the agricultural commodities listed in Section 11 (a), these commodities being those below parity. Certain other raw and unprocessed agricultural commodities which are above parity have been exempted specifically in the other subparagraphs of this Section 14 (s). Among those specifically exempted are: Flue-cured tobacco, types 11 to 14, cotton seed, dried figs, raisins and prunes, and broom corn when sold by the producer.

These commodities are exempted for the same reasons that sales of other commodities by producers are exempted under the General Ceiling Price Regulation, as explained in the original statement of consideration thereto. Crude pine gum which was previously exempted at all levels has been exempted only when sold by the producer in order to treat this commodity in the same manner as the other commodities above parity. Tung oil, which was inadvertently omitted from the list of oils set forth in Section 14 (s) (11) is added thereto. The spelling of the word "ouricury" has been corrected, and the introductory language to the list of commodities in subparagraph (11) has been clarified. Furthermore, sale of soybeans by producers which were previously exempt, are subject to the specific price ceilings established under Section 1 of Supplementary Regulation No. 3.

Previously, under subparagraph 14 (s) (1) only sugarcane and sugar beets when sold by the producer were clearly exempted. This amendment will continue the exemption of sugar beets under subparagraph (1) and the exemption of sugarcane in subparagraph (16). The latter subparagraph also exempts sugar and liquid sugar (as defined in the Sugar Act of 1948) produced from such crops. It is the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization that stabilization of sugar prices can be effected consistent with the requirements of the Defense Production Act by action of the Secretary of Agriculture in controlling imports of sugar, inasmuch as the Sugar Act of 1948 (7 U. S. C. Supp. II, 1100) requires the balancing of the interests of the producer and the consumer of sugar. It is believed that the price of raw sugar can be held to desired levels by control over imports and that with an ample supply of raw sugar, refiners will hold to their present refining margins. These margins will be closely watched, and appropriate action will be taken should there be a tendency for these margins to increase. The decision to exempt the sugar items was taken only after full consultation with the Secretary of Agriculture.

Subparagraph (1) of Section 14 (s) will exempt agricultural commodities selling below parity which are listed in Section 11 (a). Sales of these commodities were previously frozen except when sold by the producer. However, the purchaser from the producer could pass on any increase in the price he paid to the next purchaser. The purpose of this provision was to freeze the margins of distributors of these agricultural commodities without preventing the price of the agricultural commodity, itself, from rising to legal minimum. It is not believed that these exemptions will lead to any increase in the distributors' margins. Since commodities below parity are not likely to be in short supply, competition among the distributors and the processors who buy from them should be effective in holding margins in line. Furthermore, the Director of Price Stabilization will act if distributors' margins show a tendency to increase. In addition, as previously explained in connection with Section 1 of Supplementary Regulation No. 3 regarding agricultural commodities above their "legal minima", ceiling prices determined by the freeze technique are not suitable for transactions on commodity exchanges. The exemption of these commodities from ceiling prices will also solve this problem. Of course, when the prices of these commodities approach their "legal minima", the question of their exemption will be reconsidered. Finally, the prices of commodities processed from agricultural commodities will remain frozen subject to the pass-through provision when they are processed substantially from these exempted commodities.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the ceiling prices established by this regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950; parity prices and the other legal minimum requirements of the Act including prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

Although special circumstances have rendered impracticable consultation with formal industry advisory committees, including trade association representatives, the provisions of this amendment have been presented to, and generally approved by, persons representing substantial segments of the various industries affected.

[General Ceiling Price Regulation, Supplementary Regulation 3]

GCPR, SR 3—FOOD, AGRICULTURAL AND RELATED COMMODITIES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation 3 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 808) is hereby issued.

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this Supplementary Regulation is contained in the attached Appendix.

Sec.
1 Ceiling prices for all sellers (other than retailers) of certain processed and unprocessed agricultural commodities.
2 Adjustments in ceiling prices applicable to certain sales of dressed hogs.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 and 2 issued under Sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply Title IV, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105.

SECTION 1. Ceiling prices for all sellers (other than retailers) of certain processed and unprocessed agricultural commodities.—(a) Ceiling prices for green coffee and raw cocoa beans. Your ceiling price for any of the commodities listed below shall be the price designated for the commodity adjusted for your differentials for grade, quality and point of delivery which existed on the date shown opposite the designated price. If prices are designated for more than one commodity exchange, you must select the price at the exchange customarily used by you as a basis for determining your selling prices. The designated prices are for sales to a bulk-quantity, or large volume class of purchaser. You shall make your customary adjustments to reflect any cost differences attributable to sales of smaller volume or at different levels of distribution. With respect, however, to transactions on the exchange, you are subject to the terms and differentials established by the applicable commodity exchange for such date instead of to your own differentials.

Commodity	Exchange	Delivery point and terms	Grade and quality	Price per pound (cents)	Price date or range of dates
Coffee	New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange, Inc.	U. S. ports of arrival, ex dock, net delivered weight, net cash; price includes usual brokerage or commissions.	Actual Santos 4's; Solid Bean; Greenish Strictly Soft.	55.50	Jan. 10-23, 1951.
Do	do	do	Washed Colombian; Excelsos Actual; Usual Good Quality.	60.50	Jan. 10-23, 1951.
Cocoa	New York Cocoa Exchange.	Basis ex dock New York or other U. S. port of arrival, net delivered weight, net cash; price includes usual brokerage or commissions.	Basic Exchange; Delivery Quality; Main Crop Accra.	38.375	Dec. 21, 1950.
Do	do	do	Basic Exchange; Delivery Quality; Superior Bahia.	38.375	Jan. 23, 1951.

(b) Ceiling prices for soybeans—(1) Base ceiling prices for yellow and green soybeans. The base ceiling price for No. 1 and No. 2 yellow soybeans and for No. 1 and No. 2 green soybeans (i) delivered at Chicago is $3.31 per bushel, and (ii), for other areas is:

	Per bushel
Illinois	$3.23
Indiana	3.22
Iowa	3.22
Kansas	3.21
Kentucky	3.20
Michigan	3.21
Missouri	3.21
Nebraska	3.21
Ohio	3.22
South Dakota	3.20
Tennessee	3.20
Wisconsin	3.21
All other States	3.18

(2) Base ceiling prices for black, brown, and mixed soybeans. Base ceiling prices for black, brown, and mixed soybeans shall be 25 cents per bushel less than the base prices in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) Ceiling prices at various marketing levels. (i) If you are a seller of soybean futures on the Chicago Board of Trade your ceiling price for such soybean futures shall be $3.33 per bushel.

(ii) If you are a seller through a Commission Merchant of cash soybeans on track at Chicago, your ceiling price for No. 1 and No. 2 yellow soybeans and for No. 1 and No. 2 green soybeans delivered at Chicago shall be $3.33 per bushel.

(iii) If you operate a country elevator, your ceiling price f. o. b. cars or barges or trucks at your elevator is the Chicago base ceiling price less transportation charges, or the applicable base ceiling price for your state, whichever is higher. If you determine your ceiling price f. o. b. truck at your elevator, as indicated above, you may add to your ceiling price three cents per bushel for delivery by truck to the processor's plant, or to the barge loading elevator. If you ship by rail from an elevator which can load to barges, your ceiling price is the Chicago base ceiling price less the applicable railroad freight rate, or the state base ceiling price, whichever is higher.

(iv) If you are the producer, your ceiling price is the ceiling price of the country elevator, to which you customarily delivered your soybeans, less the appropriate elevator and handling charges provided by the Uniform Grain Storage agreement.

(v) If you are a track merchandiser, or a commission merchant in any terminal market or grain exchange other than Chicago, your ceiling price is the appropriate country elevator ceiling price plus two cents per bushel.

(vi) If you are a terminal or subterminal merchandiser, and you unload the soybeans into your elevator, or warehouse from cars or barges, your ceiling price is your supplier's ceiling price on his sale and delivery to you, plus three cents per bushel, plus your published tariff charge for elevation, plus the transportation charges actually incurred.

(4) This paragraph shall not apply to deliveries made pursuant to written contracts for sales of soybeans entered into after January 25, 1951 and before the date of issuance of this supplement if such contracts complied with the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

(5) Seed Soybeans. This paragraph shall not apply to soybeans sold for use in planting.

(c) Ceiling prices for soybean oil meal. If you are a processor and you sell soybean chips, soybean oil cake, or 41 percent soybean oil meal, soybean flakes, or 44 percent soybean oil meal, your ceiling price in carload lots, bulk, is $74.00 per ton of 2,000 pounds, f. o. b. cars, Decatur, Illinois. This ceiling price may be adjusted by the differentials established during the base period, as to sacks and sackings, sized cake and pellets, soybean hulls, soybean mill feed, packaging, quality, location and for deliveries in smaller quantities. Ceiling prices for jobbers, car door sellers, wholesalers and retailers shall be your supplier's price on his sale and delivery to you plus your customary dollars-and-cents markup.

(d) This section shall not apply to sales at retail of any of these commodities:

SEC. 2. Adjustments in ceiling prices applicable to certain sales of dressed hogs. This section applies only to processors who sold and delivered dressed hogs during the base period at a price figured by using a percentage of the live hog price (referred to as a "denominator"). If you are a processor in this group, your ceiling price for sales of dressed hogs to buyers other than retailers is the current live hog price at the market used during the base period, multiplied by your highest denominator for that weight range, with the resulting price reduced to an f. o. b. plant basis, where appropriate. The denominator must be one that was used during the base period for a sale of at least 20,000 pounds of dressed hogs.

The increased price paid by any purchaser of dressed hogs under this provision may not, however, be added to any purchaser's ceiling prices determined by the provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

Effective date: This supplement is effective immediately.

EDWARD F. PHELPS, JR.,
Acting Director of Price Stabilization.

APPENDIX—STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This Supplementary Regulation is being issued to resolve certain problems relating particularly to food and agricultural commodities covered by the GCPR. It has been deemed procedurally desirable to treat these problems separately in a Supplementary Regulation to the GCPR. There are, moreover, sufficient provisions in the GCPR useful to the pricing of such commodities as to make it advantageous to maintain this connection with the GCPR. It is presently contemplated that the issuance by the Director of Price Stabilization of tailored dollars-and-cents regulations will replace as rapidly as possible the pricing provisions of this Supplementary Regulation.

1. Ceiling prices for all sellers (other than retailers) of certain processed and unprocessed agricultural commodities. Section 1 of this Supplementary Regulation provides ceiling prices for specified agricultural commodities sold on certain commodity exchanges, and is intended to alleviate trading problems on these exchanges resulting from the issuance of the General Ceiling Price Regulation. These problems, although anticipated in part, could not be avoided in a general freeze of prices. It is also designed to enable persons selling other than on the exchanges to determine their specific prices in relation to the prices designated for the exchange. Exchange problems arose with regard to the commodities above parity because: (1) Some individuals had lower ceiling prices than others and could not compete in the market; (2) Other individuals had not traded in the base period of the general freeze and the alternative provisions provided in the General Ceiling Price Regulation did not offer a practicable means for providing these sellers with ceiling prices; and (3) Sales of these commodities by their producers were exempt, which created a tendency to sell around the exchange and disrupt normal channels of distribution.

Section 1 designates for each of the commodities listed therein an appropriate ceiling price for contracts grades. Sellers on the exchange will take this price as their ceiling adjusted for grade, quality and point of delivery according to the rules of the applicable exchange. Other sellers will determine their ceiling prices by taking the designated price to which their prices were related and adjusting it for their differentials for grade, quality and location which existed on the date of the designated price.

Except for soybeans and soybean oil meal, the specific prices designated for the various commodities listed are a translation into specific prices of the ceiling prices of individual sellers established under the General Ceiling Price Regulation. The highest prices quoted on the various exchanges for sales completed during the base period were taken in those cases where it was found that such prices reflected the general level of the ceiling prices of individual sellers.

In the case of soybeans the base ceiling price has been established at the lowest price which adequately reflects the legal minimum, which is above parity and equal to the highest price received between May 24 and June 24, 1950. This base ceiling price is higher than that which prevailed during the base period but it is a roll-back from more recent prices. In that connection, because some contracts were entered into at prices higher than those established in this Supplementary Regulation (which was proper under the then existing terms of Section 11 of the GCPR), it has been necessary to permit such contracts to be carried out (subparagraph (4) of section 1 (b)).

Soybean oil meal is set at a price higher than the base period price in order to provide the proper price relationship with soybean oil prices, which are being rolled back in another action taken simultaneously herewith by the Director of Price Stabilization. Together, these ceiling prices will reflect the legal minima for soybeans and provide generally fair and equitable margins for both expellos and solvent processors.

The ceiling price for soybean oil meal is set high enough to permit a reasonable relationship with corn for livestock feeding; and the ceiling for soybeans is established at a level which should maintain an appropriate balance in acreage devoted to soybeans as compared with corn.

These ceilings will apply to sales of the listed commodities beginning with sales by the producer up to but not including sales by the retailer whose ceilings will be those determined under the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

Experience has shown that the absence of a ceiling on producers will cause an upward pressure on prices. This paragraph, which departs from the freeze techniques that cannot be practically applied to producers, covers sales by producers.

This Supplementary Regulation should alleviate the difficulties pointed out above until regulations can be issued which designate specific dollars-and-cents ceiling prices for all grades, locations and classes of sellers of the foregoing commodities.

2. Methods for establishing ceilings for certain sales of dressed hogs. Section 2 permits slaughterers to continue their normal business operations of shipping dressed hogs. Under normal competitive marketing conditions, approximately 10 million pounds of dressed hogs are sold weekly by slaughterers to other packers and processors who convert the dressed hogs into wholesale pork cuts. The slaughtering plants customarily determine the dressed hog prices by multiplying the live hog price by a set percentage, usually referred to as a denominator.

Since the General Ceiling Price Regulation did not make provision for the continuation of sales of dressed hogs on a denominator basis, it is feared that slaughterers who have customarily sold on this basis will divert their slaughter to other purchasers in the form of wholesale cuts, leaving their regular customers without a normal source of supply. As stated, this amendment is drafted to meet this problem. It should be noted that this amendment does not apply to sales to retailers. It is also restricted in application to processors who performed the delineated functions during the base period. The amendment does not permit any increase in the ceiling prices of wholesale pork cuts derived from dressed hogs, but rather requires the purchaser of the dressed hogs to continue to sell his products derived from such dressed hogs at his ceiling prices as determined by the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the ceiling prices established by Sections 1 and 2 of this Supplementary Regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purposes of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to parity prices and the other minimum requirements of the law including prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950 to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

Although special circumstances have rendered impracticable consultation with formal industry advisory committees, including trade association representatives, the provisions of this Supplementary Regulation have been presented to, and generally approved by, persons representing substantial segments of the various industries affected.

Chapter IV—Wage Stabilization Board, Economic Stabilization Agency

[General Regulation 5, including Amdt. 1]

GR 5—ADJUSTMENTS FOR INDIVIDUAL EMPLOYEES

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), General Wage Stabilization Regulation 1 (16 F. R. 816) and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 3 (16 F. R. 739), this General Regulation No. 5, including Amendment 1 is hereby issued.

1. Section 1 (a) (2) is revised without substantial change for purposes of clarification.

2. In section 2 substitute a comma followed by the word "and" for each of the periods at the end of paragraphs (a), (b), and (c). In the opening words of section 2 (c) the phrase "an employee" is changed to read "any employee."

3. In the opening words of section 3 the phrase "to a higher job" is changed to read "to a higher paid job." In section 3 (a) substitute a comma followed by the word "and" for the period at the end thereof.

4. In section 5 (c) the word "employees" is changed to read "employee".

5. In the opening words of section 6 the phrase "industrial employees" is changed to read "individual employees".

6. General Regulation 5, as hereby amended, reads as follows:

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

This General Regulation is issued by the Wage Stabilization Board in discharge of its responsibilities under the provisions of the Defense Production Act of 1950, Executive Order 10161, General Order No. 3 and General Wage Stabilization Regulation 1 of the Economic Stabilization Administrator. It is designed to stabilize wages, salaries and other compensation and to effectuate the purposes and intent of said statute, orders, and regulation.

For the purpose of preparing itself for the discharge of its responsibilities, the Wage Stabilization Board heretofore distributed to representative labor and industry groups a series of questions, the answers to which would provide the Board with essential information for the development of wage stabilization policies. Thereafter, the Board conducted conferences which were attended by representatives of labor and industry, who presented their views respecting the development of wage stabilization policies. In the formulation of the provisions hereof there has thus been consultation with industry and labor representatives, including trade association and labor union representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

The effective administration of wage stabilization program rests largely on the degree of success achieved in ensuring that individual wage and salary adjustments be not misused for the purposes of evading or avoiding the requirements of law. Efficient industrial management, harmonious labor-management relations and high level production cannot be attained unless a large measure of flexibility and discretion is reserved to management, or to management and labor, as the case may be, in the operation of sound systems for merit and/or length of service increases, promotions or transfers, establishing rates for new or changed jobs, new hirings, etc. It is the intention of the Board in the accompanying general regulation to permit the operation and administration of such systems subject to the standards and controls set forth therein.

Sec.
0. Regulation subject to future general regulation.
1. Merit and/or length of service increases where plan exists.
2. Merit and/or length of service increases in absence of plan.
3. Promotions and transfers.
4. New or changed jobs.
5. Hiring of new employees.
6. Permissible variations in earnings.
7. Rates subject to revision.
8. Record keeping required.
9. Increases shall not justify price increases.

AUTHORITY: Sections 0 to 9 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply Title IV, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105.

SECTION 0. Regulation subject to future general regulation. Pending the issuance of further general regulations on the subjects covered herein, individual wage or salary adjustments are authorized for employees, without prior approval of the Wage Stabilization Board, subject to this General Regulation No. 5.

SEC. 1. Merit and/or length of service increases where plan exists. Merit and/or length of service increases may be granted in accordance with a plan in effect on January 25, 1951, provided:

(a) That such a plan existed—

(1) In a written collective bargaining agreement in effect on or before January 25, 1951, or

(2) In the form of (i) a written statement of policy or procedure in effect on January 25, 1951, or (ii) a written notice that had been furnished to or posted for the employees on or before January 29, 1951, and that

(3) Such written agreement, statement, or notice, shall be kept available at all times for inspection by the Wage Stabilization Board, and

(b) That such a plan contains job classification rate ranges with clearly designated maximum rates; and

(c) That in accordance with the normal operation of such a plan the employee would normally be reviewed for a merit increase or entitled to a length of service increase at the time the increase is granted; and

(d) That if the plan provides for increases in specific amounts or percentage increases shall not be granted in excess of such amounts or percentages; and

(e) That if the plan does not provide for increases in specific amounts or percentages, the amount of increase granted to any individual employee shall not exceed the figure reached by dividing the total amount of the merit and/or length of service increases granted to individual employees in that classification during the calendar year 1950 by the number of employees in that classification who received such increases. Where job classifications are grouped into labor grades or levels and wage or salary rate administration has been in terms of such grades or levels, the average referred to may be computed for each such grade or level.

(f) That no employee's rate shall be raised above the maximum rate of his job classification.

SEC. 2. Merit and/or length of service increases in absence of plan. In the absence of an established plan meeting the requirements of section 1 above, merit and/or length of service increases may be granted subject to the following conditions:

(a) That the employee shall not have received a merit and/or length of service increase during the 12 calendar months preceding the effective date of such increase, and

(b) That the number of employees whose rates may be increased in any one calendar month shall not exceed the proportionate number of increases granted per month during the calendar year 1950 in each bargaining unit or other appropriate groups of employees, and

(c) That the increase granted any employee shall not exceed in amount the figure reached by dividing the total amount of merit and/or length of service increases granted to employees in the same job classification during the calendar year 1950, by the number of employees in that classification who received such increases; Provided, That in an establishment that has no system of job classifications, the increase shall not exceed in amount a figure similarly computed which averages the increases granted to employees doing similar work during the calendar year 1950. Where job classifications are grouped into labor grades or levels and wage or salary rate administration has been in terms of such grades or levels, the average referred to may be computed for each such grade or level, and

(d) That no employee shall be raised to a rate higher than the maximum rate of the job classification, or in the absence of a formal system of rate ranges, than the highest rate paid to any employee doing similar work on January 25, 1951, except as such highest rate may have been raised pursuant to the terms of General Regulation No. 2 or other actions of the Board authorizing increases in wage or salary rates.

SEC. 3. Promotions and transfers. When a bona fide promotion or transfer of an employee to a higher paid job is made, the payment to such employee of the rate for such job is permissible provided:

(a) That the employee is required to perform the normal duties of the job to which he is promoted or transferred, and

(b) That if the job to which the employee is promoted or transferred has a rate range, the rate within the range which he may be paid shall be governed by the practice followed under the terms of the applicable collective bargaining agreement, or under a written statement of policy or procedure existing and in actual operation on January 25, 1951. If such agreement or written statement does not exist, the employer shall follow the same practice in determining such rate as he followed in the calendar year 1950. In no event shall the employee receive a rate in excess of the maximum of the rate range to which he is promoted or transferred.

SEC. 4. New or changed jobs. Rates for new or changed jobs may be established in accordance with plans or procedures in effect on January 25, 1951, or, if no plan or procedure was in effect on such date, the rates established must be in balance with the existing rate structure. Slight or inconsequential changes in job content shall not provide the basis for establishing new job classifications, rates or rate ranges nor justify changes in existing job classifications, rates or rate ranges.

SEC. 5. Hiring of new employees. A new employee may not be hired at a rate exceeding:

(a) The minimum of the rate range of the job classification into which he is hired, provided that an employee who has special ability and experience may be hired at a rate corresponding to such ability and experience within the rate range, or

(b) The rate of the job, or

(c) The minimum rate paid to any employee doing similar work during the pay period immediately preceding January 25, 1951, if the establishment has no system of job classification.

SEC. 6. Permissible variations in earnings. Variations in earnings of individual employees subsequent to January 25, 1951, resulting from the following are permissible: Provided, Such variations result from the operation of collective bargaining agreements or other plans or practices in effect on or before January 25, 1951, and further provided that the method of application of such agreements, plans or practices is consistent with the method of application over a reasonable period of time prior to January 25, 1951:

(a) The normal operation or application of incentive rates or plans; or

(b) Change from one shift to another; or

(c) The normal operation of a system for payment of commission on sales or business transactions; or

(d) The payment of overtime, premium, or penalty rates; or

(e) Other similar auxiliary pay practices.

SEC. 7. Rates subject to revision. The rate or rate ranges within which this regulation is to be operative may be revised pursuant to the other applicable regulations of the Board.

SEC. 8. Record keeping required. The employer shall keep records of each wage or salary adjustment made pursuant to the terms of sections 1 through 5 of this general regulation in readily accessible form for inspection by the Wage Stabilization Board.

SEC. 9. Increases shall not justify price increases. Increases in the wage rates of employees granted under the terms of this general regulation shall not furnish a basis either to increase price ceilings or resist otherwise justifiable reductions in price ceilings.

Adopted by the Wage Stabilization Board. Dissenting: Labor Members Emil Rieve, Elmer E. Walker, Harry C. Bates.

NOTE: The record keeping and reporting requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Subchapter D—Tank Vessels

REVISION OF REGULATIONS

A notice regarding proposed changes in the regulations for tank vessels was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated August 25, 1950, 15 F. R. 5706, et seq., as Items IV, V, VI, and VII on the agenda to be considered by the Merchant Marine Council, and a public hearing was held by the Merchant Marine Council on September 20, 1950, at Washington, D. C. There were also public hearings held by the Merchant Marine Council on May 26, 1949, and March 28, 1950. All the comments submitted were considered and where possible incorporated into the regulations as revised.

This revision of the Tank Vessel Regulations is to provide requirements meeting present conditions. Where necessary the new requirements applicable to new tank vessels are appropriately dated. The major changes made in the regulations are, in addition to new requirements for hulls, machinery, and equipment of tank vessels built or constructed on or after July 1, 1951, revised requirements covering the transportation of liquefied inflammable gases, and new requirements covering the inflammable or combustible gases having lethal characteristics. The requirements regarding specifications in Part 37 of the previous edition have been transferred to Subchapter Q, Specifications, while the operating or construction requirements of general applicability have been transferred to Part 33 regarding lifesaving appliances. All the regulations have been renumbered. For convenience a comparison table has been prepared showing the old section numbers and the new section numbers assigned with asterisks indicating which sections have been revised or amended by this revision.

SUBPART 31.10—INSPECTIONS

§ 31.10–1 Recognized classification society—TB/ALL. (a) In the inspection of hulls, boilers, and machinery, the rules promulgated by the American Bureau of Shipping and designated "Rules for Building and Classing Steel Vessels" respecting material and construction of hulls, boilers, and machinery, except as otherwise provided for by law and regulations in this chapter, shall be accepted as standard by the Coast Guard after being adopted by the Commandant.

(b) When such rules of the American Bureau of Shipping are adopted as standard by the Commandant, notice of such action will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such rules will apply to new construction contracted for on or after the effective date of publication, which will be 90 days after the date of the FEDERAL REGISTER in which the notice appears.

NOTE: The latest current rules of the American Bureau of Shipping as described in paragraph (a) of this section, which are hereby adopted as standard by the Commandant, are those dated 1950 and will apply to new construction contracted for on or after the effective date of this regulation as amended. As the "Rules for Building and Classing Steel Vessels" are usually published annually, information regarding the latest current rules of the American Bureau of Shipping which have been adopted by the Commandant subsequent to the effective date of § 31.10–1 may be obtained through the following sources: District Commander of any Coast Guard District; or Commandant (MMT), U. S. Coast Guard, Washington 25, D. C. These rules may be purchased from the American Bureau of Shipping, New York, N. Y.

(c) The approved plans and certificate of the American Bureau of Shipping, or other recognized classification society for classed vessels, may be accepted by the Coast Guard as evidence of the structural efficiency of the hull and reliability of machinery of vessels subject to the regulations in this subchapter, except as otherwise provided for by laws and regulations in this chapter.

§ 31.10–5 Inspection of new tank vessels—TB/ALL—(a) Plans. Triplicate copies of contract plans and specifications shall be forwarded to the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, in whose district the construction will take place, for submission to Headquarters for approval, but if the tank vessel is to be classed, such plans and specifications shall first be approved by a recognized classification society. If the plans and specifications are found to be in substantial agreement with the regulations in this chapter, they shall be approved, properly stamped and dated and distributed as follows: one set to owner or builder; one set to Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, of the district in which the vessel is to be built; and one set shall be retained at Headquarters. If such plans and specifications are not approved, Headquarters shall notify the owner or builder promptly wherein they fail to comply with the regulations in this chapter.

(b) Inspection. During construction, and upon completion of each tank vessel, it shall be inspected by the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, to determine whether it has been built in accordance with the approved plans and specifications, and, if so, a certificate of inspection endorsed as a permit for the carriage of inflammable or combustible liquids in bulk for the proper grade or grades of cargo shall be issued to the vessel or its owner.

(c) Certificate of class may be accepted. In the event such tank vessel is classed by the American Bureau of Shipping or other recognized classification society, the approved plans and certificates of such society may be accepted by the Coast Guard as evidence of the structural efficiency of the hull and reliability of machinery, except as otherwise provided for by law and the rules and regulations in this subchapter.

§ 31.10–10 Vessels converted to tank vessels—TB/ALL. The procedure for the inspection of vessels converted to tank vessels shall conform to the inspection for new tank vessels as called for in § 31.10–5 (b), and such vessels shall comply with the requirements of inspections for converted vessels as set forth in the regulations in this subchapter.

§ 31.10–15 Annual inspection—TB/ALL. (a) The Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, shall once in every year, at least, carefully inspect each tank vessel within his jurisdiction and shall satisfy himself that every such vessel so inspected is of a structure suitable for the carriage of inflammable and/or combustible liquids in bulk and for the proper grade or grades of such cargo in the service in which she is employed; and if he deems it expedient, he may direct the vessel to be put in motion, and may adopt any other suitable means to test her sufficiency and that of her equipment.

(b) If such inspection reveals deficiencies in the maintenance as called for by the regulations in this subchapter, such necessary repairs or improvements shall be made as may be ordered to comply herewith.

§ 31.10–20 Drydocking or hauling out—TB/ALL. (a) Each steel hull tank vessel shall be placed in drydock or on a slipway or hauled out for examination depending upon its service, as follows:

(1) Each tank vessel whose operations in saltwater service aggregate more than 6 months in a calendar year shall be drydocked or hauled out at least once each calendar year.

(2) Each tank vessel whose operations in saltwater service aggregate 6 months or less in a calendar year shall be drydocked or hauled out at least once in every 2 calendar years.

(3) Each tank vessel used in freshwater service exclusively shall be drydocked or hauled out at least once in every 5 calendar years.

(b) Each wood hull tank vessel shall be placed in drydock or on a slipway, or hauled out for examination at least once every 4 years.

(c) Each tank vessel, irrespective of service which has not complied with these drydocking requirements, either because it was on voyage or was tied up, shall be drydocked or hauled out upon the completion of such voyage or before being placed in service.

(d) Whenever any tank vessel is placed in drydock or on a slipway or hauled out for repairs it shall be the duty of the master, owner, or agent to report the same, together with the nature of any repairs or alterations contemplated, to the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, of that zone, and if the condition or age of the vessel, in the judgment of the inspectors, renders an examination necessary, a thorough inspection shall be made by them to determine what is necessary to make such vessel seaworthy and come within the provisions of the regulations in this subchapter.

(e) Sea chests, sea valves, sea strainers and bilge injection valves shall be examined at the time of the drydockings required by paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section and shall be opened up for internal examination when deemed necessary by the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection.

§ 31.10–23 Examination of tail shaft—T/OC. The outboard shaft or shafts on every ocean or coastwise tank ship shall be drawn for examination once at least in every 3 years: Provided, That if the circumstances warrant it, the Coast Guard District Commander may extend this time to the next regular drydocking period, not to exceed 4 months, and: Provided further, That when it is shown that a vessel has had a long period of lay-up, the Coast Guard District Commander may grant an extension equal to the time the vessel has been out of commission, but in no case shall the extension exceed 1 year.

§ 31.10–25 Inspection covering repairs and alterations involving safety—TB/ALL. No extensive alterations involving the safety of a tank vessel either in regard to hull or machinery shall be made without the approval of the Commandant. Before such alterations are carried out, copies of plans and specifications in triplicate for the work involved shall be forwarded to the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, in whose zone the repairs will be made, for submission to Headquarters for approval. If approved one set of the plans and specifications, properly stamped and dated, shall be returned to the owner or to the repair yard designated by the owner; one set to the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, who forwarded the plans and specifications to Headquarters; and one set shall be retained at Headquarters. If such plans and specifications are not approved, Headquarters shall promptly notify the owner or designated shipyard wherein they fail to comply with the regulations in this chapter. No extensive repairs to the hull or machinery which affect the safety of a vessel shall be made without the knowledge of the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection.

§ 31.10–30 Inclining test for stability—TB/ALL. When the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, has any reason to question the stability of any tank vessel under his jurisdiction, he shall require the owners of the tank vessel to make inclining tests of such vessel.

In the issuance of such a permit, the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, will state upon its face the conditions upon which it is granted and whether the vessel is to be allowed to carry freight or passengers. A vessel whose certificate of inspection has expired shall not be issued a permit to carry passengers while en route to another port for repairs.

§ 31.10–40 Inspection during trial trip—T/ALL. On the trial trip of each new or converted tank ship, an inspector shall be present to observe from the standpoint of safety in the carriage of inflammable and/or combustible liquids in bulk, the operation of boilers, engines, steering gear, and auxiliaries; and if not satisfied with the performance of such boilers and machinery, appliances, and apparatus for stowage, he shall make such requirements as in his judgment will overcome any deficiencies which may have come under his observation.

§ 31.10–45 Inspection of crew accommodations—TB/ALL. Crew's quarters shall be inspected to determine their sanitary condition. The Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, upon completing such inspection, shall notify the master or officer in charge of the vessel of his findings, which shall be entered in the vessel's log book.

(b) The system shall operate from a continuous source of electric energy capable of supplying the system for a period of at least 8 hours without being dependent upon the main, auxiliary, or emergency generating plants.

(c) Each bell shall produce a signal of a tone distinct from that of other bell signals in the vicinity and shall be independently fused with each of these fuses located above the bulkhead deck. The bells shall be controlled by a manually operated contact maker located in the pilothouse, in an accessible location in officers' quarters in midships deck house, and in the engine room. Alarm contactors in the latter two locations shall be protected by glass against tampering.

(d) The characteristics of the contact maker shall be such that it possesses:

(1) Positive contact.

(2) Watertightness (when located in open spaces subject to weather).

(3) Means whereby its electrically open or closed position can be determined by sense of touch.

(4) Means to effect a make-and-break circuit for signaling.

(5) Self-maintaining contacts.

§ 32.25–10 Alarm bells for tank ships constructed prior to September 15, 1943—T/ALL. All tank ships, the construction of which was begun prior to September 15, 1943, shall have all sleeping accommodations equipped with a sufficient number of alarm bells so located as to warn all the occupants. The alarm bells, if electric, shall be operated from an open switch from the pilothouse or bridge. The bells shall be of such size, character, and construction, as to provide an alarm throughout the spaces for which they are provided.

§ 32.25–15 Alarm bells for manned barges—B/OC. Each tank barge of over 100 gross tons, where the crew is divided into watches for the purpose of steering the vessel, shall be provided with a suitable alarm bell installation.

SUBPART 32.30—INTERIOR COMMUNICATION SYSTEMS

§ 32.30–1 Voice tubes or telephone equipment—T/ALL. (a) Tank ships constructed on or after July 1, 1951, shall be equipped with voice tubes or telephone equipment to provide communication between the pilothouse and (1) the emergency steering station, (2) the steering engine room, and (3) the engine room. Such equipment when installed, or fitted as replacements on such vessels, shall conform to the requirements in this section and in Subchapter Q (Specifications), of this chapter.

(b) Tank ships constructed before July 1, 1951, the voice tubes or telephone equipment installed thereon, or fitted as replacements on such vessels, to provide communication between the pilothouse and (1) the emergency steering station, (2) the steering engine room, and (3) the engine room, shall conform to the requirements in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section and insofar as possible those requirements in Subchapter Q (Specifications) of this chapter.

(c) Where the length of voice tube required exceeds 125 feet, or if for other reasons efficient communications cannot be obtained by a voice tube installation, telephone equipment shall be substituted.

(d) Where the length of the voice tube as installed is not over 75 feet, the tube used shall be at least 2 inches in diameter. Installations having a length of over 75 feet shall be at least 2½ inches in diameter.

§ 32.30–5 Bell signals between pilothouse and engine room—T/ALL. Tank ships using the bell signals between the pilothouse and the engine room shall have a tube of proper size so arranged as to return the sound of the bell signals to the pilothouse, and shall also be provided with a speaking tube or other device for the purpose of conversation between the pilothouse and engine room.

§ 32.30–10 Telegraph systems—T/ALL. (a) Nothing in this subpart shall be construed to prevent the use of the so-called telegraph now in use for conveying signals from the pilothouse to the engine room, but in all cases where the telegraph is used the signal shall be repeated back.

(b) All electrical engine order telegraph systems on vessels, not also equipped with mechanical telegraphs, shall be provided with an alarm, located on the bridge, to indicate visually and audibly the failure of power to the system.

§ 32.30–15 Inspections—T/ALL. Signal apparatus between pilothouse, engine room, steering engine room, and emergency steering stations—whether they be telegraph, bell, whistle, telephone or voice tube—will be examined and tested at each annual inspection.

SUBPART 32.35—MAIN AND AUXILIARY MACHINERY

§ 32.35–1 Design and construction of boilers—TB/ALL. The design and construction of all boilers, mountings, appurtenances, piping, fuel systems, etc., shall conform to the requirements in Parts 50 to 58 of Subchapter F (Marine Engineering) of this chapter, except as otherwise provided for in this subchapter.

§ 32.35–5 Auxiliary machinery—TB/ALL. All tank ships shall be provided with the necessary auxiliary machinery, pumps, and piping systems for the safe and efficient operation of the vessel. All such installations shall comply with the rules and regulations as contained in Parts 52 to 57 of Subchapter F (Marine Engineering) of this chapter, except as otherwise provided for in this subchapter, and be at least equivalent to the requirements of a recognized classification society.

§ 32.35–10 Installation of internal combustion engines—TB/ALL. (a) Gasoline engines, whether for propulsion or for driving auxiliaries, shall have their air intakes so directed that backfire cannot blow down into the bilges.

(b) On and after July 1, 1951, all new installations or replacements of gasoline engines shall be fitted with approved backfire flame arresters. For specifications and procedures re approval see Subpart 162.015 of Subchapter Q (Specifications) of this chapter. The gasoline engines which were installed prior to July 1, 1951, shall be fitted with effective backfire flame arresters.

(c) All carburetors for internal combustion engines shall be fitted with suitable metal drip collectors.

(d) Each internal combustion engine located on the weather deck shall be provided with a ventilated metal hood or, where space permits, with a well-ventilated metal housing of sufficient size to allow for proper operation and maintenance.

§ 32.35–15 Internal combustion engine exhaust—TB/ALL. (a) Exhaust lines from internal combustion engines, where run through the deck, or through the sides of the superstructure, shall be extended to a height of at least 4 feet above the deck. The exhaust piping shall be either insulated or water cooled.

(b) A spark arrester shall be installed in each exhaust line.

(c) All tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to November 10, 1936, shall comply with the requirements in this section where necessary in the interest of safety.

§ 32.35–20 Bilge pumps for tank barges—B/ALL. All tank barges shall be provided with means for removing bilge water from all parts of the vessel other than the cargo tanks.

§ 32.35–21 Bilge pumps on unmanned barges—B/BR. On unmanned barges bilge pumps, hand or power operated, either fixed or portable, and located on the barge or towing vessel, may be accepted as suitable means for pumping out spaces other than cargo tanks. When such barges are towed in flotilla and attended by a towing vessel at all times, suitable siphons, portable or fixed, carried aboard the barge or on the towing vessel, may be accepted.

§ 32.35–25 Steering apparatus on tank ships constructed before July 1, 1951—T/ALL. (a) On tank ships, the construction or conversion of which was started before July 1, 1951, suitable steering apparatus shall be provided. Extra steering apparatus consisting of relieving tackle, or of auxiliary power or hand steering gear attached to the rudder stock independent of the regular steering gear shall be provided.

(b) Where reasonable and practicable, the emergency steering wheel shall be located on the after weather deck, and an efficient means of communication shall be provided between the pilothouse, the emergency steering station, and the steering engine room.

(c) Replacements of steering apparatus on these tank ships shall be in accordance with § 32.35–30 for new construction.

§ 32.35–30 Steering apparatus on tank ships constructed on or after July 1, 1951—T/ALL. (a) All tank ships, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, shall have suitable means of steering capable of swinging the rudder from hard right to hard left in 30 seconds with the vessel proceeding ahead at the maximum design speed. An additional effective auxiliary means shall be provided for actuating the rudder through an independent tiller, or its equivalent, designed to swing the rudder from 15 degrees right of center to 15 degrees left of center within 60 seconds with the vessel proceeding at one-half the maximum design speed or seven knots, whichever is the greater.

(b) The main steering gear on tank ships exceeding 250 feet in length shall be power driven and approved means shall be provided for operating the auxiliary steering gear.

(c) An auxiliary steering gear consisting of a block and tackle operating an independent tiller of suitable design so arranged as to be operated by a power driven winch or other suitable machinery is considered a satisfactory auxiliary power steering gear.

(d) When the main steering gear is of the double-acting dual-power hydraulic type attached to a yoke on the rudderpost, an auxiliary steering gear secured to a separate tiller is not required, provided the yoke of the main gear is designed for strength in excess of that of the rudder stock.

(e) Small tank ships where the main quadrant or tiller is of suitable design, located above the deck and provided with acceptable means for attaching a block and tackle for emergency steering gear, are not required to have a separate auxiliary tiller.

(f) Power driven main steering gears shall be fitted with positive means for stopping the gear before the rudder stops are reached. The arrangement shall be synchronized with the movement of the rudder stock or position of the gear rather than with the steering gear control system.

(g) Brakes shall be fitted to the rudder stock or brake drum attached thereto for holding the rudder in case of an emergency on all ocean-going tank ships required to have power-operated steering gear. When the gear is of the four-ram hydraulic type, a hand-operated filling and drain pump connected to the ram cylinder and capable of producing a torque equal to one-fourth of the maximum ahead torque may be substituted for the brake.

(h) Tank ships fitted with power-operated steering gear shall have suitable buffers fitted to prevent damage caused by the quadrant striking stops and shock being transmitted to the gear.

(i) An emergency steering wheel shall be located on the after weather deck of vessels in which power driven steering gear is installed except for arrangements wherein the Commandant considers such impracticable.

(j) Steering wheels at steering stations shall be installed in a vertical position and arranged for steering by the helmsman when standing abaft the wheel and facing forward. The top of the steering wheel, the rudder blades, and the head of the ship shall move in the same direction.

(k) When a "trick" wheel is installed in the steering gear room for use in warming up and testing the gear as well as for steering purposes, and the wheel is installed in a vertical position, it shall meet the requirements of paragraph (j) of this section.

(m) Where "trick" wheel or other device is installed in the steering gear room for the sole purpose of warming up and testing the gear, it may be installed to best suit design and operating conditions of the gear. A plate shall be fitted on this wheel or device with indicating arrows showing the direction of movement to produce "right rudder" and "left rudder."

(n) When auxiliary steering gear is installed in lieu of relieving tackles, the steering wheel or device used for operating the gear shall meet all requirements given in paragraph (j) of this section.

(o) At all steering stations, there shall be installed a suitable notice on the wheel or device, or in such other position as to be directly in the helmsman's line of vision, to indicate the direction in which the wheel or device must be turned for "right rudder" and "left rudder."

(p) Where no regular rudder is fitted and steering action is obtained by a change of setting of the propelling unit, emergency steering gear is not required nor will the requirements of this section generally be applicable. Special consideration will be given by the Commandant for such installations.

(q) The arrangement of piping for hydraulic gears shall be such that a change from the main to the auxiliary gear can be readily effected. A relief valve shall be provided for the protection of the hydraulic system. Pressure piping shall meet the requirements of Part 55 of Subchapter F, Marine Engineering, of this chapter.

§ 32.35–35 Steering apparatus on tank barges—B/ALL. (a) For barges, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, when equipped with steering apparatus, the requirements in § 32.35–30 shall be met insofar as it is practical to do so.

(b) For tank barges, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to July 1, 1951, when equipped with steering apparatus, the requirements in § 32.35–25 shall be met insofar as practical to do so.

SUBPART 32.40—ACCOMMODATIONS

§ 32.40–1 Crew accommodations on tank ships of 100 gross tons or over constructed after January 1, 1938—T/ALL. On all tank ships of 100 gross tons and over, the construction of which is begun after January 1, 1938, the minimum requirements relative to construction, location, and equipment of crew accommodations are as follows:

(a) Sleeping quarters. At least 120 cubic feet of space and not less than 16 square feet of deck areas shall be allotted to each member of the crew for sleeping purposes. In measuring sleeping quarters allotted to crews of vessels, the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, shall not deduct from the total volume or from the deck area any equipment contained therein which is provided for the exclusive use of the crew. Not more than one bunk shall be placed above another, and the lower bunk shall be at least 12 inches above the deck. The upper bunks shall be located as nearly as practicable midway between the lower bunk and the lower side of the deck beams overhead.

(b) Toilet and washing facilities. (1) Each such tank ship shall be provided with at least one washbasin, one bathtub or shower, and one toilet for each eight members, or portion thereof, in the crew to be accommodated. The crew to be accommodated shall include all members who do not occupy rooms to which private facilities are attached.

(2) When the engine room crew, exclusive of licensed officers and others separately provided for, exceeds eight, separate washing facilities shall be provided.

(3) Vessels contracted for after January 1, 1949, shall have the toilet rooms separate from the washrooms, and at least one washbasin shall be fitted in each toilet room.

(c) Hospital accommodations. Each such tank vessel which in the ordinary course of its trade makes voyages of more than 3 days' duration between ports and which carries a crew of 12 or more, shall be equipped with a compartment suitably separated from other spaces for hospital purposes, and such compartment shall have at least 1 bunk for every 12 seamen constituting her crew, provided that not more than 6 bunks shall be required in any case.

(d) Location, construction and equipment. (1) Crew accommodations shall not be located forward of the collision bulkhead, or where there will be undue risk to members of the crew in getting to stations.

(2) Where crew quarters abut galley, boiler, or engine room bulkheads, such bulkheads shall be insulated with fire-resistive material to reduce transmission of heat.

(3) Insofar as practicable, crew quarters shall be so located or constructed that they will be protected against objectionable odors of cargo, fuel tanks, paint lockers, oil rooms, bilges, toilets, etc.

(4) Crew quarters shall be adequately lighted, heated, and ventilated. The minimum standard for natural lighting is that it will be possible in daylight and in clear weather to read the print of an ordinary newspaper in any part of the space allotted. When it is not possible to provide adequate natural lighting, artificial lighting may be accepted on the same basis: Provided, however, That in the artificial lighting of the crew's quarters, the use of portable wiring is prohibited, except when approved by the chief engineer.

(5) Bare metal surfaces of ship's sides and metal weather decks overhead which are not decked over with wood externally, shall be covered with suitable fire-resistive material to aid in keeping the crew's quarters dry.

(6) In the ventilation of crew accommodations provisions shall be made for the ingress of fresh air and for the egress of impure air; it shall be adequate for the purpose intended, and so arranged as to be effective in any ordinary weather conditions, and to distribute fresh air without undue discomfort to the occupants. Where natural ventilation is provided, each inlet shall have an area of at least 6 square inches for each person accommodated, the outlet to be at least equal in size to the inlet. In no case shall any one such inlet or outlet have a cross sectional area of less than 24 square inches.

(7) Mechanical ventilation may be provided if such system is equal in effectiveness to the requirements for natural ventilation and is approved by the Commandant.

(8) Mess rooms shall be provided for both officers and crew, and shall be separate from each other where space and conditions will permit. Such mess rooms shall be sufficient in size to accommodate all persons allotted to such space: Provided, however, That this subparagraph need not apply to vessels operating on the Great Lakes, lakes, bays and sounds, or rivers.

(9) All washbasins, shower baths, or tubs required by the regulations in this subchapter shall be equipped with proper plumbing, including hot and cold running water. Washbasins for the crew may be located in the crew's sleeping quarters, if properly installed, equipped with proper plumbing for draining and supplied with hot and cold running water.

(10) All toilets shall be installed and equipped with the proper plumbing for flushing. Where more than one toilet is located in a space or compartment, each toilet shall be separated with a screen constructed of fire-resistive material to afford privacy. Such screens may be installed so as to be open at top and bottom for ventilation purposes. Toilet seats shall be so constructed as to remain in an upright position when not in use.

(11) Floors of toilets and washrooms shall be covered with cement, tile, or other suitable covering.

(12) On each such tank ship there shall be provided at least one sink or other suitable means for washing clothes.

(13) Each hospital shall have a toilet, washbasin, and bathtub or shower conveniently situated.

(14) A clothes locker shall be provided for each person accommodated of a size not less than 12" x 21" x 5' high and so placed as to be readily accessible.

(15) Living accommodations shall be properly screened to exclude insects.

§ 32.40–5 Crew accommodations on tank ships of less than 100 gross tons and manned tank barges constructed after January 1, 1938—TB/ALL. All tank ships of less than 100 gross tons and all manned tank barges, the construction of which is begun after January 1, 1938, shall be provided with crew accommodations of sufficient size, adequate construction, and with suitable equipment to provide for the protection and accommodations of its crew in a manner practicable for the size, facilities and service of the vessel, and consistent with the principles underlying the requirements for crew accommodations on tank ships of 100 gross tons or more.

§ 32.40–10 Crew accommodations on tank ships of 100 gross tons or over constructed after March 4, 1915, and prior to January 1, 1938—T/ALL. On all tank ships of 100 gross tons or over the construction of which was begun after March 4, 1915, and prior to January 1, 1938, the crew accommodations shall be of a character and number in compliance with § 32.40–1 (a), (b), (c), except that separate washing facilities are not required where the engine-room crew, exclusive of licensed officers, and others separately provided for, does not exceed 10. In cases where an improvement is necessary in the sanitary conditions of such vessels, § 32.40–1 (d) will also apply in principle insofar as space and conditions will permit.

§ 32.40–15 Crew accommodations on tank ships and manned tank barges not otherwise provided for—TB/ALL. All tank ships and all manned tank barges not heretofore provided for shall have crew quarters and washing and toilet facilities in keeping with the age, size, facilities and service of the vessel, and suitable for the accommodations and protection of the crew.

SUBPART 32.45—ELECTRICAL INSTALLATIONS

§ 32.45–1 Application—TB/ALL. (a) The electrical installation on a tank vessel, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after November 10, 1936, shall be in compliance with this subpart, and to the extent that such installation is not covered by this subpart, it shall be at least equivalent to the Commandant's general requirements.

(b) The electrical installation on a tank vessel, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to November 10, 1936, shall be maintained in a safe and in a good mechanical condition, and shall comply with the regulations in effect when the vessel was built, or to the requirements of a recognized classification society. Any major change in the electrical installation or any conversion shall comply with this subpart.

§ 32.45–5 General installation requirements—TB/ALL. (a) Where practicable, electrical cable is to be located well inboard from the sides, preferably along or near the centerline, to reduce the risk of injury in the event of collision, but it shall be kept clear of cargo tank openings. Feeders shall be run as far as practicable to avoid cargo pump rooms and enclosed spaces immediately adjoining cargo tanks.

(b) No ground connections may be used in any part of electrical circuits except detecting lamps on switchboards. The armor on all cables shall be electrically and mechanically continuous.

(c) Switchboards, distributing panels, switches, fuses, and other circuit-interrupting devices are not to be fitted in cargo pump rooms or enclosed spaces immediately adjoining cargo tanks.

(d) Portable extension cables and fittings are to be of an approved type.

(e) Main distribution circuits shall be protected against overload by circuit breaking devices, the capacity of which shall be marked at each such device.

§ 32.45–10 Installations made during the Unlimited National Emergency—TB/ALL. (a) For tank vessels, the contract for the construction of which was signed prior to September 2, 1945, and specification covering electrical installations titled "United States Coast Guard, Merchant Marine Inspection, Specification for Electrical Installations on Merchant Vessels," dated August 31, 1944, revised March 6, 1945,[1] is, during the Unlimited National Emergency, applicable as alternative provisions to those contained in this subpart.

(b) For vessels the contract for the construction of which is signed on and after September 2, 1945, those parts of the specification covering electrical installations, titled "United States Coast Guard Specification for Electrical Installations on Merchant Vessels," dated August 31, 1944, revised March 6, 1945,[1] specified in paragraphs 1, 4, and 5, thereof relating to electric cable are, during the Unlimited National Emergency, applicable as alternative provisions to those contained in this subpart.

§ 32.45–15 Location of storage batteries on tank vessels constructed after November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. Storage batteries shall not be located in cargo pump rooms. The space in which they are located shall be well ventilated and they shall be protected against mechanical and electrical injury including short circuiting and overloading. Batteries shall be secured against movement, and acid batteries shall be set in lead-lined trays at least 3 inches deep of at least 4-pound sheet lead.

[1] A copy of the specifications may be obtained upon request from the Commandant (MMT), United States Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington 25, D. C., or any Coast Guard District Commander.

SUBPART 32.50—PUMPS, PIPING, AND HOSE FOR CARGO HANDLING

§ 32.50–1 Cargo pumps for tank vessels constructed on or after November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. On all tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after November 10, 1936, the cargo pumps shall be designed and installed to minimize the danger of sparking. Special care shall be exercised in the design of packing spaces in order to secure ample depth and accessibility of glands. Where cargo pump shafts pierce gastight bulkheads, stuffing boxes with readily accessible gastight glands shall be provided.

§ 32.50–5 Cargo pump fittings and controls on tank vessels constructed on or after November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. (a) On all tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after November 10, 1936, where a cargo pump is capable of developing a pressure exceeding 125 pounds at the pump under shutoff head conditions (based on water), a suitable relief valve shall be installed between the pump and shutoff valve in the cargo pump discharge and piped back into the suction. The relief valve setting shall not exceed the pressure for which the piping system is designed.

(b) A pressure gage shall be installed for each pump discharge, and it shall be located at a point visible with respect to the pump controls.

(c) Means shall be provided for controlling the cargo or pump room bilge pumps and their suctions and discharges in order that a flooded pump room may be pumped out. Suitable portable or fixed air-driven or hand-operated pumps may be accepted as complying with this provision.

§ 32.50–10 Cargo pumps on tank vessels with independent cargo tanks which were constructed prior to November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. (a) Cargo pumps on tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to November 10, 1936, may be located in a hold space containing independent cargo tanks or on deck. If the pump driving unit is of the type permitted in cargo pump rooms, it also may be located in the hold space. If other types of driving units are used, they shall be located on deck or in an engine compartment. If the pump drive shaft passes through decks or bulkheads into a hold space or pump room, it shall be provided with suitable stuffing boxes at such points.

§ 32.50–15 Cargo piping on tank vessels constructed on or after July 1, 1951—TB/ALL. (a) On all tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, the cargo piping shall be:

(1) A fixed cargo piping system shall be installed on a tank vessel carrying Grade A, B, or C cargo. The piping shall be arranged so as to avoid excessive stresses at the joints. For sizes exceeding 2 inches in diameter, flanged, welded, or other approved types of joints shall be employed. Packing material shall be suitable for the cargo carried. Connections at bulkheads shall be made so that the plating does not form part of a flanged joint. Piping may be carried through bunker spaces and deep tanks provided it is run through a pipe tunnel. The tunnel may be omitted where the pipe is extra heavy, all joints are welded, and bends are installed to provide for expansion and contraction.

(2) Cargo piping, where installed in tank vessels carrying Grade D or E cargo only, shall conform with the requirements contained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) Cargo piping shall not pass through spaces containing machinery where sources of vapor ignition are normally present: Provided, That, in conversions effected during the National Emergency, cargo piping for Grade E liquids passing through shaft alleys and machinery spaces may be permitted.

(b) Where the pump room bilge suction is connected to the cargo pump, two valves shall be fitted in this suction branch, one of which shall be of a non-return screw-down type.

(c) Valve operating rods in the cargo tanks shall be solid and of ample size, well guided and supported, and attached to the valve stems in a manner to guard against their working loose. Where such valve rods pass through the deck, gastight stuffing boxes shall be fitted. The leads of valve rods shall be as direct as possible. All valves and fittings shall be of material, design and manufacture for the intended service on the cargo system; either rising or nonrising stem valves may be used.

(d) All cargo loading and discharge hose connections shall be fitted with valves or blind flanges.

§ 32.50–20 Cargo piping for tank vessels constructed between November 10, 1936, and July 1, 1951—TB/ALL. (a) On tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after November 10, 1936, and prior to July 1, 1951, the piping shall be arranged so as to avoid excessive stresses at the joints. For sizes exceeding 2 inches in diameter, flanged, welded, or other approved types of joints shall be employed. Packing material shall be suitable for the cargo carried. Connections at bulkheads shall be made so that the plating does not form part of a flanged joint. Piping may be carried through bunker spaces and deep tanks provided it is run through a pipe tunnel. The tunnel may be omitted where the pipe is extra heavy, all joints are welded, and bends are installed to provide for expansion and contraction.

(b) Cargo piping shall not pass through spaces containing machinery where sources of vapor ignition are normally present: Provided, That, in conversions effected during the National Emergency proclaimed by the President May 27, 1941, cargo piping for Grade E liquids passing through shaft alleys and machinery spaces may be permitted.

(c) Where the pump room bilge suction is connected to the cargo pump, two valves shall be fitted in this suction branch, one of which shall be of a non-return screw-down type.

(d) Valve operating rods in the cargo tanks shall be solid and of ample size, well guided and supported, and attached to the valve stems in a manner to guard against their working loose. Where such valve rods pass through the deck, gastight stuffing boxes shall be fitted. The leads of valve rods shall be as direct as possible. All valves and fittings shall be of material, design and manufacture for the intended service on the cargo system; either rising or nonrising stem valves may be used.

§ 32.50–25 Cargo pumps and piping on tank vessels constructed prior to November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. On tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to November 10, 1936, cargo pumps and piping which do not fully comply with the regulations in this subchapter shall be made as nearly equal to the requirements for tank vessels constructed between November 10, 1936, and July 1, 1951, as is necessary in the interest of safety. Cargo pipe lines may pass through cargo pump engine compartments provided no cargo valves are located therein.

§ 32.50–30 Cargo hose—TB/ALL. Cargo hose, when carried on tank vessels, shall be of a grade suitable for oil service, and shall be designed to withstand the pressure of the shutoff head of the cargo pump or pump relief valve setting, less static head, but in no case less than 100 pounds per square inch.

SUBPART 32.55—VENTILATION AND VENTING

§ 32.55–1 Ventilation of tank vessels constructed on or after July 1, 1951—TB ALL. (a) On all tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, all enclosed parts of the vessel, other than cargo, fuel, and water tanks and cofferdams, shall be provided with efficient means of ventilation.

(b) Compartments containing machinery where sources of vapor ignition are normally present shall be ventilated in such a way as to remove vapors from points near the floor level or the bilges. Effective steam or air actuated gas ejectors, blowers or ventilators fitted with heads for natural ventilation, with at least one duct extending to immediately below the floor plates will be approved for this purpose. Machinery spaces below the freeboard deck, in which fuels with flash point of 110° F. or lower are used, shall be equipped with power ventilation. (See § 32.60–20 for other requirements concerning pump rooms.)

§ 32.55–5 Ventilation of tank vessels constructed between November 10, 1936, and July 1, 1951—TB/ALL. (a) On tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which was started on or after November 10, 1936, and prior to July 1, 1951, all enclosed parts of the vessel, other than cargo, fuel, and water tanks and cofferdams, shall be provided with efficient means of ventilation.

§ 32.55–10 Ventilation for tank vessels constructed prior to November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. Ventilation of tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to November 10, 1936, shall be equal to the requirements of tank vessels constructed before July 1, 1951, where the changes are, in the opinion of the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, necessary in the interest of safety.

§ 32.55–15 Ventilation for hold spaces—TB/ALL. Hold spaces containing independent cargo tanks shall be considered to be equivalent to cargo pump rooms and shall be ventilated and safeguarded as such.

§ 32.55–20 Venting of cargo tanks of tank ships constructed on or after July 1, 1951—T/ALL—(a) Venting required. On all tank ships, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, each cargo tank shall be equipped with a vent. The diameter of a vent shall not be less than 2½ inches.

(b) Grade A liquids. (1) Cargo tanks in which Grade A liquids are to be transported shall be fitted with a venting system consisting of a branch vent line from each cargo tank connected to a vent header which shall extend to a height above the weather deck equal to at least one-third the beam of the vessel and shall terminate at a comparable distance from any other living or working space, ventilator inlet, or source of ignition. When special conditions will prevent the vent line or header outlets being permanently installed at a height above the deck of one-third the beam of the vessel, an adjustable system shall be provided which, when extended vertically, shall be capable of reaching a height of one-third the beam of the vessel.

(2) A weather hood may be installed at the vent outlet providing it is of such design as not to direct the flow of vapor below the horizontal.

(3) The branch vent lines shall consist of either:

(i) Pipe with no valves or other hindrances to a free flow of gas; or,

(ii) Piping fitted with a pressure vacuum relief valve, provided means are supplied for relieving all internal pressure on cargo tanks by fitting the valve with a positive means for opening its pressure valve to allow free passage of gases through the branch vent line or by the installation of a by-pass fitted with a manually operated stop valve.

(4) The vent header shall be fitted with a flame arrester or pressure vacuum relief valve. If a pressure vacuum relief valve is used in the header, means shall be provided for relieving all internal pressure on cargo tanks by fitting the valve with a positive means for opening its pressure valve to allow free passage of gases through the header or by the installation of a by-pass fitted with a manually operated stop valve. A suitable means of relieving pressure shall be fitted in the header in order to prevent excess pressure being built up in the tanks, in the event of overfilling of the latter. The vent header system shall be provided with suitable connections for flushing and draining. The vent header system shall be of sufficient capacity as to be able to carry off all displaced air and vapors during loading of the cargo tanks without opening of ullage plates, cargo hatches, etc. See § 32.20–20 for liquid level gaging requirements.

(c) Grade B or C liquids. Cargo tanks in which Grade B or C liquids are to be transported shall be fitted with either individual pressure-vacuum relief valves or shall be fitted with a venting system consisting of branch vent lines connected to a vent header which shall extend to a reasonable height above the weather deck and be fitted with a flame arrester or a pressure-vacuum relief valve at the outlet to the atmosphere.

Each branch vent line may be provided with a manually operated control valve, provided it is bypassed with a pressure-vacuum relief valve or each cargo tank to which such a branch vent line is connected is fitted with an independent pressure-vacuum relief valve. The vent header system shall be provided with suitable connections for flushing and draining.

(2) In barges with independent tanks carrying Grade A liquids, separate discharge pipes may be fitted to each pressure-vacuum relief valve, or the pressure-vacuum relief valve may be elevated, so that in either case the discharge from such valve will not be less than 7 feet above the deck where practicable.

(c) Grade B or C liquids. Cargo tanks in which Grade B or C liquids are to be transported shall be fitted with individual pressure-vacuum relief valves or shall be fitted with a venting system consisting of branch vent lines connected to a vent header which shall extend to a reasonable height above the weather deck and be fitted with a pressure-vacuum relief valve at the outlet to the atmosphere.

(d) Grade D or E liquids. Cargo tanks in which Grade D or E liquids only are to be transported shall be fitted with gooseneck vents and flame screens unless such tanks are vented by pressure-vacuum relief valves or a venting system of branch vent lines and a vent header.

§ 32.55–30 Venting of cargo tanks of tank vessels constructed between November 10, 1936, and July 1, 1951—TB/ALL—(a) Venting required. On all tank ships, the construction or alteration of which is started on or after November 10, 1936, and prior to July 1, 1951, each cargo tank shall be equipped with a vent. The diameter of a vent shall be not less than 2½ inches.

(b) Grade A liquids. (1) Cargo tanks in which Grade A liquids are to be transported shall be fitted with a venting system consisting of branch vent line from each cargo tank connected to a vent header which shall extend to a reasonable height above the weather deck and be fitted with a flame arrester or pressure-vacuum relief valve. Each branch vent line may be provided with a manually operated control valve, provided it is bypassed with a pressure-vacuum relief valve or each cargo tank to which such a branch vent line is connected is fitted with an independent pressure-vacuum relief valve. The vent header system shall be provided with suitable connections for flushing and draining.

(2) In barges with independent tanks carrying Grade A liquids, separate discharge pipes may be fitted to each pressure-vacuum relief valve, or the pressure-vacuum relief valve may be elevated, so that in either case the discharge from such valve will not be less than 7 feet above the deck where practicable.

(c) Grade B or C liquids. Cargo tanks in which Grade B or C liquids are to be transported shall be fitted with individual pressure-vacuum relief valves or shall be fitted with a venting system consisting of branch vent lines connected to a vent header which shall extend to a reasonable height above the weather deck and be fitted with a flame arrester or a pressure-vacuum relief valve at the outlet to the atmosphere.

(d) Grade D or E liquids. Cargo tanks in which Grade D or E liquids only are to be transported shall be fitted with gooseneck vents and flame screens unless such tanks are vented by pressure-vacuum relief valves or a venting system of branch vent lines and a vent header.

§ 32.55–35 Venting of cargo tanks on tank vessels constructed prior to November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. The venting of cargo tanks of tank vessels, the construction or alteration of which was started prior to November 10, 1936, shall be made to equal the requirements of tank vessels constructed before July 1, 1951, where the changes are, in the opinion of the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, necessary in the interests of safety: Provided, That on such vessels carrying Grade A cargo the requirements in § 32.55–30 (b) shall be met.

§ 32.55–40 Venting of cargo tanks fitted with inert-gas system—TB/ALL. A tank vessel equipped with an approved system for maintaining all cargo tank vapor spaces noninflammable shall be accepted in lieu of the requirements of §§ 32.55–20, 32.55–25, 32.55–30 or 32.55–35.

§ 32.55–45 Venting of cofferdams of tank vessels constructed on or after November 10, 1936—TB/ALL. On all tank vessels, the construction or conversion of which was started on or after November 10, 1936, cofferdams shall be provided with gooseneck vents fitted with screen or pressure vacuum relief valves. SUBPART 33.10—LIFEBOAT HANDLING EQUIPMENT REQUIREMENTS

§ 33.10–1 Lifeboat davits—TB/ALL. (a) No type or make of mechanical or gravity davit shall be used unless it has first been approved by the Commandant. For construction of davits see Subpart 160.032 of Subchapter Q (Specifications) of this chapter.

(b) No mechanical davits of a character which require manual or other power to turn the lifeboats out to the position for lowering into the water shall be fitted to any vessel the keel of which is laid after September 1, 1941, if such davits are to handle a lifeboat which, without its complement of persons on board, but having on board all air tanks and other lifeboat equipment, exceeds 5,000 pounds total weight; i. e., 2,500 pounds for a single davit arm.

(c) Davits, which are capable of swinging the boats into the lowering position without the application of any effort or external force other than that necessary to operate the releasing mechanism, allowing the lifeboat to move from the stowed position to the lowering position by the force of gravity, shall be provided to handle all lifeboats the total weight of which, including air tanks and lifeboat equipment, but without the complement of persons on board, exceeds 5,000 pounds.

(d) No davit arm or frame comprising mechanical or gravity davits shall be placed on board any vessel until all the requirements of this section and Subpart 160.032 of Subchapter Q (Specifications) of this chapter have been met.

(e) Whenever mechanical or gravity davits or parts of davits, such as davit arms, or frames, are installed on vessels, to take the place of davits, davit arms, or frames which have been damaged or broken, such davits or frames shall have the manufacturer's name plate affixed thereto.

§ 33.10–5 Mechanical means for lowering—TB/ALL. (a) When mechanical means for lowering lifeboats are installed on tank vessels where the height of a boat deck exceeds 20 feet from the lightest seagoing draft, wire falls and mechanical means for lowering shall be provided for each set of davits.

(b) Winches proposed for use in new installations shall be of an approved type and constructed in accordance with Subpart 160.015 of Subchapter Q (Specifications) of this chapter.

(c) Suitable fabric covers shall be provided, so fitted over exposed mechanisms, that ice formations may be readily broken adrift when necessary to operate the winch.

(d) Installation and tests: Mechanical means for lowering shall be so located that the operator can observe the movement of the lifeboat during the lowering operation. The lead of the falls to the winch shall be such that the distance from the centerline of the winch drum to the center of the nearest block is not less than 8 feet. Upon the completion of the installation of all mechanical means for lowering lifeboats, and before the vessel is certificated for service, the following tests and examinations shall be made in the presence of an inspector:

(1) Swing lifeboat out from chocks and lower to level for loading, at which point lifeboat shall be loaded with dead weight equivalent to the number of persons allowed (165 pounds per person) together with weight of equipment, plus 10 percent of the total load. The boat should then be lowered to water, stopping at approximately 6-foot intervals by action of the counterweight alone. During this test the following observations should be made:

(i) Brake action shall be smooth, but positive. Brakes exposed to the weather shall also be tested under the load lowering condition with the braking surface wetted.

(ii) Counterweight shall be capable of stopping and holding boat when released.

(iii) Winch shall be capable of controlling the speed of lowering. This should not in general exceed 100 feet per minute.

(iv) No part of lowering gear shall show any distress under load.

(v) Deck under winch and davits must be of sufficient strength to prevent any undue stress of the deck under lead.

(vi) Mechanical davits shall swing to extreme outboard position without slacking winch brake.

(vii) Action of governor brake and lowering speed permitted by same should be noted.

(viii) Determine that falls are of sufficient length to lower lifeboats to light load line with vessel listed to 15° either way.

(2) If nested boats are used, the hand operated quick recovery mechanism shall be tested and the action must be easy enough to permit one man to recover falls.

(3) A report of the results of the installation tests covering all the above points shall be recorded.

§ 33.10–10 Blocks and falls—TB/ALL. Blocks and falls installed after May 1, 1942, shall conform to the following requirements:

(a) All blocks, falls, fairleads, padeyes, fastenings, etc., used in connection with lifeboat gear shall be designed with a minimum factor of safety of six, based on the maximum working load.

(b) Where mechanical means for lowering are required, not more than two-part falls shall be used, except in specific cases where three-part falls may be accepted.

(c) Wire rope falls of 6 x 19 regular lay filler wire construction prelubricated at the factory with suitable neutral wire rope lubricant shall be accepted as standard. Any other type of wire superior or equally as good as the minimum standard specified may be used.

(d) Falls shall be of such length that the lifeboat may be lowered to the water at the lightest seagoing draft with the vessel listed to 15°.

(e) All ocean and coastwise vessels and all other vessels of over 1,000 gross tons, not fitted with mechanical means for lowering, shall be provided with covered tubs, boxes, or reels for stowage of falls and with suitable lowering bitts in easily accessible positions; except that all ocean and coastwise, self-propelled vessels of over 1,000 gross tons, not fitted with mechanical means for lowering for which contracts for construction are let on or after September 2, 1945, shall be fitted with cruciform bitts in such position as will render lowering practicable.

(f) Where more than one lifeboat is served by the same set of davits, if the falls are of manila rope, separate falls shall be provided to serve each lifeboat.

(g) Such blocks as are necessary to allow the falls to lead fair in all positions of the davit shall be fitted. Where mechanical means for lowering are provided, there shall be at least 8 feet between the center of the drum and the center of the nearest sheave. Sheaves for wire rope shall have a diameter at the base of the groove at least equal to 12 times the diameter of the rope.

(h) There shall be ample clearance between the cheeks of blocks in which manila rope is used. The width between the cheeks shall be half an inch greater than the diameter of new ropes when those ropes are 3¾ inches in circumference or greater; blocks for smaller ropes shall be designed with clearance in the same proportion.

(i) Means for lubrication shall be provided for all moving parts of blocks.

§ 33.10–15 Disengaging apparatus—T/OC (a) Lifeboats on ocean and coastwise tank ships shall be fitted with suitable disengaging apparatus. Mechanical disengaging apparatus, if fitted, shall be of an approved type and constructed in accordance with subpart 160.033 of Subchapter Q (Specifications) of this chapter.

(b) Where lifeboats on ocean or coastwise tank ships of over 3,000 gross tons, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, are fitted with mechanical disengaging apparatus, such apparatus shall be so arranged as to make it possible for the lifeboats to be launched while such vessels are under way or stopped, and for both ends of the lifeboat to be released simultaneously, under tension, by one person. The gears shall be capable of being released from one position in the lifeboat while the boat is fully loaded with allowed persons and equipment. Simultaneous release shall be effected by partially rotating a shaft which shall be continuous and extend from point of contact with the hooks.

(c) Replacements to equipment on ocean or coastwise tank ships of over 3,000 gross tons, the construction or conversion of which was started prior to July 1, 1951, shall comply with the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section if the lifeboat being replaced is fitted with mechanical disengaging apparatus.

Lyle gun type line-throwing appliances in service on or before July 1, 1951, may be continued in use so long as in good and serviceable condition: Provided, That any replacements shall be made with a line-throwing appliance of the shoulder gun type or the impulse-projected rocket type.

(d) Service use of rockets shall be within four years from date of manufacture.

§ 33.55–5 Accessibility—T/OC. The line-throwing appliance and its equipment shall be kept always easily and immediately accessible and ready for use. No part of this equipment shall be used for any other purpose.

§ 33.55–10 Equipment for line-throwing applicances—T/OC. The equipment enumerated below is required to be carried with the various types of line-throwing appliances:

(a) Impulse-projected rocket type. Four (4) rockets (2 of which shall be of the buoyant type), 4 primer-ejector cartridges, 4 service lines (each 1,000 feet of 7/32-inch to 9/32-inch diameter flax or manila, having not less than 500 pounds breaking strength, in faking boxes or reels), 1 can of oil, 1 cleaning brush, 12 wiping patches, and 1 set of instructions furnished by the manufacturer of the gun, all in a suitable case or box with the appliance, with the auxiliary line (1,500 feet of 3-inch circumference manila) accessible for use either in the case or nearby.

(b) Shoulder gun type. Ten (10) service projectiles, 4 service lines (each 400 feet of 3/8-inch circumference flax or cotton line, having not less than 250 pounds breaking strength, in faking boxes or reels), 25 cartridges, 1 cleaning rod with brush, 1 can of oil, 12 wiping patches, and 1 set of instructions, all in a suitable case or box with the gun, with an auxiliary line (500 feet of 3-inch circumference manila) accessible for use.

(c) Lyle gun type on existing tank vessels. Six (6) service projectiles, 4 service lines (each 1,700 feet of 7/32-inch to 9/32-inch diameter flax or manila, having not less than 500 pounds breaking strength, in faking boxes or reels), 1 auxiliary line (1,500 feet of 3-inch circumference manila), 1 approved firing attachment (with accessories consisting of lanyard, wrench, washer to fit between barrel and shoulder of firing attachment, blank plug for screwing into gun when firing attachment is not in place, cartridge extractor, and 25 primers in watertight metal box), 18 bags (2½ ounces each) of black powder marked "One-half normal charge for Lyle gun, 2½ ounces black powder" in nonferrous metal screw top container, 25 paper wads, 1 ram rod, 1 wire brush, 1 can light petrolatum, 12 wiping patches, 1 tapered wooden plug for muzzle of gun when not in use, and 1 set of instructions furnished by the manufacturer of the gun, all in a suitable box or chest with the gun.

§ 33.55–15 Service recommendations—T/OC. The following precautions and procedure are recommended for the use of line-throwing appliances and equipment:

(a) Impulse-projected rocket type. Follow the operating instructions and safety precautions furnished by the manufacturer.

(b) Shoulder gun type. Follow the operating instructions and safety precautions furnished by the manufacturer.

(c) Lyle gun type on existing tank vessels. (1) Service powder charge should be about 5 ounces of black powder, and the powder bags should be furnished to the vessel containing 2½ ounces of black powder and marked "one-half normal charge." Under extraordinary circumstances, 7½ ounces (three 2½-ounce bags) of black powder may be used.

(2) In making the line fast to the shank, pass it through the eye and take three or more half-hitches around its own part, leaving a loop of about 10 to 12 inches and taking the hitches about 6 inches apart. This will allow the line to slip slightly through the eye of the shank before the hitches fetch up, thus easing the strain on the line at the loop during the initial acceleration.

(3) A considerable bight led over the side is recommended wherever possible, as it will tend to lessen the jerk on the line at initial acceleration.

(4) At least a fathom of the line from the shank should be thoroughly wet before using to prevent burning.

(5) The faking box or reel should always be faced in the direction of the line of fire and placed abreast of the gun and as close to ship's side as possible. It is not advisable to place the line too close to the muzzle of the gun, as the concussion may lift several layers or coils from the top, causing a snarl which in turn may cause the line to part.

(6) Care should be taken in placing the equipment to prevent fouling of the line in rigging, ridge ropes, etc., which have a tendency to rise or jump up when the gun is fired.

(7) Having made the gun and equipment ready for use, the following procedure in firing is recommended: select a place where the gun may recoil without striking anything, or where it may be securely lashed down. Note the position of the vessel to be relieved, and the direction and approximate force of the wind, and then place the gun in position, making allowance for the drift of the line. Place the line on the windward side of the gun and about 3 feet from it. Make the line fast in the eye of the shank and insert the powder charge, projectile, and primer. In loading, make sure that the projectile is seated against the wad.

(8) After using, the line should be thoroughly dried before rewinding or faking.

§ 34.10–1 Fire pumps required—T/ALL. All tank ships shall be provided with pumps available for use as fire pumps, as follows:

(a) Tank ships of 500 gross tons and under shall be equipped with an efficient hand pump capable of delivering 50 gallons per minute or a power-driven pump of equivalent capacity: Provided, That on tank ships of 20 gross tons or under where it is impracticable to install a hand or power-operated fire pump, or on tank ships with only one man in the crew, at least one additional 15-pound CO_2 or the equivalent fire extinguisher may be accepted in lieu of a fire pump.

(b) Tank ships of more than 500 gross tons shall be provided with independently driven power pumps as follows:

Over 500 and not over 1,000 gross tons	1 pump.
Over 1,000 gross tons	2 pumps.

§ 34.10–5 Capacity of fire pumps; tank ships of more than 500 gross tons—T/ALL. (a) The capacity of the combined fire pump installation shall be one-fifth gallon per minute per gross ton of the tank ship. The maximum total fire pump capacity required for any tank ship shall be 800 gallons per minute.

(b) Fire pumps on tank ships of more than 500 gross tons shall be capable of delivering two powerful jets of water simultaneously from the highest outlets on the fire main at a Pitot tube pressure of approximately 50 pounds per square inch through nozzle, each having an orifice of not less than ⅞ inch diameter, where the internal diameter of the hose exceeds 1½ inches, and not less than ⅝ inch diameter, where the internal diameter of the hose does not exceed 1½ inches.

(c) While arranged with permanent connections to the fire main the pumps may be utilized also for other purposes, provided that one of the required pumps is kept available for immediate use on the fire system. In no case, however, shall a pump having connection to oil lines be used as a fire pump.

§ 34.10–10 Type of fire pumps—T/ALL. Tank ships are not restricted to any particular type or proportions for fire pumps.

§ 34.10–15 Location of fire pumps—T/ALL. On oil-burning tank ships, provided with two fire pumps, where the engine and firerooms are not entirely separated by iron or steel bulkheads, or if fuel can drain from fireroom bilges into the engine room, one of the fire pumps shall be located in an accessible space separate from the machinery compartment.

§ 34.10–20 Fire pump relief valves and piping—T/ALL. (a) Fire pumps shall be fitted on the discharge side with a relief valve and a pressure gage to indicate the pressure on the fire main. Except when the fire pumps are being used in tank cleaning operations, the relief valves shall be set to relieve at 25 pounds higher than the pressure necessary to maintain the requirements of § 34.10–5 (b) of this part. If the fire pumps operating under shut-off conditions are not capable of producing a pressure exceeding 125 pounds per square inch, the relief valves may be omitted.

(b) Suction pipes for all fire pumps shall be so arranged as to have an area of opening sufficiently large to supply water when the pumps are working at full capacity.

(c) The size of the discharge pipe leading from fire pumps shall in no case be less than that of the discharge opening of the pump, and in no case shall it be less than 1½ inches in internal diameter.

(d) The pipe, valves, fittings, and construction of fire lines shall conform to the rules and regulations contained in Part 55 of Subchapter F (Marine Engineering) of this chapter.

§ 34.10–25 Fire hydrants—T/ALL. (a) Fire hydrants shall be of sufficient number and so arranged that any part of the living quarters, weather decks, machinery spaces and any parts of cargo decks accessible to the crew while at sea may be reached with a single 50 foot length of hose.

(b) Hose connections shall be brass or composition material.

(c) Outlet openings shall have a diameter of not less than 1½ inches.

(d) All fire hydrants shall be equipped with hose spanners.

(e) The arrangement of the fire hydrant shall be limited to any position from the horizontal to the vertical pointing downward, so that the hose will lead downward or horizontally, in order to minimize the possibility of kinking. In no case will a hydrant arranged in a vertical position with the outlet pointing upward be accepted.

§ 34.10–30 Fire hose—T/ALL. (a) Fire hose shall be connected to the outlet at all times except on open decks, where the location of the fire hydrants is such that no protection is afforded for the hose in heavy weather.

(b) The fire hose may be temporarily removed when it will interfere with the landing of cargo.

(c) Each fire hose shall be provided with a suitable nozzle.

(d) Fire hose, when part of the fire equipment, shall not be used for any other purpose than fire extinguishing, fire drills, and testing.

(e) Fire hose shall be drained and stowed in its proper place immediately after being used.

§ 34.10–35 All purpose nozzles.—T/ALL. At least twenty-five percent of the hydrants shall be fitted with approved combination nozzles which can project a solid stream or a fog spray or can be shut off. Each such nozzle shall be equipped with a high velocity fog spray tip, a fitting for projecting a low velocity fog spray, and a self-cleaning strainer attached to the fire hydrant either directly or by means of a short length of hose or a self-cleaning strainer contained within the nozzle. The all-purpose nozzles shall be located about the vessel to best cover areas where oil fires would most likely occur.

§ 34.10–40 Spray nozzles—T/ALL. (a) Fire hose lines in boiler and machinery spaces of vessels of 3,000 gross tons or over, except vessels driven by electric motors, shall be provided with at least two suitable nozzles of an approved type which are capable of effectively extinguishing oil fires. This equipment shall be kept in efficient condition and ready for use at all times.

(b) The use of approved all purpose nozzles, as described in § 34.10–35 is acceptable in boiler and machinery spaces provided the nozzle is equipped with an applicator having an approved low velocity water fog spray head attached. For any installation where the use of the fog nozzle and auxiliary applicator is contemplated, the standard portable self-cleaning hose strainer shall be included in the equipment.

SUBPART 34.15—CARGO SPACES ON TANK SHIPS

§ 34.15–1 General requirements for cargo spaces—T/ALL. (a) Every tank ship shall be provided with suitable pipes and valves attached to the boiler to convey steam into the hold and into the different compartments thereof, and into the fuel tanks, to extinguish fire, or equipped with other suitable apparatus as provided by the regulations in this subchapter.

(b) The valves on steam and carbon dioxide fire-extinguishing systems shall be plainly marked to indicate the compartment into which they discharge. Such smothering pipes shall enter the tank at a point above the highest liquid level at which cargo is carried.

§ 34.15–5 Systems which may be substituted for steam in cargo spaces—T/ALL. On tank ships, foam, gases, or vapors, or any other effective fire-extinguishing system may be substituted for steam, provided such system, if fixed, is completely installed in accordance with approved drawings and specifications. Such systems may be portable, semiportable, or fixed, and may be of more than one type, provided its total capacity equals the requirements of the regulations in this subchapter: Provided, however, That carbon tetrachloride may be used for fighting fire in cargo spaces allowing 1 quart of carbon tetrachloride for each 225 cubic feet of space, upon approval of the Commandant only. In no case will carbon tetrachloride be allowed for fighting fire in cargo spaces on tank ships where the volume of the largest cargo compartment exceeds 6,300 cubic feet.

§ 34.15–10 Minimum capacity of fire-extinguishing systems for cargo spaces—T/ALL—(a) Steam, inert-gas or vapor system. The minimum capacity of a fire system for cargo spaces shall be based upon the volume of the largest cargo compartments, in cubic feet, which shall be determined by measurements taken between fire-retarding boundaries such as decks, shells, tank bottoms, and bulkheads.

(b) Foam system. The minimum capacity of a fire system for cargo spaces shall be based upon the largest superficial liquid area obtainable in any tank within the range of usual trim.

§ 34.15–15 Basic requirements of fire-extinguishing systems for cargo spaces—T/ALL—(a) Steam system. Steam for fire-extinguishing systems shall be available from the main boilers or from a donkey or auxiliary boiler or from a shore source having a minimum capacity equivalent to 1 square foot of heating surface for each 300 cubic feet of the largest compartment in which cargo is carried. This requirement shall be based upon a rate of evaporation of 6 pounds of steam per hour per square foot of heating surface from and at 212° F. medium steaming. Equivalent values of heating surface will be permitted for boilers having rates of evaporation differing from that herein specified.

(b) Inert-gas or vapor system. At least one pound of carbon dioxide or its equivalent of other inert gas or vapor for each 30 cubic feet of gross volume of the largest cargo compartment as defined in § 34.15–10 (a), discharged at the rate of 1 pound of carbon dioxide or its equivalent of other inert gas per minute for each 150 cubic feet of cargo space.

(c) Foam system. At least a 6-inch layer of foam delivered uniformly over the largest superficial liquid area as defined in § 34.15–10 (b); discharged at the rate of not less than 10 cubic feet of foam per minute per 100 square feet of surface to be covered.

(d) Provision against freezing. Provision shall be made for draining the manifold and individual lines of fire-extinguishing systems for cargo spaces to protect them against freezing.

§ 34.15–20 Steam fire-extinguishing system for cargo spaces—T/ALL. (a) A steam pressure of at least 100 pounds per square inch shall be maintained for fire-extinguishing purposes. Where the maximum allowable boiler working pressure will not permit of this, or where steam from a shore plant is being used, the maximum steam pressure permitted by the operating boiler pressure limitations shall be provided for this purpose.

(b) Where steam fire-extinguishing systems are fitted on tank ships, the master valve control mechanism shall be located in an easily accessible place above the freeboard deck as defined in § 43.1 (g) of Subchapter E (Load Lines) of this chapter. The main lines shall have sufficient area to supply all the individual lines to the largest tank and the tanks adjacent thereto, and the valves on the branch lines to the tanks shall be left open at all times so that, in case of fire, it will be necessary only to open the master valve to insure a flow of steam into each hold or tank, after which the valves leading to tanks which are not on fire may be closed: Provided, That where the opening of such branch line valve may cause contamination of cargo or cause the passage of gases or vapors between tanks or compartments, they may be kept closed.

(c) Steam smothering lines shall be tested with at least 50 pounds of air pressure or by blowing steam through the lines and a survey made for detecting corrosion and defects using hammer test or such other means as may be necessary.

(d) The minimum diameter of any steam fire-extinguishing pipe to any fuel oil tank shall be 1 inch.

§ 34.15–25 Inert-gas or vapor fire-extinguishing system for cargo spaces—T/ALL. (a) The piping for inert-gas or vapor fire-extinguishing system shall comply with the requirements of Part 55 of Subchapter F (Marine Engineering) of this chapter.

(b) At annual inspections, all carbon dioxide (CO_2) cylinders, whether fixed or portable, shall be examined externally and replaced if any corrosion is found; and they shall also be checked by weighing to determine their contents, and if found to be more than 10 percent under the required contents of carbon dioxide, they shall be recharged.

§ 34.15–30 Foam fire-extinguishing system for cargo spaces—T/ALL. (a) The piping for a foam fire-extinguishing system shall comply with the requirements in Part 55 of Subchapter F (Marine Engineering) of this chapter.

(b) If the foam system is of the fixed type, the apparatus and chemicals shall be contained in a fire-resistant compartment protected from the weather and where the operator will be shielded from fire and smoke.

(c) If the foam system is of the portable type the apparatus and chemicals shall be stowed in a readily accessible place protected from the weather.

§ 34.15–35 Flue gas fire-extinguishing systems for cargo spaces—T/ALL. Inert-gas system for extinguishing fires in cargo spaces, where the source of the inert gas is the stack or a furnace for producing such inert gas shall be considered as complying with the regulations in this subchapter, provided such system shall have the approval of the Commandant as reqired in § 34.15–5.

§ 34.15–40 Fire-extinguishing systems for dry cargo spaces, lamp and paint rooms, pump rooms, etc., on tank ships constructed on or after July 1, 1951—T/ALL. On tank ships, the construction or conversion of which is started on or after July 1, 1951, steam, inert-gas, foam, or vapor systems shall be provided for extinguishing fires in dry cargo spaces, lamp and paint rooms, pump rooms, or similar compartments, and should, where practicable, be run independent of the extinguishing systems for the main bulk cargo tanks. In cases where vessel arrangements make this requirement impracticable, valves shall be installed between the main bulk tank extinguishing system and the other compartments served. These valves are to be marked: "This valve to be kept closed except in case of fire."

§ 34.15–45 Fire-extinguishing systems for dry cargo spaces, lamp and paint rooms, etc., on tank ships constructed before July 1, 1951—T/ALL. On tank ships, the construction or conversion of which is started before July 1, 1951, steam, inert-gas, foam, or vapor systems shall be provided for extinguishing fires in dry cargo spaces, lamp and paint rooms, or similar compartments, and should, where practicable, be run independent of the extinguishing systems for the main bulk cargo tanks. In cases where vessel arrangements make this requirement impracticable, valves shall be installed between the main bulk tank extinguishing system and the other compartments served. These valves are to be marked: "This valve to be kept closed except in case of fire."

§ 34.15–50 Fireproofing of lamp, oil, and paint rooms—T/ALL. Lamp, oil, and paint rooms in all classes of vessels shall be wholly and tightly lined with metal.

§ 34.15–55 Interconnection between fixed carbon dioxide systems—T/ALL. When carbon dioxide equipment is provided for cargo spaces and also for boiler and machinery spaces, it shall be so interconnected that the entire equipment may be used for fighting fire in any one of such spaces.

SUBPART 34.20—PUMP ROOM, BOILER ROOM, AND MACHINERY SPACES ON TANK SHIPS

§ 34.20–1 Fixed fire-extinguishing systems for boiler room and machinery spaces—T/ALL. Fixed fire-extinguishing systems, when installed in boiler rooms or machinery spaces of tank ships, shall be fitted with equipment of the type and character specified as follows:

(a) Carbon dioxide system requirements. (1) When a carbon dioxide smothering system is installed in the boiler room of steam-propelled tank ships, the quantity of carbon dioxide carried shall not be less than that determined by the following formula:

W = weight of CO_2 required, in pounds.
L = length of the boiler room, in feet.
B = breadth of the boiler room, in feet.
D = distance in feet from tank top to highest point of shell of fire tube boilers, or top of drum or casing, whichever is highest on water tube boilers.

(2) When a carbon dioxide smothering system is installed in the machinery space of vessels which are propelled by internal-combustion engines, the quantity of carbon dioxide carried shall not be less than that determined by the following formula:

$$W = \frac{L \times B \times D}{22} \quad (2)$$

W = weight of CO_2 required, in pounds.
L = length of the machinery space, in feet.
B = breadth of the machinery space, in feet.
D = distance in feet from tank top to top of engine.

(3) All tank ships propelled by internal-combustion engines using gasoline as fuel shall be fitted with a fixed carbon dioxide smothering system in the engine room space.

(4) The whole charge of gas shall be capable of being released simultaneously by operating one valve and control; such valve or control shall be adequately protected to avoid the accidental discharge of gas. All cylinders shall be completely discharged in not more than 2 minutes. The arrangement of the piping shall be such as to give a general and fairly uniform distribution over the entire area protected. A suitable alarm shall be provided to operate automatically when the control valve is operated, and shall be located in the area protected. Provision shall be made to prevent the admission of air into the lower parts of the area protected when the system is in operation.

(b) Foam smothering system requirements. (1) When a foam type system is fitted, its capacity shall be such as to discharge rapidly over the entire area of the bilge (tank top) of the largest boiler room a volume of foam 6 inches deep. The arrangement of piping shall be such as to give a uniform distribution over the entire area protected.

(2) The foregoing system may be of a type employing either two-solution tanks or one or more generators using an approved dry chemical mixture. All containers and valves by which they are operated shall be easily accessible and so placed that they will not readily be cut off from use by an outbreak of fires.

(3) When a semiportable foam generator using a dry chemical mixture in conjunction with the fire line is provided, stop valves, which may be closed in case of a rupture of the fire line, shall be installed in such line, and a connection for at least two fire hoses shall be provided aft of the after stop valve: Provided, however, That foam generators will not be allowed on any tank vessels unless at least one fire pump of suitable capacity is located or can be controlled outside of the space to be protected.

(c) Combined boiler room and machinery space. Where the boiler room is not entirely separated from the machinery space by a fire-resistive bulkhead, both compartments shall be considered to be one space for the purpose of determining the amount of foam or inert gas necessary.

§ 34.20–5 Interconnection between fixed carbon dioxide systems—T/ALL. Where fixed carbon dioxide equipment is provided for boiler and machinery spaces and also for cargo spaces, it shall be so interconnected that the entire equipment may be used for fighting fire in any one of such spaces.

§ 34.20–10 Fire-extinguishing equipment, other than fixed, for boiler room and machinery spaces—T/ALL. The minimum requirements for fire-fighting equipment on all tank ships which are not fitted with fixed fire-extinguishing systems in boiler room and machinery spaces shall be of the type and character specified as follows:

§ 35.01-1 Inspection prior to making repairs involving riveting, welding, burning, etc.—TB/ALL. (a) Riveting, welding, burning or like fire-producing operations shall not be undertaken within or on the boundaries of bulk cargo spaces or in spaces adjacent thereto, until an inspection has been made to determine that such operations can be undertaken with safety.

(b) Such inspection shall be made and evidenced as follows:

(1) When in a port in the continental United States, this inspection shall be made by a gas chemist certificated by the American Bureau of Shipping; however, if the services of such certified gas chemist are not reasonably available, the marine inspector, upon recommendation of the vessel owner and his contractor, or their representatives, shall select a person who, in the case of an individual vessel, shall be authorized to make the inspection. If the inspection indicates that such operations can be undertaken with safety, a certificate setting forth that fact in writing and qualified as may be required shall be issued by the certified gas chemist or the authorized person before the work is started.

(2) When not in such a port, this inspection shall be made by the senior officer present, who shall make an appropriate entry in the tank vessel's log book.

§ 35.01-5 Sanitary condition and crew quarters—T/ALL. (a) It shall be the duty of the master and chief engineer of every tank ship to see that such vessel and crew's quarters are kept in a sanitary condition.

(b) Crew quarters shall be kept in sanitary condition by daily cleaning and removal of rubbish, and by painting at regular intervals as needed. Floors shall be maintained in good condition to facilitate cleaning. Lighting, heating, and ventilation in quarters shall be maintained in satisfactory condition: Provided, however, That forced ventilation when installed may be closed down during transfer of cargo.

(c) Repairs or changes in electric wiring shall only be made with the approval of the chief engineer.

§ 35.01-10 Shipping papers—TB/ALL. Each loaded tank vessel shall have on board a bill of lading, manifest, or shipping document giving the name of the consignee and the location of the delivery point, the kind, grades, and approximate quantity of each kind and grade of cargo, and for whose account the cargo is being handled. The tank vessel shall not be delayed in order to secure exact quantities of cargo. Such manifests or bills of lading may be made out by the master, master of the towing vessel, owner, or agent of the owner: Provided, however, That in the case of unmanned barges where shipping papers are not available, an entry in the logbook of the towing vessel giving the name of the shipper and location of shipping point, the name of the consignee and location of delivery point, the approximate kind, grade, and quantity of cargo in each barge of the tow, and for whose account the cargo is being handled, shall be considered as complying with the requirements of this section.

§ 35.01-15 Carriage of persons other than crew—TB/ALL. No person not connected with the operation of a tank ship or tank barge or not having legitimate business with said vessel, shall be permitted aboard while vessel is under way unless specifically allowed by its certificate.

SUBPART 35.05—OFFICERS AND CREWS

§ 35.05-1 Licensed officers and crews of tank ships—T/ALL. No tank ship of the United States shall be navigated unless she shall have in her service and on board such complement of licensed officers and crew, including certificated lifeboatmen and certificated tankermen where required by the regulations in this subchapter, separately stated, as called for in her certificate of inspection.

§ 35.05-5 Master required on tank ships—T/ALL. There shall be a duly licensed master on board every tank ship of more than 150 gross tons, whenever such tank ship is under way.

§ 35.05-10 Pilot required on tank ships—T/LBR. (a) No tank ship shall be navigated unless she shall have in her service and on board either a licensed master or pilot as called for in her certificate of inspection.

(b) The navigation of every tank ship above 150 gross tons shall be under the control of a first-class pilot, and every such pilot shall be limited in his license to the particular service for which he is adapted.

(c) A first-class pilot or a second-class pilot who has reached the age of 21 years may act as master or pilot in charge of the navigation of a tank ship not exceeding 150 gross tons. A second-class pilot is authorized to act as pilot in charge of a watch on any tank ship within the tonnage specified in his license.

§ 35.05-15 Watchman for a tank barge—B/ALL—(a) Manned barge. At least one member of the crew of a manned tank barge shall be on board at all times except when the vessel is gas free or is moored at a dock or terminal at which watchman service is provided.

(b) Unmanned barge. On each normally unmanned barge in tow a strict watch shall be kept at all times from the towing vessel while the vessel is under way, and the same shall apply at all times while the barge is moored at a dock unless the barge is gas free or watchman service is provided or unless reasonable precaution is taken to prevent unauthorized persons from boarding the barge. These watchmen may be members of the regular complement of the towing vessel.

§ 35.05-20 Physical condition of crew—TB/ALL. No person shall be engaged as a member of the crew on a tank vessel if he is known by the employer to be physically or mentally incapable of performing the duties assigned him.

§ 35.05-25 Illness, alcohol, drugs—TB/ALL. (a) No person, known by the individual in charge of a tank vessel to be under the influence of liquor or other stimulant, or to be ill to such an extent as to unfit him for any particular service on the tank vessel, shall be allowed to perform such service while in such condition.

(b) When a member of the crew of a tank vessel which is loading bulk cargo of Grade A, B, or C arrives at the gangway and is observed to be in an intoxicated condition, he shall not be permitted to board the vessel without escort.

SUBPART 35.10—FIRE AND EMERGENCY REQUIREMENTS

§ 35.10-1 Station bills, muster lists, and line-throwing appliance drills—T/ALL. (a) It shall be the duty of the master of every tank ship over 500 gross tons to cause station bills and muster lists to be prepared before the vessel sails, which shall be signed by the master, who shall be responsible for their preparation. The station bills and muster lists shall be posted in conspicuous places in several parts of the tank ship, particularly in the crew's quarters, and must contain full particulars of the signals which will be used for calling the crew to their stations for emergency duties. Special duties shall be allotted to each member of the crew and the muster list shall show all these special duties and indicate the station to which each man must go and the duties he has to perform. The special duties should, as far as possible, be comparable to the regular work of the individual.

(b) The duties provided for by the muster lists should include:

(1) The closing of airports, watertight doors, fire doors, and fire screens, the covers and all valves of all scuppers, sanitary and other discharges which lead through the ship's hull below the margin line, and stopping the fans and ventilating systems.

(2) The extinction of fire.

(3) The equipment of lifeboats, life rafts, and buoyant apparatus and their preparation for launching.

(c) The master of a tank ship equipped with a line-carrying gun shall drill his crew in its use every 3 months, but the actual firing of the gun on the tank ship shall be discretionary with the master. Each drill shall be recorded in the ship's log book.

§ 35.10-5 Emergency signals; fire and lifeboat drills—T/ALL. (a) The general fire-alarm signal shall be continuous rapid ringing of the ship's bell for a period not less than 10 seconds supplemented by the continuous ringing of the general alarm bells for not less than 10 seconds. For dismissal from fire-alarm stations, the general alarm bells should be sounded three times, supplemented by three short blasts of the whistle. The signal for lifeboat drill or lifeboat stations shall be more than six short blasts and one long blast of the whistle, supplemented by the same signal on the general alarm bells. Where whistle signals are used to direct the handling of lifeboats they shall be as follows:

(1) To lower lifeboats, one short blast of the whistle.

(2) To stop lowering the lifeboats, two short blasts of the whistle.

(3) For dismissal from lifeboat stations, three short blasts of the whistle: Provided, That on river tank ships the whistle signals specified herein may be made on the ship's bell.

(b) The master of any tank ship may establish such other emergency signal, in addition to the above, as will provide that all the officers and all the crew of the tank ship will have positive and certain notice of the existing emergency.

(c) The master may organize a squad to be used for emergency duties (other than a general emergency), or crew practices, and the nature of the signals or other means for assembling the squad remains within the discretion of the master. Such signals should not conflict with the navigational signals or the signals used for a general alarm.

(d) It shall be the duty of the master, or the mate, or officer next in command, once at least in each week, to call all hands to quarters and exercise them in discipline, and (weather permitting), in the unlashing and swinging out of the lifeboats, the closing of all hand- or power-operated watertight doors which are in use at sea, closing all fire doors and fire screens, the use of fire pumps, and all other apparatus for the safety of life on board of such vessels with special regard for the drill of the crew in the method of adjusting life preservers, and to see that all the equipments required by law are in complete working order for immediate use. The fact of exercise of the crew as herein contemplated, shall be entered upon the ship's log book.

(e) This section relating to fire and lifeboat drills contemplates that such drills shall be conducted precisely as though an emergency existed. To accomplish the purpose of this section, lifeboat covers and strongbacks shall be removed, plugs or caps put in place, boat ladders secured in position for use, painters carried forward and tended so as to provide a good lead and slack to hold the boat in position under the davits when in the water. The person in charge of each lifeboat or life raft should have a list of its crew and should see that the men under his orders are acquainted with their several duties. The motor and the hand-operated propeller gear of each lifeboat shall be operated for a period of not less than 5 minutes once at least in every 7 days, in order that it may be ready for service at any time. Such operation shall be made a part of the report of such drill. The hand pumps and fire pump shall be operated long enough and a sufficient number of outlets used to insure that such equipment is in order and effectual. When oxygen-breathing apparatus, gas masks, or other special equipment is carried, certain members of the crew shall be trained in the use of the equipment.

(f) The entries in the ship's log book relating to the exercise of the crew in fire and lifeboat drills shall state the day of the month and the hour when so exercised, length of time of the drill, number of the lifeboats swung out, number of lengths of fire hose used, and a statement of the condition of all fire and lifesaving apparatus.

(g) Any neglect or omission on the part of the officer in command of such vessels to strictly enforce the provisions of this section shall be deemed cause for proceedings under the provisions of R. S. 4450, as amended (46 U. S. C. 239), looking to a suspension or revocation of the license of such officer.

(h) It shall be the duty of the master to require the officers and crew of all tank ships to perform the aforesaid drills and discipline in the presence of marine inspectors at intervals sufficiently frequent to assure the said inspectors, by actual observance, that the foregoing requirements of this section are complied with by the officers and the crew.

(i) A copy of this section shall be furnished to each tank ship to which it applies. This placard form shall be framed under glass and posted in a conspicuous place.

§ 35.10-10 Posting placard containing instructions regarding use of breeches buoy—T/OCL. A placard, Form CG 811, containing instructions for the use of breeches buoy gear shall be posted in the pilothouse, engine room, and seamen's, firemen's and steward's departments of every tank ship of 150 gross tons or over navigating ocean or coastwise routes or the Great Lakes.

The regulations covering the transportation in portable tanks of liquefied petroleum gases are contained in Parts 146 and 147 of Subchapter N (Explosives or Other Dangerous Articles on Board Vessels) of this chapter.

§ 38.01–5 Certificate of inspection—TB/ALL. The certificate of inspection shall be endorsed for the carriage of liquefied petroleum gases as follows:

Inspected and approved for the carriage of liquefied petroleum gases having vapor pressures not exceeding _____ lbs. per square inch gage at 115° F.

SUBPART 38.05—DESIGN AND INSTALLATION OF CARGO TANKS

§ 38.05–1 Design and construction—TB/ALL. (a) Cargo tanks shall meet the requirements for Class II arc welded unfired pressure vessels, fabricated, inspected, and tested in accordance with the applicable requirements of Parts 50 to 57, inclusive, of Subchapter F (Marine Engineering) of this chapter, except as provided otherwise in this part.

(b) Each cargo tank shall be designed for a pressure of not less than the vapor pressure, in pounds per square inch gage, of the gas at 115° F., but for not less than 100 pounds per square inch gage, except as provided in § 38.05–25.

(c) The shell and head thickness of any tank shall not be less than ¼ inch.

(d) Each tank shall be provided with a 15-inch by 18-inch or an 18-inch diameter, minimum, manhole fitted with a cover located above the maximum liquid level and as close to the top of the tank as possible. Where access trunks or necks are fitted to tanks, the diameter of the trunks or necks shall be 30 inches minimum.

§ 38.05–5 Markings — TB/ALL. (a) Upon satisfactory completion of tests and inspection, the inspector shall require the following marking, at least ⅜-inch high, to be stamped into the metal of the tank or stamped into a nonferrous plate permanently attached to the tank by means of welding or brazing, using high melting point brazing metal.

Name and address of manufacturer
_____ p. s. i. _____ p. s. i.
Design pressure Shop test pressure
_____ _____
Inspector's No. Initials and C. G. Symbol
_____ _____
Mfgr's Serial No. Date of manufacture
Water capacity, U. S. gallons

(b) In addition to the markings described in paragraph (a) of this section, the following inscription shall be placed on the tank or a corrosion-resistant plate containing these data shall be securely attached thereon:

This tank shall not contain a product having a vapor pressure in excess of _____ p. s. i. gage at 115° F.

A working space of not less than 15 inches shall be provided around and beneath each tank or else provision shall be made for moving such tanks to secure adequate space for the inspection and maintenance of the vessel's structure and tanks. See § 38.05–15 for additional requirements applicable only to tank barges.

(b) Tanks may be located in dry cargo holds or in other cargo tanks meeting the requirements for cofferdams as prescribed in § 32.60–10 (c) or § 32.65–15 and may be installed "on deck" or "under deck" with the tank protruding above deck. On installations where a portion of the tank extends above the weather deck, provision shall be made to maintain the weather tightness of the deck except that vessels operating on protected inland waters may have tanks located in the holds of hopper type barges without the watertightness of the deck being maintained.

(c) All tanks shall be installed with manhole openings and fittings located above the weather deck.

(d) Tanks shall be mounted on substantial steel saddles and securely fixed in place. Each tank shall be so supported as to prevent the concentration of excessive loads on the supporting portion of the shell.

(e) No strength welding employed in the attachment of supports, lugs, fittings, etc., shall be done on tanks that require and have been stress-relieved, except where specifically allowed by a marine inspector. The method to be employed in stress relieving strength field welds shall be approved by the Commandant.

§ 38.05–15 Cargo tanks on barges—B/ALL. Cargo tanks having a capacity of not more than 60,000 gallons may form part of the structure of a tank barge where adequate provision is made to prevent damage to tanks in the event of collision or grounding. Sides of all tank barges shall be fitted with suitable guards as an added precaution against the cargo tanks becoming damaged as a result of collision.

§ 38.05–20 Lagging — TB/ALL. (a) Lagged tanks shall be covered with an insulation material of a thickness so that the thermal conductance is not more than 0.075 B. t. u. per square foot, per degree Fahrenheit differential in temperature, per hour. The entire insulation above deck shall be covered with a sheet metal jacket sufficiently flashed around all openings so as to be weathertight.

(b) Where unlagged tanks are installed in insulated holds or 'tween deck spaces, such tanks shall be considered lagged provided the thermal conductance of the insulation is not more than that required by paragraph (a) of this section. On installations where part of the tank is installed in insulated holds or 'tween deck spaces, the tank shall be considered lagged provided the exposed part above the weather deck is insulated in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Where tanks are lagged only nonflammable lagging shall be employed.

§ 38.05–25 Refrigerated systems—TB/ALL. (a) Where a refrigerated system is installed to maintain the temperature of the liquid below atmospheric, the tanks shall be designed for a pressure which shall, at all times, be at least 25 pounds per square inch in excess of the vapor pressure (gage) corresponding to the temperature of the liquid at which the system is maintained.

(b) Auxiliary refrigeration equipment shall be provided, which shall be capable of maintaining the required temperature in the event of failure of the main refrigeration unit.

(c) The tank insulation shall be of sufficient thickness so that the thermal conductance is not more than 0.075 B. t. u. per sq. ft. per degree Fahrenheit differential in temperature, per hour. A steel insulation jacket of not less than 0.083" thickness shall be provided to cover the tank insulation above the weather deck.

§ 38.10–1 Valves and accessories—TB/ALL. (a) All shutoff valves and accessory equipment shall be of a type suitable for use with liquefied petroleum gases, and unless otherwise indicated herein, their pressure rating shall be not less than the maximum pressure for which the tank is designed.

(b) All connections to tanks, except safety relief valves and gaging devices, shall have shutoff valves located as close to the tank as practicable.

(c) Excess flow valves where required by these regulations shall close automatically at those rated flows of vapor or liquid as specified by the manufacturer. The piping, including valves, fittings and appurtenances, protected by an excess flow valve, shall have a greater capacity than the rated flow of the excess-flow valve.

(d) Liquid level gaging devices which are so constructed that outward flow of tank contents shall not exceed that passed by a No. 54 drill size opening, need not be equipped with excess flow valves.

(e) Pressure gage connections need not be equipped with excess flow valves if the openings are not larger than No. 54 drill size.

(f) Excess flow and back pressure check valves where required by the regulations in this part shall be located on the inside of the tank or outside where the piping enters the tank. In the latter case, installation shall be made in such manner that any undue strain will not cause breakage between the tank and the excess flow or back pressure check valve.

(g) Excess flow valves may be designed with a bypass, not to exceed a No. 60 drill size opening to allow equalization of pressure.

(h) Prior to disconnecting shore lines, the pressure in the liquid and vapor lines shall be relieved to atmosphere through suitable valves installed at the loading header.

(i) Relief valves shall be fitted in liquid lines which may be subject to excessive pressure caused by liquid full condition, and the escape piped to the venting system.

§ 38.10–5 Installation of excess flow valves and back pressure check valves—TB/ALL. (a) Filling connections shall be provided with a combination back pressure check valve and excess flow valve, two back pressure check valves, or a positive shutoff valve in conjunction with either a remote operating back pressure valve or an internal excess flow valve.

(b) All liquid and vapor connections to tanks except safety relief valves, liquid level gaging devices and pressure gages, described in § 38.10–1, shall be equipped with automatic excess flow valves, or in lieu thereof, may be fitted with quick closing stop valves, which, except during filling and discharge operations, shall remain closed. The control mechanism for such valves shall be provided with a secondary control which can be used to close the stop valves in case the liquid or vapor pipe is broken. In addition, such control mechanism shall be provided with a fusible plug, designed to melt between 208° F. and 220° F. which will cause the stop valve to close automatically in case of fire.

(c) Where the filling and discharge are made through a common nozzle at the tank, and the connection is fitted with a quick-closing stop valve as required in paragraph (b) of this section, the back-pressure check valve or excess-flow valve is not required, provided, however, a positive shut-off valve is installed in conjunction with the stop valve.

§ 38.10–10 Piping and fittings—TB/ALL. (a) All pipe connections shall be grouped in the smallest practicable space and shall be located near the highest point on the tank.

(b) All valves, fittings, accessories, safety devices, gaging devices, etc., which are directly attached to the tank shall be protected against mechanical damage.

(c) Valves, regulating, gaging, and other tank appurtenances on unmanned barges shall be protected against tampering.

(d) All piping, valves, and fittings shall be designed for a working pressure of not less than the vapor pressure (gage) of the gas at 115° F., or the maximum pressure to which the system may be subjected. In the case of piping on the discharge side of the liquid pumps or vapor compressors, the design pressure shall be not less than the pump or compressor discharge relief valve setting; or, provided the piping is not fitted with relief valves, the design pressure shall not be less than the total discharge head of the pump or compressor.

(e) Piping subject to tank pressure shall be either seamless drawn steel or electric resistance welded steel. All fittings shall be of not less than 300 pounds standard: Provided, That, in refrigerated tank systems designed for pressures lower than 150 p. s. i., 150-pound standard may be permitted.

(f) Cast iron shall not be employed in the construction of valves, flanges, or fittings.

(g) Valve seat material, packing, gaskets, etc., shall be resistant to the action of liquefied petroleum gas in the liquid phase.

(h) Where possible, provision shall be made for expansion and contraction of piping by means of seamless steel pipe expansion bends. Packless type bellows or corrugated expansion joints may be used, provided satisfactory evidence is shown that space limitations do not permit the use of expansion bends. Slip type expansion joints are prohibited. Suitable means shall be provided for controlling the expansion in the piping system.

(i) Piping shall be provided with means of support sufficient to take all the weight of the piping off the valves and fittings and to prevent excessive vibration.

§ 38.10–15 Safety relief valves—TB/ALL. (a) Each tank shall be fitted with one or more approved safety relief valves of either the internal or external spring loaded type.

(b) Each safety relief valve shall be set to start to discharge at a pressure not in excess of the design pressure of the tank.

(c) The safety relief valves shall have a relieving capacity sufficient to prevent a rise of pressure in the tank of more than 20 percent above the maximum design pressure when all the safety relief valves are blowing. The minimum required rates of discharge of safety relief valves shall not be less than that shown in table 38.10–15 (c).

[1] D=Outside diameter of tank in feet and fractions thereof, U=Over-all length of tank in feet and fractions thereof.

[2] For tank design pressures exceeding the minimum values shown in respective columns, use next higher figure.

[3] On tanks with design pressures exceeding 250 p. s. i. the safety relief valve minimum requirements for 250 p. s. i. design pressure may be used.

[4] For $D \times U$ over 620, discharge capacity shall be calculated in direct proportion to preceding values.

[5] To obtain equivalent rates of discharge for air, multiply the discharge rates for liquefied gas petroleum by the factors indicated under each column.

(d) Prior to approval of safety relief valves by the Commandant, manufacturers shall have tests conducted or submit satisfactory evidence that such tests have been conducted by a testing laboratory acceptable to the Commandant relative to determining the relieving capacity, lift, popping pressure, and blowdown at three or more different popping pressures for each of three representative sizes of each design or type of safety relief valve. For each design the manufacturer shall submit for test at least 3 valves for each of three different sizes. The capacity rating for that design, size and test pressure shall be 90 percent of the average of the three test runs. The actual relieving capacity shall be determined by flow tests at a maximum flow pressure of 10 percent in excess of the pressure for which the safety relief valve is set to operate.

(e) The manufacturer shall submit a table of relieving capacities for each size of valve for which approval is desired, indicating the capacity in cubic feet per minute of liquefied petroleum gas as determined by the flow tests specified in paragraph (d) of this section. The relieving capacities shall be measured at or corrected to 60° F. and atmospheric pressure (14.7 p. s. i. absolute).

(f) Detailed drawings showing the valve construction and material specifications of the component parts shall be submitted in quadruplicate for approval.

(g) Safety relief valves shall be attached to the tank near the highest point of the vapor space. Shutoff valves shall not be installed between the tanks and safety relief valves, except manifolds for mounting multiple safety relief valves may be fitted with acceptable interlocking shutoff valves so arranged at all times as to permit the required capacity discharge through the open safety relief valves.

(h) Each safety relief valve shall be marked with data as follows:

(1) Name of manufacturer.

(2) Manufacturer's design or type number.

(3) Size of valve.

(4) Pressure at which the valve is set to open.

(5) Actual rate of discharge in cubic feet per minute of the gas at 60° F. and atmospheric pressure (14.7 p. s. i. absolute).

(i) Each safety relief valve shall be tested in the presence of an inspector before being placed in service. The tests shall satisfactorily indicate that the safety relief valves will start to discharge at a pressure not in excess of the design pressure of the tank.

§ 38.10–20 Liquid level gaging devices—TB/ALL. (a) Each tank shall be fitted with a liquid level gaging device of approved design to indicate the maximum level to which the tank may be filled with liquid at temperatures between 20° F. and 130° F.

(b) Liquid level gaging devices may be of the following types: rotary tube, slip tube, fixed tube, magnetic, automatic float, or similar types approved by the Commandant.

(c) All gaging devices shall be arranged so that the maximum liquid level for butane, mixtures of butane and propane, or propane, to which the tank may be filled is readily determinable. The maximum gallonage capacity as required by § 38.15–1 shall be marked on the tank, system name plate, or gaging device.

(d) Gaging devices that require bleeding of the product to the atmosphere, such as the rotary tube, fixed tube and slip tube, shall be so designed that the bleed valve maximum opening is not larger than a No. 54 drill size, unless provided with excess flow valve.

(e) Automatic float continuous reading tape gages, and similar types, shall be fitted with a shutoff valve located as close to the tank as practicable, which shall be designed to close automatically in the event of fracture of the external gage piping. An automatic float gage shall always be used in conjunction with a fixed tube device.

(f) Gaging devices shall have a design pressure of at least 250 pounds per square inch.

(g) Length of fixed tube device shall be designed to indicate the maximum level to which the tank may be filled, based on the volume of the product at 40° F. at its maximum permitted filling density for unlagged tanks and at 50° F. for lagged tanks. The maximum volume of the liquid at 60° F. may be obtained by determining the volume of the liquid at 40° F. or 50° F. for unlagged or lagged tanks, using the filling densities given in § 38.15–1 and correcting the liquid volumes at these temperatures to 60° F. by applying the volume correction factors in table 38.10–20 (g).

The hose shall be marked with the maximum pressure guaranteed by the manufacturer.

§ 38.15–10 Electrical bonding—TB/ALL. The tank vessel shall be electrically connected to the shore piping prior to connecting the cargo hose. This electrical connection shall be maintained until after the cargo hose has been disconnected and any spillage has been removed.

SUBPART 38.20—VENTING AND VENTILATION

§ 38.20–1 Venting — TB/ALL. (a) Each safety relief valve installed on a cargo tank shall be connected to a branch vent of a venting system which shall be constructed so that the discharge of gas will be directed vertically upward to a point at least 10 feet above the weather deck or the top of any tank or house located above the weather deck. Arrangements specially provided for venting cargo tanks forming a part of the hull on unmanned tank barges will be considered by the Commandant upon presentation of plans.

(b) The capacity of branch vents or vent headers shall depend upon the number of cargo tanks connected to such branch or header capacity as provided for in the table 38.20–1 (b), and upon the total safety relief valve discharge capacity.

§ 38.25–5 Hydrostatic tests—TB/ALL. Each tank shall be subjected to a hydrostatic test at the annual inspection period on the eighth year of the installation, and a like test shall be applied every fourth year thereafter. The hydrostatic test shall be equal to one and one-half times the allowable pressure as determined by the safety relief valve setting. If the jacket and lagging are not removed during the internal hydrostatic tests prescribed in this subpart, the tank shall hold the hydrostatic pressure for at least 20 minutes without pressure drop.

A working space of not less than 15 inches shall be provided around and beneath each tank, or else provision shall be made for moving such tank to secure adequate space for the inspection and maintenance of the vessel's structure and the tank.

(b) Tanks shall be mounted on substantial steel saddles and securely fixed in place. Each tank shall be so supported as to minimize the concentration of excessive loads on the supporting portion of the shell.

(c) Tanks may be located in dry cargo holds or in other cargo tanks meeting the requirements for cofferdams as prescribed in § 32.60–10 (c) or 32.65–15, and may be installed "on deck" or "under deck" with the tank protruding above deck. (c) Where possible provision shall be made for expansion and contraction of piping by means of seamless steel pipe expansion bends. Packless bellows or corrugated expansion joints may be used, provided satisfactory evidence is shown that space limitations do not permit the use of expansion bends. Slip type expansion joints are prohibited.

§ 39.10–10 Safety relief valves—TB/ALL. (a) Each tank shall be fitted with one or more safety relief valves.

(b) Each safety relief valve shall be set to start to discharge at a pressure not in excess of the design pressure of the tank. The vent riser shall extend to a height above the weather deck equal to at least one-third the beam of the vessel and shall terminate at a comparable distance from any other living or working space, ventilator inlet, or source of vapor ignition. When special conditions prevent the vent outlets from being permanently installed at a height above the deck of one-third the beam of the vessel, an adjustable system shall be provided which, when extended vertically, shall reach a height of one-third the beam of the vessel. The safety relief valve shall be fitted with a bypass having the full capacity of the relief valve and equipped with a manually operated stop valve to permit equalizing pressures during filling and discharging operations.

SUBPART 39.25—PERIODIC INSPECTIONS AND TESTS

[7 CFR, Part 52]

UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF ORANGE MARMALADE [1]

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance, as herein proposed, of United States Standards for Grades of Orange Marmalade, pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950). These standards, if made effective, will be the first issue by the Department of grade standards for this product.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file the same, in duplicate, with the Chief, Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

§ 52.488 Orange marmalade. Orange marmalade is the semisolid or gel-like product prepared from the edible portion of the orange including the properly prepared peel and pulp or juice together with one or more sweetening ingredients and may contain food acids, food pectins, or lemon juice in a quantity which reasonably compensates for a deficiency, if any, of the natural acidity or natural pectin content in the orange material. In the preparation of orange marmalade, part of the peel may be eliminated, the pulp or juice of the oranges may be strained or filtered as well as unstrained or unfiltered, and the orange material removed during the straining or filtering process may be eliminated. The prepared orange material including the prepared peel and prepared juice or pulp is cooked with sweetening ingredients in a proportion of not less than one part by weight of prepared orange material (exclusive of added water or water used in preparation) to three parts of sweetening ingredient or ingredients (on a dry solids basis). The sweetening ingredients used may be sugar, sugar sirup, invert sugar sirup, dextrose, corn sirup, corn sirup solids, glucose sirup, or any mixture thereof. The ingredients of orange marmalade are prepared by cooking so that the soluble solids content of the finished orange marmalade is not less than 65 percent.

(a) Kinds of orange marmalade. (1) "Sweet orange marmalade" means that the fruit ingredient consists principally of such varieties as Navel and Valencias or other commercial dessert varieties other than tangerines.

(2) "Bitter orange marmalade" means that the fruit ingredient consists principally of the Seville or sour type of oranges other than tangerines.

(3) "Sweet and bitter orange marmalade" means that the fruit ingredient consists of a blend of sweet oranges and bitter oranges other than tangerines. It is recommended that the orange material from which sweet and bitter orange marmalade is prepared be approximately 50 percent by weight each of sweet oranges and bitter oranges.

(b) Styles of orange marmalade. (1) "Sliced" means that the peel in the orange marmalade is in thin strips approximating 1/32 of an inch in width.

(2) "Chopped" means that the peel in the orange marmalade is in small pieces (such as, irregular shapes and dice-like shapes).

(c) Types of orange marmalade. (1) "Type I, Clear" means that the peel is suspended in a translucent semi-solid or gel-like mass.

(2) "Type II, Natural" means that the peel is suspended is a cloudy or opaque semi-solid or gel-like mass.

(d) Grades of orange marmalade. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of orange marmalade that is practically free from defects and is of such quality with respect to color, consistency and character, and flavor as to score not less than 85 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" is the quality of orange marmalade that possesses a reasonably good color, is reasonably free from defects, possesses a reasonably good flavor, and is of such quality with respect to consistency and character as to score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of orange marmalade that fails to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice.

(e) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purposes of these grades. It is recommended that each container be filled as full as practicable with orange marmalade and that the product occupy not less than 90 percent of the volume of the container.

(f) Ascertaining the grade. The grade of orange marmalade is ascertained by considering, in conjunction with the requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings for the factors of color, consistency and character, absence of defects, and flavor. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
(1) Color	20
(2) Consistency and character	20
(3) Absence of defects	20
(4) Flavor	40
Total score	100

(g) Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "17 to 20 points" means 17, 18, 19, or 20 points).

(1) Color. (i) Orange marmalade that possesses a good color may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Good color" means that the product possesses a practically uniform bright color characteristic of the fruit or fruit ingredients, is practically free from green-colored peel, and that the product is free from dullness of color due to oxidation or improper processing or improper cooling or other causes.

(ii) If the orange marmalade possesses a reasonably good color, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. "Reasonably good color" means that the product possesses a reasonably uniform color characteristic of the fruit or fruit ingredients, is reasonably free from green-colored peel, which color may be slightly dull but is not off-color nor excessively dark due to oxidation or improper processing or improper cooling or other causes.

(iii) Orange marmalade that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Consistency and character. The factor of consistency and character refers to the tenderness of the peel, distribution of the fruit ingredients in the product, and the gel strength of the product.

(i) Orange marmalade that possesses a good consistency and character may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Good consistency and character" means the product contains a substantial, but not excessive, amount of peel; that the peel is tender, that the fruit ingredients are evenly distributed, and that the product is a tender gel or may possess no more than a very slight tendency to flow.

(ii) If the orange marmalade possesses a reasonably good consistency and character, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. "Reasonably good consistency and character" means that the peel is reasonably tender, the fruit ingredients are fairly evenly distributed, the product may be firm but not gummy or rubbery or may be viscous but not excessively thin.

(iii) Orange marmalade that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Absence of defects. The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from objectionable material, harmless extraneous material, seeds or portions of seeds, and from blemished peel.

(i) "Harmless extraneous material" includes, but is not limited to, small particles of leaves, undeveloped seeds or particles of seeds that measure not more than 3/16 inch in any dimension, or other similar materials that are harmless.

(ii) "Seeds or portions of seeds" means any seed or any portion thereof, whether or not fully developed, that measures more than 3/16 inch in any dimension.

(iii) "Blemished peel" means pieces of the peel blemished by surface discoloration to the extent that the appearance or eating quality is materially affected.

(iv) Orange marmalade that is practically free from defects may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Practically free from defects" means that the appearance and eating quality of the product is not materially affected by the presence of objectionable material or harmless extraneous material; that for each 16 ounces of net weight there may be present not more than one seed or portion of seed; and that for each 8 ounces of net weight there may be present not more than 3 pieces of blemished peel.

(v) If the orange marmalade is reasonably free from defects, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Orange marmalade that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule.) "Reasonably free from defects" means that the appearance and eating quality of the product is not seriously affected by the presence of objectionable material and harmless extraneous material; and that for each 8 ounces of net weight there may be present not more than one seed or portion of seed and not more than 5 pieces of blemished peel.

(vi) Orange marmalade that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (v) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(4) Flavor. (i) Orange marmalade that possesses a good flavor may be given a score of 34 to 40 points. "Good flavor" means that the product possesses a good and distinct flavor characteristic of the fruit ingredient or fruit ingredients and is free from any caramelized flavor or odor and from any objectionable flavor and objectionable odor of any kind.

(ii) If the orange marmalade possesses a reasonably good flavor, a score of 28 to 33 points may be given. "Reasonably good flavor" means that the product possesses a reasonably good flavor characteristic of the fruit ingredient or fruit ingredients and may possess a slightly caramelized flavor but is free from any objectionable flavor and objectionable odor of any kind.

(iii) Orange marmalade that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(h) Explanation of terms or analyses. (1) "Soluble solids content" is determined by the method prescribed in the "Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists" as outlined under the applicable method for determining the soluble solids in marmalades, except that no correction is made for water-insoluble solids.

(i) Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of orange marmalade, the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if:

(i) Not more than one sixth of such containers fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and, with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, is within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR, Parts 11, 16]

[Docket No. 9898]

LICENSING OF RELAY STATIONS IN THE INDUSTRIAL AND LAND TRANSPORTATION RADIO SERVICES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

1. Notice hereby is given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Part 11, Industrial Radio Services, and Part 16, Land Transportation Radio Services, provide for licensing of Operational Fixed (Relay) and Operational Fixed (Repeater) Stations. They do not provide for the licensing of Mobile Relay Stations. It is proposed to revise these rules to permit licensing of this latter type of station in certain situations where it appears that no other satisfactory solution to an applicant's communication problem is possible. Coincidental with establishment of the new "Mobile Relay Station" classification, it also is proposed to combine the present classifications "Operational Fixed (Repeater) Station" and "Operational Fixed (Relay) Station" into a single new classification to be known as "Fixed Relay Station". As a corollary of these changes, and for the purpose of minimizing interference, it is proposed to specify the circumstances under which use of selective calling devices will be mandatory in radio systems employing Mobile Relay Stations.

3. It will be noted from a study of the attached proposed rules that licensing of Mobile Relay Stations is to be restricted to those situations where an applicant can show a substantial requirement for extended range mobile-to-mobile communication greater than that obtainable by direct car-to-car communication on the same frequency. The Commission recognizes that there are many other situations where Mobile Relay Stations would be an operating convenience or would be less expensive to install than alternative radio system designs, the latter particularly in cases where a Base Station must be located at some distance from its control point. However, the Commission has been unable to determine that operating convenience or reduced first cost constitute sufficiently adequate justifications for use of Mobile Relay Stations when balanced against the frequency conservation, frequency assignment, and interference control problems which use of such stations presents.

4. Since each word of a message in a radio system employing one or more Mobile Relay Stations appears simultaneously at two points in the spectrum, i. e., on the frequency of the originating station and the frequency of the relay station, the spectrum occupancy for transmission of a given piece of itelligence is approximately double that of a conventional type system. Therefore, it appears to be desirable to restrict all operations involving the "triggering" of Mobile Relay Stations to frequencies sufficiently high in the spectrum to avoid doubling of long-distance sky-wave or "skip" interference, thereby keeping the added frequency assignment and interference problems on an essentially local basis. Strict adherence to such a policy would require that "triggering" stations operate on available frequencies in the 72–76 Mc, 152–174 Mc, and 450–460 Mc bands, or on still higher frequencies. However, there are a substantial number of existing systems in the 25–50 Mc band which will wish to convert to Mobile Relay operation without retiring their present equipment. Also, there are a number of situations where the normal operations of a company require that its mobile service radio system be in the 25–50 Mc band rather than the 152–174 Mc band in order to obtain satisfactory area coverage. It also is true that "skip" interference is much less frequent at the extreme upper end of the 25–50 Mc band than it is throughout most of this band. For these reasons, it is proposed to adopt a compromise frequency of 47.0 Mc as the minimum "triggering" frequency for Mobile Relay Stations in these Services. The Commission recognizes that this compromise figure does not make complete provision for all otherwise eligible persons who may wish to establish a Mobile Relay Station, but, on the basis of the facts before it, is of the opinion that designation of a lower frequency would, on a long-term basis, cause a substantial deterioration of the land mobile radio services involved.

5. The Commission desires to encourage joint use of Relay Station facilities (on a non-profit cooperative basis) in order to off-set, to the extent possible, some of the frequency utilization and assignment problems which may result from use of such stations. In this connection, attention is invited to §§ 11.6 and 16.3, which deal with cooperative use of station facilities in general. Comments and recommendations concerning ways in which these sections may be improved as they relate to joint use of Relay Stations may be submitted as part of this proceeding.

6. The proposed licensing of Mobile Relay Stations in the Industrial and Land Transportation Radio Services has been made inapplicable to the Low Power Industrial, Taxicab, and Automobile Emergency Radio Services. The first of these Services has been excluded because it does not now provide for licensing of Base Stations (all units mobile only) and a Mobile Relay Station is considered to be a kind of Base Station. The primary function of this Service is to provide short range "on-the-job" communications, generally with handportable types of radio equipment. The remaining two Services have been excluded because they are almost exclusively dispatch type services and have comparatively little need for mobile-to-mobile communications of any kind and almost no need for long range mobile-to-mobile communication.

7. Radio systems incorporating one or more Mobile Relay Stations heretofore have been referred to as "Central Relay Systems" in Commission correspondence. It is proposed to abandon the latter term entirely on the grounds that it is not sufficiently descriptive and that it will have a tendency to cause confusion when used interchangeably with the term "Mobile Relay Station".

8. The proposed new rules contain a mandatory requirement (with certain provisions for waiver) for use of coded or other signalling devices to operate or "unlock" Mobile Relay Stations. This requirement has not been made applicable to Fixed Relay Stations. The principal reason for excluding the latter type of station is that the area over which it would radiate an interfering signal is very much less than for Mobile Relay Stations. This is due to the fact that a Mobile Relay Station generally employs relatively high power, a high antenna, and an omnidirectional radiation pattern in contrast to a Fixed Relay Station, which generally employs relatively low power, a low antenna, and, normally, a narrow directional beam directed to a single fixed receiving location. Additional factors of at least present importance are that the available fixed service frequencies are not now as crowded as most of the mobile service frequencies, and that there are a large number of radio systems already in operation which would require substantial modification if the requirement were made applicable to Fixed Relay Stations.

It will be noted that no provision for waiver of the coded signalling device requirement is proposed for frequencies below 50.0 Mc, although originating stations are proposed to be authorized on frequencies as low as 47.0 Mc. The 50.0 Mc figure is based on the belief that all licensees should be protected from both the local and long-distance interference which would result from "triggering" of Mobile Relay Stations by undesired signals, and that this protection cannot be accorded without requiring that the devices designed to supply this protection are installed in all radio systems employing "triggering" frequencies below 50 Mc.

Recommendations by interested persons are invited concerning the administrative problem of determining what standards should be used by the Commission in determining when the coded signal protective device requirement should be waived in particular cases when the frequencies involved are higher than 50.0 Mc. Recommendations also are invited concerning the types of coded signalling or other devices which will be adequate to provide the desired protection from unwanted activation of Mobile Relay Stations.

9. In cases where a station is to be used part of the time as a Base Station and part of the time as a Mobile Relay Station the latter will be the classification used for licensing purposes. Comment by interested persons is desired as to whether or not it is advisable to permit such radio systems to operate on two frequencies at all times or whether the two-frequency operation should be permitted only during the period when the relay is functioning as such. Comment also is desired by interested persons as to whether or not the rules as finally adopted should distinguish in any way between attended and unattended installations which function dually from time to time as both Base and Mobile Relay Stations.

10. The present Industrial rules (§ 11.57 (c)) require a special justification before a second mobile service frequency will be assigned for the use of any one applicant. Normally, persons who make the special showing necessary to obtain authority for a Mobile Relay Station (as proposed herein) will be considered to have satisfied thereby the more general requirement of § 11.57 (c).

11. Applications for authority to construct or operate Mobile Relay Stations will not be accepted during the pendency of this proceeding. Applications so filed will be returned without action.

12. The proposed rules which follow below are issued under the authority contained in sections 4 (i), 301, and 303 (a), (b), (c), (e), (f), (g), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

13. Any interested person may file with the Commission on or before March 21, 1951, a written statement or brief in support, opposition, or urging modification of, or additions to the proposed amendments. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments or briefs of other parties may be filed on or before April 2, 1951. The Commission will consider all such comments before taking action in this matter. If any comments are received which appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, a notice of the time and place of hearing therefor will be given.

Released: February 8, 1951.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

1. Changes in Part 11, Industrial Radio Services:

a. In § 11.3, Definition of terms, delete present paragraphs (i) and (j) which now define "Relay station" and "Repeater station," respectively, and substitute the following:

(i) Fixed relay station. An Operational Fixed Station in the fixed service, established to receive radio signals directed to it from any source and to retransmit them automatically on a fixed service frequency for reception at one or more fixed points.

(j) Mobile relay station. A Base Station in the mobile service, established to receive signals directed to it by a Mobile Station and to retransmit them automatically on a mobile service frequency for reception by another Mobile Station.

b. Section 11.7 reads as follows:

§ 11.7 Relay Stations—(a) General. Relay Stations are used to extend the range of communication between another radio station and the point with which it is desired to communicate. For the purposes of these rules, there are two types of Relay Stations: Mobile Relay Stations and Fixed Relay Stations. For definitions see § 11.3.

(b) Mobile relay stations. The policies governing authorization and operation of this type of Relay Station are as follows:

(1) Each application for a new Mobile Relay Station authorization shall be accompanied by a satisfactory showing that the applicant has a substantial requirement for prompt mobile-to-mobile communication over ranges greater than can be realized consistently by direct communication on the frequency assigned or requested to be assigned to the Mobile Station associated with the Mobile Relay Station.

(2) A Mobile Relay Station may be authorized to operate on any mobile service frequency available for assignment to Base Stations.

(3) Each Mobile Relay Station shall be so designed and installed that it normally will be activated only by means of a coded signal or signals or such other means as will effectively prevent its activation by undesired signals: Provided, however, That when the Relay Station is activated by signals received only on frequencies above 50 Mc, and when the applicant makes a satisfactory showing that his proposed station location is in an area normally free of undesired signals on frequencies which would activate the Mobile Relay Station, this requirement may be waived, subject to the condition that the waiver may be cancelled after ninety days notice if it later develops that the Mobile Relay Station is in fact frequently activated by undesired signals and thereby causes harmful interference to other licensees.

(4) Each Mobile Relay Station shall be so designed and installed that it will be deactivated automatically when its associated receiver or receivers are not receiving a signal on the frequency or frequencies which normally activate it. In addition, each Mobile Relay Station required by the terms of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph to be activated by a coded signal shall be so designed and installed that it will be deactivated upon receipt or cessation of a coded signal or signals; or, alternatively, shall be so designed and installed that it will be deactivated by means of an automatic time-delay or clock device not more than three minutes after activation of the station. Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed as preventing use of both of these latter methods in combination.

(5) A Mobile Station associated with one or more Mobile Relay Stations may be authorized to operate on any mobile service frequency above 47.0 Mc. which is available for assignment to Mobile Stations.

(6) An Operational Fixed (Control) Station associated with one or more Mobile Relay Stations may be assigned any available fixed service frequency or the mobile service frequency assigned to the associated Mobile Station.

(7) A Base Station which is used intermittently as an Operational Fixed (Control) Station for one or more Mobile Relay Stations of the same licensee will be authorized to operate only on the mobile service frequencies assigned to the associated Mobile Relay Station and/or Mobile Station. Special authority for such dual station classification and use must be shown in the instrument of station authorization.

(8) In any radio system which employs more than one Mobile Relay Station, where there is a requirement that stations in the vicinity of one Relay Station be able to communicate automatically with stations in the vicinity of other Relay Stations, the necessary circuits for interconnection of the Relay Stations shall be provided by means of wire lines or fixed service frequencies.

(9) Mobile Relay Stations will not be authorized in the Low Power Industrial Radio Service.

(c) Fixed relay stations. Fixed Relay Stations may be authorized to operate only on frequencies available for use by Operational Fixed Stations.

c. In § 11.58, Supplemental information required with applications for control, repeater, or relay stations, delete the word "repeater" from the title and text of this section.

d. In §§ 11.254, 11.304, 11.354, 11.404, 11.454, and 11.504 Frequencies available for base, mobile and operational fixed stations, delete present subparagraph (3) of paragraph (b) from each of these sections, as shown in amendment 11–2 published in the FEDERAL REGISTER June 30, 1950 (15 F. R. 4195), and substitute the following:

(3) Fixed Relay Stations may be used to provide two automatic retransmissions of a mobile service message. Additional automatic retransmission on these frequencies by means of such stations is prohibited.

2. Changes in Part 16, Land Transportation Radio Services:

a. In § 16.6 Definition of terms, delete present paragraphs (p) and (q), which now define "Relay Station" and "Repeater Station", respectively, and substitute the following:

(p) Fixed relay station. An Operational Fixed Station in the fixed service, establishd to receive radio signals directed to it from any source and to retransmit them automatically on a fixed service frequency for reception at one or more fixed points.

(q) Mobile relay station. A Base Station in the mobile service, established to receive signals directed to it by a Mobile Station and to retransmit them automatically on a mobile service frequency for reception by another Mobile Station.

b. Section 16.7 reads as follows:

§ 16.7 Relay stations—(a) General. Relay Stations are used to extend the range of communication between another radio station and the point with which it is desired to communicate. For the purposes of these rules, there are two types of Relay Stations: Mobile Relay Stations and Fixed Relay Stations. For definitions see § 16.6 of this part.

(b) Mobile relay stations. The policies governing authorization and operation of this type of Relay Station are as follows:

(1) Each application for a new Mobile Relay Station authorization shall be accompanied by a satisfactory showing that the applicant has a substantial requirement for prompt mobile-to-mobile communication over ranges greater than can be realized consistently by direct communication on the frequency assigned or requested to be assigned to the Mobile Station associated with the Mobile Relay Station.

(2) A Mobile Relay Station may be authorized to operate on any mobile service frequency available for assignment to Base Stations.

(3) Each Mobile Relay Station shall be so designed and installed that it normally will be activated only by means of a coded signal or signals or such other means as will effectively prevent its activation by undesired signals: Provided, however, That when the Relay Station is activated by signals received only on frequencies above 50 Mc. and when the applicant makes a satisfactory showing that his proposed station location is in an area normally free of undesired signals on frequencies which would activate the Mobile Relay Station, this requirement may be waived, subject to the condition that the waiver may be canceled after ninety days' notice if it later develops that the Mobile Relay Station is in fact frequently activated by undesired signals and thereby causes harmful interference to other licensees.

(4) Each Mobile Relay Station shall be so designed and installed that it will be deactivated automatically when its associated receiver or receivers are not receiving a signal on the frequency or frequencies which normally activate it. In addition, each Mobile Relay Station required by the terms of subparagraph (3) of this paragraph to be activated by a coded signal shall be so designed and installed that it will be deactivated upon receipt or cessation of a coded signal or signals; or, alternatively, shall be so designed and installed that it will be deactivated by means of an automatic time-delay or clock device not more than three minutes after activation of the station. Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed as preventing use of both of these latter methods in combination.

(5) A Mobile Station associated with one or more Mobile Relay Stations may be authorized to operate on any mobile service frequency above 47 Mc which is available for assignment to Mobile Stations.

(6) An Operational Fixed (Control) Station associated with one or more Mobile Relay Stations may be assigned any available fixed service frequency or the mobile service frequency assigned to the associated Mobile Station.

(7) A Base Station which is used intermittently as an Operational Fixed (Control) Station for one or more Mobile Relay Stations of the same licensee will be authorized to operate only on the mobile service frequencies assigned to the associated Mobile Relay Station and/or Mobile Station. Special authority for such dual station classification and use must be shown in the instrument of station authorization.

(8) In any radio system which employs more than one Mobile Relay Station, where there is a requirement that stations in the vicinity of one Relay Station communicate automatically with stations in the vicinity of other Relay Stations, the necessary circuits for interconnection of the Relay Stations shall be provided by means of wire lines or fixed service frequencies.

(9) Mobile Relay Stations will not be authorized in the Taxicab Radio Service or the Automobile Emergency Radio Service.

(c) Fixed relay stations. Fixed Relay Stations may be authorized to operate only on frequencies available for use by Operational Fixed Stations.

c. In § 16.58, Supplemental information required with applications for control, repeater, or relay stations, delete the word "repeater" from the title and text of this section.

NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of applications for issuance, extension or amendment of certificates of public convenience and necessity of Lake Central Airlines, Inc., Trans World Airlines, Inc., Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Inc., and Youngstown Airways, Inc., known as the Indiana-Ohio Local Service Case.

Pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, notice is hereby given that a hearing in the above-entitled proceeding is assigned to be held on February 19, 1951 at 10:00 a. m. e. s. t., in Conference Room B, Departmental Auditorium, Commerce Building, Fourteenth Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, D. (b) Amendment of the certificate of public convenience and necessity for route No. 88 to include service to Gary, Ind., as an intermediate point between Chicago, Ill., and Indianapolis, Ind., and to include the intermediate points Marion and Anderson-Muncie-Newcastle, Ind., between Richmond and Kokomo, Ind., and to authorize air transportation between the terminal point Cincinnati, Ohio, the intermediate points Richmond and Kokomo, Ind., and the terminal point Chicago, Ill.; and between the terminal point Indianapolis, Ind., the intermediate points Richmond, Ind., Dayton, Springfield, Columbus, Marion, and Mansfield, Ohio, and the terminal point Cleveland, Ohio; and between the terminal point Columbus, Ohio, the intermediate points Marion, Sandusky, and Toledo, Ohio, and the terminal point Detroit, Mich., and between the terminal point Columbus, Ohio, and the intermediate points Zanesville, Dover-New Philadelphia, East Liverpool, Ohio, and the terminal point Pittsburgh, Pa., and between the terminal point Columbus, Ohio, and the intermediate points Dover-New Philadelphia and Akron-Canton and the terminal point Youngstown, Ohio?

(c) Alteration, amendment or modification of the certificate of public convenience and necessity for route No. 2 held by Trans World Airlines, Inc., so as to extend for an additional period beyond September 3, 1950, the temporary authorization granted to TWA to serve Zanesville, Ohio, as an intermediate point between Columbus, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Pa., and to serve Mansfield and Marion, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind., as intermediate points between Pittsburgh, Pa., and Chicago, Ill., on route No. 2?

(d) Alteration, amendment or modification of the certificate of public convenience and necessity for route No. 2 held by Trans World Airlines, Inc., to renew the temporary authorization to serve Lima, Findlay, Springfield, Marion, Mansfield, Zanesville, Ohio, and Fort Wayne and Richmond, Ind., to conform to the temporary services authorized pursuant to the Board's decision in the Great Lakes Area Case, 8 C. A. B. 360 (1947)?

(e) Authorization of Youngstown Airways, Inc., to provide transportation of persons, property and mail between Youngstown and Columbus, Ohio?

2. Is Lake Central Airlines fit, willing and able to provide the service for which extended or initial authority is sought?

3. Is Trans World Airlines fit, willing and able to serve those points on its route No. 2 for which continued authorization is requested?

4. Should the Board order Trans World Airlines to serve, and is that carrier fit, willing and able to serve, those points previously on route No. 2 to which service may be found to be required by the public convenience and necessity and for which Trans World Airlines has not requested renewed authorization?

5. Does the public convenience and necessity require the amendment, modification or alteration of the certificate of public convenience and necessity of Chicago and Southern Air Lines for route No. 8 so as to eliminate the intermediate points Marion and Anderson-Muncie-Newcastle, Ind.?

6. Is Youngstown Airways, Inc., fit, willing and able to provide the service for which initial authority is sought?

Notice is further given that any person other than the parties and interveners of record as of February 6, 1951, desiring to be heard in this proceeding may file with the Board, on or before February 19, 1951, a statement setting forth the issues of fact and law raised by this proceeding which he desires to controvert and such person may appear and participate in the hearing in accordance with § 302.6 (a) of the Procedural Regulations under Title I of the Civil Aeronautics Act, as amended.

Dated at Washington, D. C., February 6, 1951.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[Docket Nos. 7179, 7180]

EASTON PUBLISHING CO. AND ALLENTOWN BROADCASTING CORP.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER SCHEDULING HEARING

In re applications of Easton Publishing Company, Easton, Pennsylvania, Docket No. 7179, File No. BP-4212; Allentown Broadcasting Corporation, Allentown, Pennsylvania, Docket No. 7180, File No. BP-4374; for construction permits.

The Commission has under consideration (1) the joint motion of the above-entitled applicants to move the hearing in this proceeding to the field, filed January 17, 1951; (2) the statement of General Counsel in connection therewith, filed January 23, 1951; and (3) the oral argument held thereon on February 5, 1951.

This proceeding was originally heard in May 1946, and further hearing has been designated by order of the Commission, adopted February 16, 1950, in compliance with the judgment of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, which remanded the case for further proceeding in response to an appeal of the Commission's decision taken by the Easton Publishing Company. The issues which have been specified in the light of the Court's remand will require unusually elaborate testimony, and the applicants now anticipate that the testimony of at least 35 witnesses may be required, and, therefore, to hold the hearing in Washington would place a financial hardship upon the applicants and a personal hardship upon the witnesses.

The General Counsel offers no objection to moving the hearing to the field for the purpose of taking non-technical testimony, but does object to any procedure which contemplates the receipt of non-technical testimony before the hearing on the engineering aspects of the proceeding is concluded.

On January 16, 1951, and after a pretrial conference, the hearing in this proceeding was scheduled for March 5, 1951. It now appears that arrangements were subsequently made for the taking of the non-technical testimony during the week of March 5, 1951, and to change such date would constitute a hardship on witnesses who have already arranged their personal affairs in order to be available as witnesses during such week.

One of the applicants is now engaged in the taking of measurements, the completion of which will prevent the preparation of its entire engineering case in time to present such evidence the week of March 5. However, counsel for the applicants state they will have the engineering information necessary to enable them to make the required showing in connection with the programing services available to the respective communities from locally situated and other stations and such engineering data will later be corroborated by competent engineering evidence.

Section 6 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act provides that "due regard shall be had for the convenience and necessity of the parties" in any proceeding, and we believe that the circumstances in this case, especially in view of its long litigious history, support the position of the applicants insofar as the taking of non-technical testimony in the field on the now scheduled hearing date is concerned. For these reasons, it appears that the taking of the non-technical evidence in the field at the time requested by the applicants "will best conduce to the proper dispatch of business and to the ends of justice," as provided in section 4 (j) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

It is ordered, This 5th day of February 1951, that the hearing on the above-entitled applications shall be commenced at 10:00 o'clock a. m., March 5, 1951, at Allentown, Pennsylvania, and thereupon, after adducing necessary testimony at Allentown, Pennsylvania, further hearing will be conducted at Easton, Pennsylvania, and the hearing adjourned to Washington, D. C., for the taking of the engineering testimony and completion of the hearing.

The Commission, having under consideration the above applications (File No. 586–C2–P–51) filed by Robert C. Crabb on January 4, 1951, for a construction permit in the Domestic Public Land Mobile Radio Service for three base station transmitters, an auxiliary test transmitter, and 300 associated mobile units, using the frequency pair 152.09 Mc. and 158.55 Mc. for the base and mobile stations, respectively; and also having under consideration associated petition filed by said Robert C. Crabb to amend his pending applications for modification of license (Files Nos. 4118/4119–C2–ML–E) as specified in the above-mentioned applications for construction permit; and

It appearing, that, on July 6, 1950, the Commission designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding the other above-entitled application for authorizations in the Domestic Public Land Mobile Radio Service in Los Angeles and certain nearby communities; and

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the above-entitled applications (File No. 586–C2–P–51) of said Robert C. Crabb for construction permit are designated for hearing in the above-entitled consolidated proceeding; and

It is further ordered, That the Commission's orders of July 6, 1950, and December 13, 1950, respectively, are amended to include the above applications for construction permit (File No. 586–C2–P–51) filed by Robert C. Crabb and to set forth all the issues to be determined in such consolidated proceeding as follows:

1. To determine the legal, technical, and financial qualifications of each of the above-entitled applicants to construct and operate the proposed stations.

2. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to receive service from any proposed stations and the need for such service in the area proposed to be served.

3. To determine whether co-channel operations are feasible between any of the communities involved in this proceeding.

4. To determine whether any mutual interference would result from operation of the proposed stations, and, if so, whether, in view of the nature of the service proposed, such interference would be undesirable or intolerable.

5. To determine the facts with respect to the existing and proposed facilities, personnel, rates, regulations, practices and services of each applicant for the furnishing of Domestic Public Land Mobile Radio Service.

6. To determine the need of said Robert C. Crabb for two sets of base station transmitters and associated mobile units and for two frequency channels for his proposed multi-station operations.

7. To determine whether the public interest, convenience or necessity would be served by a grant of two frequency channels for the proposed operations of said Robert C. Crabb.

Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

West Penn Electric proposes to issue 320,000 additional shares of its common stock, without par value. The shares of common stock are to be offered to the holders of the presently outstanding common stock of the company for subscription in the ratio of 1 share of additional common stock for each 10 shares of common stock now held. This right to subscribe is to be evidenced by warrants to be issued on the basis of one warrant for each share of common stock owned. No fractional shares are to be issued in exchange for warrants. The warrants provide that persons subscribing for stock may direct the subscription agent to purchase additional warrants required to complete a full share subscription or to sell warrants in excess of full share subscriptions. In each case, the purchase or sale may not exceed 9 warrants for any single stockholder. West Penn Electric also proposes to offer to the regular full time employees of the company and its majority owned subsidiary companies a non-transferable privilege to subscribe, at the subscription price, for the shares of the new common stock not issued upon the exercise of rights to subscribe. This employee right of purchase is to be limited to a maximum of 150 shares for each employee. Any shares remaining after subscriptions by the stockholders and by employees are to be available to stockholders under an over-subscription privilege of the warrants.

The above described offering is to be underwritten and the company proposes to select the purchasers of any unsubscribed stock at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50. At least 42 hours prior to the time for the submission and opening of bids, West Penn Electric will advise the prospective bidders of the subscription price per share for the shares of new common stock, which will also be the price per share at which unsubscribed shares will be sold. Prospective biders are to be required to specify an aggregate amount of compensation to be paid by the company for their commitments.

The company proposes, if considered necessary or desirable, to stabilize the price of the common stock of the company for the purpose of facilitating the offering and distribution of the new common stock. In connection therewith, the company may, prior to the acceptance of a bid, purchase shares of its common stock, but not in excess of 32,000 shares, on the New York Stock Exchange or otherwise. Such purchases are to be made through brokers with the payment of regular stock exchange commissions. The prospective bidders will be asked to bid not only for the purchase of the unsubscribed stock but also for the purchase of any shares within the above limitation acquired by the company through such stabilizing transactions.

According to the filing, it is the present intention of West Penn Electric to use $4,000,000 of the net proceeds from the sale of the new common stock to purchase shares of common stock of a subsidiary, the Potomac Edison Company, and an additional $4,000,000 of the net proceeds to purchase common stock of a subsidiary Monongahela Power Company. Further filings are contemplated in respect of the purchases and the issuance of the subsidiaries' common stock.

The filing requests that the order of the Commission herein granting the application and permitting effectiveness to the declaration become effective forthwith upon the issuance thereof.

By the Commission.

PART 52—PROCESSED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES, PROCESSED PRODUCTS THEREOF, AND CERTAIN OTHER PROCESSED FOOD PRODUCTS

SUBPART B—UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF PROCESSED FRUITS, VEGETABLES, AND OTHER PRODUCTS [1]

UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF CANNED CRANBERRY SAUCE

On August 2, 1950, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 4949) regarding proposed United States Standards for Grades of Canned Cranberry Sauce. After consideration of all relevant matters including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following United States Standards for Grades of Canned Cranberry Sauce are hereby promulgated under the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950):

§ 52.282 Canned cranberry sauce. Canned cranberry sauce is the jellied or semi-jellied product prepared from clean, sound, matured or fairly well-matured cranberries; a sweetening ingredient or sweetening ingredients, and water. Pectin may be added but only in a quantity which reasonably compensates for deficiency, if any, of the natural pectin content of the cranberries. The mixture is concentrated and sufficiently processed by heat to assure preservation of the product in hermetically sealed containers. The soluble solids of the finished product is not less than 35 percent and not more than 45 percent.

(a) Styles of canned cranberry sauce—(1) Style I. Jellied or strained (typical of a jellied product prepared from strained cranberries).

(2) Style II. Whole (typical of a semi-jellied product prepared from whole or partially whole cranberries).

(b) Grades of canned cranberry sauce. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good color; that possesses a good consistency and good texture; that is practically free from defects; that possesses a good flavor and odor; and that scores not less than 85 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of canned cranberry sauce that possesses a fairly good color; that possesses a fairly good consistency and a fairly good texture; that is fairly free from defects; that possesses a fairly good flavor and odor; and that scores not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

(c) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purposes of these grades. It is recommended that each container be filled as full as practicable with cranberry sauce and that the product occupy not less than 90 percent of the volume of the container.

(d) Ascertaining the grade. The grade of canned cranberry sauce may be ascertained by considering, in conjunction with the requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings for the factors of color, consistency and texture, absence of defects, and flavor and odor. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
(1) Color	20
(2) Consistency and texture	40
(3) Absence of defects	20
(4) Flavor and odor	20

[1] The requirements of these standards shall not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(e) Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "17 to 20 points" means 17, 18, 19, or 20 points).

(1) Color. (i) Canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good color may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Good color" means the bright dark red color typical of canned cranberries which color is free from any dullness.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce possesses a fairly good color, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means the red color typical of canned cranberries, which color may be slightly dull or may indicate slight evidence of oxidation but is not off color.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Consistency and texture. (i) Canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good consistency and good texture may be given a score of 34 to 40 points. "Good consistency and good texture" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of canned cranberry sauce:

Jellied or strained. The gel is tender to slightly firm and there may be evidence of a reasonable separation of free liquid.

Whole. The skin particles and the semi-jellied portions are reasonably tender and the fruit, seed, and skin particles are dispersed reasonably uniform throughout the product.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce possesses a fairly good consistency and a fairly good texture, a score of 28 to 33 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good consistency and fairly good texture" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of canned cranberry sauce:

Jellied or strained. The gel may lack firmness or may be stiff but is not tough or rubbery and there may be evidence of separation of free liquid which is not excessive.

Whole. The skin particles and the semi-jellied portions are fairly tender and the fruit, seed, and skin particles are dispersed fairly uniform throughout the product and there may be evidence of separation of free liquid which is not excessive.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Absence of defects. The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from foreign material and objectionable material and from harmless extraneous particles in Style I, Jellied or strained; and from defective cranberries and foreign berries and particles thereof, fine stems, foreign material and objectionable material, and other defects in Style II, Whole.

(i) Canned cranberry sauce that is practically free from defects may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Practically free from defects" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of cranberry sauce:

Jellied or strained. The product is free from foreign material and objectionable material, is free from any harmless extraneous particles that exceed the area of a circle 3/16 inch in diameter; and is practically free from harmless extraneous particles that are the equivalent in area of a circle 3/16 inch or less in diameter.

Whole. There may be present for each 12 ounces of net weight not more than 3 defective cranberries or foreign berries and not more than 4 fine stems ¾ inch or more in length; the product is free from foreign material and objectionable material and is practically free from other defects which affect materially the appearance or edibility of the product.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce is fairly free from defects, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of cranberry sauce:

Jellied or strained. The product is free from foreign material and objectionable material; is practically free from harmless extraneous particles that exceed the area of a circle 3/16 inch in diameter; and is fairly free from harmless extraneous particles that are the equivalent in area of a circle 3/16 inch or less in diameter.

Whole. There may be present for each 12 ounces of net weight not more than 6 fine stems ¾ inch or more in length; the product is free from foreign material and objectionable material and is fairly free from other defects which affect materially the appearance or edibility of the product.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(4) Flavor and odor. (i) Canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good flavor and odor may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Good flavor and odor" means that the product possesses a good, characteristic, slightly tart flavor typical of cooked cranberries and that the product is free from any trace of a caramelized flavor, abnormal flavor, or abnormal odor.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce possesses a fairly good flavor and odor, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good flavor and odor" means that the product possesses a normal flavor typical of cooked cranberries and that the product is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(f) Explanation of terms. (1) "Soluble solids" content is determined refractometrically without correction for water-insoluble solids.

(g) Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of canned cranberry sauce, the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if:

(i) Not more than one-sixth of such containers fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and, with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, is within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

Chapter VII—Production and Marketing Administration (Agricultural Adjustment), Department of Agriculture

[Amdt. 4]

PART 722—COTTON

ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND MARKETING QUOTAS FOR 1950 CROP

Basis and purpose. Section 345 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, provides, among other things, that the farm marketing excess shall not be larger than the amount by which the actual production of cotton on the farm exceeds the normal production of the farm acreage allotment, if the producer establishes such actual production to the satisfaction of the Secretary. Under the authority of this provision, § 722.142 (a) of the regulations pertaining to Acreage Allotments and Marketing Quotas for the 1950 Crop of Cotton, issued June 26, 1950 (15 F. R. 4162), provides that any producer having an interest in the cotton produced in 1950 on any farm for which there is a farm marketing excess may, within 30 days after the harvesting of cotton is completed on the farm, apply (to the county committee) in writing for a downward adjustment in the amount of the farm marketing excess on the basis of the amount of cotton produced in 1950 on the farm and, unless application is made within such 30 day period, the farm marketing excess as determined on the basis of the normal production of the excess cotton acreage for the farm shall be final as to the producers on the farm. Under the authority of the same provisions of the act, § 722.169 (d) of such regulations provides, in part, that in each case where the producer is making an application for a downward adjustment pursuant to § 722.142, such application shall be made on a farm operator's report (Form MQ–98–Cotton) not later than 30 days after harvesting of cotton on the farm has been completed.

Due to heavy insect infestation and weather damage to the 1950 crop of cotton, many producers, who paid the penalty due on the initially determined farm marketing excess, or who abandoned their cotton crops because the extremely low yield made the crop not worth harvesting, did not produce a total cotton crop in excess of the normal production of the acreage allotment for the farm and would not be liable for the penalty as initially determined, if they filed an application for a downward adjustment in the farm marketing excess within the specified time limit. However, a large number of such producers, because of acute financial situations, left the area in which their farms are located soon after harvesting what cotton there was produced on the farm, or soon after abandoning the cotton crop on the farm, in order to obtain gainful employment at points remotely removed from their farms, and failed to file applications for a downward adjustment in the farm marketing excess for their farms, within the prescribed time limit. Many such producers are now filing or will file such applications but under the present regulations the county committee is not authorized to adjust the farm marketing excess down to zero and thereby cause a refund of penalty paid on the initially determined farm marketing excess or a cancellation of the penalty initially determined on such excess. In view of these circumstances, it has been found that the present requirements of the regulations impose an unreasonable burden on the producers involved.

The amendments to the regulations set out herein extend the time limit for filing an application for downward adjustment in the amount of the farm marketing excess to not later than March 15, 1951, regardless of the time when harvesting of cotton on the farm was completed, and authorize the county committee to waive the requirement that such application be filed on a farm operator's report (Form MQ–98–Cotton) in cases where it is determined that the evidence submitted by the producer satisfactorily establishes the actual production of cotton on the farm in 1950.

It is in the interest of such producers that the amendments become effective at the earliest possible date in order that affected producers may be relieved of the financial responsibilities and losses which attach because of failure to make application for a downward adjustment in the amount of the farm marketing excess within the present prescribed time limit. Accordingly, it is hereby determined and found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and the amendment contained herein shall be effective upon filing of this document with the Director, Division of Federal Register.

1. Section 722.142 (a) of the Regulations Pertaining to Acreage Allotments and Marketing Quotas for the 1950 Crop of Cotton (15 F. R. 4162) is hereby changed to read as follows:

§ 722.142 Farm marketing excess adjustment—(a) Adjustment in the amount of the farm marketing excess. Any producer having an interest in the cotton produced in 1950 on any farm for which there is a farm marketing excess may, not later than March 15, 1951, apply in writing for a downward adjustment in the amount of the farm marketing excess on the basis of the amount of cotton produced in 1950 on the farm and, unless application for an adjustment in the farm marketing excess is made within such time limit, the farm marketing excess as determined on the basis of the normal production of the excess cotton acreage for the farm shall be final as to the producers on the farm. The county committee shall keep a record of each application so made and the date thereof. The county committee shall establish a time and place at which each application will be considered and shall notify the applicant of the time and place of the hearing. Insofar as practicable, applications shall be considered in the order in which made.

2. Section 722.169 (d) of the Regulations pertaining to Acreage Allotments and Marketing Quotas for the 1950 Crop of Cotton (15 F. R. 4162) is hereby changed to read as follows:

§ 722.169 Records to be kept and reports to be made by producers. • • •

(d) Farm operator's report. The operator of the farm in connection with which a farm marketing excess is determined shall, upon written request of the county committee, file with the treasurer of the county committee for the county in which the farm is situated a farm operator's report on Form MQ–98–Cotton showing for the farm the following information or any part thereof as specified in such request: (1) The date harvesting of cotton was completed on the farm, the date of the last ginning of cotton produced on the farm, and the acreage planted to cotton on the farm; (2) the total number of pounds of lint cotton ginned from the 1950 crop of cotton; (3) the name and address of each ginner who ginned such cotton and the number of and net weight of the bales ginned by him; (4) the total amount of cotton marketed in the seed; (5) the total amount of lint cotton marketed; (6) the amount of unmarketed cotton on hand; (7) the total number of pounds of lint cotton produced in the 1950 crop year; (8) the name and address of each buyer or transferee of lint or seed cotton and the amount thereof marketed to him; and (9) the amount of penalty paid by the producer or collected by the buyer or transferee. In each case where the producer is making an application for a downward adjustment in the farm marketing excess pursuant to § 722.142, such application shall be made on a farm operator's report (Form MQ–98–Cotton) not later than March 15, 1951. However, the county committee may waive the requirement that such application be filed on a Form MQ–98–Cotton, in cases where it determines that the evidence otherwise submitted by the producer is satisfactory evidence of the actual production of cotton on the farm in 1950. Upon written request of the county committee, the operator of any farm for which a farm marketing excess is not determined shall make a report on Form MQ–98–Cotton in the manner specified in this paragraph not later than the date designated by the county committee in its request.

(Sec. 375, 52 Stat. 66, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 1375. Interpret or apply secs. 345 and 373, 52 Stat. 58, 65, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 1345, 1373)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of February 1951. Witness my hand and the Seal of the Department of Agriculture.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

[Amdt. 1]

PART 620—SECURITY CONTROL OF AIR TRAFFIC

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Acting pursuant to the authority appearing in Title XII of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 as amended (64 Stat. 825; 49 U. S. C. 701); Executive Order 10197 (15 F. R. 9180); and Department of Commerce Order 86, Amendment 5 (16 F. R. 99) Part 620 was adopted (15 F. R. 9319). Part 620 is hereby amended. Since a military function of the United States is involved, compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is not required.

1. Section 620.12 (a) (2) is amended to read:

§ 620.12 Reporting points—(a) Flights within or penetrating a domestic ADIZ or entering the United States across an International Boundary ADIZ. • • •

(2) DVFR flights. The pilot in command of an aircraft shall not enter or operate within an ADIZ unless the aircraft is equipped with a functioning two-way radio and shall not enter an ADIZ until he has reported to an appropriate aeronautical facility either (a) the estimated time, position, and altitude at which he will penetrate the ADIZ or (b) the time, position, and altitude at which the aircraft passed the last reporting point along the flight path of the aircraft prior to penetration of an ADIZ and his estimated time over the next reporting point along the intended flight path of the aircraft.

NOTE: Whenever it shall appear that the previously filed estimate is in error, as to time by more than five minutes, or as to position by more than 20 miles, a corrected estimate shall be filed with an appropriate aeronautical facility.

2. Section 620.13 (a) is amended to read:

§ 620.13 Authorized exceptions—(a) Intra-zone VFR flights. A CAA airways operation facility exercising security control may, under certain conditions, authorize VFR flights which are (1) local, (2) between points located within the boundaries of an ADIZ, or (3) from points within an ADIZ to points outside thereof, without compliance with the flight plan and reporting requirements of §§ 620.11 and 620.12. Such flights shall be operated in accordance with the instructions, if any, issued at the time the authorization is granted.

3. Section 620.15 (b) is amended to read:

§ 620.15 Adherence to DVFR flight plans and air traffic clearances. • • •

(b) DVFR flights. No deviation shall be made from a DVFR flight plan unless prior notification is given to an appropriate aeronautical facility, except, that a pilot may, when within 20 miles of his destination, commence his descent from cruising altitude without making a report of change in altitude.

Such appraisal shall be final in the absence of an appeal to reappraisement, as provided in section 501 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 1501). In the case of such articles withdrawn for entry under the general tariff law under a warehouse bond or a bond conditioned upon exportation, the statutory period of the bond and any extension thereof shall be computed from the date of withdrawal from entry under the provisions of Public Law No. 705 of the 81st Congress.

TITLE 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Federal Security Agency

PART 141—TESTS AND METHODS OF ASSAY FOR ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

PART 146—CERTIFICATION OF BATCHES OF ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

BACITRACIN OPHTHALMIC

By virtue of the authority vested in the Federal Security Administrator by the provisions of section 507 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (52 Stat. 1040, 1055, as amended by 59 Stat. 463, 61 Stat. 11, 63 Stat. 409; 21 U. S. C. and Sup., 357), the regulations for tests and methods of assay for antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR 141.1 et seq., and 1949 Supp.; 15 F. R. 9446) and certification of batches of antibiotic and antibiotic-containing drugs (21 CFR 146.1 et seq., and 1949 Supp.; 15 F. R. 9464) are amended in the following manner:

1. Add the following section to Part 141:

§ 141.408 Bacitracin ophthalmic—(a) Potency. Proceed as directed in § 141.401 (a).

(b) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141.5 (a).

(c) pH. Proceed as directed in § 141.5 (b), using a solution prepared as directed in the labeling for the drug.

2. Add the following section to Part 146:

§ 146.408 Bacitracin ophthalmic—(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Bacitracin ophthalmic is bacitracin with or without one or more suitable local anesthetics and preservatives, and with or without one or more suitable and harmless buffer substances and diluents. Its moisture content is not more than 5 percent. The bacitracin is of such quantity that when dissolved as directed in its labeling the potency of such solution is not less than 500 units per milliliter and maintains its labeled potency after it has been kept for 7 days at a temperature of 15° C. (59° F.). Such solution has a pH of 6.75,±.25. The bacitracin used conforms to the requirements of § 146.401 (a), except subparagraphs (2) and (4) of that paragraph. Each other ingredient used, if its name is recognized in the U. S. P. or N. F., conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by such official compendium.

(b) Packaging. The immediate container of bacitracin ophthalmic shall be a tight container as defined by the U. S. P.; its closure shall be one through which a hypodermic needle cannot be introduced; and the immediate container and closure shall be of such composition as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused which are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded. Each such container shall contain not less than 5,000 units, and each may be packaged in combination with a container of the solvent, distilled water U. S. P.

(c) Labeling. Each package shall bear, on its label or labeling as hereinafter indicated, the following:

(1) On the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container:

(i) The batch mark;

(ii) The number of units in the immediate container;

(iii) If it contains a local anesthetic or a preservative, the quantity of each in the immediate container;

(iv) The statement "Expiration date ----------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified; and

(v) The statement "Warning—Not for injection."

(2) On the outside wrapper or container:

(i) Unless it is intended solely for veterinary use and is conspicuously so labeled, the statement "Caution: To be dispensed only by or on the prescription of a ----------," the blank being filled in with the word "physician" or "dentist" or "veterinarian," or with any combination of two or all of these words as the case may be; and

(ii) Unless it is intended solely for veterinary use and is conspicuously so labeled, a reference specifically identifying a readily available medical publication containing directions and precautions (including contraindications and possible sensitization) adequate for the use of such bacitracin ophthalmic; or a reference to a brochure or other printed matter containing such directions and precautions, and a statement that such brochure and printed matter will be sent on request.

(3) On the label or labeling, if a local anesthetic is present, after the name "bacitracin ophthalmic," wherever it appears, the words "with ---------" (the blank being filled in with the common or usual name of the local anesthetic), in juxtaposition with such name.

(4) On the circular or other labeling within or attached to the package, if the drug is intended solely for veterinary use, directions and precautions adequate for the use of such bacitracin ophthalmic, including:

(i) Clinical indications;

(ii) Dosage and administration;

(iii) Contraindications, and

(iv) Untoward effects that may accompany administration.

If two or more such immediate containers are in such package, the number of such circulars or other labeling shall not be less than the number of such immediate containers.

(d) Requests for certification; samples. (1) In addition to complying with the requirements of § 146.2, a person who requests certification of a batch shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark, the number of packages of each size in such batch, the batch mark and (unless it was previously submitted) the date on which the latest assay of the bacitracin used in making such batch was completed, the number of units in each immediate container, the date on which the latest assay of the drug comprising such batch was completed, the quantity of each other ingredient used in making the batch, and a statement that each such ingredient used conforms to the requirements prescribed therefor by this section.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, such person shall submit in connection with his request results of the tests and assays listed after each of the following, made by him on an accurately representative sample of:

(i) The batch; potency, moisture, and pH of the solution prepared as directed in its labeling.

(ii) The bacitracin used in making the batch; potency, toxicity, moisture, and pH.

(3) Except as otherwise provided by subparagraph (4) of this paragraph, such person shall submit in connection with his request in the quantities hereinafter indicated accurately representative samples of the following:

(i) The batch; one immediate container for each 5,000 immediate containers in the batch, but in no case less than 20 immediate containers or more than 100 immediate containers, collected by taking single immediate containers, before or after labeling, at such intervals throughout the entire time of packaging the batch that the quantities packaged during the intervals are approximately equal.

(ii) The bacitracin used in making the batch; 6 packages, each containing approximately equal portions of not less than 500 milligrams packaged in accordance with the requirements of § 146.401 (b).

(iii) In case of an initial request for certification, each other ingredient used in making the batch; one package of each, containing approximately 5.0 grams.

(4) No result referred to in subparagraph (2) (ii) of this paragraph, and no sample referred to in subparagraph (3) (ii) of this paragraph, is required if such result or sample has been previously submitted.

(e) Fees. The fee for the services rendered with respect to each batch under the regulations in this part shall be:

(1) $1.00 for each immediate container in the sample submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (3) (i) of this section; $4.00 for each package in the sample submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (3) (ii) and (iii) of this section; and

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations other than examination of such immediate containers are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 for the issuance of a certificate, the cost of such investigations.

The fee prescribed by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the request for certification unless such fee is covered by an advance deposit maintained in accordance with § 146.8 (d).

This order, which provides for tests and methods of assay and certification of a new antibiotic preparation, bacitracin ophthalmic, shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industries will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with the interested members of the affected industries and since it would be against public interest to delay providing for tests and methods of assay and certification of the new antibiotic preparation, bacitracin ophthalmic.

TITLE 31—MONEY AND FINANCE: TREASURY

Chapter II—Fiscal Service, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter A—Bureau of Accounts

PART 203—SPECIAL DEPOSITS OF PUBLIC MONEYS UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED SEPTEMBER 24, 1917, AS AMENDED

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Part 203, Subchapter A, Chapter II, Title 31 of the Code of Federal Regulations of the United States of America (appearing also as Treasury Department Circular No. 92 (Revised) dated November 10, 1949, as amended), is hereby amended in the following respects:

1. By revising § 203.0 to read as follows:

§ 203.0 Introductory. Banks and trust companies designated and qualified pursuant to the terms of this part are given the title "Special Depositaries of Public Moneys" and are hereinafter referred to as "Special Depositaries". Special Depositaries are permitted to make payment in the form of a deposit credit for the purchase price of United States Government obligations purchased by such banks or trust companies for their own account or for the account of their customers, who enter their subscriptions through these banks or trust companies, when this method of payment is permitted under the terms of the circulars inviting subscriptions to such issues. Special Depositaries also are permitted to establish, subject to the conditions hereinafter prescribed, deposit credit on their books for funds representing income taxes withheld under section 1622 of the Internal Revenue Code (subchapter D of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code) and employment taxes under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, as amended (subchapter A of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code). Special Depositaries also are permitted to establish, subject to conditions to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, deposit credit on their books for funds representing such other classes of internal revenue taxes as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time specifically designate. The deposit credit set up under this designation are called "Treasury Tax and Loan Accounts". Under this arrangement the large sums of money raised by the Treasury through financing operations and from deposits of certain taxes are left on deposit in local banking institutions until the Treasury needs to withdraw them to meet Government expenditures, thus avoiding the dislocations in the banking system which might result from immediate withdrawal of such funds.

2. By adding the following additional paragraphs to § 203.13:

(c) Deposit in the Treasury Tax and Loan Account, subject to conditions to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, funds representing deposits by taxpayers with the bank of such other classes of internal revenue taxes as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time designate and which the bank has been duly authorized to receive.

(d) Deposit in the Treasury Tax and Loan Account, in addition to funds described in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this paragraph, and subject to conditions to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, funds representing such classes of internal revenue taxes as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time designate, in an amount not exceeding the amount of checks drawn on the depositary bank by taxpayers.

3. By redesignating §§ 203.17 and 203.18 as §§ 203.23 and 203.24, respectively, and by adding immediately after § 203.16 the following sections:

§ 203.17 Deposit of funds representing certain Federal taxes. Special Depositaries may elect, at their option subject to the conditions hereinafter prescribed, to deposit in their Treasury Tax and Loan Accounts funds representing such classes of internal revenue taxes as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time designate, as referred to in § 203.13 (d). Such deposits shall be made on the basis of (a) certificates of advice to the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the depositary is located, stating that a sum specified has been deposited for the account of such Federal Reserve Bank, as Fiscal Agent of the United States, in the Treasury Tax and Loan Account of the depositary; or (b) documents entitled "Special Draft for Credit in Treasury Tax and Loan Account" (Form 453). Certificates of advice or special drafts, as the case may be, will be prepared and transmitted to the depositaries by Federal Reserve Banks. The terms and conditions governing the use of special drafts are set forth in the following section.

SPECIAL DRAFT FOR CREDIT IN TREASURY TAX AND LOAN ACCOUNT

§ 203.18 Preparation by Federal Reserve Banks of Special Draft for Credit in Treasury Tax and Loan Account. A Special Draft for Credit in Treasury Tax and Loan Account, in the form prescribed, representing such classes of internal revenue taxes as the Secretary of the Treasury may from time to time designate, as referred to in § 203.13 (d), will be prepared daily by each Federal Reserve Bank for each Special Depositary in its district, pursuant to instructions issued by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Federal Reserve Banks, as Fiscal Agents of the United States.

§ 203.19 Optional deposit into Treasury and Tax Loan Account of amounts of special drafts. Pursuant to authority contained in this part, the Special Depositary may exercise its option of depositing in its Treasury Tax and Loan Account moneys in an amount equal to the amount of the special draft by executing such draft and presenting it to the Federal Reserve Bank upon which it is drawn, in accordance with the terms and provisions appearing on the face of the special draft and hereinafter described. Upon proper execution and timely presentation according to the terms thereof, the special draft will be paid by the Federal Reserve Bank on which drawn, as Fiscal Agent of the United States, by charge to the General Account of the Treasurer of the United States.

§ 203.20 Execution of special drafts. The Special Depositary shall execute the special draft by signing and dating it in the spaces provided on the face thereof. Execution of the draft will constitute certification that the amount shown has been credited by the Special Depositary to the Federal Reserve Bank on which drawn, as Fiscal Agent of the United States, Treasury Tax and Loan Account.

§ 203.21 Transmission of special drafts to Federal Reserve Banks. The Special Depositary, if a member of the Federal Reserve System, or non-member clearing bank, should transmit the executed special draft to a correspondent member bank or directly to the Federal Reserve Bank or Branch in which the depositary's reserve or clearing account is maintained. Non-member depositaries should transmit the special draft through their correspondent banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System or non-member clearing banks. All special drafts transmitted through a correspondent bank should be restrictively endorsed by the depositary on the reverse thereof in favor of the correspondent bank. Such correspondent banks will endorse, date, and present for payment, the special draft to the Federal Reserve Bank or Branch on which drawn. All risks of collection of special drafts shall be borne by the Special Depositaries in whose favor they are drawn.

§ 203.22 Time for presentation of special drafts. The special draft should be presented to the Federal Reserve Bank or Branch before the expiration of the number of business days specified on the face of the special draft, in order to receive credit therefor. The Federal Reserve Bank will specify on the face of the special draft, at the time of preparation, the number of business days within which it should be presented, which period of time will be based upon normal check collection schedules for the point at which the Special Depositary is located. The Federal Reserve Bank may, in its discretion, reject any special draft not presented within the time specified on the face thereof.

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-4, as Amended February 9, 1951]

M-4—CONSTRUCTION

This order as amended is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense, and is issued pursuant to authority granted by section 101 of the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, in the issuance of this amendment, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the necessity of immediate action.

This amendment redesignates §§ 71.1 to 71.16 to be sections 1 to 16 respectively; it adds a new paragraph (i) to section 3 and new paragraphs (e) and (f) to section 5; and also changes the word "Regional" to "Field" in sections 11 (b) and 12.

As amended, this order reads as follows:

Sec. ORDER
1. What this order does.
2. Policy of the National Production Authority.
3. Definitions.
4. Prohibited construction.
5. Exemptions.
6. Authorization for certain construction.
7. Multiple use of buildings, structures or projects.
8. Scope of this order.
9. Prohibited deliveries.
10. Defense against claims for damages.
11. Applications for adjustment or exception.
12. Communications.

SECTION 1. What this order does. In order to further the purposes of the Defense Production Act of 1950 by conserving critical materials and services needed for the defense program, this order prohibits the commencement of construction of certain types of buildings, structures and projects unless specific exception is made, or authorization issued, by the National Production

Authority. The construction prohibited generally does not further the defense effort, either directly or indirectly, and does not increase the Nation's production capacity for defense. The order allows, within specified limits, small construction jobs, and necessary maintenance and repair of buildings, structures or projects, and also permits, under specified circumstances, the restoration of buildings, structures, or projects in the event of a disaster, act of God, or an act of war.

SEC. 2. Policy of the National Production Authority. In the event that increasing shortages clearly indicate the necessity for such action, in the national interest, the National Production Authority may further limit the commencement of construction of additional types of buildings, structures or projects which do not support the defense effort, or increase the Nation's production capacity for defense.

SEC. 3. Definitions. For the purpose of this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Construction" means the erection of any building, structure, or project, or addition or extension thereto, or alteration thereof, through the incorporation-in-place on the site of materials which are to be an integral and permanent part of the building, structure or project.

(c) (1) "Commence construction" means to incorporate into a building, structure or project, a substantial quantity of materials which are to be an integral and permanent part of such building, structure, or project (for example, the pouring or placing of footings or other foundations).

(2) The following activities do not constitute commencing construction: Demolition of buildings; tearing out partitions; site preparation; erecting temporary fences or construction barricades, work sheds, and shanties; bringing utilities to the site; fabrication or processing of building materials, building equipment, or personal property to be installed.

(d) "Construction cost" means the total expense for building materials, building equipment, labor and services used in the construction of the particular building, structure or project, by whomever spent; but does not include the installed cost of personal property.

(e) "Consumer goods" means articles or commodities that directly satisfy human wants or desires, and which are capable of use without further processing (for example, clothing, food, furniture, floor covering, household appliances, motor vehicles, etc.). They are distinguished from capital goods (for example, dynamos, industrial ovens, generators, etc.). They are distinguished also from production goods that satisfy wants only indirectly as factors in the production of other articles or commodities (for example, machine tools, heavy duty presses, etc.).

(f) "Damage restoration" means restoring to substantially the same size and condition on the same site, any building, structure or project which has been damaged by storm, fire, flood, or other disaster, or by act of God, or act of war.

(g) "Maintenance and repair" means such work as is necessary to keep a building, structure, or project in sound working condition or to rehabilitate a building, structure, or project or any portion thereof, when the same has been rendered unsafe or unfit for service by wear and tear, or other similar causes. The term does not include any building operation or job where substantial structural alterations or changes in design are made.

(h) "Personal property" means property used in connection with, but which does not become a part of, the building, structure, or project in the sense of its becoming a permanent part of the real property upon which it is located or in which it is installed.

(i) "Office building" means any building the principal use of which is to provide office space or office facilities, regardless of whether it is designed for the exclusive or partial use of its owner or is to be used commercially and rented to prospective tenants, including buildings for use by government agencies. The size of the building is not a determinative factor in deciding whether a building is an office building as the term includes both one-story and multi-storied structures; but the term does not include a private residence with incidental office space located therein for the use of the occupant.

SEC. 4. Prohibited construction. (a) (1) Except as permitted in section 5, or pursuant to an adjustment or exception granted under section 11, after midnight October 26, 1950, no person shall commence construction of any building, structure, or project to be used for, or in connection with, any of the purposes specified, as set forth in section 15.

(2) Since October 26, 1950, the National Production Authority has issued exceptions to permit the commencement of construction of specific buildings, structures, or projects of the type prohibited by section 15. All such exceptions granted prior to January 13, 1951, will cease to be effective 120 days after the date of issuance, unless construction has been commenced within that time; and construction of any such building, structure, or project may not be commenced thereafter without a further authorization from the National Production Authority.

(b) (1) After midnight, January 13, 1951, no person shall commence construction of any building, structure, or project to be used for, or in connection with, any of the purposes specified, as set forth in section 16, until a specific authorization therefor has been issued by the National Production Authority. As a general rule, no authorization will be issued prior to February 15, 1951. However, in emergency situations, an authorization may be issued by the National Production Authority prior to that date. (The conditions which must exist before an authorization will be issued are set forth in section 6.)

(2) Further, in matters involving unreasonable hardship, or when required in the interest of the national defense, the National Production Authority may grant an exception from this order at any time, pursuant to section 11, with respect to types of construction specified in section 16.

SEC. 5. Exemptions. The following construction in connection with the buildings, structures, or projects to be used in connection with any of the purposes specified in sections 15 and 16 is exempted from this order:

(a) Maintenance and repair on any building, structure, or project.

(b) Small jobs of new construction or in connection with any such building, structure, or project including, but not limited to, alterations, additions, improvements, and modernizations where the construction cost of all such work shall not exceed the sum of $5,000 for any consecutive twelve months' period.

(c) Reconstruction of any such building, structure, or project following a fire, flood, storm, disaster, act of God, or act of war, which occurred on or after July 29, 1950.

(d) Construction by, or for the account of, the Department of Defense or the Atomic Energy Commission.

(e) Buildings, structures or projects for radio broadcasting and television broadcasting.

(f) Printing establishments where the primary use of the building is the publication of a newspaper; or printing establishments which are operated by a publishing company primarily for the publication of books and periodicals.

SEC. 6. Authorization for certain construction. (a) Any person desiring to erect a building, structure, or project to be used for, or in connection with, any of the purposes specified, as set forth in section 16, may apply for a National Production Authority authorization to commence such construction. The application shall be in such form as may be prescribed by the National Production Authority.

(b) Authorization under this section will be granted if the National Production Authority is satisfied that the desired construction conforms to the following requirements:

(1) It furthers the defense effort by providing facilities of the type specified in section 16 in areas adjacent to military establishments or defense plants and projects, which construction the National Production Authority considers necessary to furnish or to supplement facilities in connection with the activities of the Defense Production Administration, the Department of Defense or the Atomic Energy Commission, including their programs for increasing production capacity; or

(2) It is essential to maintenance of public health, safety or welfare.

(c) Further, with respect to an application for authorization to construct a facility not directly related to the defense effort, the NPA will consider the type and quantity of materials on hand, and needed, for the facility; and the effect on the community at large if the authorization were denied.

SEC. 7. Multiple use buildings, structures, or projects. Where a building, structure, or project to be constructed is designed for a number of different uses and occupants, no portion thereof shall be constructed for use or occupancy in connection with any of the purposes specified in sections 15 or 16 where the construction cost apportionable to such use or occupancy will exceed the small job exemption provided for in section 5 (b).

SEC. 8. Scope of this order. This order shall apply to construction in the 48 States, the District of Columbia, and in the territories and insular possessions of the United States.

SEC. 9. Prohibited deliveries. No person shall accept an order for, sell, deliver, or cause to be delivered, material, equipment, or supplies which he knows, or has reason to believe, will be used in violation of the provisions of this order.

SEC. 10. Defense against claims for damages. No person shall be held liable for damages or penalties for any default under contract or order which shall result directly or indirectly from compliance with any regulation or order of the National Production Authority (including any direction, directive or other instruction), notwithstanding that any such regulation or order shall thereafter be declared by a judicial or other competent authority to be invalid.

SEC. 11. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that:

(a) Such provision works an unreasonable hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade, industry, or other relative position; or that enforcement of such provision against him would not be in the interest of the national defense. In determining whether unreasonable hardship exists, the National Production Authority will consider, among other things:

(1) The extent of the work done by the applicant incident to the proposed construction.

(2) Whether the building, structure, or project requires reconstruction as a result of a fire, flood, storm, disaster, act of God, or act of war.

(3) Whether a building, structure, or project of the applicant has been seized by legal action under eminent domain, or condemned by responsible governmental authorities; and the applicant requests permission to replace such facility.

(b) Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the reasons why denial of the request would result in unreasonable hardship, or would not be in the interest of the national defense. All such requests should be addressed to the Field Office of the Department of Commerce in the region of the site of the proposed construction.

SEC. 12. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the Field Offices of the Department of Commerce, Ref: NPA, M-4.

SEC. 13. Reports. Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to the National Production Authority as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act (Pub. Law 831, 77th Cong., 5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

SEC. 14. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provisions of this order, or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority, or wilfully conceals a material fact, or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order, is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against such person to suspend any authority to commence or complete construction or such other assistance as may be rendered pursuant to this order.

Sec.
1. Scope and application of regulation.
2. Definitions.
3. General requirements and registration.
4. Extension of credit.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 7 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105. Interpret or apply sec. 602, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.

SECTION 1. Scope and application of regulation. (a) This regulation is issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (hereinafter called the "Board"), with the concurrence of the Housing and Home Finance Administrator with respect to provisions relating to real estate construction credit involving residential property and multi-unit residential property, under authority of the "Defense Production Act of 1950," approved September 8, 1950 (hereinafter called the "Act"), and Executive Order No. 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), dated September 9, 1950.

(b) This regulation applies to any person who is engaged in the business of extending real estate credit with respect to residences, residential property, multi-unit residential property, or nonresidential property, including any person who acts as agent in arranging for such credit. For the purposes of this regulation, a person shall be deemed to be engaged in the business of extending such real estate credit if, in his own right or as agent or fiduciary, he either (1) extends or has extended such real estate credit more than three different times during the current calendar year or during the preceding calendar year, or (2) extends or has extended such real estate credit in an amount or amounts aggregating more than $50,000 during the current calendar year or during the preceding calendar year. For the purposes of this section, such real estate credit shall be deemed to include credit with respect to any residence, residential property, multi-unit residential property, or nonresidential property, whether or not there is any new construction thereon, and whether or not such credit is extended, insured, or guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans' Administration, or any other department, independent establishment or agency of the United States, and whether or not such credit is exempt from this regulation.

SEC. 2. Definitions. For the purposes of this regulation, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Person" has the meaning given it in section 702 (a) of the act.[1]

(b) "Registrant" means a person who is registered pursuant to section 3.

(c) "Credit" has the meaning given it in section 602 (d) (2) of the act.[2]

(d) "Extending credit", "extension of credit" and "extends credit" shall include extending or maintaining any credit, or renewing, revising, consolidating, refinancing, purchasing, selling, discounting, or lending or borrowing on, any obligation arising out of any credit, or arranging as agent for any of the foregoing, and also shall include a sale of, or other transfer of title to, real property if the vendee or transferee assumes, or takes such property subject to, indebtedness secured by a mortgage or other lien upon such property.

[1] Section 702 (a) of the act provides: "The word 'person' includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, or legal successor or representative of the foregoing, and includes the United States or any agency thereof, or any other government, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of any of the foregoing: Provided, That no punishment provided by this act shall apply to the United States, or to any such government, political subdivision, or government agency."

[2] Section 602 (d) (2) of the act provides: "'Credit' means any loan, mortgage, deed of trust, advance, or discount; any conditional sale contract; any contract to sell or sale or contract of sale, of property or services, either for present or future delivery, under which part or all of the price is payable subsequent to the making of such sale or contract; any rental-purchase contract, or any contract for the bailment, leasing, or other use of property under which the bailee, lessee, or user has the option of becoming the owner thereof, obligates himself to pay as compensation a sum substantially equivalent to or in excess of the value thereof, or has the right to have all or part of the payments required by such contract applied to the purchase price of such property or similar property; any option, demand, lien, pledge, or similar claim against, or for the delivery of property or money; any purchase, discount, or other acquisition of, or any credit under the security of, any obligation or claim arising out of any of the foregoing; and any transaction or series of transactions having a similar purpose or effect."

(e) "Real estate construction credit" means any credit[3] which—

(1) Is wholly or partly secured by, or
(2) Is for the purpose of purchasing or carrying, or
(3) Is for the purpose of financing, or
(4) Involves a right to acquire or use,

new construction on real property or real property on which there is new construction, if such new construction is a residence, multi-unit residence, or nonresidential structure, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence, or nonresidential structure, whether such credit is extended before or after such new construction is begun; but the term "real estate construction credit" shall not include any loan or loans made, insured, or guaranteed, in whole or in part, by the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans' Administration, or any other department, independent establishment or agency in the executive branch of the United States, or by any wholly owned Government corporation, or by any mixed-ownership Government corporation as defined in the Government Corporation Control Act, as amended (including any loan evidenced by obligations of any local public agency or public housing agency which national banks may purchase pursuant to the provisions of section 602 (a) of the Housing Act of 1949).

(f) "New construction" means any structure, or any major addition or major improvement to a structure, which is or has been begun after 12 o'clock meridian, August 3, 1950. Construction will be deemed to have been "begun" when any essential materials which are to be an integral part of the structure have been affixed to or incorporated on the site in a permanent form.

(g) "Major addition" or "major improvement" means any enlargement, reconstruction, alteration, or repair of an existing structure,[4] or any other addition or improvement which becomes or is to become physically attached to and a part of the structure,[4] if the cost or estimated cost of such addition or improvement exceeds $2,500, and also exceeds (1) if the structure is a residence or multi-unit residence, an amount determined by multiplying $1,500 by the number of family units in such residence or multi-unit residence prior to such addition or improvement, or (2) if the structure is a nonresidential structure, an amount equal to 15 percent of the appraised value of the nonresidential structure[5] as determined in good faith by the Registrant who extends the credit.[6]

(h) "Real property" includes leaseholds and other interest in such property.

(i) The "maximum loan value" of any property[7] shall be the amount which is computed in the manner prescribed in section 7. In making such computations:

(1) For a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence, or nonresidential structure, "value" shall be the cost or estimated cost[8] of such major addition or major improvement;

(2) For residential property, other than major additions or major improvements:

(i) In the case of an extension of credit in connection with a bona fide sale of residential property, "value" shall be the bona fide sale price;

(ii) In the case of any other extension of credit with respect to residential property:

(a) If the entire cost of the property to the borrower has been incurred by him not more than 12 months prior to the extension of credit or is to be incurred by him after such extension of credit, "value" shall be the bona fide cost of the property to the borrower, including a bona fide estimate of the cost of completing new construction on such property when the extension of credit is for the purpose of financing such new construction;

(b) If any part of the cost of the property to the borrower has been incurred by him more than 12 months prior to the extension of credit, or if any part of such property has been acquired by gift, exchange, or inheritance, "value" shall be the appraised value as determined in good faith by the Registrant who extends the credit;

(3) For an extension of credit which is for the purpose of financing the construction of a residence on farm property, "value" shall be the total of (i) the cost or estimated cost of such new construction, and (ii) 5 percent of such cost or estimated cost.[9]

(4) For multi-unit residential property and nonresidential property, other than major additions or major improvements:

(i) In the case of an extension of credit in connection with a bona fide sale of multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property, "value" shall be the bona fide sale price;

(ii) In the case of any other extension of credit with respect to multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property, "value" shall be the appraised value as determined in good faith by the Registrant who extends the credit. Appraisals pursuant to this provision and other provisions of this regulation will be subject to inspection by the Board and the Federal Reserve Banks in accordance with section 6 (d), and appraisals found to be in excess of those dictated by sound and established practice in the community shall be deemed sufficient ground for the suspension of the Registrant pursuant to section 3 (c).

(j) "Bona fide sale price" means the amount paid or to be paid by the vendee in money or its equivalent. It includes, in addition to cash, (1) the value of any property accepted in part payment, (2) the unpaid principal amount of any indebtedness incurred or assumed by the vendee or to which the property remains subject, (3) the amount of any liens for taxes or special assessments which are in default or currently due and payable, (4) the amount of any mechanics' liens or other liens which the vendee is required to discharge, (5) the amount which the vendee agrees to pay for any alteration or other modification made or to be made to the property as an incident to the sale thereof, and (6) any amounts paid by the vendee for closing costs. It does not include any prepaid charges, or any accrued rents which will be paid to the vendee.

(k) "Residence"[10] means any structure which is used or designed for per-

[3] Extended on or after October 12, 1950, with respect to farm residences, residential property, and major additions and major improvements to residences; or on or after January 12, 1951, with respect to multi-unit residential property and major additions and major improvements to multi-unit residences; or on or after February 15, 1951, with respect to nonresidential property and major additions and major improvements to nonresidential structures.

[4] Notwithstanding this definition or any other provision of this regulation, an addition or improvement to any existing structure which will become a "residence", "multi-unit residence", or "nonresidential structure" by reason of such addition or improvement shall be treated as an addition or improvement to an existing "residence", "multi-unit residence", or "nonresidential structure", respectively; and, in determining whether the cost or estimated cost of an addition or improvement to an existing structure which will become a "residence" or "multi-unit residence" is such that it would be a major addition or major improvement within the meaning of section 2 (g), and in determining what the maximum loan value is, the determination shall be according to the number of family units which will be in the structure after the addition or improvement has been completed.

[5] For this purpose, the value of the land upon which the nonresidential structure is located is not taken into consideration; and the appraised value is the appraised value of the structure before the major addition or major improvement is made.

[6] It should be noted that section 2 (f) defines "new construction" as including "any major addition or major improvement" and that section 2 (e) defines "real estate construction credit" as including certain credit with respect to "real property on which there is new construction". Accordingly, if a major addition or major improvement is made to an existing structure, even though such structure was erected or begun prior to August 3, 1950, any subsequent extension of credit with respect to such structure or the property on which it is located is "real estate construction credit". However, in determining whether property has become "real property on which there is new construction" by reason of a major addition or major improvement having been made to an existing structure, there shall be considered only such costs as are or have been incurred during any period of 12 consecutive months (or during a period not exceeding twelve months beginning January 12, 1951, if the structure is a residence or multi-unit residence, or beginning February 15, 1951, if the structure is a nonresidential structure).

[7] As used here, "property" means residential property, multi-unit residential property, nonresidential property, a residence on farm property, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, a multi-unit residence, or nonresidential structure, as the case may be.

[8] Based on such evidence and supporting data as normally would be required by a prudent lender.

[9] The 5 percent is added when the extension of credit is for the purpose of financing the construction of a residence on farm property in order to take account of the value of the land upon which the residence is to be constructed.

[10] Structures such as hotels, motels, rooming houses, club houses, fraternity or sorority manent or transient dwelling purposes, and which includes at least one but not more than four family units, if the floor space contained in such family units comprises at least one-half of the floor space of such structure. Houses connected by common walls and commonly known as "row houses" or "semidetached houses" shall be considered separate structures.

(l) "Multi-unit residence" [9] means any structure such as an apartment house or apartment hotel (whether owned cooperatively or otherwise) which is used or designed for permanent or transient dwelling purposes, and which includes more than four family units, if the floor space contained in such family units comprises at least one-half of the floor space of such structure.

(m) "Family unit" means space which is used or designed for dwelling purposes and which contains one or more rooms with kitchen facilities (or space designed for kitchen facilities) in or appurtenant to such rooms.

(n) "Residential property" means any real property, other than farm property, on which there is or is to be a residence or residences.

(o) "Farm property" means any real property, other than multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property, located outside of urban areas, which is principally used for the production of crops, livestock or other agricultural commodities.

(p) "Multi-unit residential property" means any real property on which there is or is to be a multi-unit residence or multi-unit residences.

(q) "Nonresidential property" means any real property on which there is or is to be a nonresidential structure or structures.

(r) "Nonresidential structure" [10] means any structure other than—

(1) A residence,

(2) A multi-unit residence,

(3) A school, hospital, or church,

(4) A structure exclusively used or designed for use—

(i) By a public utility,

(ii) By any Government or political subdivision, or

(5) A structure more than 80 percent of the floor space of which is used or designed for use—

(i) In processing materials, goods, or articles into finished or partly finished manufactured products,

(ii) In mining or otherwise extracting raw materials, or houses, rest homes, and the like, in which more than one-half of the floor space consists of units which do not contain kitchen facilities or space designed for kitchen facilities shall not be deemed to be residences or multi-unit residences. See section 2 (r).

[10] Nonresidential structures ordinarily subject to this regulation include, among others, the following: Office buildings, warehouses, stores (including sales display and service facilities, whether wholesale or retail), banks, hotels, motels, motor courts, garages, automobile service stations, restaurants, and clubs.

(s) "Public utility" means any transportation company, electric light or power company, gas company, water company, pipeline company, telephone company, telegraph company, or other similar business which is operated for the convenience, service or accommodation of the public if (1) the operations of such company are supervised by a Federal or State agency, or (2) the members of the public as such are entitled as of right to demand and use its facilities or services.

SEC. 3. General requirements and registration—(a) General requirements. No person engaged in the business of extending real estate credit with respect to residences, residential property, multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property shall extend real estate construction credit unless (1) he is registered pursuant to this section, and (2) he has no knowledge of, and has no reason to know, any fact by reason of which such credit fails to comply with any applicable provision of this regulation.

(b) Registration. Every person engaged in the business of extending real estate credit with respect to residences, residential property, multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property shall be deemed to be registered pursuant to this regulation until such time as the Board, by public announcement, may require registration statements to be filed by all, or any specified classes of, such persons. Should the Board require such registration statements, a person shall continue to be registered after the time such statements are required only if he shall have complied with the requirements of the Board's announcement. Every person who is registered in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph is referred to in this regulation as a "Registrant".

(c) Suspension of registration. Any Registrant may, after reasonable notice and opportunity for a hearing, be suspended by the Board, as to all or as to particular activities or particular offices and for specified or indefinite periods, because of any willful or negligent failure to comply with any provision of this regulation.

A suspension for a specified period will terminate upon the expiration of such period. A suspension for an indefinite period may be terminated by the Board, in its discretion, if the Board is satisfied that its action would not lead to further violations of this regulation by the suspended Registrant and would not be otherwise incompatible with the public interest.

SEC. 4. Extension of credit—(a) Amount; maturity; amortization. Except as otherwise permitted by this regulation, no Registrant shall, either in connection with a sale or otherwise:

(1) Extend real estate construction credit with respect to residential property, multi-unit residential property, or nonresidential property (other than major additions or major improvements) if the amount of credit outstanding with respect to the property (including any credit exempt from, or not subject to the prohibitions of, this regulation) exceeds, or as a result of such extension of credit would exceed, the applicable maximum loan value of such property;

(2) Extend real estate construction credit for the purpose of financing a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure if the amount of credit outstanding for the purpose of financing the major addition or major improvement (including any credit exempt from, or not subject to the prohibitions of, this regulation) exceeds, or as a result of such extension of credit would exceed, the applicable maximum loan value of such major addition or major improvement;

(3) Extend real estate construction credit for the purpose of financing the construction of a residence on farm property if the amount of credit outstanding for the purpose of financing the construction of the residence (including any credit exempt from, or not subject to the prohibitions of, this regulation) exceeds, or as a result of such extension of credit would exceed, the applicable maximum loan value of such residence;

(4) Extend real estate construction credit if such credit would have a maturity which exceeds the applicable maximum maturity provisions, or would be repaid in any manner which does not conform with the applicable amortization provisions, set forth in section 7;

(5) Purchase, discount or lend on any credit instrument evidencing real estate construction credit which is subject to and not exempt from this regulation, unless the terms of such credit conformed with the provisions of section 7 when such credit was originally extended or conform with the provisions of section 7 at the time of such purchase, discount or loan; but for the purposes of this paragraph credit shall be considered to be subject to this regulation even though extended by a person other than a Registrant;

(6) If the Registrant is acting as principal—sell, or transfer title to, residential property, multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property on which there is new construction (which is a residence, multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure) and with respect to which the vendee or transferee assumes, or takes such property subject to, indebtedness secured by a mortgage or other lien upon such property, if the amount of outstanding credit (including any credit exempt from, or not subject to the prohibitions of, this regulation) which was extended after October 12, 1950 (or after January 12, 1951, if it is a sale or transfer of multi-unit residential property or after February 15, 1951, if it is a sale or transfer of nonresidential property), with respect to the property exceeds, or as a result of such sale or transfer would exceed, the applicable maximum loan value of such property, or if any outstanding real estate construction credit (subject to and not exempt from this regulation) with respect to such property does not conform with the provisions of this regulation.[12]

(b) Secondary borrowing. Except as otherwise permitted by this regulation, no Registrant shall extend real estate construction credit if he knows or has reason to know that there is, or that there is to be, any other credit extended with respect to the property [13] (1) which, when added to the credit proposed to be extended by the Registrant, would cause the total amount of credit outstanding with respect to the property [13] (including any credit exempt from, or not subject to the prohibitions of, this regulation) to exceed the applicable maximum loan value of such property, or (2) which, if it is real estate construction credit subject to and not exempt from this regulation, does not or would not comply with the applicable maximum maturity and amortization provisions set forth in section 7.

(c) Ascertaining nature of credit. No Registrant shall extend any credit unless he is satisfied, and maintains records which reasonably demonstrate on their face, whether such credit is or is not real estate construction credit; provided, however, unless the Registrant has actual knowledge that the credit is real estate construction credit, the requirements of this sentence shall not apply (1) to any extension of credit which is made by a bank, savings and loan association, or similar institution and which is to be repaid within six months and is fully secured by withdrawable shares issued by or savings accounts held with the lender, or (2) to any extension of credit in the ordinary course of business for a commercial, agricultural, or business purpose where the Registrant, because of a previous course of dealings or correspondence between himself and the borrower, has no reason to believe that the credit is or will be real estate construction credit. The preceding sentence does not require that a Registrant obtain a signed statement from each borrower, and if the Registrant is satisfied that credit is not real estate construction credit, other kinds of records may be used to demonstrate this fact. Such records may include, among others, (1) any correspondence, memoranda, loan applications or other documents of any kind, whether or not originating in connection with the credit in question, which on the basis of a reasonable interpretation show that the credit is not real estate construction credit; or (2) a written endorsement or rubber stamp legend, placed upon the credit instrument or upon other papers in connection with the credit and signed by the Registrant or a responsible officer of the Registrant, stating that he is satisfied that the credit in question is not real estate construction credit. If, however, a Registrant desires to obtain, and accepts in good faith, a signed Statement of the Borrower stating that the credit is not wholly or partly secured by, or for the purpose of purchasing or carrying, or for the purpose of financing, or one which involves the right to acquire or use, new construction on real property or real property on which there is new construction (or that such new construction, if any, is not a residence, multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure), such Statement shall be deemed to be compliance with the requirements of this paragraph.

(d) Statement of the borrower. No Registrant shall extend real estate construction credit unless he has accepted in good faith a signed Statement of the Borrower (1) stating whether the credit is with respect to property [14] subject to this regulation, and (2) stating, if the Registrant claims that such credit is exempt from this regulation, the reason for such exemption; and, if the credit is not exempt, (3) stating the amount of credit previously extended and outstanding, and the amount of any other credit to be extended, with respect to the property,[15] (4) stating, if the Registrant in computing "value" relies upon cost or estimated cost to the borrower (where such cost or estimated cost may be used for this purpose), the bona fide amount of such cost or estimated cost to the borrower, and (5) stating, if the extension of credit is in connection with a sale, the sale price, that the sale price was bona fide, and the value and a brief description of any property accepted in part payment. If the extension of credit is in connection with a sale, such Statement shall state that the vendor of the property has or will have no financial interest in such property or in the proceeds of any subsequent disposition thereof, except such interest as may be fully disclosed to the Registrant. The amount of any such financial interest of the vendor of the property retained in the property or any proceeds of the disposition thereof shall be deemed to be real estate construction credit extended with respect to such property. The Statement of the Borrower may be made, if desired, on a form a sample of which is obtainable at any Federal Reserve Bank or branch.

SEC. 5. Exemptions and exceptions—(a) Minimum amount. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any extension of credit if the total amount thereof, including all outstanding credit which was granted after October 12, 1950, with respect to the same property,[16] is not in excess of $2,500.

[12] For application to three- and four-unit residences, see section 6 (j).

[13] As used here, "property" means residential property, multi-unit residential property, nonresidential property, a residence on farm property, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure as the case may be.

[14] As used here, "property" means residential property, multi-unit residential property, nonresidential property, a residence on farm property, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence, or nonresidential structure, as the case may be.

(b) Short-term residential construction credits. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any credit which is for the purpose of financing the construction of a residence or residences or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, if the maturity of such credit is not more than 18 months; provided, that this exemption shall not be construed to permit any renewal, revision, consolidation, or refinancing of such credit except on terms which conform with the provisions of this regulation. If (1) the initial purpose of an extension of credit having a maturity exceeding 18 months is the financing of the construction of a residence or residences or a major addition or major improvement to a residence and (2) the credit instrument provides, or an agreement with respect to the credit requires, that within 32 days after completion of such construction or upon a specified date when the Registrant estimates in good faith the construction will be completed, which in either case shall be not more than 18 months after the extension of the credit, the terms of the credit shall conform thereafter with the applicable maximum loan value and the applicable maturity and amortization provisions set forth in paragraph (a) (Schedule I) of section 7, then in such event the prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to such credit until after the lapse of the time so described or specified, but if at any time after the date of the extension of such credit, a Registrant sells or transfers title to the property with respect to which the credit is extended, such sale or transfer of title must conform to the provisions of this regulation and paragraph (a) (Schedule I) of section 7.[16]

(c) Other short-term construction credits. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any credit which is for the purpose of financing the construction of a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure or a major addition or major improvement to a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure and which is extended to any person other than the owner of the property and has a maturity of not more than 24 months: Provided, That this exemption shall not be construed to permit any renewal, revision, consolidation, or refinancing of such credit except on terms which conform with the provisions of this regulation. Extensions of credit for the purpose of financing the construction of a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure or a major addition or major improvement to a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure may not be made to the owner of the property in a total amount exceeding the maximum loan value of the property; but any such credit extended to the owner of the property shall be exempt from the amor-

[16] It should be noted that this exemption does not apply to any credit which is for the purpose of financing the construction of a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure or a major addition or major improvement to a multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure. However, see section 5 (c).

tization provision in paragraph (c) (Schedule III) of section 7 if (1) such credit has a maturity of not more than 24 months, or (2) the initial purpose of credit having a maturity exceeding 24 months is the financing of the construction of a nonresidential structure or nonresidential structures or a major addition or major improvement to a nonresidential structure, and the credit instrument provides, or an agreement with respect to the credit requires, that within 32 days after completion of such construction or upon a specified date when the Registrant estimates in good faith the construction will be completed, which in either case shall be not more than 24 months after the extension of the credit, the terms of the credit shall conform thereafter with the applicable maturity and amortization provisions set forth in paragraph (c) (Schedule III) of section 7; but if at any time after the date of the extension of such credit, a Registrant sells or transfers title to the property with respect to which the credit is extended, such sale or transfer of title must conform to the provisions of this regulation and paragraph (c) (Schedule III) of section 7.

(d) Medical expenses, etc. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any extension of real estate construction credit as to which the Registrant accepts in good faith a signed Statement of the Borrower certifying that the proceeds thereof are to be used for bona fide medical, hospital, dental, or funeral expenses, or to pay debts incurred for such expenses, and that the proceeds of the extension are to be paid over in amounts specified in such Statement to persons whose names, addresses and occupations are stated therein.

(e) Casualties. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any extension of real estate construction credit as to which the Registrant accepts in good faith a signed Statement of the Borrower certifying that the proceeds thereof are to be used solely for the replacement, reconstruction or repair of a residence, multi-unit residence or nonresidential structure destroyed or substantially damaged by flood, fire, or other similar casualty.

(f) Contracts to sell. None of the provisions of this regulation shall apply to a contract to sell real property (1) which does not provide for the payment of any part of the purchase price, or of any amount to be subsequently applied to such price, except a deposit of earnest money, before the transfer of title to such property, (2) which is to be performed by a transfer of title to such property within six months after the date on which the contract was entered into, and (3) which provides for the subsequent transfer of title to such property on terms which conform to the provisions of this regulation in effect on the date the contract was entered into.

(g) Contemplated construction. Any builder or other person who had made substantial commitments or undertakings before August 3, 1950, with a view to the building of new construction which is a residence or a major addition or major improvement to a residence and who asserts that his inability to obtain credit to finance such new construction on the basis contemplated by him and by the Registrant prior to August 3, 1950, would cause him substantial hardship, may apply to the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the new construction is contemplated for an exemption from this regulation for such new construction, showing all the facts and submitting all necessary supporting documents with respect to his commitments or undertakings and why compliance with this regulation would cause him substantial hardship. If such Federal Reserve Bank after consideration of the application and supporting documents determines that substantial commitments were made prior to August 3, 1950, and that substantial hardship would result from the application of this regulation in such case, it may issue to such builder or other person a certificate approving such application and thereupon any extension of credit to such builder or other person by the Registrant named in such certificate with respect to the new construction that may be specified in such certificate shall be exempt from the prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4. Applications under this paragraph must be sent to the Federal Reserve Bank prior to March 15, 1951.

(h) Labor and material. No person shall be required to register pursuant to section 3 because of the fact that he performs labor or furnishes material for new construction on an open account, unless he shall be otherwise engaged in the business of extending real estate credit.

(i) Credits secured by life insurance policies. None of the provisions of this regulation shall apply to an extension of real estate construction credit which is fully secured by the loan value or cash surrender value of a life insurance policy; and, notwithstanding any other provisions of this regulation, a Registrant in determining the amount of credit which he may extend under the provisions of section 4 need not take into account any credit which is secured in the manner specified in this paragraph.

(j) Farm property. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any extension of real estate construction credit with respect to farm property unless the extension of credit is for the purpose of financing the construction of a residence on farm property or a major addition or major improvement to a residence on farm property.[17]

(k) Exemption for certain new construction. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to any real estate construction credit extended prior to May 1, 1951, with respect to new construction (1) begun prior to October 12, 1950, if such new construction is a residence or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, (2) begun prior to January 12, 1951, if such new construction is a multi-unit residence or a major addition or major improvement to a multi-unit residence,[18] or (3) begun prior to February 15, 1951, if such new construction is a nonresidential structure or a major addition or major improvement to a nonresidential structure.

(l) Materials, articles and services used in new construction. None of the provisions of this regulation shall apply to an extension of credit which is for the purpose of purchasing, or is in connection with a sale of, materials, articles and services for new construction if the credit is extended on terms which provide for a minimum down payment of 10 per cent, or a maximum loan value of 90 per cent, and for repayment within 30 months by (1) substantially equal monthly or weekly payments covering principal and interest, or (2) substantially equal monthly or weekly payments of principal.[19]

SEC. 6. Miscellaneous provisions—(a) Evasions. No extension of real estate construction credit complies with the requirements of this regulation if at the time it is made there is any agreement, arrangement, or understanding, of which the Registrant knows or has reason to know, by which credit is or is to be extended in violation of this regulation, even though such extension of credit is or is to be made indirectly, or which would otherwise evade or circumvent, or conceal any evasion or circumvention of, any provision of this regulation. No Registrant extending credit subject to this regulation shall divide such credit into two or more parts, or enter into any agreement or understanding with any other person as a result of which two or more credits are extended, when the purpose or effect of such action is to circumvent or avoid the amortization or maturity provisions of this regulation.

(b) Outstanding contracts and obligations. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to or affect (1) any credit with respect to residential property or a major addition or major improvement to a residence if extended prior to October 12, 1950, or pursuant to any firm commitment to extend credit made prior to such date, (2) any credit with respect to multi-unit residential property or a major addition or major improvement to a multi-unit residence if extended prior to January 12, 1951, or pursuant to any firm commitment to extend credit made prior to such date, or (3) any credit with respect to nonresidential property or a major addition or major improvement to a nonresidential structure if extended prior to February 15, 1951, or pursuant to any firm commitment to extend credit made prior to such date, if such firm commitment complies with (1) of the next succeeding sentence. For [17] It is to be noted that the term "farm property" as defined in section 2 (c) does not include multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property; accordingly, the location of multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property does not affect the question whether extensions of credit with respect to such property are subject to this regulation.

[18] For application to three- and four-unit residences, see section 6 (j).

[19] It should be noted that in certain circumstances more restrictive terms would be required by Regulation W.

this purpose, a firm commitment means either (1) a written agreement under which the Registrant is required without option or discretion on his part to extend credit upon demand by the borrower or upon compliance by the borrower with one or more conditions referred to in such agreement; or (2) any other agreement to extend credit with respect to residential property, a residence, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence which has been entered into in good faith by the parties and in reliance upon which the prospective borrower or builder has taken specific action prior to October 12, 1950, if the Registrant prior to January 1, 1951, shall have sent to the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which he does business a letter or other statement reciting the facts with respect to such agreement and the specific action taken by the prospective borrower or builder prior to October 12, 1950; or (3) any other agreement to extend credit with respect to multi-unit residential property or a major addition or major improvement to a multi-unit residence which has been entered into in good faith by the parties and in reliance upon which the prospective borrower or builder has taken specific action prior to January 12, 1951, if the Registrant prior to March 15, 1951, shall have sent to the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which he does business a letter or other statement reciting the facts with respect to such agreement and the specific action taken by the prospective borrower or builder prior to January 12, 1951.[20]

(c) Real property outside the United States. None of the prohibitions of this regulation shall apply to any extension of real estate construction credit with respect to real property in Alaska, the Panama Canal Zone, or any territory or possession outside the continental United States.

(d) Preservation of records; inspections; administrative reports. For the purpose of determining whether or not there has been compliance with the provisions of this regulation, every person extending real estate credit with respect to residences, residential property, multi-unit residential property or nonresidential property shall preserve for the period hereinafter specified such accounts, correspondence, memoranda, papers, books, and other records, or photostats or other copies thereof, as are relevant to establishing whether such person is engaged in the business of extending such real estate credit; whether each credit extended is or is not real estate construction credit with respect to a farm residence, residential property, multi-unit residential property, nonresidential property, or a major addition or major improvement to a residence, multi-unit residence, or nonresidential structure; and whether each extension of real estate construction credit conformed with the provisions of this regulation. Every such person shall preserve such records for three years after the extension of such credit, or until the repayment of the credit, whichever period is shorter: Provided, however, That if such person sells or transfers an obligation evidencing a credit (or releases collateral held as security for such credit) and delivers his records relevant to such credit to the purchaser or transferee, such person need not thereafter maintain such records with respect to the credit but shall keep a record of the identity of the purchaser or transferee and the date of such sale or transfer (or such release). Every such person shall permit the Board or a Federal Reserve Bank, by its duly authorized representatives, to inspect such records and business operations as the Board or a Federal Reserve Bank may deem necessary or appropriate; and when ordered to do so, shall furnish, under oath or otherwise, such reports, information, or records relevant to extensions of credit as the Board or a Federal Reserve Bank may deem necessary or appropriate for the enforcement and administration of this regulation.[21]

(e) Default and foreclosure; serviceman's preinduction debt. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prevent any Registrant from taking such action as he shall deem necessary in good faith (1) with respect to any extension of credit to any member or former member of the armed forces of the United States which was made to him prior to his induction into such service and assignment to active duty, or (2) for the Registrant's own protection in connection with any credit which is in default and is the subject of a bona fide collection effort by the Registrant. The prohibitions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4 shall not apply to an extension of credit by a Registrant in connection with a sale of property acquired by him through foreclosure proceedings if such credit does not exceed the unpaid principal amount of the foreclosed credit, the costs of acquisitioned through foreclosure, and the costs incurred in the rehabilitation and repair of the property prior to the sale.

(f) Veterans' programs under State law. Nothing in this regulation shall be construed as prohibiting a State (as distinguished from any other person affected by this regulation) from according rights and preferences to eligible veterans by extending, guaranteeing or insuring, in whole or in part, real estate construction credit pursuant to State legislation similar in purpose or effect to Title III of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, as amended, provided that the terms of the credit are no more liberal than are currently permitted in the case of comparable loans insured or guaranteed under that act.

(g) State housing programs. Nothing in this regulation shall prohibit extensions of credit to public corporations created pursuant to a public housing program of a State or municipality where such credit is extended, insured, or guaranteed by the State or municipality or the State or municipality has made commitments to furnish funds to assure repayment.

(h) Extension of credit for mixed purposes. In the case of an extension of credit which is partly subject to one provision of this regulation and partly subject to another provision, whether by reason of the types of property involved, or otherwise, the amount and terms of such credit shall be such as would result if the credit were divided into two or more parts and each part were treated as if it stood alone. In the case of an extension of credit which is partly subject to this regulation and partly not subject to (or exempt from) this regulation, the amount and terms of the extension of credit will comply with this regulation if they satisfy the requirements of this regulation applicable to the subject portion.

(i) Calculation of maximum maturity. In calculating the maximum maturity of credits which are subject to maximum maturity provisions in section 7, a Registrant may use, at his option, as "the date such credit is extended," any date not more than 32 days subsequent to the actual date such credit is extended.

(j) Three- and four-unit residences. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this regulation, the provisions of section 4 (a) (6), section 5 (k), and section 6 (b) which are applicable to multi-unit residences shall be applicable to residences containing three or four family units.

(k) Right of Registrant to impose stricter requirements. Any Registrant, if he desires, may refuse to extend credit, extend less credit than the amount permitted by this regulation, or require that repayment be made within a shorter period or in larger installments than prescribed in section 7.

(l) Reliance upon statement of the borrower. The facts set forth in any signed Statement of the Borrower which a Registrant accepts and relies upon in good faith shall be deemed to be correct for the purposes of the Registrant.

(m) False statements. The making or submission by any person of any false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or representation pursuant to, or which is intended to conform to, or show compliance with, any requirement or provision of this regulation, shall be a violation of this regulation.

(n) Statutory penalties. The act provides that "Any person who willfully violates any provision of section * * * 602 (relating to real estate construction credit) or any regulation or order issued thereunder, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

(o) Enforceability of contracts. Nothing in this regulation shall affect the enforceability of any contract.

SEC. 7. Supplement—(a) Schedule I; One-to-four-unit residential property and farm residences—(1) Maximum loan value. For the purposes of this regulation, maximum loan values for all residential property, farm residences, and major additions and major improvements to residences shall be determined as follows: (i) Determine the "value" of the residential property, farm residence, or major addition or major improvement to a residence, as the case may be, in accordance with section 2 (i);

[20] For application to three- and four-unit residences, see section 6 (j).

[21] The reporting and record-keeping requirements of this regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

family unit" by the number of family units in order to determine the "value per family unit"; (iii) determine the "maximum loan value per family unit" from the table below; (iv) multiply the "maximum loan value per family unit" by the number of family units in order to determine the maximum loan value of the residential property, farm residence, or major addition or major improvement, as the case may be. Where a major addition or major improvement will change the number of family units, the "value per family unit" shall be computed on the basis of the number of family units which the multi-unit residence will contain after the addition or improvement has been completed. In the case of credit extended with respect to multi-unit residences involving more than one structure, the maximum loan value may be applied separately with respect to each such structure or with respect to the entire property or all such residences, at the election of the Registrant.

If the "value per family unit" is—	The "maximum loan value per family unit" is—
Not more than $7,000	83 percent of "value per family unit."
More than $7,000 but not more than $15,000	$5,810 plus 53 percent of excess of "value per family unit" over $7,000.
More than $15,000 but not more than $23,500	$10,050 plus 20 percent of excess of "value per family unit" over $15,000.
Over $23,500	50 percent of "value per family unit."

(c) Schedule III: Nonresidential property—(1) Maximum loan value. For the purposes of this regulation, the maximum loan value of any nonresidential property or major additon or major improvement to a nonresidential structure shall be 50 percent of the "value" of the property, or the major addition or major improvement, determined in accordance with section 2 (i). In the case of credit extended with respect to nonresidential property involving more than one nonresidential structure, the maximum loan value may be applied separately or with respect to each such structure, or with respect to the entire property, at the election of the Registrant.

(b) Maturity. For the purposes of this regulation, the following maturity requirement is prescribed for credit with respect to nonresidential property and major additions and major improvements to nonresidential structures: No such credit subject to this regulation shall have a maturity of more than 25 years from the date such credit is extended.

(c) Amortization. For the purposes of this regulation the following amortization requirement is prescribed for credit with respect to nonresidential property and major additions and major improvements to nonresidential structures: With respect to every such credit subject to this regulation, amortization payments shall be required which either (i) will annually reduce the original principal amount of such credit by not less than 5 percent until the outstanding balance of such credit has been reduced to an amount equal to or less than 50 percent of the value of the property with respect to which such credit was extended or (ii) will fully liquidate the original principal amount of such credit not later than the date of the maturity of the credit through substantially equal monthly, quarterly, semiannual, or annual payments covering principal and interest or through substantially equal monthly, quarterly, semiannual, or annual payments of principal. The value referred to in the preceding sentence shall be determined as of the date the credit was extended in the manner provided in section 2 (i). If the amount of the credit when extended is not more than 50 percent of such value, such credit shall not be subject to the amortization provisions of this subparagraph.

(b) Schedule II: Multi-unit residential property—(1) Maximum loan value. For the purposes of this regulation, the following maximum loan values for all multi-unit residential property and major additions and major improvements to multi-unit residences shall be determined as follows: (i) Determine the "value" of the multi-unit residential property, or major addition or major improvement as the case may be, as provided in section 2 (i); (ii) divide this "value" by the number of family units in order to determine the "value per family unit"; (iii) determine the "maximum loan value per family unit" from the table below; (iv) multiply the "maximum loan value per family unit" by the number of family units in order to determine the maximum loan value of the residential property, farm residence, or major addition or major improvement, as the case may be. Where a major addition or major improvement will change the number of family units, the "value per family unit" shall be computed on the basis of the number of family units which the multi-unit residence will contain after the addition or improvement has been completed. In the case of credit extended with respect to multi-unit residences involving more than one structure, the maximum loan value may be applied separately with respect to each such structure or with respect to the entire property, at the election of the Registrant.

If the "value per family unit" is—	The "maximum loan value per family unit" is—
Not more than $5,000	90 percent of "value per family unit."
More than $5,000 but not more than $9,000	$4,500 plus 65 percent of excess of "value per family unit" over $5,000.
More than $9,000 but not more than $15,000	$7,100 plus 60 percent of excess of "value per family unit" over $9,000.
More than $15,000 but not more than $20,000	$10,700 plus 20 percent of excess of "value per family unit" over $15,000.
More than $20,000 but not more than $24,250	$11,700 plus 10 percent of excess of "value per family unit" over $20,000.
Over $24,250	50 percent of "value per family unit."

(2) Maturity. For the purposes of this regulation, the following maturity requirements are prescribed for credit with respect to residential property, farm residences, and major additions and major improvements to residences: No such credit subject to this regulation shall have a maturity of more than 20 years from the date such credit is extended with respect to the entire property, at the election of the Registrant.

(3) Amortization. For the purposes of this regulation the following amortization requirements are prescribed for credit with respect to residential property, farm residences, and major additions and major improvements to residences: With respect to every such credit subject to this regulation, amortization payments shall be required which either (i) will annually reduce the original principal amount of such credit by not less than 5 percent until the outstanding balance of such credit has been reduced to an amount equal to or less than 50 percent of the value of the property with respect to which such credit was extended or (ii) will fully liquidate the original principal amount of such credit not later than the date of the maturity of the credit through substantially equal monthly, quarterly, semiannual, or annual payments of principal.

2. a. Regulation X is issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, with the concurrence of the Housing and Home Finance Administrator with respect to provisions relating to real estate construction credit involving residential property and multi-unit residential property, under authority of the Defense Production Act of 1950, approved September 8, 1950, and Executive Order No. 10161, dated September 9, 1950.

The purpose of this regulation is to prescribe appropriate terms in connection with real estate construction credit, including appropriate supporting rules, in order to carry out the purposes and policy of the aforementioned authorities. The principal purpose of this amendment is to broaden the scope of this regulation by making it applicable to non-residential real estate credit with certain exceptions. The amendment also makes other changes with the view of providing more workable and effective regulation.

b. Section 709 of the Defense Production Act of 1950 provides that the functions exercised under such act shall be excluded from the operations of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237) except as to the requirements of section 3 thereof.

In amending this regulation and in accordance with the requirements of the aforesaid section 709, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM, [SEAL] S. R. CARPENTER,
Secretary.

[Regulation X, Interpretations 22, 23]

REG. X—REAL ESTATE CREDIT

INT. 22—MAXIMUM MATURITY

Maximum maturity. The maturity provision in § 225.7 of Regulation X provides for a maximum maturity of 20 years (or 25 years, in some cases) "from the date such credit is extended". In trade practice, provision often is made for the payment of the first installment of an amortized loan on the first day of the second calendar month after the month in which the credit is extended. In order to permit this practice, the Board, in Interpretation 11 to Regulation X, stated: "• • • in calculating the maximum maturity of credit subject to this part [regulation], a Registrant may, at his option, use any date not more than 32 days subsequent to the date such credit is extended."

Regulation X, as amended effective January 12, 1951, provides in § 225.6 (n) that "In calculating the maximum maturity of credit subject to this part [regulation], a Registrant may use, at his option, as 'the date such credit is extended', any date not more than 32 days subsequent to the actual date such credit is extended."

Neither § 225.6 (n) nor Interpretation 11 of Regulation X means that the first instalment of an amortized loan must be paid within 32 days after the date the credit is extended. They do mean, in effect, that the maximum maturity of credit subject to this part [regulation] may be 20 years and 32 days (or, in some cases, 25 years and 32 days) from the actual date such credit is extended.

For example, if a 20-year loan payable monthly were closed on January 1, 1951, and the first payment is made on March 1, 1951, the last payment would be made on February 1, 1971. Here the Registrant would be using February 1, 1951, which is 31 days subsequent to the actual date such credit is extended, as "the date such credit is extended", and the loan would mature 20 years from such date. The loan, in effect, would have a maturity of 20 years and 31 days from January 1, 1951, the actual date such credit was extended.

The principles of § 225.6 (n) and Interpretation 11 of Regulation X are not limited to monthly payment loans. The amortization provision in § 225.7 permits repayment through substantially equal monthly, quarterly, semiannual, or annual payments. As a further illustration, in the case of a 20-year loan payable annually in 20 instalments, where the loan is closed on February 1, 1951, the first payment could be made on March 1, 1952, because the last payment would be made and the loan would mature on March 1, 1971. Here the Registrant would be using March 1, 1951, which is 28 days subsequent to the actual date such credit is extended, as "the date such credit is extended", and the loan would mature 20 years from such date.

INT. 23—REAL ESTATE BROKERS

Real estate brokers. An inquiry has been received by the Board regarding the status under this part of real estate brokers: When are they Registrants and, in cases where they are, does this affect sales of real property by non-Registrants, when the broker acts as the vendor's sales agent?

The second paragraph of § 225.1 provides that Regulation X applies to any person who is engaged in the business of extending certain real estate credit, "including any person who acts as agent in arranging for such credit." The quoted phrase means that the regulation applies to persons who are engaged in the business of arranging for such credit as agents for lenders, not as agents for borrowers.

In a typical sale of real estate, where the real estate broker acts as sales agent for the vendor, the broker may also arrange the financing for the sale. In such cases, if the broker receives a fee from a lender for his services in arranging the financing, whether the lender is the vendor or a third party, the broker ordinarily would be considered an agent for the lender. However, if the broker does not receive such a fee, but merely contacts or otherwise negotiates with the lender on behalf of the vendor or vendee, he ordinarily would not be considered an agent for the lender.

It is the opinion of the Board that a real estate broker would be a Registrant under Regulation X if, in his own right or as agent for a lender or as a fiduciary, he either (1) extends or has extended such real estate credit more than three different times during the current calendar year or during the preceding calendar year, or (2) extends or has extended such real estate credit in an amount or amounts aggregating more than $50,000 during the current calendar year or during the preceding calendar year. For this purpose, a transaction in which a real estate broker acts as agent of the lender in arranging the financing as described above is to be considered an extension of credit by him.

The mere fact, however, that a real estate broker acting as sales agent in a sale of real property may be a Registrant does not affect a sale by a non-Registrant, unless the real estate broker extends or arranges as agent for an extension of real estate construction credit in connection with the sale.

Under § 225.4 (a) (6), a sale in which the vendee assumes, or takes the property subject to, a mortgage is not permissible if the amount of outstanding credit (extended after October 12, 1950, or January 12, 1951, as the case may be) exceeds the maximum loan value. However, this restriction is applicable only to a Registrant who is acting as principal and, therefore, does not apply to a real estate broker who is acting as agent in connection either with the sale or the financing which may be involved. Of course, if additional real estate construction credit over and above the maximum loan value of the property were extended in connection with the sale, the other provisions of § 225.4 would apply to a real estate broker who acted as agent in arranging for the extension of such additional credit in the manner described above.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 3—VETERANS' CLAIMS

PART 4—DEPENDENTS AND BENEFICIARIES CLAIMS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. In Part 3, a new centerhead is added immediately following § 3.57 to read as follows: "Determinations as to Helplessness of Children."

2. Immediately following the centerhead, "Determinations as to Helplessness of Children," a new § 3.58 is added to read as follows:

§ 3.58 Conditions which determine helplessness. (a) For the purpose of the laws authorizing the payment of compensation or pension, the term "helpless child" shall mean a child who was permanently incapable of self-support by reason of physical or mental defect at the date of attaining the age of 16 or 18 years, whichever is applicable, and at the date of filing claim. The requirement that a child be "insane, idiotic, or otherwise mentally or physically helpless" as a prerequisite to the continuance of benefits after a child attains the age of 16 years will be considered as having been met when the evidence shows that the child is permanently incapable of self-support by reason of physical or mental defect.

(b) The question of helplessness is one of fact for determination by the rating agency on competent evidence of record in the individual case. Rating criteria applicable to disabled veterans are not controlling. Principal factors for consideration are:

(1) The fact that a child is earning his or her own support is prima facie evidence that he or she is not incapable of self-support. Incapacity for self-support will not be considered to exist when the child by his or her own efforts is provided with sufficient income for his or her reasonable support and maintenance, depending on the circumstances in each individual case.

(2) Capacity for self-support is not determinable upon employment afforded solely upon sympathetic or charitable considerations and which involves no actual or substantial rendition of services.

(3) A child shown by proper evidence to have been permanently incapable of self-support prior to the delimiting age may be so held at a later date even though there may have been a short intervening period or periods when his or her condition was such that he or she was employed, provided the cause of incapability is the same as that upon which the original determination was made and there were no intervening diseases or injuries that could be considered as major factors. Employment which was only casual, intermittent, try-out, unsuccessful, or terminated after a short period by reason of disability, should not be considered as rebutting permanent incapability of self-support otherwise established.

(4) It should be borne in mind that employment of a child prior or subsequent to the delimiting age may or may not be a normal situation depending on the educational progress of the child, the economic situation of the family, indulgent attitude of parents, and the like. In those cases where the extent and nature of disability raises some doubt as to whether they would render the average person incapable of self-support, factors other than employment are for consideration. In such cases there should be considered whether the daily activities of the child in the home and community are equivalent to the activities of employment of any nature within the physical and mental capacity of the child which would provide sufficient income for reasonable support and maintenance. Lack of employment of the child either prior to the delimiting age or thereafter should not be considered as a major factor in the determination to be made unless it is shown that it was due to physical or mental defect and not to mere disinclination to work or indulgence of relatives or friends.

PART 36—SERVICEMEN'S READJUSTMENT ACT OF 1944

SUBPART A—TITLE III; LOAN GUARANTY

PARTIAL OR TOTAL LOSS OF GUARANTY OR INSURANCE

Section 36.4325 (b) is corrected to read as follows (the purpose of this amendment is to modify the paragraphing arrangement in paragraph (b) (11); the content of the paragraph remains unchanged):

§ 36.4325 Partial or total loss of guaranty or insurance. • • •

(b) In taking security required by the act and the regulations in this subpart, a holder shall obtain the required lien on property the title to which is such as to be acceptable to prudent lending institutions, informed buyers, title companies, and attorneys, generally, in the community in which the property is situated: Provided, That a title will not be unacceptable by reason of any of the limitations on the quantum or quality of the property or title stated in § 36.4350 (b), and if such holder fails in this respect or fails to comply with the act and the regulations of this subpart with respect to:

(1) Obtaining and retaining a lien of the dignity prescribed on all property upon which a lien is required by the act or the regulations in this subpart.

(2) Inclusion of power to substitute trustees (§ 36.4327),

(3) The procurement and maintenance of insurance coverage (§ 36.4326),

(4) Advice to Administrator as to default (§ 36.4315),

(5) Notice of intention to begin action (§ 36.4317),

(6) Notice to the Administrator in any suit or action, or notice of sale (§ 36.4319),

(7) The release, conveyance, substitution or exchange of security (§ 36.4324),

(8) Lack of legal capacity of a party to the transaction incident to which the guaranty or the insurance is granted (§ 36.4328),

(9) Failure of the lender to see that any escrowed or earmarked account is expended in accordance with the agreement,

(10) The taking into consideration of limitations upon the quantum or quality of the estate or property (§ 36.4350 (b)),

(11) Any other requirement of the act or the regulations in this subpart which does not by the terms of the act or the regulations in this subpart result in relieving the Administrator of all liability with respect to the loan, no claim on the guaranty or insurance shall be paid on account of the loan with respect to which such failure occurred, or in respect to which an unwilful misrepresentation occurred, until the amount by which the ultimate liability of the Administrator would thereby be increased has been ascertained. The burden of proof shall be upon the holder to establish that no increase of ultimate liability is attributable to such failure or misrepresentation. The amount of increased liability of the Administrator shall be offset by deduction from the amount of the guaranty or insurance otherwise payable, or if consequent upon loss of security shall be offset by crediting to the indebtedness the amount of the impairment as proceeds of the sale of security in the final accounting to the Administrator. To the extent the loss resultant from the failure or misrepresentation prejudices the Administrator's right of subrogation acceptance by the holder of the guaranty or insurance payment shall subordinate the holder's right to those of the Administrator.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR, Part 51]

U. S. STANDARDS FOR BROCCOLI FOR PROCESSING

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance of United States Standards for Broccoli for Processing under the authority contained in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950).

All persons who desire to submit written data, views or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file the same with M. W. Baker, Deputy Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 5:30 p. m., e. s. t. on the 30th day after the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

§ 51.147 Standards for broccoli for processing—(a) General (1) The accompanying grades for broccoli are intended to facilitate transactions between growers and processors who may wish to use a purchasing system based upon the quality of broccoli delivered. These grades are an outgrowth of the widely accepted principle that price should be directly proportional to quality. The grower who delivers high quality deserves a premium price, because such broccoli enables the processor to pack a better quality finished product.

(2) In the application of these standards, it is assumed that sellers will not sort their broccoli into separate lots of U. S. No. 1 and U. S. No. 2 grades before delivery to the buyer, and that the buyer will pay a certain price for the percentage of each grade in the lot as determined by inspection. Upon delivery, the inspector will simply sort representative samples taken from each lot and determine the percentage of each grade. Final settlement would then be made by applying the percentage of each grade to the total weight of the lot, and then applying the contract prices established for each grade. Under such a procedure, there is no need for tolerances.

(b) Grades—(1) U. S. No. 1. U. S. No. 1 consists of stalks of broccoli which are fresh, tender, and have good characteristic color, and compact heads; which are free from decay and cull material, and are free from damage caused by discoloration, freezing, hollow stem or pithiness, scars, dirt or other foreign material, disease, insects, and mechanical or other means. (See Trimming Requirements).

(i) Unless otherwise specified, the length shall be not more than 6 inches nor less than 4 inches, and the diameter of the stem shall be not less than three eighths inch. (See Cull Material).

(2) U. S. No. 2. U. S. No. 2 consists of stalks of broccoli which are fresh, tender, and have good characteristic color, and fairly compact heads; which are free from decay and cull material, and are free from damage caused by scars, dirt or other foreign material, disease, insects; and are free from serious damage caused by discoloration, freezing, hollow stem or pithiness, and mechanical or other means. (See Trimming Requirements.)

(i) Unless otherwise specified, the length shall be not more than 6 inches nor less than 3 inches, and the diameter of the stem shall be not less than one-fourth inch. (See Cull Material.)

(c) Culls. Culls are stalks of broccoli which fail to meet the requirements of either of the foregoing grades.

(d) Cull material. (See definition No. 6.)

(f) Definitions. (1) "Stalk" means a portion of the broccoli plant including the stem, bud cluster and leaves.

(2) "Fresh" means that the broccoli is not badly wilted or excessively flabby.

(3) "Tender" means that the broccoli is succulent, and reasonably free from fibrous material and is not tough, or stringy.

(4) "Good characteristic color" means that the stem and external portion of the head has a light green or darker shade of green color, except that purplish color shall also be allowed on the external portion of the head.

(5) "Compact head" means that the individual head is closely formed, not open or spread to the extent that it has a loose appearance, and that the individual florets are fairly tightly formed and not more than moderately elongated.

(6) "Cull material" means all foreign material, any portion of the stem in excess of the maximum length specified, all stalks under the minimum length specified for the U. S. No. 2 grade, and all coarse, damaged and discolored leaves, and leaves extending more than one and one-half inches above the top of the head.

(7) "Damage" means any defect which more than slightly affects the appearance, or the processing or edible quality of the head, or any portion of the stem within 5 inches from the top of the head. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as damage:

(i) Discoloration, when more than very slight, or which will not change to light green or darker shade of green color in the ordinary process of blanching.

(ii) Freezing, when causing more than slight discoloration of the individual unit.

(iii) Hollow stem or pithiness, when discolored, or when more than slightly affecting the appearance of the individual unit.

(iv) Scars, when discolored, or when more than slight or superficial.

(v) Dirt or other foreign material, when more than slight, or which cannot be removed in the ordinary washing process.

(vi) Disease, when showing discoloration, or when more than slightly affecting the appearance, or the processing or edible quality.

(vii) Insects, when worms or worm frass are present, or when there is more than slight infestation by other insects.

(8) "Diameter" means the greatest thickness of the stem measured at a point 6 inches from the top of the head, except that stems which are less than 6 inches in length shall be measured at the base of the stem.

[1] Filed as part of the original document.

(9) "Fairly compact head" means that the individual head is fairly closely formed and not excessively spread and that the florets are not on the verge of opening and will not open in the ordinary process of blanching.

(10) "Serious damage" means any defect which materially affects the appearance, or the processing or edible quality of the head, or any portion of the stem within 5 inches from the top of the head. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as serious damage:

(i) Discoloration, when the appearance of the individual unit is materially affected.

(ii) Freezing, when causing discloration which materially affects the appearance of the individual unit.

(iii) Hollow stem or pithiness, when discolored, or when materially affecting the appearance of the individual unit. Units which show a ragged appearance or deep holes shall be considered as serious damage.

C., not later than the close of business the 7th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, was formulated, was conducted at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on December 11-12, 1950, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued November 27, 1950 (15 F. R. 8200).

The material issues of record related to proposals to:

(1) Increase the differentials to be added to basic formula prices in determining prices for Class I milk;

(2) Use the prices of additional local manufacturing plants as "floor prices" for Class II milk;

(3) Include a base-rating plan in the order; and

(4) To require payments from handlers who use other source milk for Class I sales when producer milk is available.

No affirmative evidence was offered at the hearing concerning a proposal included in the notice of hearing which would have enlarged the marketing area and no action on this proposal is recommended.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on these issues are based upon the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record pertaining thereto:

1. The differentials which are added to basic formula prices to determine the price for Class I milk should be increased by 20 cents.

The prices for Class I milk (fluid milk, cream, buttermilk, flavored milk drinks, etc.) are determined under the Oklahoma City order by adding specific differentials to a basic formula price representing manufacturing milk values of the preceding month. Differentials are added to these values to reflect the local supply and demand conditions affecting the market for fluid milk. These differentials are presently $1.65 for eight months of the year and $1.25 for the other four months. Producers proposed that the differential be $2.05 for all months of the year.

For each month, except July, since the order became effective on May 1, 1950, handlers have paid producers premiums above order prices. The amount of these premiums has varied by months from 11.4 cents to 21.2 cents per hundredweight for all milk received, which represents a somewhat higher amount per hundredweight of Class I milk. In spite of these premiums, the supply of producer milk was not adequate to meet the needs for Class I sales in October and November, when substantial quantities of milk were imported from northern milksheds.

A more stringent system of inspection has recently been established in the Oklahoma City market. This has to some extent increased the costs which producers incur in qualifying for the market.

Producers in the Oklahoma City milkshed may readily change to other farming enterprises. Recently the profits from beef cattle, the raising of which this area is generally well adapted, have been much more attractive than those from milk production. Beef cattle prices have kept pace with rising production costs while prices of dairy products generally have tended to lag.

Attractive profits from beef can rapidly affect the volume of milk production even though producers do not stop milk production entirely. The diversion of milk for production of veal calves, close culling of cows because of their relatively high carcass value, and increased cost of dairy cow replacements, due chiefly to higher carcass values, all tend to reduce the volume of market milk. All these were shown to have occurred in the Oklahoma City milkshed. Over a period of time it can be expected that a proper relationship between beef and dairy prices will be established. The basic price formula has been designed to reflect that relationship and recent changes in the formula prices have shown a tendency in that direction.

The basic formula prices are beginning to reflect also some of the increased costs of milk production that have occurred. Condensery prices for 4-percent milk advanced approximately 29 cents per hundredweight from August through November with the sharpest increase (approximately 12 cents) from October to November. Some seasonal increase in basic prices is expected in this period, but the increase which has taken place in 1950 is significantly greater than that of 1949, when condensery prices rose 6 cents per hundredweight from August through November. In 1948 a severe contraseasonal decline took place in this period. It appears that to some extent at least manufactured milk product values may soon result in basic formula prices that will more nearly reflect increased production costs.

An increase of 20 cents in the differentials of the order will approximate the premiums that handlers have paid. In view of the current short supply situation in spite of these premiums it is clearly evident that a change of this amount should be made even though basic formula prices advance sufficiently to compensate for the recent increases in costs of production.

It is concluded that the present differentials should be increased by 20 cents for all months of the year. Producers proposed that the differentials should be the same for all months of the year. They contended that the base-rating system which they also proposed in this hearing would offset the seasonality of milk production sufficiently to make unnecessary any seasonal change in differentials. In addition they indicated that producer acceptance of seasonal changes in differentials was affected because changes in resale prices by handlers had not been coordinated with such changes in producer prices. It is concluded, however, that experience under the base-rating plan should be had before abandoning the seasonal change in the Class I price differentials.

2. Provision should be included in the order that the price for Class II milk should not be less than that paid for manufacturing milk by a handler operating a large manufacturing plant in the marketing area.

Under the present provisions of the order the price of Class II milk is determined from the average paying prices of four milk manufacturing plants in Oklahoma. Producers proposed that whenever either of two additional plants paid a price higher than this average price, such higher price should be the Class II price.

One of these plants handles a considerable volume of manufacturing milk, is located in the marketing area, and is operated by a handler under the order. The other is located outside the marketing area, is not operated by a handler, and the record gives little indication of the volume of milk which could be handled. Since the order has been in effect, the paying prices of these plants have not varied widely from the Class II price of the order.

There appears little reason for using the paying price of the plant outside the marketing area as a "floor" for the Class II price. The prices paid by this nearby plant might well be included in determining the average price, but this would apparently make little if any change in Class II prices. With respect to the plant operated in the marketing area by a handler subject to the order, it is concluded that provision should be made that the Class II price should not be less than the price paid by this plant for manufacturing milk. Producers of inspected milk should not be paid less for their milk for manufacturing purposes than a handler with considerable manufacturing facilities pays for uninspected milk for such purposes.

3. A "base and excess" plan of distributing among producers the market returns for milk should be employed in connection with the market-wide pool now provided in the order.

There is considerable seasonal variation in the production of milk for the Oklahoma City market, with production in the fall and winter months considerably less than that in the spring and summer months. The demand for fluid milk and cream has much less seasonal variation and data for the past year indicate that consumption was highest when milk production was at a relatively low level. Fall shortages and burdensome spring surpluses result from this situation. A production pattern more nearly fitted to the sales pattern of fluid milk and cream should be encouraged.

Producers propose and handlers agree that a "base and excess" plan which provides returns to each producer related directly to his ability to deliver milk during the fall and winter will encourage a more level production pattern for the market as a whole. The record indicates that such a plan was widely discussed with producers before the amendment was proposed and that a large majority of those responding to a questionnaire survey favored such a plan. Before the order became effective in the Oklahoma City market handlers paid producers on a base plan. It appears that producers found such plans acceptable as a means of relating the returns of one producer to another but were dissatisfied with the total returns, since total payments were not directly related to sales.

The plan proposed by producers would establish for each producer a daily base quantity of milk equal to his average daily deliveries of milk during September, October, November, and December of each year (total deliveries in these months divided by the number of days for which deliveries are made, or 90, whichever is more). During these months all producers would be paid the "pool" or uniform price for all deliveries. For all other months separate uniform prices for base milk (that delivered by each producer up to but not in excess of his daily "base" times the number of days he delivers in the month) and excess milk would be computed so that Class I sales would be first allocated to base milk. Handlers suggested that some modification of this plan be made to provide temporary bases for producers who entered the market after the close of the period for establishing bases.

A base plan is designed to apportion the total value of the milk purchased by all handlers among producers on the basis of their marketings of milk during a representative period of time. By the application of the base plan it is intended to provide this market with a supply of milk which is more nearly in accord with fluid uses in all seasons of the year than under the present method of distributing returns to producers. For these purposes the plan to be adopted may logically be designed not only to influence the production patterns of old producers but also to influence the time of the year at which new producers will enter the market.

A large degree of flexibility should be incorporated in the base plan without destroying the desired effectiveness. This may be accomplished in part by limiting the effective period of the bases to the months when production is normally in excess of fluid sales, the establishment of new bases by each producer each year during the months of lowest production and by providing for the payment of the uniform market-wide pool price to all producers during all months except the period when bases are applicable. The months proposed for establishing bases (September through December) appear to be those which are normally the period of lowest production, and should be used for this purpose. It does not appear, however, that payments on the base plan need be made in all other months in order for the plan to be effective. Restricting payments on the base plan to the months of April through June will increase the flexibility of the plan and allow individual producers better opportunity to make adjustments in their production plans.

The plan proposed by producers and with the modifications adopted herein will permit new producers entering the market when payments are made on the base plan to share with all other producers any Class I sales in excess of deliveries of base milk. Thus a new producer will immediately share in some Class I sales if his milk is needed when he enters the market in these months. Payments on a uniform price in all months of July through March will provide ample opportunity for new producers to enter the market to meet prospective needs.

Producers also proposed that some provision be made so that whenever Class I sales are less than established bases a producer who delivers less than his base should be protected in his price for base milk. Such a provision does not appear administratively feasible. In addition it would to some extent destroy the prime essential of a base plan, which is a fixed amount of milk up to which a producer knows that he will receive a pro rata share of the Class I sales of the market.

The sentiment in the market in favor of the immediate use of a base plan is such that payments to producers should be made on this plan in 1951 even though the full effectiveness of the plan cannot be realized because producers will not have had long notice in advance which would enable them to arrange their production patterns for the base-setting period. In lieu of the months of September through November to be used for establishing bases under a long-time program, average deliveries in December 1950 and January 1951 should be used for this first year. Producers were given official notice of the consideration of this period before December 1, 1950. The use of the base plan in 1951 will discourage producers from the production of excess supplies in the flush production season, and further encourage production for the fall season of 1951.

It is necessary to provide certain rules in connection with the establishment and transfer of bases to provide reasonable administrative workability of the plan. To accomplish this purpose and to preserve the effectiveness of the base plan, transfers of bases should be limited to entire bases of producers who may retire from farming, die or enter military service and of joint production arrangements such as landlord-tenant relationships. Since the base plan is effective in determining producer payments in only three of the twelve months of each year, and all producers must establish a new base each year, provisions in addition to those contained herein for the establishment and transfer of bases or to meet unusual situations are not needed.

4. The order should not be amended at this time to require a handler who receives less producer milk than his Class I sales to make payments into the pool unless he can prove that no producer milk was available for such sales.

The allocation provisions of the order allocate a handler's receipts of other source milk to Class II milk up to the handler's Class II milk usage in excess of allowable shrinkage of milk received from producers, with any excess allocated to Class I milk. Thus other source milk is allocated to Class I milk only when a handler's receipts of producer milk, whether directly from producers or from other handlers, are less than Class I sales. Producers proposed that a handler should pay into the pool the difference between the Class I and Class II values on any other source milk so allocated to Class I milk unless the handler could prove to the market administrator that other source milk was so used only to the extent that producer milk was not available.

The objective of such a proposal is to accomplish on a market-wide basis the priority on Class I sales for producer milk that the allocation provisions provide with respect to a single handler's operations for the producer milk the handler receives. The administrative difficulties of achieving this objective through the order provisions proposed are, however, considerable. It was proposed that the market administrator be required to determine, on the basis of such evidence as a handler could produce, whether producer milk was available to the handler, and in what quantities. The record fails to indicate the standards on which such a determination might be made in individual instances, or the evidence that would be required of the handler.

Provisions such as proposed may be needed when there are indications that some handlers are not using producer milk for Class I sales when the market as a whole is fully supplied. The record indicates, however, that in Oklahoma City handlers and producers have worked together during recent shortage periods to move milk to plants where it was needed for Class I uses. It is concluded that the proposal should not be adopted without further indication of need for it and a record indicating more definite standards for its administration.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk, in the marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of the Central Oklahoma Milk Producers Association and handlers subject to the order.

The briefs contained statements of fact, proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and amendment to the order. (c) Subtract if the average butterfat content of the milk included in these computations is greater than 4.0 percent, or add if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 905.81 and multiplying the resulting figure by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(d) Compute the total value on a 4.0 percent butterfat basis of the excess milk included in these computations by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk not in excess of the total quantity of Class II milk included in these computations by the price for Class II milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in excess of the total hundredweight of such Class II milk by the price for Class I milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, and adding together the resulting amounts;

(e) Divide the total value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (d) of this section by the total hundredweight of such milk, and adjust to the nearest cent. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers.

(g) Divide the amount obtained in paragraph (f) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk included in these computations;

(h) Substract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (g) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers.

10. Delete § 905.80 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, to each producer (1) at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 905.71 for all milk received from such producer, if such preceding month was any of the months of July through March, or (2) at not less than the uniform price for base milk computed pursuant to § 905.72, with respect to base milk received from such producer, and at not less than the uniform price for excess milk computed pursuant to § 905.72 with respect to excess milk received from such producer, if such preceding month was any of the months of April through June, in each case adjusted by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 905.81, and less the amount of the payment made pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section: Provided, That with respect to producers whose milk was caused to be delivered to such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk, the handler shall, if the cooperative association so requests, pay such cooperative association, on or before the 13th day after the end of the month, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers in accordance with this paragraph.

11. In §§ 905.83 and 905.84 delete "§ 905.80 (a)" wherever it appears and substitute therefor "§ 905.80."

HANDLING OF MILK IN TULSA, OKLA., MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Tulsa, Oklahoma, marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 7th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order was formulated, was conducted at Tulsa, Oklahoma, on December 13–14, 1950, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on December 1, 1950 (15 F. R. 8221).

The material issues of record related to proposals to:

(1) Increase the differentials to be added to basic formula prices in determining prices for Class I milk;

(2) Change the price and butterfat differentials for Class II milk;

(3) Include a base-rating plan in the order;

(4) To require payments from handlers who use other source milk for Class I sales when producer milk is available;

(5) To restrict the plants whose receipts of milk are included in the computation of the uniform price to those with 20 percent or more of their Class I sales in the marketing area; and

(6) Minor changes for clarification of the order.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on these issues are based on the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record pertaining thereto.

1. The differentials which are added to basic formula prices to determine the price for Class I milk should be increased by 20 cents.

The prices for Class I milk (fluid milk, cream, buttermilk, flavored milk drinks, etc.) are determined under the Tulsa order by adding specific differentials to a basic formula price representing manufacturing milk values of the preceding month. These differentials are added to these values to reflect the local supply and demand conditions affecting the market for fluid milk. These differentials are presently $1.65 for 8 months of the year and $1.25 for the other 4 months. Producers proposed that the differential be $2.05 for all months of the year.

The supply of producer milk in recent months has not been sufficient to meet the needs for Class I sales in the Tulsa market. More than one million pounds of inspected milk was imported, mostly from northern milksheds, in October and November 1950. In contrast to this situation, the record indicates that in the same months of 1949 the supply of locally inspected milk was sufficient for the needs of the market with ample reserves to compensate for day-to-day variations in sales and receipts. It appears that total production in the fall months of 1950 exceeds that of 1949 but that Class I sales have increased at a much more rapid rate than has production. While no records of production and sales for 1949 were available under the order, which became effective May 1, 1950, a comparison between data for October 1949 collected on a survey basis by the health officer and that available under the order for 1950 indicates that Class I sales increased more than 14 percent while producer receipts increased slightly less than 6 percent.

A continued expansion of the demand for milk is indicated. Reopening of large defense plants in the area have recently been announced. These plants will attract additional workers to the Tulsa area and further add to the demand for milk.

Producers in the Tulsa milkshed may readily change to other farming enterprises. Recently the profits from beef cattle, to the raising of which this area is generally well adapted, have been relatively more favorable than those from milk production. Beef cattle prices have kept pace with rising production costs while prices of dairy products generally have tended to lag.

Attractive profits from beef can rapidly affect the volume of milk production even though producers do not stop milk production entirely. The diversion of milk for production of veal or beef calves, close culling of cows because of their relatively high carcass value, increased cost of dairy cow replacements due chiefly to higher carcass values, all tend to reduce the volume of market milk. All these were shown to have occurred in the Tulsa milkshed. Over a period of time it can be expected that a proper relationship between beef and dairy prices will be established. The basic price formula method of pricing has been designed to reflect that relationship and recent changes in the formula price have shown a tendency in that direction.

Basic formula prices also are beginning to reflect some of the increased costs of milk production that have occurred. Condensery prices for 4 percent milk advanced approximately 29 cents per hundredweight from August through November with the sharpest increase (approximately 12 cents) from October to November. Some seasonal increase in basic prices is usually expected in this period, but the increase which has taken place in 1950 is significantly greater than that of 1949, when condensery prices rose 6 cents per hundredweight from August through November. In 1948 a severe contraseasonal decline took place in this period. It appears that to some extent at least manufactured milk product values may soon result in basic formula prices that will more nearly reflect increased production costs. Thus, a portion of the increase in price necessary to meet the current serious threat to the Tulsa milk supply may be expected through the operation of the basic formula of the order.

Some increase in the differentials added to basic formula prices should be made even though basic formula prices advance sufficiently to compensate for recent increases in costs of milk production. It does not appear that prospective increases in basic prices are likely to offset the attraction to beef cattle production sufficiently to provide the incentive to milk production necessary to meet the continued expansion in the demand for fluid milk. Neither will such increases result in Class I prices any nearer to the costs of emergency milk imported from northern milksheds. The cost of such milk has been substantially in excess of the Class I prices of the order. The record indicates that much of this milk has come from plants under the Chicago milk order. The class prices of the Chicago order are regulated by basic formula prices similar to those of the Tulsa order. These class prices plus transportation expense of more than $1.50 per hundredweight exceed the class prices of the Tulsa order for milk of comparable butterfat test without any handling allowance for the Chicago handlers who receive the milk. An increase of 20 cents in the differentials of the Tulsa order will provide Class I prices that will be less than the cost of imported milk. It is concluded that an increase of 20 cents in the Class I price differentials is needed to encourage producers to supply sufficient milk to meet fluid uses in this market.

Present Class I price differentials should be increased by 20 cents for all months of the year except that the higher differential should apply to the month of July for which the present order provides a seasonally lower differential. An increase in the Class I differential for July should assist in attracting milk to the market in time to meet the needs of the market for the following fall months of short production. Producers proposed that the differentials should be the same for all months of the year. They contended that the base-rating system which they also proposed in this hearing would offset the seasonality of milk production sufficiently as to make unnecessary any seasonal change in differentials. In addition they indicated that producer acceptance of seasonal changes in differentials was affected because changes in resale prices by handlers had not been coordinated with such changes in producer prices. It is concluded, however, that experience under the base-rating plan should be had before abandoning the seasonal change in the Class I price differentials.

2. No change should be made at this time in the provisions for pricing Class II milk.

The price for Class II milk of 4 percent butterfat content under the Tulsa order is determined from the paying prices of four milk manufacturing plants in that general area. To this price a butterfat differential of 0.115 times the price of 92-score butter at Chicago is applied to determine the cost of a handler's Class II milk at the average test of his Class II usage.

One handler proposed that other plants be used to determine the 4 percent price for Class II milk, and that the Class II butterfat differential be the price of 92-score butter at Chicago less 5.75 cents, times 0.115. In support of this proposal this handler contended that some of the plants whose paying prices are used to manufacture evaporated milk and cheddar cheese which Tulsa handlers are not equipped to make, and that other plants whose products are more representative of those for which Class II milk is used in the Tulsa market should be named. The proposals sought to bring about a reduction in the cost of Class II milk to handlers.

The record indicates that except for the summer season of flush production, the volume of Class II milk in the Tulsa market is small and represents largely the reserve supplies of milk necessary to compensate for short time variations in production and sales. Further, during the flush production months of 1950 Class II milk was diverted for manufacturing purposes to plants now named which the proposal would delete from the order. In at least one instance the record indicates that the price paid a Tulsa handler for milk so diverted was in excess of the quoted paying price to farmers of the manufacturing plant using the milk.

The record fails to show that the prices established by the present method of determining Class II prices do not represent a reasonable value for milk for manufacturing uses.

The Class II prices of the order have been slightly higher than the quoted prices paid to farmers for manufacturing milk by the handler proposing the change. The record indicates, however, that this handler has in addition paid some hauling costs on his supply of manufacturing milk, so that the quoted prices do not fully represent its cost.

It is concluded that no change should be made at this time in the method of determining Class II prices.

3. A "base and excess" plan of distributing among producers the market returns for milk should be employed in connection with the market-wide pool now provided in the order.

There is considerable seasonal variation in the production of milk for the Tulsa market, with production in the fall and winter months considerably less than that in the spring and summer months. The demand for fluid milk and cream has much less seasonal variation and there is some indication that consumption of fluid milk in this market is highest at the season of the year when production is at a low level. Fall shortages and burdensome spring surpluses result from this situation. A production pattern more nearly fitted to the sales pattern of fluid milk and cream should be encouraged.

Producers propose and handlers agree that a "base and excess" plan which provides returns to each producer related directly to his ability to deliver milk during the fall and winter will encourage a more level production pattern for the market as a whole. The record indicates that such a plan was widely discussed with producers before the amendment was proposed and that a large majority of producers favored such a plan. Before the order became effective in the Tulsa market handlers paid producers on a base plan. It appears that producers found such plans acceptable as a means of relating the returns of one producer to another but were dissatisfied with the total returns, since total payments were not directly related to sales.

The plan proposed by producers would establish for each producer a daily base quantity of milk equal to his average daily deliveries of milk during September, October, November, and December of each year (total deliveries in these months divided by 122). During all months, other than April, May, and June, all producers would be paid the "pool" or uniform price for all deliveries. For the three months of April, May and June, separate uniform prices for base milk (that delivered by each producer up to but not in excess of his daily "base" times the number of days he delivers in the month) and excess milk would be computed so that Class I sales would be first allocated to base milk. Handlers suggested that some modification of this plan be made with respect to the base quantities to be established for producers who deliver milk during only a portion of the period for establishing bases.

A base plan is designed to apportion the total value of the milk purchased by all handlers among producers on the basis of their marketing of milk during a representative period of time. The base plan incorporated herein is intended to encourage total receipts of milk more nearly in accord with use of milk for fluid consumption in this market throughout the year than has been accomplished under the present method of payment to producers. For these purposes the plan to be adopted may logically be effective not only in influencing the production patterns of old producers but also in influencing the time of the year at which new producers will enter the market.

A large degree of flexibility should be incorporated in the base plan without destroying the desired effectiveness. This may be accomplished in part by limiting the period when the bases are to be effective to the months when production is normally in excess of fluid sales, the establishment of new bases by each producer each year during the months of lowest production and by providing for the payment of the uniform market-wide pool price to all producers during all months except the period when bases are applicable. The months proposed for establishing bases (September through December) appear to be those which are normally the period of lowest production, and should be used for this purpose. Limiting payments on the base plan to the months of April through June will promote a desired degree of flexibility in the plan and give individual producers ample opportunity to make adjustments in their production plans during the periods when they receive the uniform market price. The computation of a producer's daily average base on the number of days not less than 90, during which he delivers milk during the base-setting months will also promote flexibility of the plan.

The plan proposed by producers and with the modifications adopted herein with minor modification will also permit new producers entering the market when payments are made on the base plan to share with all other producers any Class I sales in excess of deliveries of base milk. Thus a new producer will immediately share in some Class I sales if his milk is needed when he enters the market in these months. Payments on a uniform price in all months of July through March will provide ample opportunity for new producers to enter the market to meet prospective needs.

Producers also proposed that some provision be made so that whenever Class I sales are less than established bases a producer who delivers less than his base should be protected in his price for base milk. Such a provision does not appear administratively feasible. In addition it would to some extent destroy the prime essential of a base plan, which is a fixed amount of milk up to which a producer knows that he will receive a pro rata share of the Class I sales of the market.

The sentiment in the market in favor of the immediate use of a base plan is such that payments to producers should be made on this plan in 1951 even though the full effectiveness of the plan may not be realized during this first year. In lieu of the months of September through November to be used for establishing bases under a long-time program, average deliveries in December 1950 and January 1951 should be used for this first year. Producers were given notice of the consideration of this period before December 1, 1950. As a result of country meetings among producers at which their proposals were thoroughly discussed, the testimony indicates that some producers have already made some changes in their production plans in anticipation of having the base and surplus plan effective during 1951. The use of the base plan in 1951 will tend to discourage the production of excess supplies in the flush production season, and further encourage production for the fall season of 1951.

It is necessary to provide certain rules in connection with the establishment and transfer of bases to provide reasonable administrative workability of the plan. In order to accomplish this purpose and preserve the effectiveness of the plan no provisions should be made for the transfer of partial bases. Provision is made for the transfer of entire bases of an individual producer to members of his family in case of death, retirement or entry into military service and in the case of the termination of joint arrangements such as landlord-tenant relationships. Since the base plan is effective in determining producer payments in only three of the twelve months of each year, and all producers must establish a new base each year, provisions in addition to those contained herein for the establishment and transfer of bases or to meet unusual situations are not needed.

4. The order should not be amended at this time to require a handler who receives less producer milk than his Class I sales to make payments into the pool unless he can prove that no producer milk was available for such sales.

The allocation of provisions of the order allocate a handler's receipts of other source milk to Class II milk up to the handler's Class II milk usage in excess of allowable shrinkage of milk received from producers, with any excess allocated to Class I milk. This other source milk is allocated to Class I milk only when receipts of producer milk, whether directly from producers or from other handlers, are less than Class I sales. Producers proposed that a handler should pay into the pool the difference between the Class I and Class II values on any other source milk so allocated to Class I milk unless the handler could prove to the market administrator that other source milk was so used only to the extent that producer milk was not available.

The objective of such a proposal is to accomplish on a market-wide basis the priority on Class I sales for producer milk that the allocation provisions of the order now provide with respect to a single handler's operations. The administrative difficulties of achieving this objective through the order provisions proposed are, however, considerable. It was proposed that the market administrator be required on the basis of such evidence as a handler could produce, to determine whether producer milk was available to the handler, and in what quantities. The record fails to indicate the standards on which such a determination might be made in individual instances, or the evidence that would be required of the handler.

Provisions such as proposed may be needed when there are indications that some handlers are not using producer milk for Class I sales when the market as a whole is fully supplied. The record indicates, however, that in Tulsa handlers and producers have worked together during recent shortage periods to move milk to plants where it was needed for Class I uses. It is concluded that the proposal should not be adopted without further indication of need for it and a record indicating more definite standards for its administration.

5. The order should not be amended at this time to require that a specific percentage of either the receipts or Class I sales of an approved plant be Class I sales in the marketing area in order for the receipts of such plant to be included in the computation of the uniform price of the order.

The order presently provides that the milk "pooled" (that included in the computation of the uniform price to producers) be that received from producers holding permits issued by the health authorities of the marketing area received at approved plants which operate routes in the marketing area or serve as receiving stations for such plants. Producers proposed that an approved plant should be required to dispose of at least 20 percent of its Class I sales in the marketing area before its receipts could be pooled. At the hearing the proposed requirement was changed to 20 percent of the approved receipts.

In support of this proposal producers indicated fears that outside plants with considerable surplus milk might make token sales in the marketing area which would reduce the uniform prices paid to producers regularly supplying the market. The only indication that the record gives of such a possibility is from a distributor in the college town of Stillwater who was reported to have some interest in entering outlying portions of the marketing area for temporary periods of college vacations. The base-excess plan of distributing returns to producers which is decided upon elsewhere in this decision would protect the returns of regular producers from being reduced by additional plants entering the market during the surplus production months. It is concluded that there is not sufficient evidence of need for an additional provision to protect such returns during other months to justify including such a provision in the order at this time.

6. The definition of "producer" should be clarified and the order should specify that a handler furnish a cooperative association certain information with respect to the producers from whom the handler makes marketing service deductions payable to such association.

The present order identifies a "producer" in part on the basis of a permit issued by the appropriate health authorities of the marketing area. The record indicates that the required health authority approval is also at times evidenced by what is known as a "permit authorization." This evidently occurs when two separate producers market milk from the same premises, in which case the health authorities will issue only one permit, but do issue a permit authorization to the second producer. The institution of a base plan makes it necessary that the individuals who are producers be defined precisely. Hence it is concluded that the definition of "producer" should be amended to provide for identification of a producer on the basis of a "permit authorization."

The order now provides that when a cooperative association performs certain marketing services for producers, a handler shall make such deductions from the payments due such producers as may be authorized by the agreement or contract between the cooperative association and such producers, and pay such deductions to the cooperative association. The record indicates that in order to perform these services satisfactorily, the cooperative association needs certain information concerning the deliveries of each individual producer. Such information is usually furnished by handlers as a matter of course. The record indicates that in the Tulsa market such information is not now being furnished by all handlers. It is concluded that the orderly operation of the marketing service provisions of the order require that all handlers furnish such information to the cooperative association. Since all the required data are furnished the market administrator by each handler, a handler may fulfill this requirement by authorizing the market administrator to release such data to the cooperative association.

It was also proposed that the definition of "producer" and "approved plant" should be modified so that any milk sold government institutions or bases in the marketing area would be priced and pooled, even though such milk might not be approved by local health authorities. The record does not show that any institutions or bases for which government purchase of milk supplies would be made are now located in the marketing area, or that there are immediate prospects of such. It is therefore concluded that the proposal need not be adopted at this time.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk, in the marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement and upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of the Pure Milk Producers Association of Tulsa and handlers subject to the order.

The briefs contained statements of fact, proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and amendment to the order. The following amendment to the order is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended.

1. Delete § 906.10 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 906.10 Producer. "Producer" means any person, other than a producer-handler, who produces milk which is received at an approved plant: Provided, That such milk is produced under a dairy farm permit, permit authorization or rating issued by any health authority having jurisdiction in the marketing area for the production of milk to be disposed of for consumption as Grade A milk. This definition shall include any such person who is regularly classified as a producer but whose milk is caused to be diverted by a handler to an unapproved plant, and milk so diverted shall be deemed to have been received at an approved plant by the handler who causes it to be diverted. This definition shall not include a person with respect to milk produced by him which is received at a plant operated by a handler who is subject to another Federal marketing order and who is partially exempt from the provisions of this part pursuant to § 906.61.

2. Add the following as § 906.14:

§ 906.14 Base milk. "Base milk" means producer milk received by a handler during any of the months of April through June which is not in excess of each producer's daily average base computed pursuant to § 906.65 multiplied by the number of days in such month for which such producer delivered milk to such handler.

3. Add the following as § 906.15:

§ 906.15 Excess milk. "Excess milk" means producer milk received by a handler during any of the months of April through June which is in excess of base milk received from each producer during such month, and shall include all milk received from producers for whom no daily average base can be computed pursuant to § 906.65.

4. Delete § 906.22 (j) (2) and substitute therefor the following:

(2) On or before the 12th day of each month the uniform price(s) computed pursuant to § 906.71 or § 906.72, as applicable, and the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 906.82, both for the previous month; and

5. Delete § 906.30 (a) and substitute therefore the following:

(a) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in milk received from producers, and, for the months of April through June, the aggregate quantities of base milk and excess milk;

6. Delete § 906.31 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) The total pounds of milk received from each producer and cooperative association the total pounds of butterfat contained in such milk and the number of days on which milk was received from such producer including for the months of April through June such producer's deliveries of base milk and excess milk;

7. Delete § 906.51 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) Class I milk. The basic formula price plus $1.45 during the months of April, May, and June and plus $1.85 during all other months: Provided, That for each of the months of September, October, November, and December, such price shall be not less than that for the preceding month, and that for each of the months of April, May, and June such price shall be not more than that for the preceding month.

8. Add the following as a center heading and §§ 906.65 and 906.66:

DETERMINATION OF BASE

§ 906.65 Computation of daily average base for each producer. For the months of April through June of each year the market administrator shall compute a daily average base for each producer as follows, subject to the rules set forth in § 906.66:

(a) Divide the total pounds of milk received by a handler(s) from such producer during the months of September through December immediately preceeding by the number of days, not to be less than ninety, of such producer's delivery in such period: Provided, That for the months of April through June 1951, the total pounds of milk received by handlers from a producer in December 1950 and January 1951 shall be divided by 62 in order to determine such producer's daily average base.

§ 906.66 Base rules. (a) A base shall apply to deliveries of milk by the producer for whose account that milk was delivered during the base forming period;

(b) Bases may be transferred only during the period of April through June by notifying the market administrator in writing before the last-day of any month that such base is to be transferred to the person named in such notice only as follows:

(1) In the event of the death, retirement, or entry into military service of a producer the entire base may be transferred to a member(s) of such producer's immediate family who carries on the dairy operations.

(2) If a base is held jointly and such joint holding is terminated, the entire base may be transferred to one of the joint holders or another person.

(c) A producer who ceases to deliver milk to a handler for more than 45 consecutive days shall forfeit his base.

9. Amend § 906.71 by deleting from the first sentence thereof the words: "For each month" and substituting therefor the words "For each of the months of July through March."

10. Add the following as § 906.72:

§ 906.72 Computation of uniform prices for base milk and excess milk. For each of the months of April through June the market administrator shall compute the uniform prices per hundredweight for base milk and for excess milk, each of 4.0 percent butterfat content, as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 906.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed in § 906.30 and who made the payments pursuant to §§ 906.80 and 906.84 for the preceding month;

(b) Add the aggregate of the values of all allowable location adjustments to producers pursuant to § 906.81;

(c) Add not less than one-half of the cash balance in the producer-settlement fund less the total amount of the contingent obligations to handlers pursuant to § 906.85;

(d) Subtract if the average butterfat content of the milk included in these computations is greater than 4.0 percent, or, add if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 906.82 and multiplying the resulting figure by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(e) Compute the total value on a 4.0 percent butterfat basis of excess milk included in these computations by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk not in excess of the total quantity of Class II milk included in these computations by the price for Class II milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in excess of the total hundredweight of such Class II milk by the price for Class I milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, and adding together the resulting amounts;

(f) Divide the total value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (e) of this section by the total hundredweight of such milk, and adjust to the nearest cent. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat received from producers.

(g) Subtract the value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (e) of this section from the value of all milk obtained in paragraph (d) of this section and adjust by any amount involved in adjusting the uniform price of excess milk to the nearest cent;

(h) Divide the amount obtained in paragraph (g) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk included in these computations;

(i) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (h) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers.

11. Delete § 906.80 (a) and substitute therefor the following:

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, to each producer (1) at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 906.71 for all milk received from such producer if such preceding month was any of the months of July through March, or (2) at not less than the uniform price for base milk computed pursuant to § 906.72, with respect to base milk received from such producer, and at not less than the uniform price for excess milk computed pursuant to § 906.72, with respect to excess milk received from such producer, if such preceding month was any of the months of April through June, in each case adjusted by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 906.82, subject to location adjustments to producers pursuant to § 906.81, less the amount of the payment made pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section: Provided, That with respect to producers whose milk was caused to be delivered to such handler by a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for such milk, the handler shall, if the cooperative association so requests, pay such cooperative association, on or before the 13th day after the end of the month, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers in accordance with this paragraph.

12. In §§ 906.84 and 906.85 delete "§ 906.80 (a)" wherever it appears and substitute therefor "§ 906.80."

13. Amend § 906.87 (b) by deleting the period at the end thereof, substituting therefor a comma, and adding thereto the following: "identified by a statement showing for each such producer the information required to be reported to the market administrator pursuant to § 906.31. In lieu of such statement a handler may authorize the market administrator to furnish such cooperative association the information with respect to such producers reported pursuant to § 906.31."

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of February 1951.

HANDLING OF IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN MICHIGAN, WISCONSIN, MINNESOTA, NORTH DAKOTA, AND IN CERTAIN COUNTIES OF IOWA AND OF INDIANA

REPORTS FROM HANDLERS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), that the North Central Potato Committee, established pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and Order No. 60, as amended (7 CFR Part 960), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, and in certain counties of Iowa and of Indiana, hereinafter referred to as the "order", has recommended the adoption of the following rule relevant to reports necessary to enable the committee to exercise its powers and perform its duties under said order.

§ 960.105 Inspection reports—(a) Policy. The North Central Potato Committee should have, for effective and efficient administration of the order, a record of the Federal-State Inspection Certificate applicable to each shipment of potatoes during any period in which inspection is required pursuant to § 960.65. A copy of the Federal-State Inspection Certificate shall be accepted as sufficient and adequate record for the committee when such certificate covers only the potatoes included within such shipment. If an inspection certificate covers more than one shipment of potatoes, the handler who obtained inspection on the whole lot from which each such shipment is a part should report each such shipment to the committee in such manner as to identify such shipment as part of the whole lot which was covered by an inspection certificate and to enable the committee to determine if each shipment has been inspected. Such reports should set forth appropriate and adequate information to serve the committee's requirements, including the name and address of the person to whom each such shipment is made, the hundredweight of potatoes in each such shipment, the type of pack, the number of units, the inspection certificate number applicable to the lot from which such shipment is made, and such other necessary information as the committee may require.

(b) Rule. Each handler shall report inspections on potatoes which he ships by requesting the Federal-State Inspection Service to forward to the committee a copy of each certificate issued to such handler. If an inspection certificate covers more than one shipment of potatoes the handler who obtained such inspection shall report to the committee, on forms obtainable from the committee, the name and address of the person to whom each such shipment is made, the hundredweight of potatoes involved in each such shipment, the mode of transportation (if any) utilized in effecting each such shipment, the type of pack and the number of units in each such shipment, and the inspection certificate number applicable to such shipment: Provided, That a report other than a copy of the inspection certificate shall not be required hereunder for a potato shipment if (1) the applicable inspection certificate required by § 960.65 covers only the specific potatoes involved in such shipment, or (2) each potato container in such shipment is appropriately identified by tag or label supplied for such purposes by the inspection agency.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the aforesaid proposal may do so by submitting the same to the Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the 7th day following publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Supp. 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 12th day of February 1951.

The work is carried on through the Animal Husbandry, Pathological and Zoological research divisions, the Inspection and Quarantine, Interstate Inspection, Brucellosis and Tuberculosis Eradication and Virus-Serum Control service and regulatory divisions, the Animal Foods Inspection and Meat Inspection foods inspection divisions, and the Administrative Services, Budget and Fiscal, Information, and Personnel administrative divisions.

SEC. 1.2 Field organization. The Bureau has numerous field and research stations and laboratories located throughout the United States, its possessions and territories which are engaged in carrying on one or more functions. Because field station locations are frequently changed, it is impracticable to give detailed information about them here. Up-to-date information regarding their addresses, functions, and the names of officials in charge may be obtained at any time by submitting requests in accordance with section 1.3.

SEC. 1.3 Public information. Persons desiring information or to make submittals or requests regarding the work of the Bureau may address the official in charge of any field station or laboratory or the Chief, Bureau of Animal Industry, Agricultural Research Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. Laws of some states have the effect of requiring livestock owners to participate in the Brucellosis Eradication program. Most states have similar laws regarding the Tuberculosis Eradication program.

(b) Brucellosis eradication. Information concerning Brucellosis testing and vaccination services may be obtained by cattle owners by making an informal request to the proper state officials, any Bureau employee, or to the Chief of Bureau in accordance with section 1.3 above. (b) Prohibited animals and products. Section 306 (a) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U. S. C. 1306a) prohibits the importation of domestic ruminants and swine and of fresh, chilled or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb, and pork from countries in which foot-and-mouth disease or rinderpest is known to exist. The countries to which such prohibition applies are designated in 9 CFR Part 94 (BAI Order 373). The importation of ruminants and swine which are diseased or which have been exposed to such infection within 60 days is also prohibited (21 U. S. C. 104). The regulations provide that prohibited animals or products which reach this country must be returned or destroyed.

(c) Animals not prohibited. All other livestock offered for importation into this country must be inspected to determine their freedom from disease (21 U. S. C. 101–105, 111). Inspectors are assigned at designated ports of entry along the international borders and at coastal ports to inspect the animals, examine accompanying certificates, and release, quarantine, or reject such animals. The conditions of inspection, methods of procedure, and other necessary information relating to the inspection of livestock offered for import appear in 9 CFR Parts 92–93 (BAI Orders 368 and 379).

(d) Importation of ruminants and swine. A prior permit must be obtained before ruminants or poultry are eligible for entry into this country, except from Canada. Application therefor must be submitted to the Chief of the Bureau, addressed in accordance with section 1.3, at which time the importer will be advised of special requirements to be met. General requirements are stated in 9 CFR Part 92 (BAI Order 379).

(e) Mexican imports and exports. Special regulations are prescribed in 9 CFR Part 93 (BAI Order 368) governing the inspection and quarantine of livestock imported from, or exported to Mexico, pursuant to a treaty with Mexico (46 Stat. 2451).

(g) Importation of foreign animal casings. The importation of animal casings from all foreign countries is governed by regulations appearing in 9 CFR Part 96 (BAI Order 305), issued in accordance with 21 U. S. C. 111.

(h) Importation of purebred animals. Paragraph 1606 of section 201 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U. S. C. 1201, par. 1606) provides for the entry free of duty of purebred animals imported by citizens of the United States for breeding purposes. Action under this provision of the law is cooperative between the Department of Agriculture which is charged with determining purity of breeding and identity of imported animals for certification to the Treasury Department, which is responsible for refunding duty for animals so certified as being purebred. The regulations governing these importations are stated in 9 CFR Part 151 (BAI Order 379).

(i) Inspection and testing of animals for export. Freedom from disease of domestic ruminants and swine must be established when such animals are offered for export, and transporting vessels must be equipped to insure their safe and humane handling (21 U. S. C. 80–82, 105, 112–113, 120–122, 46 U. S. C. 466a–b). The provisions of 9 CFR Parts 91, 93 (BAI Orders 368 and 378) contain the procedures and methods to be followed.

(j) Emergency disease outbreaks. Whenever, in the opinion of the Secretary of Agriculture, contagious or infectious animal diseases which are introduced from foreign sources constitute an emergency and threaten the livestock industry of the country (21 U. S. C. 114 and 114a), programs to control and eradicate them are undertaken cooperatively with the states. Diseased or exposed animals are purchased and destroyed and indemnities are paid for their destruction. Regulations governing this authority will be found in 9 CFR Parts 71–77, and 53 (BAI Orders 309 and 376).

(k) Work locations. Work of the division is conducted at all ocean ports, airports of entry and embarkation, Mexican and Canadian border ports and at any Bureau station where cases of animal diseases of foreign origin are suspected and require investigation. An animal quarantine station is maintained near New York, N. Y., for the quarantine of animals when required.

SEC. 2.6 Interstate Inspection Division—(a) General. Administers regulations governing the interstate movement of livestock and live poultry to prevent the spread of communicable diseases and parasitic infestations, as well as the law governing the humane handling of livestock in interstate shipment, and directs field campaigns for the eradication of cattle-fever, ticks, scabies, and dourine and for the control of hog cholera.

(b) Quarantine areas. Administers the provisions of 9 CFR 72.2, 72.4–5 and 74.2–4 (BAI Orders 303 and 380) which quarantine certain areas of the United States on account of communicable diseases of livestock and 9 CFR Parts 71–77 (BAI Order 309), issued pursuant to statute (21 U. S. C. 111–119, 123–128), which regulates the interstate movement of livestock from such areas.

(c) Interstate shipments of livestock and live poultry. Restrictions upon the interstate movement of livestock and live poultry are prescribed in 9 CFR Parts 71–77, 81 (BAI Orders 291 and 309). Any person desiring information regarding these restrictions may obtain such information from officials in charge of any field station or from the Chief of Bureau in accordance with section 1.3 above.

(d) Twenty-eight Hour Law enforcement. Investigates reported violations of the so-called Twenty-eight Hour Law (45 U. S. C. 71–74), which provides that livestock shipped interstate by railroad or water shall not be confined in cars or boats for more than 28 hours (36 hours upon written request of owner) without unloading into properly equipped pens for rest, feed, and water, and that they shall be properly fed and watered. Complaints of violations of this law should be reported to the Chief of Bureau.

(e) Disease control and eradication. In cooperation with those states where laws permit, carries out programs designed to control and eradicate cattle-fever ticks, scabies of sheep and cattle, dourine in horses and asses, and hog cholera and related swine diseases. Regulations concerning these programs appear in 9 CFR Part 52, 72–76 (BAI Orders 303, 309 and 380).

(f) Public stockyards inspection. When animals are found upon inspection at public stockyards to be infected with communicable diseases, their further movement is restricted to prevent dissemination of the disease and the infection is immediately reported to livestock sanitary officials in the state where the shipment originated in order that immediate steps may be taken to control and eradicate such diseases. Regulations governing public stockyards inspection will be found in 9 CFR Part 71 (BAI Order 309).

Office of International Trade

REDIKER BROS. SHIPPING CO., INC.

ORDER SUSPENDING LICENSE PRIVILEGES

In the matter of Rediker Bros. Shipping Co., Inc., 377 Broadway, New York, N. Y., Respondent.

Under date of August 31, 1950, a suspension order was issued against the above-named respondent corporation based on the finding that it had knowingly participated as forwarding agent in an irregular exportation of steel to Colombia. The suspension, limited to Positive List items, was for twenty days. (Certain exporting firms and officials; the Colombian consignee; and George Rediker, a former official of this respondent corporation, were found to have been more directly involved and culpable, and for these and other reasons mentioned below, were suspended for longer periods of time.) The suspension order was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, September 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6094.

Respondent appealed from the order. The Appeals Board, after oral hearing, by order remanded the case against respondent to the Compliance Commissioner for further consideration. This order was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, October 7, 1950, 15 F. R. 6792. It was agreed by the counsel for respondent and the Office of International Trade that written answers to interrogatories propounded by each other would suffice to present to the Commissioner the additional material on the issues with which the Appeals Board was concerned. Such interrogatories were, in fact, exchanged and answered and on the basis thereof, as well as upon a review and reexamination of the entire record, including the transcript of the hearing before the Appeals Board and the Board's decision dated September 25, 1950, the Compliance Commissioner has now duly filed his report.

It appears from the record and the report of the Compliance Commissioner that on the initial and basic question, whether the evidence does in fact establish a violation of the export control law and regulations on the part of this respondent, no new evidence has been offered in the rehearing. It was concluded by the Compliance Commissioner, after careful re-examination of all of the evidence on these points, that the record amply justifies the finding that this respondent did knowingly participate in the unlawful exportation and was properly held in violation.

It further appears from the record and the report of the Compliance Commissioner that the arguments brought forward at the rehearing do not challenge the propriety of the finding of violation so much as they do the propriety of the suspension. In other words, respondent's position is that, even though a violation did take place, the circumstances do not justify the imposition of the suspension. The assertion has been made that the violation was at most technical in nature and more or less inconsequential insofar as concerns any possible conflict with national policy or security.

On this issue, the Compliance Commissioner has taken the view that even though the splitting of steel shipments into fictitious GLV lots may not be as serious as the diversion of strategic materials to forbidden destinations, this respondent's actions were nevertheless in clear violation of export regulations and took place under circumstances justifying the conclusion that they were intentional. Whether or not a license would have been granted had application been made is conjectural and, in any event, the exportation in issue was effected without any proper application having been made. A violation through resort to a subterfuge to avoid securing a license surely is not to be condoned because of the possibility, or even probability, that a license might have been obtained. It is relevant also that any violation in some measure undermines effective administration of export controls, and a violation of the GLV general license is particularly reprehensible since it tends to undermine the licensing requirements applicable to Positive List commodities. The Compliance Commissioner has therefore rightly concluded on the whole record that respondent, through its former vice president, George Rediker, did have such knowledge of and participation in the transactions involved as to warrant a finding that respondent's violation properly calls for the imposition of some period of suspension.

It further appears from the record and the report of the Compliance Commissioner that as a proper basis for determining an appropriate suspension herein he has attempted to ascertain the intentions of respondent by examination of its previous course of conduct in connection with exportations. In view of the warning letter sent to respondent under date of April 20, 1949, which dealt specifically with a case in which respondent had served as forwarder, and having in mind the fact that the Office of International Trade regulations dealing with responsibilities of forwarders had been issued and widely publicized long before the shipments of steel were made, little significance can be attached to respondent's argument that the forwarding trade in general, and it in particular, were not clearly informed of the legal obligations of forwarding agents and that it is unfair to make respondent the subject of the first actual suspension to be imposed on a forwarder.

It is nevertheless not the intention of the Office of International Trade to impose a suspension which will unduly injure the respondent. George Rediker, although vice-president and in active charge of respondent corporation when the transactions herein involved took place, is no longer associated with it or any of the other Rediker corporations. He apparently never had any financial interest in any of the concerns, and while his position was ministerial in nature he nevertheless appears to have been given a relatively free hand in operations. He was accordingly made a party to the proceeding and is presently under suspension. Moe and Harry Rediker, the actual owners of respondent and of Rediker Bros., Inc. (also originally a respondent), were made parties to the original proceeding but they were not found to have had any knowledge of, or to have participated in, the unlawful transactions, and consequently they were not subjected to the original suspension order. However, since the two brothers owned and operate respondent corporation, any suspension against the latter necessarily amounts to a suspension of them in their corporate capacity, may collaterally affect other Rediker enterprises, and accordingly any financial loss must be borne by them.

It is recognized, furthermore, that a suspension measured in terms of months, if imposed on a concern of this type, which handles hundreds of shipments weekly for many exporters, would be unduly severe from a financial viewpoint and would also unduly penalize individuals not personally responsible for the wrongs that were committed. It is also recognized that respondent has already, as a result of this and the earlier proceeding and its attendant publicity, been adversely affected to such a degree as to warrant some reduction in the original term of suspension.

It further appears from the record and the report of the Compliance Commissioner that despite the overlapping type of business activities in which respondent and all other Rediker enterprises (except the Rediker Air Cargo, Inc., which is limited to forwarding by air) appear to be engaged, the other Rediker corporations can and should be permitted to continue their normal activities, although they should of course be prevented from taking over any business from respondent during the term of its suspension. It is believed that this result can be accomplished by prohibiting the Redikers and all of their enterprises other than respondent from handling any shipments on behalf of any person, firm or corporation for whom respondent has handled any shipment since January 1, 1950, with the provision, however, that the Office of International Trade may, on application, make exception in any case where it is shown that a particular customer of respondent has also been a regular customer of one of the other Rediker enterprises since January 1, 1950. This formula should be fair inasmuch as respondent's customers have been represented as belonging exclusively to respondent (with perhaps a few exceptions) and not shared by other Rediker corporations.

The Compliance Commissioner has accordingly recommended that respondent's export license and forwarding privileges be suspended with respect to shipment under validated or general license to any destination of any commodity included in the export control Positive List; that such suspension be for the period of one calendar week beginning not less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER of such suspension order; and that any organization or person having an interest in respondent or in which respondent has an interest be likewise suspended from export license and forwarding privileges involving shipments, otherwise than by air, on behalf of any customer for whom respondent has handled forwarding transactions since January 1, 1950, unless it can be shown to the satisfaction of the Office of International Trade that such customer was also an established customer of the proposed forwarder since January 1, 1950.

The findings and recommendations of the Compliance Commissioner, together with the record in this matter, have been carefully considered and it appears that such findings are supported by the evidence and that such recommendations are fair and reasonable and should be adopted. Now, therefore, It is ordered as follows:

1. That respondent be denied, for the period of one calendar week beginning at the opening of business on March 19, 1951, and terminating at the opening of business on March 26, 1951, the privilege of filing, procuring the issuance, validation or authentication of, or using, any export license, shipper's export declaration, bill of lading, or other export control document, or participating directly or indirectly as exporter, forwarder, or in any other capacity, in respect to the exportation to any destination of any commodity included at the time of any proposed shipment in the Positive List issued by the Office of International Trade whether exportable under validated or general license.

2. That any person, trade name, firm, corporation or other business organization owning or controlling respondent, owned or controlled by respondent, or under common ownership or control with respondent, be prohibited from exercising any of the privileges specified in the preceding paragraph insofar as they involve the forwarding of shipments otherwise than by air on behalf of any customer for whom respondent has handled a forwarding transaction since January 1, 1950: Provided, however, That the Office of International Trade may, on advance application, permit such forwarding on behalf of any such customer where it is shown that such customer was also an established customer of the proposed forwarder since January 1, 1950.

Issued this 9th day of February 1951.

JOHN C. BORTON,
Assistant Director for Export Supply.

ORDER CONTINUING HEARING

In re applications of Ark-Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc. The Commission having under consideration a motion filed on February 2, 1951, by the Southeast Colorado Broadcasting Company (KLMR) Lamar, Colorado, requesting that the further hearing in the above-entitled proceeding, which is now scheduled to be held in Washington, D. C., on February 12, 1951, be continued for a period of thirty days; an opposition to the said motion filed on February 6, 1951, by the Ark-Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc. (KGAR), Garden City, Kansas; and oral argument which was held on the said motion and opposition on February 8, 1951; and

It appearing, from the allegations in the said motion and statements of counsel for the petitioner that John B. Heffelfinger, the Consulting Radio Engineer for Southeast Colorado Broadcasting Company, will be unable to appear at the further hearing on February 12, 1951, due to other professional commitments involving a proof of performance at Montrose, Colorado, the completion of which has been delayed because of adverse weather conditions and failure to obtain delivery of radio equipment at that point; that unsettled weather conditions and unauthorized railroad strikes make travel arrangements extremely precarious at this time; that Mr. Heffelfinger is an essential witness on engineering matters involved in this proceeding; and that Representative Chenoweth, a lay witness, who is scheduled to appear and testify on behalf of the Southeast Colorado Broadcasting Company, will also be unavailable to testify in Washington on February 12 as the result of unavoidable commitments which he had not previously anticipated; and

It further appearing, that the opposition to the above motion is based upon allegations contained therein and statements of counsel for the Ark-Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc., to the effect that the Consulting Radio Engineer for Station KGAR has been conducting a proof of performance in northern Wisconsin but is already en route to Washington, D. C., in anticipation of the further hearing now scheduled to be held on February 12, 1951; that it does not appear from the petition that Representative Chenoweth is a necessary witness in the presentation of evidence on behalf of the Southeast Colorado Broadcasting Company; that air transportation is available to Mr. John B. Heffelfinger, supra; that due to other future professional commitments by counsel for Ark-Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc., a continuance of the above-entitled proceeding for an extended period of time would cause undue hardship to that applicant; and that no good cause has been shown for the continuance requested herein; and

It further appearing, that the petitioner herein has set forth sufficient reasons to warrant a postponement of the hearing in the above-entitled proceeding for a limited period of time in order to afford the said petitioner a reasonable opportunity to arrange for the presentation of its two witnesses who will not be available on February 12, 1951, but that a postponement for a period of thirty days as requested would unduly delay the completion of the said hearing and would impose hardship upon a competing applicant, namely, the Ark-Valley Broadcasting Company, Inc.;

It is ordered, This 8th day of February 1951, that the above motion for continuance be, and it is hereby, granted in part, and that the hearing in the above-entitled proceeding is hereby continued to 10:00 a. m., Tuesday, February 20, 1951, at Washington, D. C.

I. The Commission's public official files disclose that John D. Williams, hereinafter referred to as registrant, is registered as a broker-dealer pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

II. The Records Officer of the Commission has filed with the Commission a statement, a copy of which is attached hereto, and made a part hereof,[1] stating that registrant did not file with the Commission reports of his financial condition during the calendar years 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948 or 1949 as required by section 17 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-17A-5 adopted thereunder.

III. The information reported to the Commission by its Records Officer as set forth in paragraph II hereof tends, if true, to show that registrant violated section 17 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-17A-5 adopted under said section.

IV. The Commission, having considered the aforesaid information, deems it necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors that proceedings be instituted to determine:

(b) Whether registrant has wilfully violated section 17 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-17A-5 adopted under said section;

(c) Whether, pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, it is in the public interest to revoke registration of registrant; and

(d) Whether, pursuant to section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, pending final determination, it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors to suspend the registration of registrant.

V. It is ordered, That registrant be given an opportunity for hearing as set forth in paragraph IV hereof on the 19th day of March 1951 at the main office of the Securities and Exchange Commission, located at 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. On such date the Hearing Room Clerk in Room 101, North Building, will advise the parties and the Hearing Examiner as to the room in which such hearing will be held. The Commission will consider any motion with respect to a change of place of said hearing if said motion is filed with the Secretary of the Commission on or before March 12, 1951. Upon completion of any such hearing in this matter the Hearing Examiner shall prepare a recommended decision pursuant to Rule IX of the rules of practice unless such decision is waived.

It is further ordered, That in the event registrant does not appear personally or through a representative at the time and place herein set or as otherwise ordered, the Hearing Room Clerk shall file with the Records Officer of the Commission a written statement to that effect and thereupon the Commission will take the record under advisement for decision.

This order and notice shall be served on registrant personally or by registered mail forthwith, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER not later than fifteen (15) days prior to March 19, 1951.

In the absence of an appropriate waiver, no officer or employee of the Commission engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in this or any factually related proceeding will be permitted to participate or advise in the decision upon the matter except as witness or counsel in proceedings held pursuant to notice. S. H. JUNGER & CO.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER PERMITTING REGISTRATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of February A. D. 1951.

In the matter of S. H. Junger & Company, 40 Exchange Place, New York 5, New York.

This is a proceeding under section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") to determine whether it is in the public interest to deny the application for registration as a broker and dealer of S. H. Junger & Company, a partnership consisting of Samuel H. Junger and his wife, Frances Morrow Junger.[1]

Applicant by stipulation has agreed that the record herein should include certain affidavits and has waived a hearing, trial examiner's report and oral argument.[2] On the basis of the record we make the following findings.

On July 27, 1950, we revoked the broker-dealer registration of Junger, Anderson & Co., a partnership composed of Junger, George Theodore Anderson, and Junger's son, Robert Selig Junger.[3] We found that, on May 3, 1949, the Jungers and Anderson, individually and as partners of Junger, Anderson & Co., had been permanently enjoined by the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York from engaging in certain practices in connection with the purchase and sale of securities;[4] that Junger, Anderson & Co., through the use of "dummy accounts," had participated in a fraudulent scheme with one Hancock, an employee of an investment company, in connection with purchases of securities from and sales of securities to the investment company; and that the firm had willfully violated the anti-fraud provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, the Exchange Act, and rules promulgated thereunder, as well as the record-keeping requirements of section 17(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule X-17A-3 promulgated thereunder.[5]

We found, however, that Anderson was primarily responsible for the firm's participation in the fraudulent scheme and that Junger had played a much less blameworthy role therein. In our opinion we stated:

[1] Section 15 (b) of the Exchange Act provides in pertinent part: "The Commission shall, after appropriate notice and opportunity for hearing, by order deny registration to * * * any broker or dealer if it finds that such denial * * * is in the public interest and that (1) such broker or dealer whether prior or subsequent to becoming such, or (2) any partner * * * of such broker or dealer * * * whether prior or subsequent to becoming such * * * (C) is permanently or temporarily enjoined by order, judgment, or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction from engaging in or continuing any conduct or practice in connection with the purchase or sale of any security; or (D) has willfully violated any provision of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or of this title, or of any rule or regulation thereunder."

[2] On January 4, 1951, we ordered, with applicant's consent, that the effective date of its registration be postponed pending a final determination on the question whether registration should be denied.

[3] Junger, Anderson & Co., — S. E. C. — (1950), Securities Exchange Act Release No. 4473.

[4] This injunction, still outstanding, was entered after the parties executed a stipulation which contained a consent by the partnership firm and Junger to the entry of a final judgment and order of injunction, but which also contained a denial by Junger that he had engaged in the alleged acts with any willful intent.

[5] The revocation automatically barred Junger, Anderson & Co., from membership in National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. ("NASD"). On May 22, 1950, before we revoked its registration, the firm was suspended by the NASD for ninety days and fined $2,000 and costs.

The record shows that practically all of registrant's contacts with Hancock and the setting up and servicing of the "Harriet Squire" and "Margaret Lewis" accounts were by Anderson, to whom the responsibility for most of registrant's fraudulent conduct must be attributed. There is evidence, however, that, during the absence of Anderson, Hancock placed orders of the type described herein with Samuel Junger; that Samuel Junger made daily inspections of the firm's books and that, consequently, he knew or should have known what actually transpired. In this connection, however, it may be noted that Samuel Junger from time to time requested Anderson to obtain the resignation of "Margaret Lewis" unless a meeting with her could be arranged, and that it was probably as a result of his insistence that such resignation was effected in October 1948.

On June 1, 1950, about two months prior to our order of revocation, Junger terminated the Junger, Anderson & Co., partnership. He states that since that time he has not acted directly or indirectly as a broker or dealer, nor engaged in any other business, except for the sale for his own account of 500 shares of stock he had purchased a number of years ago.[6] Aside from the proceedings in connection with the transactions by Junger, Anderson & Co., the record reveals no other complaints involving him during the twenty years he was engaged in the securities business.

Taking into account all of the above circumstances, we are of the opinion that the public interest does not require denial of the application for registration and that the registration should be permitted to become effective.

It is ordered, Therefore, pursuant to section 15 (b) of the act, that the registration as a broker and dealer of S. H. Junger & Company, a partnership consisting of Samuel H. Junger and Frances Morrow Junger, be, and it hereby is, permitted to become effective.

By the Commission.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective not later than February 18, 1951. Shipments of grapefruit, grown as aforesaid, have been subject to regulation by grades and sizes, pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order, since October 15, 1950, and will so continue until February 18, 1951; the recommendation and supporting information for continued regulation subsequent to February 17, 1951, was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Administrative Committee on February 8; such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including the effective time thereof, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such grapefruit; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of grapefruit; and compliance with this regulation will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., February 18, 1951, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., March 18, 1951, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any grapefruit of any variety grown in the State of Arizona; in Imperial County, California; or in that part of Riverside County, California, situated south and east of the San Gorgonio Pass unless such grapefruit are at least fairly well colored, and otherwise grade at least U. S. No. 2; or

(ii) From the State of California or the State of Arizona (a) to any point outside thereof in the United States, any grapefruit, grown as aforesaid, which are of a size smaller than $3^{11}/_{16}$ inches in diameter, or (b) to any point in Canada, any grapefruit, grown as aforesaid, which are of a size smaller than $3^{9}/_{16}$ inches in diameter ("diameter" in each case to be measured midway at a right angle to a straight line running from the stem to the blossom end of the fruit), except that a tolerance of 5 percent, by count, of grapefruit smaller than the foregoing minimum sizes shall be permitted which tolerance shall be applied in accordance with the provisions for the application of tolerance, specified in the revised United States Standards for Grapefruit (California and Arizona), 7 CFR 51.241: Provided, That, in determining the percentage of grapefruit in any lot which are smaller than $3^{11}/_{16}$ inches in diameter, such percentage shall be based only on the grapefruit in such lot which are of a size $4^{2}/_{16}$ inches in diameter and smaller; and in determining the percentage of grapefruit in any lot which are smaller than $3^{9}/_{16}$ inches in diameter, such percentage shall be based only on the grapefruit in such lot which are of a size $3^{13}/_{16}$ inches in diameter and smaller.

(2) As used in this section, "handler," "variety," "grapefruit," and "ship" shall have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order; and the terms "U. S. No. 2" and "fairly well colored" shall each have the same meaning as when used in the revised United States Standards for Grapefruit (California and Arizona), 7 CFR 51.241.

TITLE 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter II—Federal Reserve System

Subchapter A—Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

[Reg. F]

PART 206—TRUST POWERS OF NATIONAL BANKS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. Effective February 5, 1951, Part 206 is amended in the following respects:

a. Footnote 11 to § 206.10 (c) and footnote 14 to § 206.12 are amended to read as follows:

This does not prevent the bank from investing the funds of several trusts in a single real estate loan if the bank owns no participation in the loan and has no interest therein except in its capacity as fiduciary.

b. Section 206.17 (c) (5) (i) is amended to read as follows:

(5) Miscellaneous limitations. (i) No funds of any trust shall be invested in a participation in a Common Trust Fund if such investment would result in such trust having invested in the aggregate in the Common Trust Fund an amount in excess of 10 percent of the value of the assets of the Common Trust Fund at the time of investment, as determined by the trust investment committee, or the sum of $100,000, whichever is less. If the bank administers more than one Common Trust Fund under this subsection, no investment shall be made which would cause any one trust to have invested in the aggregate in all such Common Trust Funds an amount in excess of the sum of $100,000; and, if the bank administers Funds under paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, no investment shall be made which would cause any one trust to have invested in the aggregate in all such Funds an amount in excess of the sum of $100,000. In applying the limitations contained in this paragraph, if two or more trusts are created by the same settlor or settlors and as much as one-half of the income or principal or both of each trust is payable or applicable to the use of the same person or persons, such trusts shall be considered as one.

2. a. The purposes of these amendments are to eliminate the applicability of section 24 of the Federal Reserve Act to real estate loans in which the funds of two or more trusts may be invested, and to increase the amount which an individual trust may invest in a common trust fund from $50,000 to $100,000.

b. The notice, public participation, and deferred effective date described in section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are not followed in connection with these amendments for the reasons and good cause found as stated in 12 CFR 262.2 (e), and especially because in connection with these permissive amendments such procedures are unnecessary as they would not aid the persons affected and would serve no other useful purpose.

PART 35—FLIGHT ENGINEER CERTIFICATES

STUDY GUIDES FOR FLIGHT ENGINEERS

The following policies are hereby adopted:

§ 35.7–1 Content and scope of the written examination required for a flight engineer certificate in proof of aeronautical knowledge (CAA policies which apply to § 35.7). (a) The written examination is designed for the specific purpose of determining whether an applicant possesses the basic theoretical knowledge required for the safe performance of his duties as a flight engineer.

(b) Since a flight engineer's aeronautical knowledge is extensive in scope, complete coverage in the examination is not feasible. The written examination offered is a sampling device wherein a limited number of questions are proposed for the purpose of determining knowledge.

§ 35.8–1 Content and scope of the practical examination required for a flight engineer certificate in proof of aeronautical skill (CAA policies which apply to § 35.8). The practical examination is designed for the specific purpose of determining whether an applicant possesses the necessary skill required for the safe performance of his duties as a flight engineer.

§ 35.9–1 Limited flight engineer certificates under which flight engineers may serve aboard aircraft having less than four engines and incorporating a flight engineer station (CAA policies which apply to § 35.9).—(a) General. The holder of a limited flight engineer certificate is restricted to the operation of aircraft types on which he has been examined. These types are listed on his certificate.

(b) Eligibility for the examinations.—(1) Written. An applicant for a limited flight engineer certificate must meet the requirements of the Civil Air Regulations regarding age, citizenship, education, and experience before he will be permitted to take the written examination.

(2) Practical. An applicant for a limited flight engineer certificate must meet the requirements of the Civil Air Regulations regarding age, citizenship, education, physical standards, and experience before he will be permitted to take the practical examination.

(c) Written examination. The applicant for a limited flight engineer certificate is required to satisfactorily complete sections 1, 2, and 3 of the flight engineer written examination (as described in Civil Aeronautics Manual 35, Appendix A),[1] and section 4 on the type aircraft which he intends to operate. Section 4, as required in the limited certificate examination, is presently available for PBY–5A type aircraft only, and is similar in scope to the examinations provided for four-engine aircraft.

(d) Practical examination. The applicant is required to satisfactorily complete the practical examination on the same type aircraft on which he completed the written examination. The practical examination is similar in scope to that described in Civil Aeronautics Manual 35, Appendix B,[1] with the following exceptions:

(1) The applicant must supply an aircraft (for the practical examination) having less than four engines and incorporating a flight engineer station satisfactory to the Administrator, and

(2) Any item not applicable to the operation of the specific aircraft may be eliminated from the examination.

Information concerning the items not applicable to a certain type aircraft may be obtained from the local Aviation Safety Agent.

(e) Removal of limitations. The holder of a limited certificate may have the limitations removed by satisfactorily completing section 4 of the written examination and the practical examination on one of the aircraft types described in §§ 35.7 and 35.8. It will not be necessary to retake sections 1, 2, and 3 of the written examination.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply sec. 602, 52 Stat. 1008, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 552)

These policies shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[Supp. 6]

PART 40—AIR CARRIER OPERATING CERTIFICATION

CEILING AND VISIBILITY MINIMUMS

The following policies are hereby adopted:

§ 40.101–1 Ceiling and visibility minimums (CAA policies which apply to § 40.101).—(a) General. The ceiling and visibility minimums authorized by the Administrator for scheduled air carriers will be included in the operations specifications issued to the air carriers. The policies hereinafter set forth will be used by the Civil Aeronautics Administration in authorizing the ceiling and visibility minimums contained in the operations specifications.

(1) Military airports. When an air carrier is authorized to use a military airport, the ceiling and visibility minimums approved for take-off and landing at that airport will not be less than those agreed upon by the military authorities having jurisdiction over the facility.

(b) Take-off minimums.—(1) Regular, provisional or refueling airports.—(i) Twin-engine aircraft. Twin-engine aircraft may have take-off minimums approved as low as 300 feet and one mile, if, after a consideration of all obstructions in the immediate vicinity of the end of the runway used and of the facilities and procedures used to avoid all obstacles in the take-off area, it is determined that a safe climb to the minimum en route altitude can be made. When an air carrier is authorized landing minimums lower than 300–1 at a particular airport through the utilization of ILS or GCA, the air carrier may also be authorized take-off minimums lower than 300–1 but not less than the landing minimums at that particular airport: Provided, That all conditions are such that an ILS or GCA approach can be executed at such minimums in accordance with the limitations set forth in the air carrier's operating certificate.

(ii) Four-engine aircraft. Four-engine aircraft may have take-off minimums approved as low as 200 feet and one-half mile, if, after a consideration of all obstructions in the immediate vicinity of the end of the runway used and of the facilities and procedures used to avoid all obstacles in the take-off area, it is determined that a safe climb to the minimum en route altitude can be made and provided further that each pilot in command demonstrates during each six-month instrument check his ability to take off solely by reference to instruments in the make and model aircraft involved.

(2) Alternate airports. Take-off minimums for both two- and four-engine aircraft may be approved as low as 300 feet and one mile, if, after a consideration of all obstructions in the immediate vicinity of the end of the runway used and of the facilities and procedures used to avoid all obstacles in the take-off area, it is determined that a safe climb to the minimum en route altitude can be made. When an air carrier has been approved for take-off minimums of 200½ at an airport for regular, provisional or refueling use, this air carrier may have minimums of 200½ authorized at the same airport when it is used as an alternate.

(c) Landing minimums. In the approval of ceiling and visibility minimums for landing, two methods of approach will be considered. These are: A regular approach, involving a maneuver of the aircraft or circling of the airport in order to effect a landing, and a straight-in approach from a navigational aid to a landing. A landing is considered as straight-in when the difference between the runway direction and the track from the navigation aid to the approach end of that runway is 30° or less.

(1) Regular approach. Where it is necessary to circle or maneuver to effect a landing, aircraft with higher maneuvering, approach and landing speeds shall be operated with higher landing minimums than slower type aircraft. To effect this principle, the stall speed as established in the Airplane Flight Manual at maximum certificated landing weight with full flaps, landing gear extended and power off will be used to differentiate between the two types of aircraft. Regular approach minimums are generally the same for all instrument approach procedures without regard to the type of radio navigational facility serving the particular airport, and will be established in accordance with the following policy:

(i) For aircraft having stall speeds in excess of 75 mph, the ceiling minimums will be at least 500 feet above the established elevation of the airport and not less than 300 feet above obstructions over which all turns about the airport will normally be made. In addition, the ceiling minimums shall be 300 feet above all obstructions within two miles on either side of the center line of the track from the facility to the end of the nearest usable runway. To determine the obstruction clearance, the normal area for all turns about the airport will be considered as extending for two miles in all directions from the boundary of the airport, exclusive of any areas over which flight is prohibited. However, in certain cases where the location and characteristics of prominent obstructions within the normal turning area about the airport is such that they can easily be seen and avoided, ceiling minimums may be established, taking into account the aircraft's ability to maneuver around these obstructions. Normally, visibility minimums for such aircraft will not be less than one and one-half miles except that visibility minimums of not less than one mile may be authorized for twin-engine aircraft having a stall speed in excess of 75 mph but which can be safely maneuvered with a radius of turn of not more than one-half mile.

(ii) Aircraft having stall speeds of 75 mph or less will normally be authorized to operate into airports with ceiling minimums 100 feet lower and visibility minimums of one-half mile less than established for the faster type of aircraft, but in no case will the ceiling be less than 400 feet and the visibility less than one mile. The criteria with respect to obstruction clearance shall be the same as in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph except that the normal area about the airport for all turns shall be considered as extending one and one-half miles in all directions from the boundary of the airport.

(2) Straight-in approaches using a radio range or comparable radio facility (i. e. ADF, VOR, localizer[1]). Where a radio facility is so located that the difference between the direction of the runway to be used for landing, and the track between the radio facility and the approach end of that runway is less than 30 degrees, straight-in approach minimums lower than the regular approach minimums may be authorized when a rate of descent of not more than 500 feet per minute will bring the aircraft from its final approach altitude over the radio facility to the end of the runway at zero altitude. In this configuration, the speed of the aircraft, having a stall speed in excess of 75 mph, shall be considered to be not less than 120 mph in still air, and the speed of the aircraft, having a stall speed of less than 75 mph, shall be considered to be not less than 90 mph in still air. For both classes of aircraft, the ceiling minimums will not be less than 400 feet, and the visibility minimums not less than one mile. The yardstick set forth above will be applied to each airport as a guide, and, where its rigid application would result in unrealistic or unreasonable minimums, such practical adjustment shall be allowed as will still provide adequate safety. In such cases, the air carrier's application shall include a full explanation of the reason for a deviation from the yardstick and must be concurred in by the flight operations personnel approving the minimums.

When an ADF or comparable facility is located on an airport, the ceiling minimums will not be less than 500 feet.

The use of facilities such as low frequency radio ranges, automatic direction finding facilities (ADF), high frequency radio range facilities (VAR), and omnirange facilities (VOR), is predicated on dependability of operation, location of the facility with respect to the airport, and monitoring of the facility in the case of a high frequency radio range or VOR. In exceptional cases, however, an approach may be authorized utilizing a radio facility which is deficient in some respect, such as its location in reference to the airport it is intended to serve, when the ceiling and visibility minimums are adjusted commensurate with the deficiency. In such case complete justification for the authorization of an approach using a low or high frequency radio range or automatic direction finding facility which is located more than seven (7) miles from the airport must be furnished by the air carrier. The ceiling and visibility minimums in such case will not be less than (i) 500 feet and two miles when the facility is located from seven (7) to ten (10) miles from the airport, (ii) 700 feet and two miles when the facility is located from ten (10) to twelve (12) miles from the airport, and (iii) visual flight rules shall be observed from the radio facility when such facility is more than twelve miles from the airport. At the present time, and until more operational experience has been gained utilizing VOR facilities for let-downs, the above-mentioned limitations will also apply with respect to the use of VOR facilities. When a high frequency radio range (VAR) or omnirange facility (VOR) is not adequately monitored, the ceiling and visiblity minimums will be at least 1000 feet and one mile unless lower minimums can be fully justified.

(3) Straight-in approaches using ILS or GCA facilities. Ceiling and visibility minimums established pursuant to this policy are for straight-in approaches only, utilizing ILS or GCA facilities.

(i) Components of an ILS. (a) The components which make up the instrument landing systems are (1) localizer, (2) glide path, (3) outer marker, (4) middle marker and (5) approach lights.[2]

[1] Not filed with the Federal Register Division.

[1] An ILS localizer course which has a suitable fix, is considered as a facility comparable to a radio range. A fix formed by the intersection of a localizer course and a range leg or radio bearing shall be considered as being suitable if:

(1) The fix is located, either on the front or back course of the localizer, within seven (7) miles of the airport, and

(2) The radio range station or source of the radio bearing is within twenty-five (25) miles of the fix, and

(3) The range leg or bearing intersects the localizer course at an angle greater than 45°.

[2] The above specified approach lights may be the high-intensity slope line system, the regular neon bar approach light system, or other approved approach light system.

In the event that the length of runway available exceeds by 3000 feet, the landing distance required by § 61.216 (a) and (b) of this chapter, and high intensity runway lights are installed and operative on the entire length of the runway, this extra length of runway may be substituted in lieu of the approach lights as a component of the ILS or GCA.

(b) Compass locator stations may be installed at the sites of the outer and middle markers of an instrument landing system, but are not considered a component of the ILS. However, when so installed, they may be used in lieu of the outer or middle marker for establishing a definite position over the fix, provided the aircraft is equipped with dual automatic direction finding receivers. If an aircraft is equipped with a single ADF receiver, only one compass locator may be used in lieu of the marker at the corresponding position.

(ii) Components of a GCA system. The components which make up the ground controlled approach system include (a) surveillance radar (PPI), (b) altitude and azimuth control radar (PAR), and (c) approach lights.[2]

(iii) Demonstration of ability. Approval of minimums for utilization of ILS or GCA, whichever is proposed for use, will be predicated on satisfactory demonstration of ability by the air carrier to use the proposed facilities. An air carrier will have demonstrated such ability when (a) the aircraft has installed and properly functioning, approved airborne receiving equipment and associated controls, indicators and antenna, (b) the air carrier's training program includes a satisfactory familiarization program in the use of the proposed facilities and procedures, for all flight personnel to be engaged in the operation, and (c) the flight personnel concerned have demonstrated under simulated instrument conditions, the ability to safely accomplish the ILS or GCA approach and landing procedures down to the proposed minimums.

(iv) Transition to lower minimums. The transition to lower minimums will be made in increments of 100 feet ceiling and one-fourth mile visibility from the straight-in minimums which could be authorized at a particular airport for a radio range or comparable facility procedure, as set forth in this section. The first reduction of minimums by these increments will be based on satisfactory demonstration of ability by the air carrier as outlined under subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph. Subsequent reduction in minimums will be based on satisfactory operation by the air carrier at the authorized minimums for an approximate period of six months using the particular facilities, unless it is deemed necessary for an air carrier to demonstrate ability either as specified in subdivision (iii) (c) of this subparagraph or under actual instrument conditions. The pattern of reduction in minimums is illustrated as follows: When present straight-in approach minimums are 400–1, the initial minimums for ILS or GCA will be 300¾ and at the end of an approximate six-month period of satisfactory operation using the particular facilities, the next reduction would be to 200½.

(v) Lowest landing minimums. Where no adjustment to the ceiling minimums is necessary for obstruction clearance as explained in (a) of this subdivision, landing minimums of 200½ are the lowest minimums which may be approved at the present time with all components of the ILS or GCA facilities in operation. Exception to these minimums may be made at specific locations where the installation of improved navigational aids so warrants.

(a) Adjustment of ceiling minimums for obstruction clearance. When the minimum obstruction clearance as described in § 60.46–8 cannot be met in the approach area, consideration will be given to establishing ceiling minimums which will afford comparable safety. In this event, the ceiling minimums will be determined by the application of the following formula to all obstructions projecting above the established slope line and located, in the case of an ILS procedure, in the approach area between the outer marker and the end of the runway, or in the case of a GCA procedure, in the approach area within a distance of five miles, outward from the end of the runway:

(1) Extend a line horizontally outward from the top of each obstruction and parallel with the runway center line to a point of intersection with the established slope line, and from that point extend a line vertically to a point of intersection with the glide path. The point of intersection at the highest level of the glide path as established by the foregoing formula will determine the minimum ceiling that may be considered.

(2) Where minimum obstruction clearances cannot be met in the transitional and horizontal surfaces immediately adjacent to the approach area and when deemed necessary, consideration will be given to an adjustment in the ceiling minimums commensurate with the degree of interference presented by the particular obstruction or obstructions.

(3) When application of the formula set forth in the preceding subparagraphs to an obstruction projecting above the established slope surface indicates a ceiling of less than 300 feet, the ceiling will not be reduced below 300 feet until it has been determined by flight checks that the lower ceiling may be authorized.

(4) PPI approach. Minimums for a PPI approach will be established in the same manner as outlined in subparagraphs (1) (i) and (ii) of this paragraph for a regular or circling approach.

(5) Airports not served by a radio navigational or let-down facility—(i) Take-off minimums. Take-off minimums for both two- and four-engine aircraft may be approved as low as 300–1 if, after a consideration of all obstructions in the immediate vicinity of the end of the runway used, and of the facilities and procedures used to avoid all obstacles in the take-off area, it is determined that a safe climb to the minimum en route altitude can be made.

(ii) Landing minimums. Landing minimums as low as 1,000–1 may be approved for airports located outside of control zones; and as low as 1,000–3 for airports located in control zones if, after consideration of the terrain in the vicinity of the airport and the traffic density in that area, the Administrator deems that operations at these minimums assures an adequate level of safety.

CEILING AND VISIBILITY MINIMUMS

The following policies are hereby adopted:

§ 41.1–2 Ceiling and visibility minimums (CAA policies which apply to § 41.1)—(a) General. Ceiling and visibility minimums for operations into and from airports by United States Flag Air Carriers will be established as set forth in § 40.101–1 with the following exception.

(1) Foreign airports. Ceiling and visibility minimums approved for take-offs and landings at a foreign airport will not be less than those prescribed by the country in which the airport is located. If no minimums have been prescribed by a foreign government, the authorized minimums will be consistent with the policies set forth in § 40.101–1.

TITLE 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Federal Security Agency

[Docket No. FDC–46]

PART 19—CHEESES; PROCESSED CHEESES; CHEESE FOODS; CHEESE SPREADS, AND RELATED FOODS; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

CREAM CHEESE WITH OTHER FOODS AND PASTEURIZED NEUFCHATEL CHEESE SPREAD WITH OTHER FOODS

In the matter of amending the definitions and standards of identity for cheddar cheese, washed curd cheese, and colby cheese, and establishing definitions and standards of identity for cream cheese with (and) other foods and pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread with (and) other foods:

By virtue of the authority vested in the Federal Security Administrator by the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sections 401, 701, 52 Stat. 1046, 1055; 21 U. S. C. 341, 371), and upon the basis of substantial evidence received at the hearing held pursuant to the notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 21, 1947 (12 F. R. 1192), and after consideration of the exceptions filed to the tentative order issued on August 24, 1950 (15 F. R. 5694), which exceptions are allowed in part and rejected in part as appears from notations on the exceptions on file with the Hearing Clerk, Federal Security Agency, Room 5109, Federal Security Building, Fourth Street and Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D. C., and as is apparent from the detailed findings made below, the following order is promulgated:

Finding of fact.[1] 1. There are on the market a number of foods prepared by adding foods, such as fruits, vegetables, relishes, or meats, to cream cheese or neufchatel cheese. At present there are no definitions and standards of identity for such foods. In the case of those foods made in part from cream cheese, they may be designated on their labels as "cream cheese with" or "cream cheese and" the name of the added food; for example, "cream cheese with pineapple" or "cream cheese and pineapple"; or they may be designated as some type of cream cheese spread. Many such foods containing neufchatel cheese are now designated as some type of spread. Since cream cheese and neufchatel cheese are not permitted to be used in foods designated as pasteurized process cheese spread with other foods (§ 19.780), the status of foods prepared by blending cream cheese or neufchatel cheese and other foods is uncertain. To leave them without standards might result in abuses. One abuse indicated by the evidence is the sale of spreads labeled to indicate that cream cheese is used but in which the dilution of the cream cheese by the added foods brings its moisture and fat content into the range of neufchatel cheese. It is reasonable and desirable, therefore, to provide two definitions and standards of identity for soft uncured cheeses blended with other suitable foods, one in which the cheese ingredient is cream cheese and the other in which it is neufchatel cheese. (R. 1822, 1827–1828, 2249, 2252, 2273–2274, 2309, 2327–2328, 2330–2333, 2338, 2475, 2615–2617, 2644, 2650, 2782–2783 2963, 3012, 3116–3121)

2. Cream cheese with (and) other foods is the class of foods prepared by mixing, with or without the aid of heat, cream cheese with one or a mixture of two or more properly prepared foods such as fresh, cooked, canned, or dried fruits or vegetables; cooked or canned meats; relishes, pickles, or other foods suitable for blending with cream cheese. The food is basically a cream cheese product, but should contain enough of the food blended with it to impart its distinctive characteristics. If a cheaper food than cream cheese is blended with it and the mixture simulates cream cheese, abuses will likely occur. Under present conditions of manufacture the amount of foods blended with the cream cheese varies from a few percent to 20 percent or a little more. The composition of the cream cheese may vary from one having the minimum fat and maximum moisture to one with considerably more fat and less moisture than required by the standard. It is unnecessary to add water in the preparation of these mixtures. However, water contained in the added food may increase the moisture content of the mixture above that of cream cheese. The addition of a food containing no milk fat will decrease the milk fat content of the mixture in proportion to the amount of the food other than cream cheese used. The percent of milk fat in the mixture should not be less than 33 percent of the percentage of cream cheese used. In order to prevent undue dilution, the percent of fat in the finished food should not be less than 27 percent by weight of the finished food. The moisture content of the finished food should in no case exceed 60 percent. With these limits of fat and moisture, the maximum amount of foods that would normally be expected to be blended could be used with a cream cheese at or close to the minimum fat content and maximum moisture content permitted in the standard for cream cheese. It may be necessary to add water-retaining agents in addition to those contained in the cream cheese, but it is not necessary to add such agents, including the quantity already present in cream cheese, in excess of 0.8 percent of the finished food. The following substances, or mixtures of two or more of these substances, are suitable for such use: carob bean gum, gum karaya, gum tragacanth, guar gum, gelatin, carboxymethylcellulose, carrageen, oat gum, algin (sodium alginate), and algin derivative (propylene glycol ester of alginic acid). Artificial coloring may be added if it does not conceal damage or inferiority or make the finished food appear better or of greater value than it is. An accurately descriptive and understandable name for the food is "cream cheese with ----------" or "cream cheese and ----------," the blank being filled in with the name or names of the added food or foods, in order of predominance by weight. (R. 1822, 1827–1828, 2225, 2230, 2273–2274, 2327–2328, 2333–2334, 2337–2338, 2475, 2782, 2962–2963)

3. Mixtures of neufchatel cheese with other foods are prepared in the same general manner as described in finding 1 for mixtures of other foods with cream cheese. In preparing these mixtures, if the neufchatel cheese has the maximum water and minimum fat permitted by the definition and standard of identity for that food, the blend may contain excessive amounts of water and less milk fat than are necessary to make a satisfactorily blended food having the characteristics of neufchatel cheese. The amounts of the foods other than neufchatel cheese vary, but the amount used should be sufficient to impart its characteristic to the mixture. In no case, however, should the moisture content of the mixture exceed 65 percent or the milk fat content be less than 20 percent. That part of finding 2 dealing with the use of water-retaining agents and artificial coloring is applicable to this class of food. The finished food, however, should be spreadable at ordinary room temperature (70° F.). Sweetening agents may be added for flavor. The following are suitable for such use: sugar, dextrose (corn sugar), corn sirup, corn sirup solids, maltose, malt sirup, and hydrolized lactose. The dairy ingredients permitted in pasteurized process cheese spread (§ 19.775 (d)) may be used. Vinegar may be added, either as an ingredient of one of the foods used for blending or separately. Sometimes acidifying agents are added, usually for the purpose of reducing the pH of the food to a point where spoilage will be retarded. The pH of neufchatel cheese is about 4.5 or 4.6. The addition of vinegar or other acidifying agents, or both, may reduce the pH to as low as 4.0, at which point there is a definite preservative effect. This effect, however, begins at a pH between 4.5 and 4.0, but the exact point is not clearly established in the record. It appears to be somewhere near the midway point, and it is reasonable to find that there is a preservative effect when the pH is less than 4.2. When vinegar alone is added, sufficient flavor is obtained without reducing the pH below 4.2, and if vinegar alone is used to such an extent that the pH is less than 4.2 it is used, in part at least, for the preservative effect of the acetic acid of the vinegar, and it should be considered that acetic acid has been added. In any event, the foods of this class are highly perishable unless sufficiently heated for not less than 30 seconds at a temperature of not less than 150° F. If so heated the quantity of phosphatase in an 0.25-gram portion of the food, as determined by the method prescribed in § 19.500 (e) has a phenol equivalent of not more than 3 micrograms. An accurately descriptive and understandable name for the food is "pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread with ----------" or "pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread and ----------," the blank being filled in with the names of the foods added, in order of predominance by weight. (R. 1818, 1822, 1919–1920, 1930–1931, 1937, 1940–1941, 1966, 2223–2227, 2232–2237, 2248, 2273–2274, 2327–2333, 2337, 2373, 2616–2617, 2620, 2643–2644, 2783, 3117–3121, 4040–4042)

Conclusion. Upon consideration of the entire record and the foregoing findings of fact, it is concluded that the promulgation of the following definitions and standards of identity for cream cheese with (and) other foods and pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread with (and) other foods will promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers:

Part 19 is therefore amended by adding the following new sections:

§ 19.782 Cream cheese with other foods; identity; label statement of optional ingredients. (a) Cream cheese with other foods in the class of foods each of which is prepared by mixing, with or without the aid of heat, cream cheese with one or a mixture of two or more properly prepared foods (except other cheeses), such as fresh, cooked, canned, or dried fruits or vegetables; cooked or canned meats; relishes, pickles, or other foods suitable for blending with cream cheese. The amount of the added food or foods must be sufficient to so differentiate the mixture that it does not simulate cream cheese. The mixture may also contain:

(1) One or any mixture of two or more of the following optional ingredients: Gum karaya, gum tragacanth, carob bean gum, gelatin, guar gum, carboxymethylcellulose, carrageen, oat gum, algin (sodium alginate), algin derivative (propylene glycol ester of alginic acid). The total quantity of any such substances, including that contained in the cream cheese, is not more than 0.8 percent by weight of the finished food.

(2) Artificial coloring, unless such addition conceals damage or inferiority or makes the finished food appear better or of greater value than it is.

(b) No water other than that contained in the added food ingredients is used, but the moisture content of the mixture in no case is more than 60 percent. The milk fat is not less than 33 percent of the percent by weight of the cream cheese used, but in no case is it less than 27 percent of the finished food. Moisture and fat are determined by the methods prescribed in § 19.500 (c), except that when the added food contains fat the method prescribed for the determination of fat is not applicable.

(c) The name of the food is "Cream cheese with ————" or "Cream cheese and ————," the blank being filled with the common names of the foods added, in order of predominance by weight.

(d) The label shall bear the name of the optional water-retaining ingredients used, except that carob bean gum, gum karaya, gum tragacanth, guar gum, and oat gum, or mixture of these may be named as "vegetable gum" or "vegetable gums," as the case may be.

(e) If artificial coloring is used, the label shall bear the statement "artificially colored," except that if the food added to the cream cheese is the only portion artificially colored, the label shall bear the statement "———— artificially colored," the blank being filled in with the name or names of the food so colored.

(f) Wherever the name of the food appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the words and statements herein specified, showing the optional ingredients used, shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name, without intervening written, printed, or graphic matter.

§ 19.783 Pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread with (and) other foods; identity; label statement of optional ingredients. (a) (1) Pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread with other foods is the class of foods each of which is prepared by mixing, with the aid of heat, neufchatel cheese with one or a mixture of two or more properly prepared foods (except other cheeses), such as fresh, cooked, canned, or dried fruits or vegetables; cooked or canned meats; relishes, pickles, or other foods suitable for blending with neufchatel cheese. It may contain one or any mixture of two or more of the optional ingredients named in paragraph (b) of this section. The amount of the added food or foods must be sufficient to so differentiate the blend that it does not simulate neufchatel cheese. It is spreadable at 70° F.

(2) During its preparation the mixture is heated for not less than 30 seconds at a temperature of not less than 150° F. When tested for phosphatase by the method prescribed in § 19.500 (e), the phenol equivalent of 0.25 gram of such food is not more than 3 micrograms.

(3) (i) No water other than that contained in the ingredients used is added to this food, but the moisture content in no case is more than 65 percent.

(ii) The milk fat is not less than 20 percent by weight of the finished food.

(b) The optional ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are:

(1) One or any mixture of two or more of the following: Gum karaya, gum tragacanth, carob bean gum, gelatin, algin (sodium alginate), algin derivative (propylene glycol ester of alginic acid), guar gum, carboxymethylcellulose, carrageen, oat gum. The total quantity of any such substances, including that contained in the neufchatel cheese, is not more than 0.8 percent by weight of the finished food.

(2) Artificial coloring, unless such addition conceals damage or inferiority or makes the finished food appear better or of greater value than it is.

(3) An acidifying agent consisting of one or a mixture of two or more of the following: A vinegar, acetic acid, lactic acid, citric acid, phosphoric acid.

(4) A sweetening agent consisting of one or a mixture of two or more of the following: Sugar, dextrose, corn sirup, corn sirup solids, maltose, malt sirup, hydrolized lactose.

(5) Cream, milk, skim milk, cheese whey or any mixture of two or more of these, or any of the foregoing from which part of the water has been removed, and albumin from cheese whey.

(c) The name of the food is "Pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread with ———————" or "Pasteurized neufchatel cheese spread and ————," the blank being filled with the common names of the foods added, in order of predominance by weight.

(d) The label shall bear the names of any of the optional ingredients used designated in paragraph (b) (1), (3), (4), and (5), of this section, except that carob bean gum, gum karaya, gum tragacanth, guar gum, and oat gum or mixtures of these may be named as "vegetable gum" or "vegetable gums," as the case may be.

(e) (1) If artificial coloring is used, the label shall bear the statement "artificially colored," except that if the food added to the neufchatel cheese is the only portion artificially colored, the label shall bear the statement "———— artificially colored," the blank being filled in with the name or names of the foods so colored.

(2) If an optional acidifying agent is used so that the pH of the finished food is less than 4.2, there shall appear after its name the words "a chemical preservative." In case vinegar is the only acidifying agent added, it shall be considered to be acetic acid when the pH of the finished food is less than 4.2. In case vinegar and other acidifying agents are used and the pH of the finished food is less than 4.2, only the name or names of the acidifying agents other than vinegar shall be followed by the statement "a chemical preservative."

(f) Wherever the name of the food appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the words and statements herein specified, showing the optional ingredients used, shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name, without intervening written, printed, or graphic matter.

Effective date. These regulations shall become effective 6 months after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter III—Office of Price Stabilization, Economic Stabilization Agency

GCPR, SR 4—TIDEWATER COAL DOCK DEALERS

Pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950 (Public Law 774, 81st Cong.), Executive Order 10161 (15 F. R. 6105), and Economic Stabilization Agency General Order No. 2 (16 F. R. 738), this Supplementary Regulation No. 4 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation (16 F. R. 809) is hereby issued.

STATEMENT OF CONSIDERATIONS

Tidewater coal dock dealers operate docks located on the Atlantic seacoast and adjacent navigable waters throughout New England and as far south as New York City. The business of such dealers is highly competitive not only among the dealers but also with other forms of fuel, such as oil and natural gas. As a result the prices of tidewater coal dock dealers have not been influenced by conditions developing since the Korean outbreak.

The tidewater coal dock dealers' prices are made up of the cost of the product to the mine or preparation plant plus transportation charges to the dock, handling costs over the dock and in some cases delivery cost to the customer. Ceiling prices at the mine, one of the principal components of the tidewater coal dock dealers' prices, have advanced pursuant to the authority of Ceiling Price Regulations Nos. 3 and 4 made effective on February 1, 1951. The effect of these prices is to shrink the gross margin of the tidewater coal dock dealers because such dealers' fuel prices are subject to general price ceiling regulations of January 26, 1951.

It is imperative that solid fuel supplies continue to be made to New England without interruption because a substantial part of the heating season still remains and because of the necessity of maintaining power in the numerous industrial plants located in that part of the country that are, or shortly will be, concerned with defense work. It is imperative that immediate relief be granted to tidewater coal dock dealers to prevent serious financial hardships to any of them because coal is currently being delivered to such docks at prices reflecting the recent wage increase at the mines. Such relief should be based upon actual advance in mine prices and would not change the dealers' gross margin.

This supplementary regulation is an interim measure until a permanent industry regulation can be prepared and put into effect.

FINDINGS OF THE DIRECTOR OF PRICE STABILIZATION

In the judgment of the Director of Price Stabilization the provisions of Supplementary Regulation No. 4 to General Ceiling Price Regulation are generally fair and equitable and are necessary to effectuate the purpose of Title IV of the Defense Production Act of 1950.

So far as practicable the Director of Price Stabilization gave due consideration to the national effort to achieve maximum production in furtherance of the objectives of the Defense Production Act of 1950; to prices prevailing during the period from May 24, 1950, to June 24, 1950, inclusive; and to relevant factors of general applicability.

5. Miscellaneous.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 5 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply Title IV, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong., E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105.

SECTION 1. Applicability of supplementary regulation. This supplementary regulation grants authority to tidewater coal dock dealers to increase the ceiling price on coal sold by them, in any quantity, at or for delivery from their docks or other terminal facilities.

SEC. 2. Definitions. When used in this regulation, the terms:

(a) "Tidewater coal dock dealer" means any person (including a dealer who is the same person as the producer) who sells, delivers or disposes of coal at or for delivery from a tidewater dock.

(b) "Producer" means a person engaged in the business of mining or preparing coal at a preparation plant, and any person acting as an agent of a producer in the sale of coal.

(c) "Coal" means (1) bituminous coal, including all bituminous, semi-bituminous and sub-bituminous coal; (2) lignite coal; (3) Virginia anthracite; and (4) Pennsylvania anthracite.

(d) "Ton" means a short or net ton of 2,000 pounds.

(e) "F. o. b. mine" means free on board transportation facilities at a mine, a preparation plant or other loading facilities (not including ground storage facilities).

(f) "G. C. P. R." means the General Ceiling Price Regulation issued by the Director of the Office of Price Stabilization on January 26, 1951.

All definitions used in the General Ceiling Price Regulation, issued by the Director on January 26, 1951, which are pertinent to this supplementary regulation, are incorporated in this supplementary regulation by this reference, except those which are more particularly defined and used herein.

SEC. 3. Authority to increase ceiling prices. (a) On and after the 15th day of February, 1951, each tidewater coal dock dealer may increase the ceiling price, determined under the provisions of the G. C. P. R., of each size and grade of any coal he sells and delivers by the actual dollar-and-cents per ton amount of increase in the f. o. b. mine price on each such size or grade charged by the supplier who furnished the principal supply of each size and grade of coal to the dealer during the dealer's base period (Dec. 19, 1950, to Jan. 25, 1951, inclusive), under the authority of Ceiling Price Regulation No. 3 (Coal, except Pennsylvania Anthracite, Delivered from Mine or Preparation Plant) and Ceiling Price Regulation No. 4 (Anthracite Delivered from Mine or Preparation Plant), both issued by the Director on February 1, 1951.

(b) On and after the 15th day of February 1951, each tidewater coal dock dealer who is the same person as the supplier may increase the ceiling price, determined under the provisions of the G. C. P. R., of each size and grade of coal he sells and delivers by the actual dollar-and-cents per ton amount of increase in the f. o. b. mine price on each such size or grade charged by the supplier to an independent dealer under the authority of Ceiling Price Regulation No. 3 (Coal, except Pennsylvania Anthracite, Delivered from Mine to Preparation Plant) and Ceiling Price Regulation No. 4 (Anthracite Delivered from Mine or Preparation Plant), both issued by the Director on February 1, 1951.

(c) The authority to increase base period ceiling prices set forth in section 3 (a) and (b) on any size or grade of coal shall be effective only upon receipt by the tidewater coal dock dealer of a written notice of shipment of coal, mined on or after February 1, 1951, from the dealer's principal supplier during the dealer's base period (Dec. 19, 1950, to Jan. 25, 1951, inclusive), and a written statement of the price increase required of the producer under Ceiling Price Regulation Nos. 3 and 4, respectively, showing the exact dollars-and-cents amount of increase the producer has added to the price of each size or grade of his coal under the authority of the aforesaid regulations.

SEC. 4. Records and reports. Each tidewater coal dock dealer shall file the following by letter for each dock with the Office of Price Stabilization, attention Solid Fuels Price Branch, Washington 25, D. C., and with the regional office in the region in which the dock is located, as soon as each new ceiling price is established under the authority of this supplemental regulation: (a) Ceiling price of each size or grade of coal in effect prior to the effective date of this regulation; (b) the amount of increase in price which this supplemental regulation authorizes the dealer to add to his price or prices; (c) the name of the supplier, the mine or mines, and size or grade of coal to which the increase in price reported in (b) above applies; and (d) the new ceiling price established for each size and grade of coal under the authority of this supplemental regulation.

SEC. 5. Miscellaneous. The tidewater coal dock dealer subject to this supplementary regulation shall be subject to all other provisions of the General Ceiling Price Regulation which are not inconsistent with the provisions hereof, including, but not limited to, the enforcement and penalty provisions thereof, and the requirement of keeping on file for inspection a statement of his ceiling prices.

Effective date: This supplementary regulation to the General Ceiling Price Regulation shall become effective on the 15th day of February 1951.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this supplementary regulation have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

[NPA Order M-37]

M-37—ZINC SCRAP—TOLL AGREEMENTS

This order is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order, there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations. However, consultation with representatives of all trades and industries affected in advance of the issuance of this order has been rendered impracticable by the fact that the order affects a large number of different trades and industries.

4. Production of zinc dust.
5. Restrictions on inventory accumulations.
6. Applications for adjustment or exception.

9. Violations.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 9 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. What this order does. The purpose of this order is to regulate the acceptance, delivery and distribution (whether on purchase, toll agreement or otherwise) of zinc scrap. The order also prohibits undue accumulations of such scrap.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Zinc scrap" means all materials or products the principal content of which, by weight, is zinc, and which are the waste or by-product of industrial fabrication or processes, or have been discarded on account of obsolescence, failure, or other reason, including but not limited to clippings, engravers' plates, skimmings, ashes, galvanizers' dross, castings, die-cast scrap, and die castings.

(c) "Dealer" means any person regularly engaged in the business of buying and selling zinc scrap.

SEC. 3. Restrictions on toll agreements. (a) Except with the written approval of the National Production Authority, no person shall deliver or accept delivery of zinc scrap for converting, remelting or other processing under any existing or future toll agreement or other arrangement by which title to the scrap remains vested in any person other than the processor, or pursuant to which unalloyed or alloyed zinc in any quantities, equivalent or otherwise, is to be returned to the person delivering or owning the scrap. Application for such approval may be made by the person delivering or owning the zinc scrap, or the person for whose benefit the conversion, remelting or other processing will be effected. The provisions of this paragraph apply with equal effect to any agency or other relationship which results in a toll arrangement similar to that above described.

(b) No person shall sell or deliver any slab zinc to any person subject to either an express or implied condition of sale that the zinc scrap remaining after the use of the delivered zinc will be resold or returned to the person originally supplying such zinc.

(c) Persons requesting approval of toll agreements shall file with the National Production Authority a letter setting forth: The names and addresses of the parties to any existing or proposed toll or conversion agreement; the kind, grade, and form of the scrap involved; the tonnage of the scrap and the estimated tonnage of the zinc products resulting; the estimated rate and dates of delivery of such zinc products; the length of time such agreement or other similar agreement between the same parties has been in force; the duration of the agreement; the purpose for which such zinc products are to be used; and such other information as may seem pertinent and necessary.

SEC. 4. Production of zinc dust. Commencing on February 20, 1951, unless specifically authorized in writing by the National Production Authority, no person shall use any galvanizers' dross for any purpose other than the production of zinc dust.

SEC. 5. Restrictions on inventory accumulations. No scrap dealer shall accept delivery of any form of zinc scrap if his total inventory of such scrap (including inventory not physically located in the dealer's yard or plant) is, or by such receipt would become, in excess of his total deliveries of such scrap by weight during the first six months of 1950, divided by three.

SEC. 6. Applications for adjustment or exception. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that any provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. In considering requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing, shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought, and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 7. Records and reports. (a) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

(b) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the National Production Authority.

(c) Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to the National Production Authority as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act (Pub. Law 831, 77th Cong., 5 U. S. C. 139-139F.)

SEC. 8. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-37.

SEC. 9. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provisions of this order or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority or wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order shall take effect, except as otherwise specifically stated, on February 14, 1951.

EXPLANATORY PROVISIONS

SECTION 1. What this order does. The purpose of this order is to conserve and provide for the distribution of the limited supply of manganese ore so as best to serve the interest of national defense and essential civilian production. It prohibits, subject to limited exceptions, any deliveries of manganese ore not covered by allocation authorizations to be issued by the Defense Minerals Administration, and requires the filing of reports monthly on inventory and anticipated supplies.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership association or any other organized group of persons, whether acting as principal, broker, or agent, and includes any agency of the United States or any other government.

(b) "Manganese ore" means all natural manganese ores, concentrates and agglomerated ores (metallurgical and chemical grades) containing 35 percent or more manganese on a dry basis.

RESTRICTION ON DELIVERIES AND USE

SEC. 3. Allocation authorizations required. (a) After March 31, 1951, no person shall deliver manganese ore or accept delivery of manganese ore in any month except in accordance with the terms of an allocation authorization issued for that month by the Defense Minerals Administration on DMA-Form 1.

(b) An application for an allocation authorization must be filed with the Defense Minerals Administration by the purchaser on DMA-Form 1 not later than the 15th day of the month preceding the month in which delivery is sought.

(c) The allocation authorization (DMA-Form 1) issued will be sent by the Defense Minerals Administration to the appropriate supplier or suppliers and a copy furnished to the purchaser. The supplier is required to make delivery to the extent of the purchaser's orders within the limit of the authorization. In placing his orders, the purchaser shall specify the date and serial number of the applicable allocation authorization. The purchaser may use manganese ore received under an authorization by the Defense Minerals Administration only for the uses specified in DMA-Form 1.

(d) Any person producing manganese ore shall use or consume no part thereof except in accordance with the terms of an allocation authorization issued by the Defense Minerals Administration on DMA-Form 1. An application for such authorization must be filed with the Defense Minerals Administration on DMA-Form 1 not later than the 15th day of the month preceding the month in which the authorization is proposed to be exercised.

SEC. 4. Exemptions from allocation requirements. The provisions of section 3 shall not apply to:

(a) Deliveries of manganese ore to the General Services Administration for the sole purpose of stockpiling.

(b) Deliveries of manganese ore for the purposes of resale only.

(c) Deliveries of manganese ore containing less than 35 percent of manganese on a dry basis.

RECORDS AND REPORTS

SEC. 5. Records and audit. Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least two years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, and use, in sufficient detail to permit inspection and audit by representatives of the Defense Minerals Administration to determine that the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

SEC. 6. Reports. (a) Every person who at any time during the month of February, 1951, or in any subsequent calendar month, consumed, or had in his possession for consumption, manganese ore, shall report to the Defense Minerals Administration on DMA-Form 2, on or before the 15th day of the following month.

(b) Every person importing manganese ore (whether for his own consumption or for resale) and every person purchasing domestically produced manganese ore for the sole purpose of resale during the week of March 4, 1951, to March 10, 1951, or in any subsequent week, shall report to the Defense Minerals Administration on DMA-Form 3, on or before Friday of the following week.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 7. Adjustments and exceptions. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that such provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of national defense or in the public interest. In considering requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this part, consideration will be given to the requirements of public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 8. Directives. The Defense Minerals Administration may from time to time issue special directives as to deliveries of manganese ore, and unless otherwise provided therein, such directives will prevail over the provisions of this order.

SEC. 9. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to the Defense Minerals Administration, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

SEC. 10. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or furnishes false information or conceals any material fact in the course of operation under it, is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control, and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

At that time the said lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, and selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-one day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 91 days, commencing at the hour and on the day specified above, the public lands affected by this order shall be subject only to (1) application under the homestead or the desert-land laws or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 609 (43 U. All applications filed thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

Applications for these lands, which shall be filed in Land Office, Denver, Colorado, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations and Part 296 of that title, to the extent that such regulations are applicable. VIRUSES, SERUMS, TOXINS, AND ANALOGOUS PRODUCTS; ORGANISMS AND VECTORS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Notice is hereby given, in accordance with section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003 (a)), that the Secretary of Agriculture is considering amending the regulations relating to viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products and certain organisms and vectors (9 CFR and Supp. Parts 101-122) issued under the Virus, Serum, and Toxin Act of March 4, 1913 (21 U. S. C. 151–158) and section 2 of the act of February 2, 1903 (21 U. S. C. 111), as follows:

1. The first paragraph of § 114.7 would be amended to read as follows:

§ 114.7 Rabies vaccine. Licensees producing killed rabies vaccine shall adhere to the following requirements pertaining to the preparation and testing of this product for safety and potency:

2. Section 118.31 would be amended to read as follows:

§ 118.31 Sickness and records thereof. Simultaneous virus shall not be collected at licensed establishments from pigs which become visibly sick on or before the third day, or subsequent to the seventh day, after the time of inoculation. The physical condition of all pigs from which simultaneous virus is to be collected shall be recorded daily on and after the third day subsequent to inoculation. Third day observations may be made on the fourth day if the third day falls on Sunday or a holiday.

3. Section 118.35 would be amended to read as follows:

§ 118.35 Holding of simultaneous virus. Simultaneous virus which has been mixed and phenolized at licensed establishments as provided in Parts 101 to 122 of this chapter, together with the virus-stock sample, shall be held under Bureau lock as provided under § 102.77 (c) of this chapter until the tests required by Parts 101 to 122 of this chapter have been completed and have shown the virus to be free from contamination: Provided, however, That simultaneous virus which will not reach its destination before the tests are concluded or which is exported to a foreign country may be released prior to the conclusion of said tests. If the test respecting simultaneous virus so released is declared unsatisfactory, the manufacturer shall immediately recall all of such product in order that it may be placed under Bureau lock.

4. Section 118.41 would be amended to read as follows:

§ 118.41 Swine erysipelas. Representative samples of each batch or serial of simultaneous virus shall be tested at licensed establishments in the following manner to determine its freedom from swine erysipelas (Erysipelothrix rhusiopathiae):

(a) Within 1 day after the first virus in a batch is collected, at least 1 cc. of test sample A shall be injected intramuscularly into each of three or more young pigeons or 0.2 cc. of such sample shall be injected subcutaneously into each of three or more suitable mice susceptible to swine erysipelas. These test animals and birds shall be held under the observation of an inspector for 10 or more days after being injected with the virus under test.

(b) Three or more days after phenolization of the batch of virus, at least 1 cc. of test sample B shall be injected intramuscularly into each of three or more young pigeons or 0.2 cc. of such sample shall be injected subcutaneously into each of three or more suitable mice susceptible to swine erysipelas. These test animals and birds shall be held under the observation of an inspector for 7 or more days after being injected with the virus under test.

(c) If all test animals or birds injected with test sample A survive for 10 days or more, and all test animals or birds injected with test sample B survive for 7 days or more, after injection, the batch or serial represented by the samples may be marketed if it otherwise conforms to the requirements of Parts 101 to 122 of this chapter.

(d) Should any of the inoculated animals or birds die during the test, the product shall not be released for marketing and the reserve 30-cc. sample shall be forwarded to the Bureau.

(e) All animals or birds, after being once used in the tests provided in this section, shall be killed and their carcasses destroyed by incineration or tanking as provided in § 108.16 of this chapter. Also all virus blood and simultaneous virus which are contaminated with Erysipelothrix rhusiopathiae shall be destroyed in like manner.

5. Section 119.51 would be amended to read as follows:

§ 119.51 Test pigs. Licensees shall furnish all pigs used in testing anti-hog-cholera serum. Eight healthy pigs, susceptible to hog cholera and weighing not less than 40 pounds nor more than 115 pounds each, shall be used for testing each batch of serum consisting of 300,000 cc. or less. Batches consisting of more than 300,000 cc. shall be tested on 11 such pigs instead of 8. The inspector supervising the test shall indicate the pigs which shall receive anti-hog-cholera serum with hog cholera virus and those which shall receive the virus only.

6. Section 119.63 would be amended to read as follows:

§ 119.63 Minimum dosage. When anti-hog-cholera serum produced at licensed establishments, upon testing as provided in Parts 101 to 122 of this chapter, is found "satisfactory for potency" and "satisfactory for purity," the product may be marketed if it is recommended for use in doses not less than those appearing in the following table:

Weight:	Minimum dose (cc.)
Sucking pigs	20
Pigs 20 to 40 pounds	30
Pigs 40 to 90 pounds	35
Pigs 90 to 120 pounds	45
Hogs 120 to 150 pounds	55
Hogs 150 to 180 pounds	65
Hogs 180 pounds and over	75

The purposes of the foregoing proposed amendments are to clarify the regulations, to extend their application in some particulars, and to reflect practices that have developed through experience in dealing with problems of production and distribution of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products, particularly anti-hog-cholera serum and hog-cholera virus.

Any person who wishes to submit written data, views, or arguments concerning the proposed regulations may do so by filing them with the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Agricultural Research Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., within 15 days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of February 1951.

[Docket No. FDC-25 (a)]

OLEOMARGARINE; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

NOTICE OF HEARING TO AMEND DEFINITION AND STANDARD OF IDENTITY

In the matter of amending the definition and standard of identity for oleomargarine:

Notice is hereby given that the Federal Security Administrator, upon application of a substantial portion of the interested industry stating reasonable grounds, and in accordance with sections 401 and 701 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (52 Stat. 1046, 1055; 21 U. S. C. 341, 371), will hold a public hearing commencing at 10:00 o'clock in the morning of March 27, 1951, in room 5140, Federal Security Building, Independence Avenue and Fourth Street SW., Washington, D. C., for the purpose of receiving evidence upon proposals to amend the regulations fixing and establishing a definition and standard of identity for oleomargarine (21 CFR 45.0). At the hearing, evidence will be restricted to testimony and exhibits relevant and material to such proposals. The hearing will be conducted in accordance with the rules of practice provided therefor. Mr. Bernard D. Levinson is hereby designated as presiding officer to conduct the hearing in place of the Administrator, with full authority to administer oaths and affirmations and to do all other things appropriate to the conduct of the hearing. The presiding officer is hereby required to certify the entire record of the proceeding to the Administrator for initial decision.

The proposed amendments set forth below for consideration at the hearing are subject to adoption, rejection, or modification by the Federal Security Administrator, in whole or in part, as the evidence adduced at the hearing may require.

It is proposed that § 45.0, Oleomargarine; identity; label statement of optional ingredients, be amended in the following respects:

First, by adding the words "or margarine" immediately after the word "oleomargarine" wherever it appears in this section, including the title thereof.

Second, by deleting subparagraph (7) of paragraph (a) and substituting therefor a new subparagraph, as follows:

(7) Vitamin A (with any accompanying vitamin D, and with or without vitamin D concentrate), in such quantity that the finished oleomargarine or margarine contains not less than 15,000 units of vitamin A per pound, as determined by the method prescribed in the United States Pharmacopeia for total biological activity. Vitamin A may be added as such and/or as provitamin A, and may be added in a food oil carrier, or as fish liver oil, or as a concentrate from fish liver oil.

Third, by adding a new subparagraph (12) to paragraph (a), immediately following subparagraph (11) thereof and immediately preceding the concluding sentence of paragraph (a), as follows:

(12) (i) Citric acid, in an amount not exceeding 0.01 percent of the finished oleomargarine or margarine; or (ii) isopropyl citrate esters (predominantly monoisopropyl citrate), in an amount not exceeding 0.02 percent of the weight of the finished oleomargarine or margarine; or (iii) stearyl citrate esters (predominantly distearyl citrate) in an amount not exceeding 0.15 percent of the weight of the finished oleomargarine or margarine.

Fourth, by changing that part of paragraph (b) which now reads: "Subparagraph (7): 'Vitamin A Added,' or 'With Added Vitamin A'" to read as follows:

Subparagraph (7): "Vitamin A Added," or "With Added Vitamin A"; and if any provitamin A is added and it imparts color to the finished product, the statement "Artificially Colored," or "Artificial Coloring Added," or "With Added Artificial Coloring."

At this hearing evidence will also be received, if offered, on a proposal to amend the definition and standard of identity for oleomargarine to recognize as a permitted optional ingredient of such food a suspension in water of finely comminuted dehulled soybeans and when such ingredient is used to provide for omitting all ingredients derived from milk.

Dated: February 9, 1951.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. G-859, G-1408, G-1608]

TEXAS GAS TRANSMISSION CORP.

ORDER REJECTING TARIFF, INSTITUTING INVESTIGATION AND FIXING DATE FOR HEARING

FEBRUARY 9, 1951.

On March 30, 1949, the Commission issued a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Texas Gas Transmission Corporation (Texas Gas) pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act in Docket No. G-859 upon the following terms and conditions, among others:

(G) • • • [Texas Gas] shall file, at least 60 days prior to commencement of the gas services herein authorized and directed, schedules of rates and charges therefor acceptable to the Commission.

On October 14, 1949, Texas Gas tendered for filing with the Commission certain FPC Gas Tariff Rate Schedules relating to the natural gas service authorized and directed in said certificate order of March 30, 1949, all of which were rejected by the Commission in its letter of October 21, 1949, to Texas Gas.

On December 13, 1949, Texas Gas tendered for filing with the Commission the following designated FPC Tariff Rate Schedules and Revised Sheets, with data and information relating thereto: Rate Schedules CD–4, G–2, and I–2; Second Revised Sheets Nos. 43 and 55, and First Revised Sheet No. 55–A to the General Terms and Conditions; with a request that the same be made effective on an interim basis only, to be effective as of December 15, 1949, and to remain in effect thereafter until and including February 28, 1951.

On December 15, 1949, the Commission issued its order allowing the Rate Schedules filed by Texas Gas on December 13, 1949, to take effect on December 15, 1949, and to continue in effect until and including February 28, 1951. This order also provided that Texas Gas file one month prior to the expiration date of the said interim rate schedules, new schedules of rates and charges acceptable to the Commission, applicable to the sales and deliveries of natural gas by it as authorized and directed in the said order of March 30, 1949, and file cost studies relating to such deliveries and other data in support thereof, including operational experience prior to the time of such filing.

In addition to the foregoing rate schedules, Texas Gas also tendered for filing on December 13, 1949, its proposed firm and interruptible Zone 4 Rate Schedules G–4, I–4, and E–4, which rate schedules were not acceptable to the Commission for filing and subsequently were withdrawn by Texas Gas. On January 16, 1950, Texas Gas tendered for filing its interim Rate Schedules GX–4 and I–4 for the sale of firm and interruptible gas to distributing companies in its Zone 4, with a request that such schedules become effective as of January 20, 1950.

On February 2, 1950, the Commission issued an order amending its above mentioned order of December 15, 1949, to allow the interim Rate Schedules GX–4 and I–4 tendered for filing by Texas Gas on January 16, 1950, to take effect as of January 20, 1950, and to continue in effect until and including February 28, 1951.

On September 13, 1950, the Commission issued a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Texas Gas pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act in Docket No. G–1408, upon the following terms and conditions, among others:

(B) Applicant [Texas Gas] shall file, at least 30 days prior to commencement of the gas service herein authorized its proposed Rate Schedule T–2 as an interim schedule of rates and charges, in form acceptable to the Commission, such rate schedule to be effective until and including February 28, 1951. One month prior to that date, Applicant shall file with the Commission a schedule of rates and charges, acceptable to the Commission, for the service authorized herein, and shall file, under oath, cost studies relating to such service and other data in support thereof, including operational experience prior to the time of such filing.

On October 2, 1950, Texas Gas pursuant to the foregoing provision in the Commission's order issued September 13, 1950, tendered for filing its Rate Schedule T–2 and on October 19, 1950, its service agreement with Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, dated September 22, 1950. The Commission on November 6, 1950, issued an order permitting the Rate Schedule T–2 and Service Agreement dated September 22, 1950, tendered for filing by Texas Gas on October 2 and October 19, 1950, respectively, to take effect as of November 1, 1950, and to continue in effect until and including February 28, 1951.

On January 26, 1951, Texas Gas tendered for filing with the Commission Rate Schedules CD–4, G–2, GX–4, I–2, I–4 and T–2 to become effective on and after March 1, 1951, in substitution of the prior rate filings mentioned herein, together with supporting information pursuant to the Commission's orders issued in Docket No. G–859 and in Docket No. G–1408. The information submitted included a system-wide cost of service study.

On the basis of the information submitted, it appears that the rates, charges, classifications, rules, regulations and practices set forth in the filing of January 26, 1951, and also the existing rates, charges, classifications, rules, regulations and practices of Texas Gas for and in connection with the transportation and sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory and preferential.

The Commission further finds:

(1) Based on the information submitted, the rate schedules tendered for filing by Texas Gas on January 26, 1951, are not acceptable and should be rejected, and Texas Gas should be given an opportunity to be heard in justification of said filing.

(2) It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission on its own motion under Docket No. G–1608 enter upon a hearing pursuant to the authority contained in section 5 of the Natural Gas Act concerning all rates, charges and classifications demanded, observed, charged and collected by Texas Gas for and in connection with any transportation or sale of natural gas, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and all rules, regulations, practices and contracts affecting such rates, charges and classifications.

(3) The filing of January 26, 1951, was made pursuant to the Commission's orders entered in Docket Nos. G–859 and G–1408, and such dockets with Docket No. G–1608 should be consolidated for the purpose of hearing.

(4) The rate schedules covering the sales of natural gas for which certificates of public convenience and necessity were issued in Docket Nos. G–859 and G–1408, will not be effective after February 28, 1951, and good cause exists to set these proceedings for hearing upon less than the usual 15 days' notice.

The Commission orders:

(A) The FPC Gas Tariff Rate Schedules and Revised Sheets tendered for filing on January 26, 1951, be and the same hereby are rejected, pending hearing and decision thereon.

(B) Docket Nos. G–859, G–1408 and G–1608 be and same hereby are consolidated for the purpose of hearing.

(C) A public hearing be held in the above mentioned Docket Nos. G–859, G–1408 and G–1608 commencing on February 20, 1951, at 10 a. m., in the Hearing Room of Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, D. C., to determine if the proposed Rate Schedules and Revised Sheets filed on January 26, 1951, by Texas Gas Transmission Corporation designated Rate Schedule CD–4, G–2, GX–4, I–2, I–4, and T–2 comply with the above mentioned conditions of the Commission's orders issued on December 15, 1949, and November 6, 1950, in Docket Nos. G–859 and G–1408 respectively; and to determine whether any rate, charge or classification demanded, observed, charged or collected by Texas Gas Transmission Corporation for and in connection with any transportation or sale of natural gas, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and any rule, regulation, practice, or contract affecting such rate, charge or classification is unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential.

(D) If, after hearing, the Commission shall find that any rate, charge, classification, rule, regulation, practice or contract referred to in paragraph (C) is unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, it will determine and fix by appropriate order or orders just, reasonable, non-discriminatory and non-preferential rates, charges, classifications, rules, regulations, practices and contracts to be filed and thereafter observed and enforced.

(E) Interested State Commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

By the Commission.

Date of Issuance: February 12, 1951.

TENNESSEE GAS TRANSMISSION CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

FEBRUARY 13, 1951.

Take notice that Tennessee Gas Transmission Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation having its principal office at Commerce Building, Houston, Texas, filed on February 5, 1951, a first amendment to the applications filed in each of the above matters, whereby it desires to amend and consolidate all of such applications, and requests the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of certain natural gas transmission facilities as hereinafter described, and as Applicant proposes more fully to set forth in supplemental data to be filed by February 15, 1951.

Applicant proposes to construct approximately 528 miles of parallel loop line along its presently authorized system, consisting of 24-inch, 26-inch, and 30-inch pipe, approximately 304 miles of 24-inch new pipeline extending from Applicant's authorized compressor station near Mercer, Pennsylvania, in a northeasterly direction to Applicant's authorized compressor station near Utica, New York, and approximately 200 miles of miscellaneous lateral lines. Applicant also proposes to install new compressor units aggregating approximately 57,000 horsepower in its existing or authorized compressor stations, and approximately 14,000 horsepower in a new compressor station.

Applicant considers the proposed facilities adequate to increase the daily design delivery capacity of its system from 1,310,000 Mcf, as presently authorized, to approximately 1,395,000 Mcf, and to increase the peak day delivery capacity to 1,595,000 Mcf by means of a gas storage project. The facilities are also proposed to be used for the transfer of a daily delivery of 25,000 Mcf from Applicant's Eastern Rate Zone to its Northern Rate Zone; to deliver an additional 15,000 Mcf each to Iroquois Gas Corporation, United Natural Gas Company and Equitable Gas Company; to make available generally during periods of maximum customer demand up to an additional 200,000 Mcf per day, of which 194,000 Mcf is to enable Northeastern Gas Transmission Company to serve additional customers in the New England market in accordance with its proposal in Docket No. G–1568 and 6,000 Mcf of which is to provide operational flexibility along Applicant's entire system; and, to provide 40,000 Mcf per day to be used initially for building up Applicant's storage position and thereafter to be made available for sale in accordance with Applicant's commitments.

The estimated overall capital cost of all the new facilities proposed in the first amendment is approximately $91,625,000.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 2d day of March 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

Applicant proposes to:

1. Convert six natural gas producing pools with an estimated ultimate storage capacity of 35,700,000 in Hocking, Knox and Ashland counties, all in Ohio, to storage service. In connection therewith Applicant proposes to construct and operate 74.2 miles of varying sized pipelines and to remove 53.2 miles of existing well and field lines.

UNITED NATURAL GAS CO. AND SYLVANIA CORP.

FEBRUARY 13, 1951.

Take notice that United Natural Gas Company (United), a Pennsylvania corporation of Oil City, Pennsylvania, and The Sylvania Corporation (Sylvania), a Pennsylvania corporation of Oil City, Pennsylvania, filed on February 5, 1951, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing Sylvania to store gas underground for United in Sylvania's Tuscarora storage field, Steuben County, New York, and also authorizing the construction of certain necessary facilities as hereinafter described.

United proposes to construct a short tie line and miscellaneous gauges and fittings in Hebron Township, Potter County, Pennsylvania. The estimated cost of these facilities to be constructed by United is $2,500. United will pay the cost of the proposed facilities out of cash on hand.

Sylvania proposes to construct in the Tuscarora storage field 3,000 feet of 4-inch line, 4,400 feet of 8-inch line, a compressor unit, a measuring station and incidental equipment in Potter County, Pennsylvania, and Steuben County, New York. The estimated cost of the proposed facilities is $213,400, which will be paid for by Sylvania from current funds. United states that the peakday requirements on its pipeline system are such that these underground storage facilities are highly desirable in order to meet future normal growth requirements of domestic, commercial, and industrial consumers. The operation of this project would permit Sylvania to receive income from property formerly utilized in the production of gas from which the gas has been greatly depleted.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 2d day of March 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

AMERICAN POWER & LIGHT CO.

ORDER RELEASING JURISDICTION OVER FEES AND EXPENSES

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of February A. D. 1951.

This Commission having, on June 28, 1950, entered an order approving a plan filed by American Power & Light Company ("American"), a registered holding company, under section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 providing for a reduction of American's capital by $16,125,000 and a pro rata cash distribution of $16,139,211.79, in partial liquidation, to the holders of its single class of capital stock; and

Said order of June 28, 1950, having reserved jurisdiction to determine the reasonableness and appropriate allocation of all fees and expenses incurred or to be incurred in connection with the said plan and the transactions incident thereto; and said plan having been consummated on August 23, 1950; and

Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby & Palmer, counsel for American, having filed an application requesting a release of the jurisdiction reserved in said order so as to permit American to pay to that firm a fee of $3,600 and $351.26 as reimbursement for expenses; and

Counsel for American having filed an affidavit describing the services performed and stating that American proposes to pay no other fees or expenses in connection with the plan other than routine expenses, such as printing, advertising, mailing and traveling expenses of officers and employees of American; and

Counsel for all other parties and participants having stated on the record that they would not request any fee from American in connection with this proceeding; and

The Commission having considered the application, the affidavit in support thereof, and the entire record of this proceeding, and finding that the fee proposed to be paid to Root, Ballantine, Harlan, Bushby & Palmer is not unreasonable, and finding it appropriate to release the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over all fees and expenses incurred by American in carrying out the provisions of said plan:

It is ordered, That the jurisdiction reserved in this Commission's order of June 28, 1950 over the payment by American of all fees and expenses incurred in connection with its plan filed with this Commission on May 24, 1950, be, and the same hereby is, released.

It is further ordered, That except as herein expressly modified, said order of June 28, 1950 be continued in full force and effect.

OHIO EDISON CO. AND PENNSYLVANIA POWER CO.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of February A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that a joint application-declaration has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 (the "act"), by Ohio Edison Company ("Ohio"), a registered holding company and a public utility company, and its subsidiary, Pennsylvania Power Company ("Pennsylvania"), a public utility company. The filing has designated sections 6, 7, 9, 10 and 12 of the act and Rules U-43 and U-50 thereunder as being applicable to the transactions described therein.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 23, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter stating the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. At any time after said date, said joint application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 and U-100 thereof. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration, which is on file in the offices of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Ohio, the holder of all the issued and outstanding common stock of Pennsylvania, par value $30 a share, proposes to purchase from Pennsylvania, and Pennsylvania proposes to issue and sell to Ohio, 40,000 additional share of common stock of Pennsylvania for a total cash consideration of $1,200,000.

In addition to the issuance and sale of the above described common stock, Pennsylvania also proposes to issue and sell, at competitive bidding pursuant to the requirements of Rule U-50, 40,000 shares of $100 par value preferred stock of a new series or class ranking equally with the shares of Pennsylvania's 4.25 per cent preferred stock now outstanding. The new preferred stock is to be sold for the lowest actual cost of money obtainable which, however, is to be not more than 4.50 percent per annum.

According to the filing, Pennsylvania contemplates expenditures for the construction or acquisition of property additions to its utility plant of approximately $14,900,000 during the years 1951 and 1952. The filing states that in order to finance this construction program, Pennsylvania will use the proceeds from the sale of the new preferred stock and common stock and cash on hand and estimated to be received from operations. The management of Pennsylvania estimates that, based upon the present level of earnings and current expectations of the progress of its construction program, approximately $7,000,000 of its cash requirements will have to be provided from the sale of additional securities of a kind or kinds not yet determined before the end of 1952.

The joint application-declaration requests that any order of this Commission authorizing the proposed transactions become effective forthwith upon issuance.

By the Commission.

STANDARD POWER AND LIGHT CORP. ET AL.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION TO WITHDRAW PENDING PLAN AND TO WITHDRAW AS A PARTY TO PENDING JOINT PLAN

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of February 1951.

In the matter of Standard Power and Light Corporation, File No. 54-104; Standard Power and Light Corporation, and Standard Gas and Electric Company, File No. 54-105.

On June 19, 1942, the Commission entered an order, pursuant to section 11 (b) (2) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), directing the liquidation and dissolution of Standard Power and Light Corporation ("Standard Power"), a registered holding company. In 1944 Standard Power filed a plan, pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act, proposing the company's liquidation and dissolution (File No. 54-104). That plan was conditioned upon consummation of a joint section 11 (e) plan, which was filed at the same time, by Standard Power and its subsidiary Standard Gas and Electric Company ("Standard Gas"), also a registered holding company (File No. 54-105). The joint plan proposed, inter alia, the settlement of certain inter-company claims between Standard Power and Standard Gas and the transfer by Standard Power of substantially all its assets to Standard Gas in exchange for shares of new common stock of Standard Gas to be issued by Standard Gas pursuant to a plan of recapitalization previously filed by that company under section 11 (e) of the act. The joint plan was by its terms conditioned upon consummation of the plan of recapitalization of Standard Gas. Although the Commission approved all these plans, the Standard Gas recapitalization plan was never consummated due to changed conditions. On July 7, 1950, the Commission granted the request of Standard Gas to withdraw its plan of recapitalization and to withdraw as a party to the joint plan. See Holding Company Act Release No. 9960.

Standard Power has filed with the Commission an application in which it requests (a) that it also be permitted to withdraw as a party to the aforesaid joint plan; (b) that it be permitted to withdraw its plan for liquidation and dissolution; and (c) that the Commission terminate and dismiss all proceedings involving the aforesaid joint plan and the plan for liquidation and dissolution of Standard Power and vacate its order entered February 22, 1945, approving this latter plan.

Standard Power states that it seeks the foregoing relief because the aforesaid joint plan and its plan for liquidation and dissolution were contingent upon consummation of the recapitalization plan of Standard Gas which has now been withdrawn, and because the records created in the proceedings in connection with said plans are stale and inappropriate as bases for further action by the Commission.

Standard Power expressly agrees that the withdrawal of its plan of liquidation and dissolution and its withdrawal as a party to the joint plan shall not terminate or in any way limit any jurisdiction conferred upon the Commission by law over fees and expenses to be paid in connection with the liquidation and termination of the existence of Standard Power, including the aforesaid plans and any and all transactions relating thereto, and that Standard Power will pay only such of the fees and expenses which are subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, as aforesaid, as shall be approved, awarded, allowed or allocated by the Commission.

Notice of the filing of said application of Standard Power having been duly given, all interested persons having been afforded an opportunity for hearing, and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said application within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission having considered the record and finding that it is not possible to consummate the aforesaid joint plan of Standard Power and Standard Gas or the plan of Standard Power for its liquidation and dissolution for the reason, among others, that by their terms said plans are contingent upon consummation of the recapitalization plan of Standard Gas which has been withdrawn; and further finding that the records created in the proceedings on said joint plan and on said plan of Standard Power for its liquidation and dissolution are stale and inappropriate as the basis for further action by the Commission:

It is ordered, That the application of Standard Power to withdraw as a party to the joint plan of Standard Power and Standard Gas, filed on September 27, 1944, at File No. 54-105, be and the same hereby is granted, effective forthwith, and that the proceedings in connection with said plan be, and the same hereby are, terminated and dismissed.

It is further ordered, That the plan for the liquidation and dissolution of Standard Power, filed on September 27, 1944, at File No. 54-104 be, and the same hereby is, permitted to be withdrawn, and that the proceedings in connection therewith be, and the same hereby are, terminated and dismissed.

It is further ordered, That the findings and opinion of the Commission, entered February 22, 1945, at File Numbers 54-104 and 54-105 be, and the same hereby are, vacated and set aside, and that the orders of the Commission dated February 22, 1945, entered in connection therewith be, and the same hereby are, rescinded.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be, and the same hereby is, reserved with respect to all fees and expenses paid or to be paid by Standard Power for services in connection with the liquidation and termination of the existence of Standard Power, including the aforesaid joint plan of Standard Gas and Standard Power, the aforesaid plan of Standard Power, and any and all transactions related thereto.

By the Commission.

Pursuant to the terms of a loan agreement, Niagara Mohawk proposed to borrow an aggregate of $35,000,000 from time to time during the year 1951 on notes maturing December 31, 1951, but with an option of renewal for a period of an additional year to December 31, 1952. The notes will bear interest at the minimum rate generally being charged by banks in New York City for prime 90-day commercial loans on the day of the notice of the original borrowing under the loan agreement but in no event less than 2¼ percent per annum nor more than 2½ percent per annum. It is further proposed that Niagara Mohawk pay to each of the participating banks a commitment fee at the rate of one quarter of one percent per annum for the period from January 2, 1951, on the average daily difference between the amount of the bank's commitment and the amount borrowed from the bank under the loan agreement. The proceeds from the sale of such notes will be used for the construction of additional utility plant.

The applicant states that the proposed transactions are subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York and the order of that Commission will be supplied by amendment to the instant application.

By the Commission.

PHILADELPHIA CO.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of February 1951.

Notice is hereby given that Philadelphia Company ("Philadelphia"), a registered holding company and a subsidiary of Standard Gas and Electric Company ("Standard Gas") and Standard Power and Light Corporation, both registered holding companies, has filed an application and amendments thereto, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Holding Company Act"), for an order approving certain proposed accounting adjustments and has designated section 20 of the Holding Company Act and Rule U-24 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 28, 1951, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. At any time after said date said amended application, as filed or as further amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Holding Company Act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 and U-100 thereof. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C.

All interested persons are referred to said application, as amended, which is on file in the office of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized below:

By order of this Commission dated June 1, 1948 (Holding Company Act Release No. 8242) Philadelphia is required to dispose of its interest in its non-utility subsidiary, Pittsburgh Railways Company ("Railways Company"), and, among other things, to take appropriate steps to liquidate and dissolve. This order was affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, Philadelphia Company et al. v. S. E. C., 177 F. 2d 720.

Prior to January 1, 1951, Philadelphia was the parent of the predecessor of Railways Company, which was also named Pittsburgh Railways Company and which will be referred to hereinafter as "old company", and of certain other companies in old company's system ("Railways System"). Philadelphia was also the owner of bonds, notes and other obligations of old company and of other companies in the Railways System. The Railways System was comprised of old company and a number of other companies which were operated by old company under leases and operating agreements. Philadelphia had guaranteed the performance by old company of certain obligations under lease arrangements, including, inter alia, the making of payments to cover interest and dividends on certain securities of companies in the Railways System and the joinder in refunding of various bonds at maturity.

On May 10, 1938, old company and its subsidiary, Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, filed petitions for reorganization under the Bankruptcy Act in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania ("District Court"). In the bankruptcy reorganization proceedings a plan dated July 1, 1949 ("Combined Plan"), together with certain amendments thereto, for the reorganization of the Railways System under the Bankruptcy Act and for the discharge under the Holding Company Act of Philadelphia's guarantees affecting Railways System securities, was filed with this Commission jointly by Elmer E. Bauer, Reorganization Trustee of old company, and by Philadelphia, under Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act and sections 11 (e) and 11 (f) of the Holding Company Act.

Pursuant to orders of this Commission, the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, and the District Court, the Combined Plan was approved and finally consummated as of December 31, 1950. Under the terms of the Combined Plan, Philadelphia was relieved of its various guarantees and exchanged its holdings of securities of, and claims against, Railways System for 50.9 percent of the new common stock issued by Railways Company.

In recapitalization proceedings in 1939 before this Commission (File No. 43-271), Philadelphia proposed an accounting reorganization designed to make provision for loss in its investments in street railway companies. In those proceedings, Philadelphia proposed, inter alia, that it would:

(a) Create a Reserve For Revaluation Of Assets;

(b) Retain in its earned surplus beginning in 1940 certain earnings which otherwise would be available for common stock dividends;

(c) Notify the Commission of any charge made by Duquesne Light Company ("Duquesne"), its public utility subsidiary, to Duquesne's earned surplus or special reserve balances at December 31, 1939, and observe any ruling made by this Commission, after notice and hearing, as to credits made to Philadelphia's income or earned surplus accounts after December 31, 1939, where such credits arose from dividends paid on Duquesne's common stock, if and to the extent such dividends were made possible by reason of charges improperly made, under generally accepted accounting principles, by Duquesne to its earned surplus or special reserve balances at December 31, 1939; and

(d) Credit to capital surplus an amount equal to $22.75 for each share sold, minus expenses incurred and taxes paid by reason of such sale, in the event it sold any Duquesne common stock it then owned.

Pursuant to the above proposals, Philadelphia created a Reserve For Revaluation Of Assets as of December 31, 1939, and, in the years 1940 and 1941, retained in Earned Surplus certain earnings which otherwise would have been available for dividends on its common stock.

In proceedings before this Commission in 1941 (File No. 70-324) relative to the issuance of Collateral Trust Sinking Fund Bonds and Collateral Trust Serial Notes, Philadelphia proposed that certain sums, to be determined according to a specified formula, be set aside from earnings each year and credited to the Reserve For Revaluation Of Assets, and that the sums so set aside and credited be in lieu of the required retention of earnings as specified in paragraph (b) above. The 1941 proposal subsequently was amended at File Nos. 70-1633, 70-2342 and 70-2343. In each of the years from 1941 to date, Philadelphia has set aside sums from earnings and accrued them to the Reserve For Revaluation Of Assets in accordance with the applicable requirements of the 1941 proposal, either as originally made or as subsequently modified.

In 1948, in proceedings before this Commission relative to the reorganization of the gas properties then owned by Philadelphia (File No. 70-1633), the Commission reserved jurisdiction over certain proposed accounting entries by which claimed excess depreciation was credited to Philadelphia's surplus accounts. In connection with this reservation of jurisdiction, the Commission imposed limitations as to the use of the surplus arising from such entries.

In 1950, in proceedings before this Commission relative to a further reorganization of the gas properties and the recapitalization of the then gas subsidiaries of Philadelphia and the sale by it of all the outstanding common stock of the reorganized Equitable Gas Company ("Equitable"), then a gas utility subsidiary of Philadelphia (File Nos. 70-2342 and 70-2343), the Commission reserved jurisdiction over proposed accounting entries relating to, and imposed limitations on the availability of, (a) Philadelphia's surplus representing profit realized from the sale of Equitable's common stock and (b) Philadelphia's surplus arising from the exchange of gas companies' securities.

During the years in which Philadelphia has been required to make payments because of its guarantees of street railway obligations, it has, by annual appropriations from income, built up a reserve for payments made under the guarantees and not returned to it. In addition, Philadelphia for some years has been crediting to deferred credit accounts certain amounts representing offsets to deferred interest and rents received and receivable from old company which are carried in Philadelphia's investment and fund accounts.

Philadelphia states that appropriate adjustments should now be made in its accounts, as of December 31, 1950, to reflect the effect of the above mentioned Railways System reorganization and it proposes:

(1) That its investments in street railway companies be written down from $79,885,278.12, the present gross carrying value, to $5,476,780, the stated value of the common stock of Railways Company which Philadelphia owns, and that the resulting loss of $74,408,498.12 be written off by charging $30,414,298.81 to the Reserve For Revaluation of Assets, $10,886,652.50 to the reserve for payments made by Philadelphia under guarantees and not returned, $14,454,895.68 to deferred interest and rents received and receivable, $699,993.11 to paid-in surplus, $2,737,935.15 to capital surplus (as indicated in paragraph (4) below), and $15,214,722.87 to earned surplus;

(2) That credit items aggregating $2,737,935.15, heretofore credited to Philadelphia's Surplus Prior to January 1, 1940, (consisting of (a) credits in 1948, arising in connection with the reorganization of the gas properties, in the amount of $2,341,299.21 for excess depreciation accruals, $93,471.14 for a dividend in kind from Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company, a former gas utility subsidiary of Philadelphia, and $22,934.81 for salvage received from Philadelphia's manufactured gas properties, and (b) a credit in 1950 of $280,229.99 arising from a dividend in kind from Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company paid with 2,825 shares of 7 percent Cumulative Second Preferred Stock of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, a former non-utility subsidiary of Philadelphia), be reclassified and credited to capital surplus;

(3) That charges aggregating $2,737,935.15 which were charged since December 31, 1947, to Philadelphia's Surplus Prior to January 1, 1940, be reclassified and charged to Earned Surplus Since December 31, 1939;

(4) That $2,737,935.15 of the loss which would be reflected by the proposed write-down of Philadelphia's investments in street railway companies be charged to the capital surplus account created by the reclassification proposed in (2) above;

(5) That the Commission terminate Philadelphia's obligation, under its proposal in 1939, to retain in its earned surplus the amounts set aside in 1940 and 1941;

(6) That the Commission terminate Philadelphia's obligation, under its proposal in 1939, to notify the Commission of any charge made by Duquesne to that company's earned surplus or special reserve balances at December 31, 1939, and to observe any ruling made by the Commission, after notice and hearing, as to credits made to Philadelphia's income or earned surplus accounts after December 31, 1939, where such credits arose from dividends paid on Duquesne's common stock, if and to the extent such dividends were made possible by reason of charges improperly made, under generally accepted accounting principles, by Duquesne to its earned surplus or special reserve balances at December 31, 1939;

(7) That the Commission terminate Philadelphia's obligation, under its proposal in 1939, to credit to capital surplus, if Philadelphia sells any Duquesne common stock owned by it at the time of such proposal, an amount equal to $22.75 for each share sold, minus expenses incurred and taxes paid by reason of such sale;

PART 52—PROCESSED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES, PROCESSED PRODUCTS THEREOF, AND CERTAIN OTHER PROCESSED FOOD PRODUCTS

U. S. STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF CANNED BLUEBERRIES

On July 7, 1950, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 4312) regarding a proposed revision of the United States Standards for Grades of Canned Blueberries or Canned Huckleberries. After consideration of all relevant matters including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following revised United States Standards for Grades of Canned Blueberries are hereby promulgated under the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950):

§ 52.187 Canned blueberries. Canned blueberries are prepared from the properly ripened fresh fruit of the blueberry bush (Genus Vaccinium), including species or varieties often called "huckleberries", but not of the Genus Gaylussacia; are stemmed and washed; are packed with or without the addition of water or sweetening ingredients; and are sufficiently processed by heat to assure preservation of the product in hermetically sealed containers.

(a) Types of canned blueberries. (1) Native (or wild) type.

(2) Cultivated type.

(b) Grades of canned blueberries. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of canned blueberries that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a very good color; that are practically free from defects; that possess a good character; that possess a normal flavor and odor; and that score not less than 90 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" is the quality of canned blueberries that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a good color; that are reasonably free from defects; that possess a reasonably good character; that possess a normal flavor and odor; and that score not less than 80 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of canned blueberries that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a fairly good color; that are fairly free from defects; that possess a fairly good character; that possess a normal flavor and odor; and that score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(4) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of canned blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

(c) Recommended designations of liquid media and Brix measurements. "Cut-out" requirements for liquid media are not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since sirup or any other liquid medium, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades.

(1) It is recommended that canned blueberries have the following indicated "cut-out" Brix measurement for the respective designation, which designations include, but are not limited to, the following:

Designations	Brix measurement
Extra heavy sirup	25° or more, but not more than 35°.
Heavy sirup	20° or more, but less than 25°.
Light sirup	15° or more, but less than 20°.
Slightly sweetened water.	Less than 15° Brix.
Water pack (packed in water).

(2) "Brix" means the degrees Brix of the liquid from canned blueberries when tested with a Brix hydrometer calibrated at 20 degrees C. (68 degrees F.). If the liquid is tested at a temperature other than 20 degrees C. (68 degrees F.) the applicable temperature correction shall be made to the reading of the scale as prescribed in the "Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Chemists." The degrees Brix of the liquid from canned blueberries may be determined by any other method which gives equivalent results.

(d) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades. It is recommended that each container of canned blueberries be filled with blueberries as full as practicable without impairment of quality and that the product and packing medium occupy not less than 90 percent of the volume of the container.

(e) Recommended minimum drained weight. The minimum drained weight recommendations are not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since drained weight, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purposes of these grades. The drained weight of canned blueberries is determined by emptying the contents of the container upon a United States Standard No. 8 circular sieve of proper diameter containing 8 meshes to the inch (0.0937-inch, ±3%, square openings) so as to distribute the product evenly, inclining the sieve slightly to facilitate drainage, and allowing to drain for two minutes. The drained weight (or drained blueberries) is the weight of the sieve and the blueberries less the weight of the dry sieve. A sieve 8 inches in diameter is used for the equivalent of No. 3 size cans (404 x 414) and smaller, and a sieve 12 inches in diameter is used for containers larger than the equivalent of the No. 3 size can.

TABLE I—RECOMMENDED MINIMUM DRAINED WEIGHTS FOR CANNED BLUEBERRIES

Container designation	Container size (over-all dimensions)		Recommended minimum drained weight (in water)
	Width	Height
	Inches	Inches	Ounces
[illegible] x 407	3	4 7/16	8
No. 2	3 5/16	4 1/16	10½
No. 10	6 9/16	7	58

(f) Ascertaining the grade. (1) The grade of canned blueberries may be ascertained by considering, in conjunction with the requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings for the factors of color, absence of defects, and character. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
(i) Color	20
(ii) Absence of defects	40
(iii) Character	40
Total score	100

(2) "Normal flavor and odor" means that the product is free from objectionable odors and objectionable flavors of any kind.

(g) Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for such factors and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "18 to 20 points" means 18, 19, or 20 points).

(1) Color. (i) Canned blueberries that possess a very good color may be given a score of 18 to 20 points. "Very good color" means a practically uniform, bright, dark blue-purple color typical of blueberries which had been properly processed from well-matured blueberries.

(iii) If the canned blueberries possess a fairly good color, a score of 14 or 15 points may be given. Canned blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means a blue-purple color typical of blueberries which had been properly processed and which are not off color for any reason.

(iv) Canned blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Absence of defects. The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from harmless extraneous material (such as leaves and large stems); from clusters; from cap stems; from undeveloped berries, or edible berries other than blueberries; and from berries damaged by insect, pathological, or any other injury.

(i) "Cap stems" are small stems which attach berries to the branch and means single cap stems or joined double cap stems with or without berries attached.

(ii) A "cluster" means three or more joined cap stems with or without berries attached.

(iii) "Undeveloped berries" are mummified berries with wrinkled or tough skins or which may be pathologically defective.

(iv) Canned blueberries that are practically free from defects may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Practically free from defects" means that the canned blueberries are reasonably free from cap stems and for each 20 ounces of net weight, or the equivalent thereof, there may be present:

(a) Not more than a total of 2 whole leaves or large stems, provided such whole leaves and any other portions of leafy material do not exceed ½ square inch;

(b) Not more than 5 berries that are undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged; and

(c) In native (or wild) type, not more than an average of 12 clusters in all containers comprising the sample, provided there are no more than 16 clusters in any single container; or

(d) In cultivated type, not more than 4 clusters.

(v) If the canned blueberries are reasonably free from defects, a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Canned blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that the canned blueberries are reasonably free from cap stems and for each 20 ounces of net weight, or the equivalent thereof, there may be present:

(a) Not more than a total of 4 whole leaves or large stems, provided such whole leaves and any other portions of leafy material do not exceed ¾ square inch;

(b) Not more than 8 berries that are undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged; and

(c) In Native (or wild) type, not more than an average of 20 clusters in all containers comprising the sample, provided there are no more than 28 clusters in any single container; or

(d) In Cultivated type, not more than 8 clusters.

(vi) If the canned blueberries are fairly free from defects, a score of 23 to 31 points may be given. Canned blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" means that the canned blueberries are fairly free from cap stems and for each 20 ounces of net weight, or the equivalent thereof, there may be present:

(a) Not more than a total of 6 whole leaves or large stems, provided such whole leaves and any other portions of leafy material do not exceed 1 square inch;

(b) Not more than 10 berries that are undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged; and

(c) In Native (or wild) type, not more than an average of 28 clusters in all containers comprising the sample, provided there are no more than 40 clusters in any single container; or

(d) In Cultivated type, not more than 12 clusters.

(vii) Canned blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (vi) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Character. (i) Canned blueberries that possess a good character may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Good character" means that the blueberries are reasonably firm, reasonably fleshy, practically whole, and practically intact with not more than 10 percent by weight of the drained blueberries that may be crushed, mushy, or broken berries.

(ii) If the canned blueberries possess a reasonably good character, a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Canned blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good character" means that the blueberries may be lacking in firmness and fleshy texture but are reasonably whole and reasonably intact with not more than 15 percent by weight of the drained blueberries that may be crushed, mushy, or broken berries.

(iii) If the canned blueberries possess a fairly good character, a score of 28 to 31 points may be given. Canned blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good character" means that the blueberries are fairly whole and fairly intact with not more than 30 percent by weight of the drained blueberries that may be crushed, mushy, or broken berries.

(iv) Canned blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(h) Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of canned blueberries, the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if:

(i) Not more than one-sixth of such containers fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and, with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, is within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

SUBPART B—UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF PROCESSED FRUITS, VEGETABLES, AND OTHER PRODUCTS [1]

U. S. STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF FROZEN BLUEBERRIES

On July 7, 1950 a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 4314) regarding a proposed revision of the United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Blueberries or Frozen Huckleberries. After consideration of all relevant matters including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, the following revised United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Blueberries are hereby promulgated under the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1951 (Pub. Law 759, 81st Cong., approved September 6, 1950):

§ 52.189 Frozen blueberries. Frozen blueberries are prepared from the properly ripened fresh fruit of the blueberry bush (Genus Vaccinium), including species or varieties often called "huckleberries," but not of the Genus Gaylussacia; are cleaned and stemmed; may or may not be washed; are packed with or without packing media; and are frozen and maintained at temperatures necessary for the preservation of the product.

(a) Types of frozen blueberries. (1) Native (or wild) type.

(2) Cultivated type.

(b) Grades of frozen blueberries. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of frozen blueberries that possess similar varietal characteristics; that are practically free from defects; that possess a good character; that possess a normal flavor and odor; and are of such quality with respect to color as to score not less than 90 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" is the quality of frozen blueberries that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a good color; that are reasonably free from defects; that possess a reasonably good character; that possess a normal flavor and odor; and that score not less than 80 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of frozen blueberries that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a fairly good color; that are fairly free from defects; that possess a fairly good character; that possess a normal flavor and odor; and that score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(4) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of frozen blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

(c) Ascertaining the grade. (1) The grade of frozen blueberries may be ascertained by considering, in conjunction with the requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings for the factors of color, absence of defects, and character. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
(i) Color	20
(ii) Absence of defects	40
(iii) Character	40
Total score	100

(2) The scores for the factors of color, absence of defects, and character of frozen blueberries are determined when the product is sufficiently free from ice crystals to permit handling of the blueberries.

(3) "Normal flavor and odor" means that the product is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

(d) Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for such factors and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "18 to 20 points" means 18, 19, or 20 points).

(1) Color. (i) Frozen blueberries that possess a very good color may be given a score of 18 to 20 points. "Very good color" means that the blueberries possess a practically uniform, bright, dark blue-purple color typical of properly matured berries for the variety and that there may be present not more than 5 percent by count of berries that possess a red-purple color. Frozen blueberries that are undercolored (not at least red-purple color) or that have a definite green cast are considered "green berries." (See subparagraph (2) (i) of this paragraph.)

(ii) If the frozen blueberries possess a good color, a score of 16 or 17 points may be given. "Good color" means that the blueberries possess a reasonably uniform, dark blue-purple color typical of reasonably well-matured berries for the variety and that there may be present not more than 10 percent by count of berries that possess a red-purple color. Frozen blueberries that are undercolored (not at least red-purple color) or that have a definite green cast are considered "green berries." (See subparagraph (2) (i) of this paragraph.)

(iii) If the frozen blueberries possess a fairly good color, a score of 14 or 15 points may be given. Frozen blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means that the blueberries may be moderately variable in color, but are not definitely dull or off color, and there may be present not more than 20 percent by count of berries that possess a red-purple color. Frozen blueberries that are undercolored (not at least red-purple color) or that have a definite green cast are considered "green berries." (See subparagraph (2) (i) of this paragraph.)

(iv) Frozen blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Absence of defects. The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from harmless extraneous material (such as leaves and large stems); from clusters; from cap stems; from green berries, undeveloped berries, or edible berries other than blueberries; and from berries damaged by insect, pathological, or any other injury.

(i) "Green berries" are blueberries that are undercolored and do not possess at least a red-purple color or that have a definite green cast, even though the over-all color of the berries may not be a true green color.

(ii) "Cap stems" are small stems which attach berries to the branch and means single cap stems or joined double cap stems with or without berries attached.

(iii) A "cluster" means three or more joined cap stems with or without berries attached.

(iv) "Undeveloped berries" are mummified berries with wrinkled or tough skins or which may be pathologically defective.

(v) Frozen blueberries that are practically free of defects may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Practically free from defects" means that the frozen blueberries are reasonably free from cap stems and for each 16 ounces of net weight, or the equivalent thereof, there may be present:

(a) Not more than a total of 2 whole leaves or large stems, provided such whole leaves and any other portions of leafy material do not exceed ½ square inch;

(b) Not more than a total of 10 berries that are green or undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged, provided not more than 5 berries are undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged; and

(c) In Native (or wild) type, not more than an average of 12 clusters in all samples or containers comprising the sample, provided there are no more than 16 clusters in any single sample or in any single container; or

(d) In Cultivated type, not more than 4 clusters.

(vi) If the frozen blueberries are reasonably free from defects, a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Frozen blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that the frozen blueberries are reasonably free from cap stems and for each 16 ounces of net weight, or the equivalent thereof, there may be present:

(a) Not more than a total of 4 whole leaves or large stems, provided such whole leaves and any other portions of leafy material do not exceed ¾ square inch;

(b) Not more than a total of 16 berries that are green or undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged, provided not more than 8 berries are undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged; and

(c) In Native (or wild) type, not more than an average of 20 clusters in all samples or containers comprising the sample, provided there are no more than 28 clusters in any single sample or in any single container; or

(d) In Cultivated type, not more than 8 clusters.

(vii) If the frozen blueberries are fairly free from defects, a score of 28 to 31 points may be given. Frozen blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" means that the frozen blueberries are fairly free from cap stems and for each 16 ounces of net weight, or the equivalent thereof, there may be present:

(a) Not more than a total of 6 whole leaves or large stems, provided such whole leaves and any other portions of leafy material do not exceed 1 square inch;

(b) Not more than a total of 20 berries that are green or undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged, provided not more than 10 berries are undeveloped or edible berries other than blueberries or berries that are damaged; and

(c) In Native (or wild) type, not more than an average of 28 clusters in all samples or containers comprising the sample, provided there are no more than 40 clusters in any single sample or in any single container; or

(viii) Frozen blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (vii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Character. (i) Frozen blueberries that possess a good character may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Good character" means that the blueberriers are reasonably firm, reasonably fleshy, practically whole, and practically intact with not more than 6 percent by weight of berries that may be crushed, mushy, or broken.

(ii) If the frozen blueberries possess a reasonably good character, a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Frozen blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good character" means that the blueberries may be lacking in firmness and fleshy texture but are reasonably whole and reasonably intact with not more than 10 percent by weight of berries that may be crushed, mushy, or broken.

(iii) If the frozen blueberries possess a fairly good character, a score of 28 to 31 points may be given. Frozen blueberries that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good character" means that the blueberries are fairly whole and fairly intact with not more than 20 percent by weight of berries that may be crushed, mushy, or broken.

(iv) Frozen blueberries that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(e) Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of frozen blueberries, the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if:

(i) Not more than one-sixth of such containers fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and, with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, is within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

Chapter VIII—Production and Marketing Administration (Sugar Branch), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 814.5]

PART 814—ALLOTMENT OF SUGAR QUOTAS

PUERTO RICO, 1951

Basis and purpose. This allotment order is issued under section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1948 (hereinafter called the "act") for the purpose of allotting the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States (including raw sugar transferred for further processing and shipment within the direct-consumption portion of such quota) and the 1951 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico among persons (1) whose Puerto Rican raw sugar is brought into the continental United States or who transfer such sugar for further processing and shipment to the continental United States as direct-consumption sugar, and (2) who market sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico. The basis of the order is more fully explained below.

The sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States is referred to herein as "mainland quota" and allotments thereof are referred to as "mainland allotments". The sugar quota for consumption in Puerto Rico and allotments thereof are referred to respectively as "local quota" and "local allotments".

Omission of recommended decision and effective date. The record of the public hearing regarding allotment of the 1951 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico shows that although production of sugar may not reach the record level of the 1949–50 crop it will exceed permitted marketings in 1951 by 200,000 tons or more (R. 5). Estimates of production submitted by all allottees for the purpose of this allotment show that the total quantity of Puerto Rican sugar that could be available for marketing in 1951 is approximately 1,307,000 short tons, raw value. This quantity exceeds by 287,000 tons the sum of the local and mainland quotas in the amount of 1,020,000 short tons established by the Secretary of Agriculture (15 F. R. 9375, 9425). Some of the allotments made by this order are small and could be exceeded by the marketing of a comparatively small amount of sugar. Since this proceeding was instituted for the purpose of issuing allotments to prevent disorderly marketing of sugar and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market, it is imperative that this order become effective at the earliest possible date in order to accomplish that end. Accordingly, it is hereby found that due and timely execution of the functions imposed upon the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires omission of a recommended decision in this proceeding. It is hereby further found that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and, consequently, this order shall be effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Preliminary statement. Section 205 (a) of the act requires the Secretary to allot a quota whenever he finds that the allotment is necessary (1) to assure an orderly and adequate flow of sugar or liquid sugar in the channels of interstate or foreign commerce, (2) to prevent the disorderly marketing of sugar or liquid sugar, (3) to maintain a continuous and stable supply of sugar or liquid sugar, or (4) to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market sugar within the quota for the area. Section 205 (a) also requires that such allotment be made after such hearing and upon such notice as the Secretary may by regulation prescribe.

On November 13, 1950, the Secretary of Agriculture, pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure (7 CFR 801.1 et seq.), issued a notice of a public hearing to be held at Santurce, Puerto Rico, in the Conference Room, Caribbean Area Office, PMA, Segarra Building, on December 4, 1950, at 10:00 a. m., for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable him to make a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the 1951 mainland quota (including raw sugar transferred for further processing and shipment within the direct-consumption portion of the quota) and the 1951 local quota among persons (1) whose Puerto Rican raw sugar is brought into the continental United States or who transfer such sugar for further processing and shipment to the continental United States as direct-consumption sugar, and (2) who market sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico. A statement of a proposed method of allotment was included in the notice.

Section 205 (a) of the act requires a preliminary finding by the Secretary as a condition precedent to the calling of a hearing. Accordingly, the notice of hearing issued by the Secretary provides in part as follows:

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948 (61 Stat. 922; 7 U. S. C. 1100), in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure (12 F. R. 8225, 13 F. R. 127, 2063; 7 CFR 801.1 et seq.), and on the basis of information before me, I do hereby find that the allotment of (1) the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States, (2) the direct-consumption portion thereof, and (3) the 1951 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and importation of such sugar and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market such sugar in the continental United States and Puerto Rico, respectively, and hereby give notice that public hearings will be held at Santurce, Puerto Rico, in the Conference Room, Caribbean Area Office, PMA, Segarra Building on December 4 and December 5, 1950, at 10:00 a. m.

The hearing was held at the time and place specified in the notice.

Summary of testimony. With respect to the necessity for making allotments, the Government witness testified at the hearing that the estimated quantity of Puerto Rican sugar available for marketing in 1951 exceeds the combined mainland and local quotas by such an amount as clearly to indicate that allotment of these quotas is necessary (R. 4, 5). This testimony on the necessity for allotment was not controverted by any witness.

With respect to the manner in which the allotment should be made, the Government witness proposed, as indicated in the hearing notice, that total mainland and local marketings for each allottee first be established by giving equal weight to processings from proportionate shares measured by total production of sugar from the 1950–51 crop sugar to be processed by the allottee, past marketings measured by average mainland and local marketings during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950, and ability to market measured by production of sugar from 1950–51 crop sugarcane to be processed by the allottee (R. 5–8). The witness then proposed that such total marketings for each allottee be divided into a mainland allotment and a local allotment on the basis of the division of each processor's total marketings during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950 between the mainland and local markets (R. 8). The witness recommended further that allottees be permitted to exchange with each other quantities of either allotment for like quantities of the other (R. 14).

In order to provide for early issuance of 1951 allotment, the government witness proposed that an initial allotment order be issued in which "production of sugar from 1950–51 crop sugarcane" would be based on estimates of each allottee's production from such crop. In such order marketings prior to June 1, 1951, would be limited to 75 percent of the calculated allotments. A revised order would be issued when so-called "Easter estimates" of production become available as a basis for such revision. In such a revised order, marketings prior to September 1 would be limited to 85 percent of the allotments or a higher percentage at the discretion of the Secretary. A revised allotment order permitting the marketing of the entire allotments would be based upon final production data (R. 13).

The government proposal was made available to all allottees prior to the hearing (R. 4) and witnesses for only a few of the allottees expressed any disagreement with that proposal. Varying views were expressed at the hearing on the proposed measure and weighting of past marketings. Three witnesses recommended that past marketings be given only a ten percental weighting (R. 24, 30, 33) while four witnesses stated a preference for the weighting of this factor in the manner proposed by the government witness (R. 38, 39; Briefs filed by Antonio Roig Suers. S. en C., and South Porto Rico Sugar Company). A proposal that past marketings be measured by either the two best of the three years or the three best of the last four years was favored by representatives of two allottees (R. 26, 27) and opposed by two other witnesses (R. 37, 40).

Representatives of all allottees stipulated for the record (R. 42–45) or subsequently in writing as follows:

1. The initial order may be based on estimates of 1950–51 production furnished by each allottee and when so-called "Easter estimates" of production from the 1950–51 sugarcane crop become available, and when the actual production from the 1950–51 sugarcane crop for each allottee is determined, the initial allotment order for 1951 shall be revised on the basis of such data, all without change in the initial formula and without further hearing.

2. When the actual marketings in 1950 for each allottee are determined, the allotment order for 1951 shall be revised on the basis of such marketing without change in the initial formula and without further hearing.

3. Sugar shipped to the Virgin Islands in the past shall be regarded as marketings for local consumption in Puerto Rico.

4. Sugar shipped to the Virgin Islands in 1951 shall be regarded as local allotment sugar.

5. Any increase in the 1951 sugar quotas after issuance of the initial allotment order shall be allotted, without further hearing, on the same basis as the initial allotments were made.

Basis of allotment. Section 205 (a) of the act reads in pertinent part as follows:

• • • Allotments shall be made in such manner and in such amounts as to provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of such quota or proration thereof, by taking into consideration the processings of sugar or liquid sugar from sugar beets or sugarcane to which proportionate shares, determined pursuant to the provisions of subsection (b) of section 302, pertained; the past marketings or importations of each such person and the ability of such person to market or import that portion of such quota or proration thereof allotted to him • • •

All three factors specified in the foregoing provision of law have been considered and each is given an equal percental weight by the formula on which this allotment of the 1951 quotas for Puerto Rico is based. Under this formula processings from sugarcane to which proportionate shares pertained are measured by production from the 1950-51 crop, past marketings are measured by the average marketings during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950, inclusive, and ability to market is measured by the production of sugar from the 1950-51 crop. Since virtually no stocks were carried over into 1951, the measure of ability becomes current production, the same as for proportionate shares. Thus, equal weight to all three factors, in effect, provides two-thirds weight to current production, affording in substantial measure the protection to growers' interests ascribed to the heavier weight to current production given in previous allotments. The three years 1948, 1949, and 1950 used to measure past marketings do not have the same defects for that purpose as did the periods necessarily used in preceding allotments. Therefore, there appears little reason for giving other than equal weight to all three factors. The allotments resulting from the application of this formula are deemed to result in a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the quotas involved.

The allotments are established by first calculating for each allottee the total quantity of sugar which such allottee may market in both the mainland and local markets. This is done by first converting the data for each of the factors for each processor to a percentage of the total of that factor for all processors, then applying the indicated weightings to such percentages, and finally applying the sum of the weighted percentages for each processor to the sum of the quotas (1,020,000 tons). For each processor a local allotment is determined by applying to each processor's combined allotments the percentage that its local marketings were of its total marketings in the calendar years 1948, 1949, and 1950, and adjusting pro rata so that the total of such allotments will equal the local quota. The mainland allotment for each processor is determined by subtracting such local allotment from the total quantity that it may market. Each processor's marketings in the mainland and local markets in 1948, 1949 and 1950 are used to divide the combined allotments into mainland and local allotments.

Under allotment orders issued in prior years, exchanges of local and mainland allotments between Puerto Rican processors were permitted when approval by a local representative of the Department in Puerto Rico. Such adjustments in the distribution of a processor's marketings under local and mainland allotments result in greater efficiency in marketing. Therefore, the order permits such exchanges.

Since the allotments established by this order are based largely upon estimates of production from the 1950–51 crop for which later estimates and ultimately final production data are to be substituted when available, it is considered desirable to limit the amount of each allotment which may be marketed prior to June 1, 1951, to 75 percent of such allotment. This limitation is considered necessary to prevent any processor from marketing more than the share of the quota to which it will ultimately be entitled on the basis of its actual production. All allottees accepted this provision.

As in past allotment orders, processors are required to share their allotments with producers who receive sugar in payment for sugarcane. The producer's share is equal to the percentage of the allotment that the producer's 1950–51 crop sugar is of the processer's total production of 1950–51 crop sugar. Since there were no carryover inventories of sugar on January 1, this affords an equitable basis for sharing the allotments.

Findings. On the basis of the record of the hearing, I hereby find that:

(1) For the calendar year 1951 Puerto Rican processors will have available for marketing on the mainland and in Puerto Rico an amount of sugar which exceeds the combined mainland and local quotas by approximately 237,000 short tons.

(2) Each of the three statutory standards of "processings from proportionate shares", "past marketings", and "ability to market", should be given an equal percental weight in making the allotment of the mainland and local quotas for

Puerto Rico for 1951 to assure a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of these quotas.

(3) Production of sugar from 1950–51 crop sugarcane constitutes a fair and equitable measure of "processings from proportionate shares". Pending the availability of final data, estimated production is used and is set forth for each processor in column 1 of the table below.

(4) A fair and equitable measure of past marketings for each processor is its average marketings during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950, inclusive. The past marketings of each processor so measured is set forth in column 2 of the table below.

(5) The quantity of sugar which each processor will have available for marketing during 1951, representing production from the 1950–51 sugarcane crop, constitutes a fair and equitable measure of the ability of each processor to market sugar during 1951, and an estimate of such quantity for each processor is set forth in column 1 of the table below.

(6) The percentages that the marketings for local consumption in Puerto Rico were of total marketings for each processor during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950 are deemed to be representative for the purpose of dividing the total 1951 marketings for each processor into a mainland allotment and a local allotment. Such percentages are set forth in column 3 of the table below.

Conclusions. On the basis of the foregoing and after consideration of the record and the briefs and the stipulations submitted by all interested persons following the hearing, it is hereby determined and concluded: (1) That the allotment of the 1951 mainland quota for Puerto Rico, including raw sugar transferred for further processing and shipment within the direct-consumption portion of the quota, and the 1951 local quota for Puerto Rico is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing of such sugar and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market such sugar in the continental United States and in Puerto Rico; (2) that in order to make a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of such quotas as required by section 205 (a) of the act, (a) distribution of the total of the two quotas should be made by giving an equal percental weight to processings of sugar from sugarcane to which proportionate shares pertained, measured by production from the 1950–51 sugarcane crop, past marketings, measured by the average of such marketings by each processor during the years 1948, 1949, and 1950, ability to market measured by the total production of sugar from the 1950–51 sugarcane crop; and (b) the quantity so determined should be divided into local and mainland allotments on the basis of the division between local and mainland marketings for each processor during the years 1948, 1949, and 1950. It is hereby further determined and concluded (1) that an efficient distribution of the quotas requires exchanges between allotees of quantities of mainland allotment for like quantities of local allotment, subject to the approval of the Director or Assistant Director, Caribbean Area Office, Production and Marketing Administration, Segarra Building, Santurce, Puerto Rico, (2) that, pending the availability of "Easter" estimates of production from the 1950–51 sugarcane crop, each processor should be limited in its marketings prior to June 1, 1951, to 75 percent of each allotment established herein, and (3) that any producer who receives sugar in payment for sugarcane should be permitted to market, within the allotments of the processor who processed his sugarcane, a quantity of sugar equal to the percentage that the producer's 1950–51 crop sugar is of the total production of 1950–51 crop sugar by the processor.

Order. Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 205 (a) of the act, It is hereby ordered:

§ 814.5 Allotments of 1951 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico—(a) Allotments. The 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States, including raw sugar to be further processed and shipped within the direct-consumption portion of such quota, amounting to 910,000 short tons of sugar, raw value, and the 1951 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico, amounting to 110,000 short tons of sugar, raw value, are hereby allotted to the following processors in amounts which appear in columns (1) and (3) opposite their respective names:

(b) Producers' marketings under allotments. If settlement with producers of sugarcane is made in sugar, marketings of such sugar of such producers shall be charged to the allotments of the processor. Each processor shall reserve a share of each of its allotments for the marketings of each such producer. Such share shall be equal to the same percentage of the allotment that the producer's 1950–51 crop sugar is of the processor's total production of 1950–51 crop sugar.

(c) Restrictions on marketing. (1) Prior to June 1, 1951, each processor named in paragraph (a) of this section, together with the producers with whom it shares its allotments under paragraph (b) of this section, is hereby prohibited from bringing into the continental United States for consumption therein, or marketing for that purpose, or from marketing for local consumption in Puerto Rico, any sugar in excess of 75 percent of the allotments established in paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) During the calendar year 1951, all persons who acquire raw sugar for further processing and resale as direct-consumption sugar are hereby prohibited from marketing sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico in excess of the sum of (i) the quantity of sugar acquired for this purpose under the limitations specified in § 814.3 (15 F. R. 2400, 3982, 5153, 5791) and held in inventory on December 31, 1950, and (ii) the quantity of sugar acquired for such purpose within the limits specified in this section.

(d) Transfer or exchange of allotments. The allotments established in paragraph (a) of this section, or producers' shares thereof established under paragraph (b) of this section shall not be transferred or exchanged without the approval of the Director or Assistant Director of the Caribbean Area Office, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Segarra Building, Santurce, Puerto Rico.

(e) Specific charges against allotments. Sugar produced in Puerto Rico which is brought into the continental United States for consumption therein or marketed for local consumption in Puerto Rico after December 31, 1950, but prior to the effective date of this order shall be charged to the applicable allotment of the processor who processed such sugar.

[Sugar Reg. 814.6]

DIRECT CONSUMPTION PORTION OF 1951 FOR PUERTO RICO

Basis and purpose. This allotment order is issued under section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1948 (herein called "act"), for the purpose of allotting the portion of the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico which may be filled by direct-consumption sugar among persons who market such sugar for consumption in the continental United States. The basis and purpose of the order are more fully explained below.

Omission of recommended decision and effective date. The record of the public hearing regarding the subject of this order shows that the capacity of Puerto Rican refineries to produce direct-consumption sugar far exceeds the sum of 126,033 short tons of such sugar which may be marketed in the continental United States under the act and the quantity of sugar needed for local consumption in Puerto Rico (R. 4). The proceeding to which this order relates was instituted for the purpose of allotting the direct-consumption portion of the quota to prevent disorderly marketing and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States (R. 5). Some of the allotments made by this order are small and could be exceeded if issuance of this order is delayed. Therefore, it is imperative that this order become effective at the earliest possible date in order fully to effectuate the purposes of section 205 (a) of the act. Accordingly, it is hereby found that due and timely execution of the functions imposed upon the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision in this proceeding. It is hereby further found that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237) is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and, consequently, this order shall be effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Preliminary statement. Section 207 (b) of the act provides that not more than 126,033 short tons, raw value, of the sugar quota for Puerto Rico for any calendar year may be filled by direct-consumption sugar.

Under the provisions of section 205 (a) of the act, the Secretary is required to allot a quota or proration thereof whenever he finds that allotment is necessary (1) to assure an orderly and adequate flow of sugar or liquid sugar in the channels of interstate or foreign commerce, (2) to prevent the disorderly marketing of sugar or liquid sugar, (3) to maintain a continuous and stable supply of sugar or liquid sugar, or (4) to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market sugar or liquid sugar within the quota for the area. Section 205 (a) also provides that such allotment shall be made after such hearing and upon such notice as the Secretary may by regulation prescribe.

On November 13, 1950, the Secretary, pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure (7 CFR 801.1 et seq.), issued notice of a public hearing to be held in Santurce, Puerto Rico, on December 5, 1950, for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable him to make a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of the direct-consumption portion of the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico.

As stated above, the act requires a preliminary finding of necessity for allotment as a condition precedent to the calling of a hearing. Accordingly, the notice of hearing issued November 13, 1950, provided in part as follows:

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948 (61 Stat. 922, 7 U. S. C. 1100) and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure (12 F. R. 8225, 13 F. R. 127, 2063; 7 CFR 801.1 et seq.), and on the basis of information before me, I do hereby find that the allotment of (1) the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States, (2) the direct-consumption portion thereof, and (3) the 1951 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and importation of such sugar and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market such sugar in the continental United States and Puerto Rico, respectively, and hereby give notice that public hearings will be held at Santurce, Puerto Rico, in the conference room, Caribbean Area Office, PMA, Segarra Building, on December 4 and 5, 1950, at 10:00 a. m.

The hearings were held at Santurce, Puerto Rico, on the dates specified in the notice.

The notice of hearing included a proposed method of allotment as follows:

The Department proposes to allot the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota for 1951 on the same basis as that used in allotting the direct-consumption portion of the 1950 mainland quota (15 F. R. 2212) except for the substitution of data to reflect the most recent operations.

The allotment of the quota for 1950, after setting aside 900 short tons, raw value, as an unallotted reserve for marketing of raw sugar for direct consumption, was made by giving equal weight to (1) past marketings as measured by average marketings for direct consumption in the continental United States during 1940, 1941, 1948 and 1949 and (2) ability to market as measured by the highest marketings in any of the years 1935 through 1949 for each allottee.

For allotment of the 1951 direct-consumption portion it is proposed to vary this procedure only by measuring past marketings by the average of applicable marketings during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950 and by adding 1950 to the years for which marketings are considered in determining ability to market.

Summary of evidence. With respect to the necessity for making allotments, the government witness stated that if refiners and turbinado producers maintained the rate of operation reported in their highest week in 1950 for 27 weeks, the maximum period of operation for any of them in 1950, about 350,000 short tons, raw value, of refined and turbinado sugars would have been produced. Even this level, he stated, does not represent the physical limitation of capacity because the period of operation could be extended and since marketings were under allotment, some producers may not have pushed production to the limit of capacity in their best weeks. He pointed out that in contrast with this capacity the quantity of refined sugar which may be distributed by Puerto Rican refiners for local consumption and on the mainland does not exceed about 225,000 short tons, raw value (R. 4). In view of this situation the Secretary of Agriculture found that allotments are necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and to assure each refiner its fair share of the continental market for Puerto Rican direct-consumption sugar. This testimony on the necessity for allotments in 1951 was not controverted by any witness.

The government witness explained the proposed method of allotments stated in the Notice of Hearing and presented estimated allotments based on the proposal, in which the data for 1950 marketings were preliminary (R. 4–8, Ex. 4). The witness stated that since the Puerto Rican refiners who market over 95 percent of Puerto Rican direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States do not process sugar from sugarcane the standard "processings of sugar from sugarcane to which proportionate shares pertained," after full and careful consideration, was excluded from the proposal (R. 5). The proposed allotment, therefore, was based on past marketings, measured by each refiner's average marketings in the continental United States during the years 1948, 1949, and 1950, and ability to market, measured by the largest quantity marketed by each refiner in any one year during the period 1935–50, inclusive (R. 6). There appearing no reason to consider one of these factors more important than the other in determining a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the quota the two factors were weighted equally in the proposal (R. 7).

The witness testified that the years 1948, 1949, and 1950 were used as a measure of past marketings because these are recent years which are most relevant as they take account of long run changes and also represent experience under marketing conditions similar to those likely to exist in 1951. The witness also pointed out that the years 1940 and 1941, used in conjunction with 1948 and 1949 in the 1950 allotment, would not appreciably affect the total marketings among the allottees if included with 1948, 1949, and 1950, nor make such period more representative or equitable for the purpose of this allotment (R. 6).

As to the measure of ability, the government witness testified that performance during any year in an extended period is a fair measure since it affords all allottees an adequate opportunity to demonstrate its ability and gives recognition to such demonstrated ability (R. 7).

No objection was made to the basis of allotment proposed by the government witness and no other proposals were made by any witness regarding the measures or weightings for the factors on which the allotments would be based. A witness for one allottee proposed the elimination of the unallotted reserve on the basis that the limitation of 126,033 short tons, raw value, represents the marketings of refined and turbinado sugars only in the base year to which this figure originally related. The witness further represented that the limitation on direct-consumption sugar was intended to distinguish between marketings of Puerto Rican refiners and mainland refiners and that an unallotted reserve is inconsistent with that intended objective to the extent that raw sugar charged against it is marketed via mainland refiners rather than through Puerto Rican refiners (R. 11, 13). Representatives of all other allottees present at the hearing supported this view.

Representatives of all allottees agreed that in making the allotment, final marketing data for 1950 should be substituted for preliminary figures included in the record (R. 25–26).

Basis for allotment. Section 205 (a) of the act reads in pertinent part as follows:

> • • • Allotments shall be made in such manner and in such amounts as to provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of such quota or proration thereof, by taking into consideration the processings of sugar or liquid sugar from sugar beets or sugarcane to which proportionate shares, determined pursuant to the provisions of subsection (b) of section 302, pertained; the past marketings or importations of each such person; and the ability of such person to market or import that portion of such quota or proration thereof allotted to him. • • •

Allottees accounting for over 95 percent of the marketings of Puerto Rican direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States do not themselves process sugar from sugarcane (R. 5). On the other hand, all of the raw sugar mills in Puerto Rico do process sugar directly from sugarcane, but a majority of these mills do not make refined sugar for shipment to the United States for consumption as direct-consumption sugar (Puerto Rico Sugar Order No. 18). In view of these circumstances, and in order to provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the direct-consumption portion of the quota, the standard "processings of sugar • • • from • • • sugarcane to which proportionate shares • • • pertained" has been considered but given no percental weight in determining this allotment. The other standards specified in the act, namely "past marketings" and "ability to market" have been applied and each given fifty percent weight in order to provide a "fair, efficient and equitable distribution" of that portion of the quota herein allotted.

The factor "past marketings" is measured by marketings of direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States in the years 1948, 1949, and 1950. These years are believed to be representative of past marketings for the purpose of this allotment. Recent years are most relevant because they take account of long run changes. These years, also, represent experience under marketing conditions, including allotments, similar to those which may be expected in 1951.

The factor "ability to market" is measured by the percentage that the largest marketings for each allottee in any year since 1935 is of the sum of such largest marketings for all allottees. In determining ability to market, the actual performance as reflected in shipments of direct-consumption sugar to the continental United States is considered the best and most practical measure. Marketings during a single year properly selected is an adequate measure, but if the same year is selected for all refiners such year may not, for circumstances peculiar to individual companies, properly reflect ability of all refiners. On the other hand it is believed that if a refiner is permitted to select its best single year's performance during an extended period, it would have had adequate opportunity to demonstrate its ability. This method would recognize demonstrated ability, and if a comparison with present plant capacity shows no impairment in ability, such performance is a reasonable measure. The rate of production during the most active weeks of 1950 indicate that there has been no significant impairment of plant capacity. Therefore, the best single year's performance during the past 16 years is deemed to afford a fair and equitable measure of the ability of each refiner to market direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States.

Every year a certain amount of Puerto Rican raw sugar is marketed for direct-consumption in the continental United States. The act requires that such marketings be charged to the direct-consumption portion of the quota. In past allotment orders a sufficient amount of the direct-consumption portion of the quota has been reserved and set aside and all interested persons have been permitted to market Puerto Rican raw sugar for such purposes until the reserved amount had been depleted. At the public hearing, refiners urged that the quantity of sugar heretofore set aside as an unallotted reserve be allotted to the refiners and thus enable them to market the entire direct-consumption portion of the quota as refined sugar. As indicated above, it is an established practice in the trade to market a certain amount of Puerto Rican raw sugar for direct consumption purposes. Persons other than the refiners are interested in such marketings. Presumably some 26 raw sugar processors in Puerto Rico would be interested in such marketings and would be entitled to consideration in any allotment thereof. The average quantity of Puerto Rican raw sugar marketed in the continental United States for direct consumption during the past three years was approximately 890 short tons. About 900 short tons will be needed in 1951. It is not considered practicable to allot this quantity of sugar to the individual mills producing raw sugar nor would it be possible to make an efficient allotment, as required by the act, of such a small quantity to a group of 26 raw sugar processors which are eligible allottees. Moreover, an allotment of this kind of sugar would not assure an orderly and efficient marketing thereof since it would require continental purchasers of raw sugar for direct consumption to deal with a large number of sellers instead of a few, as is now the custom, to obtain their requirements.

Findings. On the basis of the record of the hearing, I hereby find that:

1. The potential capacity of Puerto Rican refiners to produce direct-consumption sugar during the calendar year 1951 exceeds 350,000 short tons.

2. The amount of direct-consumption sugar which Puerto Rican refiners are equipped to produce in 1951 far exceeds the sum of the quantity of direct-consumption sugar which may be brought into the continental United States during 1951 and the quantity needed for local consumption in Puerto Rico during 1951.

3. A quantitative reflection of the proportionate shares standard in the final allotment formula would not result in fair, efficient and equitable allotments.

4. The best measure of the past marketings standard for each refiner is the average marketings of direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950. Such marketings are shown in column 1 of the table below.

5. The best available measure of the ability standard for each refiner is the largest quantity of direct-consumption sugar marketed in the continental United States during any calendar year during the period 1935–50, inclusive, and the ability thus measured is within the present plant capacity of each refiner. Such marketings are shown in column 2 of the table below.

6. A small part of the direct-consumption portion of the Puerto Rican sugar quota is normally marketed in the continental United States as raw sugar for direct consumption. The quantity brought in during 1948 was 964 short tons, in 1949, 817 short tons, and in 1950, 900 short tons. Nine hundred short tons is sufficient for 1951.

Conclusions. On the basis of the foregoing and after consideration of the record and the briefs submitted by interested persons following the hearing, I hereby determine and conclude that (1) the allotment of the direct-consumption portion of the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing of such sugar and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market such sugar in the continental United States; (2) in order to make a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of the direct-consumption portion of such quota, as required by section 205 (a) of the act, allotments should be made giving no percental weight to the proportionate shares standard and giving fifty percent weight to past marketings, measured by the annual average of such marketings for consumption in the continental United States by each refiner during the years 1948, 1949 and 1950, and fifty percent weight to ability to market, measured by the largest marketings of direct-consumption sugar for consumption in the continental United States by each refiner during any calendar year, 1935–1950, inclusive, and (3) an unallotted reserve of 900 short tons of sugar, raw value, should be set aside for marketings of Puerto Rican raw sugar in the continental United States for direct consumption.

Order. Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 205 (a) of the act, it is hereby ordered:

§ 814.6 Allotment of the direct-consumption portion of 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico—(a) Allotments. The direct-consumption portion of the 1951 sugar quota for Puerto Rico amounting to 126,033 short tons, raw value, is hereby allotted as follows:

Refiner	Direct-consumption allotment (short tons, raw value)
Arturo Lluberas, Estate of y Sobrinos (San Francisco)	1,187
Central Aguirre Sugar Co., a trust	5,578
Central Roig Refining Co	20,073

(b) Restrictions on shipment. Each allottee named in paragraph (a) of this section is hereby prohibited from bringing into the continental United States, for consumption therein, or marketing for that purpose, during the calendar year 1951 any direct-consumption sugar from Puerto Rico (except such amount of raw sugar as may be marketed within the unallotted reserve) in excess of the allotment therefor established in paragraph (a) of this section.

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Lemon Reg. 369, Amdt. 1]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 14 F. R. 3612), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule-making procedure (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient; and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of § 953.476 (Lemon Regulation 369, 16 F. R. 1266) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(ii) District 2: 243 carloads.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Bureau of Internal Revenue, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter C—Miscellaneous Excise Taxes

[T. D. 5830]

PART 178—PRODUCTION, FORTIFICATION, TAX-PAYMENT, ETC., OF WINES

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. Sections 178.143, 178.144, 178.145, and 178.149 of Regulations 7 (26 CFR, Part 178), "Production, Fortification, Tax-payment, Etc., of Wines," approved September 21, 1945, as amended, are hereby amended as follows:

Section 178.143 (b) is amended by adding at the end thereof the sentence "The total solids content of the finished wine shall not exceed 22 grams per 100 cubic centimeters."

(Interprets or applies 53 Stat. 352, as amended; 26 U. S. C. 3036)

Section 178.144 (a) is amended by deleting from the last sentence thereof the phrase "provided the unfermented sugar content of the wine is not increased beyond 15 percent of the weight of the wine." and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "provided the total solids content of the wine does not exceed 22 grams per 100 cubic centimeters."

Section 178.144 (b) is amended by deleting the phrase "nor may the wine have an unfermented sugar content in excess of 15 percent of the weight of the wine." and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "nor may the wine have a total solids content of more than 22 grams per 100 cubic centimeters."

(Interprets or applies 53 Stat. 355, 373; 26 U. S. C. 3044, 3171)

Section 178.145 (b) is amended by deleting from the last sentence thereof the phrase "provided the unfermented sugar content of the wine is not increased beyond 15 percent by weight, or 20 percent by weight where the wine is made from fruit (other than grapes) having a natural acid content not less than 7.5 parts per thousand." and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "provided the total solids content of the wine does not exceed 22 grams per 100 cubic centimeters."

Section 178.145 (c) is amended by deleting the phrase "nor may the wine have an unfermented sugar content in excess of 15 percent by weight, or 20 percent by weight where the wine is made from fruit (other than grapes) having a natural acid content not less than 7.5 parts per thousand." and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "nor may the wine have a total solids content of more than 22 grams per 100 cubic centimeters."

(Interprets or applies 53 Stat. 355, as amended, 373; 26 U. S. C. 3044, 3045, 3171)

Section 178.149 (b) is amended to read: "Wines sweetened with dry sugar in excess of the 11 percent limitation must be marked or labeled ——— Wine, Sweetened with Excess Sugar,' the blank to be filled in with the name of the fruit, berry, or other agricultural product used."

2. The purpose of these amendments is to prescribe standards for the solids content of wines, ameliorated or sweetened with sugar or a sugar and water solution, consistent with those contained in Treasury Decision 5797 amending Federal Alcohol Administration Regulations 4 (27 CFR Part 4), "Labeling and Advertising of Wine," effective January 25, 1951 (15 F. R. 4746).

3. It is found that compliance with the notice and public rule-making procedure of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1001, et seq.) is unnecessary in connection with the issuance of these amendments for the reason that the changes made are of a liberalizing character.

4. This Treasury decision shall be effective January 25, 1951, or on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, whichever date is later.

Chapter VI—National Production Authority, Department of Commerce

[NPA Order M-13, as Amended Feb. 15, 1951]

M-13—RAYON—LIMITATION FOR DO RATED ORDERS

This order is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the authority granted by section 101 of the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order there has been consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration has been given to their recommendations, except that such consultation has been rendered impracticable in the formulation of the amendments mentioned below, due to the necessity for immediate action.

NPA order M-13 (effective Dec. 1, 1950) is hereby amended as follows: In § 31.5 thereof the percentage figure "10" is changed to "15." The section numbers 31.1 to 31.10 thereof are redesignated 1 to 10. The word "part" wherever it appears therein is changed to "order."

NPA order M-13, as amended, reads as follows:

Sec.
1. What this order does.
2. High tenacity rayon yarn covered by this order.
3. Required delivery dates.
4. Rejection of rated orders.
5. Limitation on acceptance of rated orders.
6. NPA assistance in placing rated orders.
7. Adjustments and exceptions.
8. Communications.
9. Records and reports.
10. Violations.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 10 issued under sec. 704, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105; sec. 2, E. O. 10200, Jan. 3, 1951, 16 F. R. 61.

SECTION 1. What this order does. This order applies particularly to producers of high tenacity rayon yarn and provides rules for placing, accepting, and scheduling rated orders for these yarns. Its purpose is to provide equitable distribution of rated orders among all producers of yarns covered by this order and thus to reduce to a minimum disruption of normal distribution and to promote maximum production. It supplements NPA Reg. 2, but only those provisions of NPA Reg. 2 which are contradictory to this order are superseded, and all other provisions of that regulation continue to apply to the yarns covered by this order.

SEC. 2. High tenacity rayon yarn covered by this order. High tenacity yarn to which this order applies is defined to mean viscose rayon yarn qualifying as yarn of 250 denier or coarser and having an average tenacity of 3 grams per denier or higher, irrespective of elongation, in tests made under the following conditions, whether produced for shipment by the rayon producer in the form of singles yarn, plies, cord, or cord fabric:

(a) Yarns with three turns per inch twist shall be used.

(b) Yarn shall be conditioned until it reaches a regain equilibrium, approached from the dry side, in an atmosphere of 70 degrees Fahrenheit and 57 percent relative humidity.

(c) The loading rate on a constant-rate-of-loading machine shall be from 30 to 35, inclusive, grams per denier per minute. The loading rate on a pendulum type machine shall not exceed 35 grams per denier per minute.

(d) A denier tolerance of 3 percent, plus or minus, on deniers of 250 to 300 shall be allowed, based on the average denier of the lot tested. A denier tolerance of 2 percent, plus or minus, on deniers coarser than 300 shall be allowed, based on the average denier of the lot tested.

SEC. 3. Required delivery dates. A rated order for high tenacity rayon yarn must specify delivery in a particular month, which in no case may be earlier than required by the person placing the order. The producer of such rayon yarn must schedule the order for delivery within the requested month as early as practicable in accordance with the provisions of NPA Reg. 2.

SEC. 4. Rejection of rated orders. A producer of high tenacity rayon yarn need not accept a rated order therefor which is received less than 30 days prior to the first day of the month in which shipment is requested, unless specifically directed to accept the order by the NPA.

SEC. 5. Limitation on acceptance of rated orders. Unless otherwise specifically directed by the NPA, no producer shall be required to accept rated orders for shipment in any one month of high tenacity rayon yarn (whether in the form of singles yarn, plies, cord, or cord fabric) in excess of 15 percent of his scheduled production of such rayon yarns in that month.

SEC. 6. NPA assistance in placing rated orders. Any person who is unable to place a rated order for high tenacity rayon yarn due to the limitations imposed by section 5, should report such fact to the NPA, specifying the producers who refused to accept the order. The NPA will arrange to assist such person in locating sources of supply.

SEC. 7. Adjustment and exceptions. Any producer subject to this order may file an application for an adjustment or exception upon the ground that it works an exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by other producers, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of the national defense or in the public interest. In considering requests for adjustment claiming that the public interest is prejudiced by the application of any provision of this order, consideration will be given to the requirements of the public health and safety, civilian defense, and dislocation of labor and resulting unemployment that would impair the defense program. Each application shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 8. Communications. All communications concerning this order shall be addressed to National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Reference: M-13.

SEC. 9. Records and reports. Persons subject to this order shall make such records and submit such reports to the NPA as it shall require, subject to the terms of the Federal Reports Act (5 U. S. C. 139–139F).

SEC. 10. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or any other order or regulation of NPA or wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

This order, as amended, shall take effect on February 15, 1951.

NATIONAL PRODUCTION AUTHORITY,
[SEAL] MANLY FLEISCHMANN, Administrator.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART A—REGISTRATION AND RESEARCH

PROVISIONAL REGULATIONS

A new § 21.191 is added to read as follows:

§ 21.191 Application of the provisions of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act, Title II, as amended by section 5, Public Law 610, 81st Congress, approved July 13, 1950—(a) Criteria for approval of profit schools. (1) Effective October 1, 1950, any school operated for profit which has fewer than 25 students or one-fourth of the students enrolled (whichever is larger) paying their own tuition, and which desires to secure or retain approval to train veterans, is required to submit to the State Approving Agency a written application setting forth the course or courses of training and to include for each such course all the information required by paragraph 11 (e) 1, Part VIII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a) (38 U. S. C. ch. 12 note), as added by section 5, Public Law 610, 81st Congress. It is required, in order to secure or retain approval during any period the school has fewer than 25 students or one-fourth of the students enrolled (whichever is larger) paying their own tuition, that minimum standards as established by paragraph 11 (e) 2, Part VIII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as added by section 5, Public Law 610, 81st Congress, together with all other requirements of existing law and such additional criteria as may be established by the State Approving Agency of the State in which the school is located, must be met.

(2) As to any such profit schools which prior to October 1, 1950, have been found qualified and equipped to provide education and training to veterans under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act, the State Approving Agency must recertify to the Veterans' Administration as promptly as possible but not later than March 31, 1951, those schools which, upon investigation, that agency has found to meet the standards of paragraph 11 (e), Part VIII.

(3) The Veterans' Administration is not authorized to award benefits under Part VIII when it is found by the appropriate approving agency that a course offered by a school operated for profit fails to meet the applicable requirements of paragraph 11 (e), Part VIII.

(4) The findings of the State Approving Agency as to whether such a school meets the requirements of the law shall be final as of the date made.

(b) Periodic report showing attendance, progress and conduct to be provided to the Veterans' Administration. (1) Schools comprehended by paragraph 11 (e), Part VIII, are required to provide to the Veterans' Administration periodic reports of attendance, progress and conduct for each enrolled veteran without regard to whether the veteran is receiving subsistence allowance or compensation for productive labor, and in accordance with the schedule below:

(i) For veterans who are pursuing courses on a term or semester basis, the reports will be submitted for periods ending the 31st day of March and the 30th day of November of each year showing attendance, progress and conduct for the period and will be forwarded by the institution so as to reach the regional office of the Veterans' Administration not later than the 10th day of April and December.

(ii) For all veterans who are pursuing courses on other than a term or semester basis, reports will be submitted at 4-month intervals showing the attendance, progress and conduct for the period and will be forwarded by the institution so as to reach the Veterans' Administration regional office not later than the 10th day of the month following the close of the reporting period. The present schedule of reporting will be continued. This schedule is designed to facilitate the required reporting and to distribute the work load as equally as possible throughout the entire year. Therefore, approximately one-fourth of the required reports will be submitted each month by each school in accordance with the following schedule: Cases of veterans with C-numbers ending in 0 or 1 will be due in January, May, and September; ending in 2 or 3 in February, June, and October; ending in 4, 5, or 6 in March, July, and November; ending in 7, 8 or 9 in April, August, and December, and will cover the four calendar months preceding the month in which the report is due.

(2) The reports of attendance, progress and conduct will be submitted on VA Form 7–1963 (Report of Compensation for Productive Labor and Conduct and Progress), which the Veterans' Administration has in the past and will continue to dispatch directly to veterans in ample time to allow for completion and submission of the reports in accordance with the schedule contained in subparagraph (1) (i) and (ii) of this paragraph. The veteran will be responsible for the completion of section A, and section B where necessary, and for submitting the form to the school. The school will be responsible for completion of section C concerning attendance, progress and conduct.

(3) The requirement of existing regulations that a school promptly notify the Veterans' Administration in every case where a veteran:

(i) Withdraws from, interrupts or discontinues his course, or

(ii) Is discontinued by the school because of unastisfactory conduct or progress, or

(iii) For any reason, other than subdivisions (i) or (ii) of this subparagraph, no longer remains in training, or

(iv) Makes any change in his course which affects the amount of subsistence allowance payable is continued in effect.

(c) Copy of the approved curriculum to be submitted with veteran's enrollment document. Effective 30 days following the effective date of this section, when a veteran enters or re-enters training in a profit school comprehended by paragraph 11 (e), Part VIII, a copy of the approved curriculum certified to by the school for the course in which the veteran is enrolling must be submitted to the Veterans' Administration by the school. In recognition of the fact that the Veterans' Administration, under the law, has a right to know that appropriate credit for previous training has or has not been granted in the case of the individual veteran, in each case wherein the training period is shortened because of credit allowed for previous training or experience the curriculum will specifically identify the adjustments which have been so made.

(d) Appropriate credit to be given for previous training or experience with proportionate shortening of the training period. (1) The law specifically requires that a profit school, as comprehended by paragraph 11 (e), Part VIII, shall give appropriate credit for previous training or experience in the case of each veteran and that the training period be shortened proportionately; and the law provides further that no course of training will be considered bona fide as to a veteran who is already qualified by training and experience for the course objective.

(2) The requirement that suitable credit be granted for previous training or experience will be considered to be satisfied when:

(i) Full credit in point of time is allowed for a course previously pursued by the veteran, or

(ii) A reasonable amount of credit is allowed for a previously pursued school course having a similar, but not the same, objective to the course desired and the institution furnishes a satisfactory explanation for the reduction to an amount less than full credit in point of time, or

(iii) Less than full credit in point of time is allowed for a previously pursued school course having the same objective if the change of institution is made necessary because the veteran has moved to a new location or for other equally compelling reason beyond the veteran's control it is impossible for him to complete the course in the original institution, provided the institution furnishes a satisfactory explanation for the reduction in the amount of credit allowed, or

(iv) Full credit in point of time or a reduced credit in a reasonable amount, provided the institution furnishes a satisfactory explanation for such reduced credit, is allowed for previous experience gained in on-the-job training or in an employment situation, in an objective which is the same or similar to the course objective.

(3) Present requirements that Supplemental Certificates of Eligibility and Entitlement identify the previously pursued courses and the name of the institution where pursued are continued and are expanded to include the length of time in which the course was pursued in order that institutions may be fully informed concerning such courses before a veteran is enrolled.

(e) Maximum number to be trained in each course. (1) In the case of any school operated for profit as comprehended by paragraph 11 (e), Part VIII, the State Approving Agency is required to certify to the Veterans' Administration the maximum number of students authorized to be trained in each course in such school.

(2) Each such school when certifying the enrollment or reenrollment of a veteran is required to certify at that time, on or with the enrollment document, that the enrollment of that particular veteran does not constitute enrollment in excess of the maximum quota of students for which the particular course has been approved.

(3) When it has been established that the enrollment in any course provided by such school has reached or surpassed the maximum number of students authorized by the State Approving Agency to be trained at any one time, no further enrollments in such course will be approved by the school or authorized by the Veterans' Administration which would exceed the maximum quota fixed by the State Approving Agency. If the State Approving Agency has taken action to increase the maximum, further enrollments within the increased quota may be made.

(f) Authorization of benefits. (1) As to any school which was on the list of approved institutions as of September 30, 1950, benefits may be authorized or continued as to veterans who enroll in or continue courses in the school until the State Approving Agency, after investigation, notifies the Veterans' Administration that approval of the school is to be withdrawn for failure to meet the requirements of the law, but in no event will such benefits be continued beyond March 31, 1951, in the absence of a recertification by the State Approving Agency that the school does meet the requirements of the law.

(2) When a State Approving Agency notifies the Veterans' Administration that a school has been found not to meet the requirements of the law, the Veterans' Administration may not authorize benefits under Part VIII. All benefits will be discontinued in the cases of veterans enrolled in such school as of the effective date of the disapproval as certified by the State Approving Agency, and further enrollments or re-enrollments of veterans in such school will not be authorized unless and until the school is reapproved. PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR, Part 723]

CIGAR-FILLER AND BINDER TOBACCO

NOTICE OF FORMULATION OF REGULATIONS RELATING TO MARKETING OF CIGAR-FILLER AND BINDER TOBACCO, COLLECTION OF PENALTIES, AND RECORDS AND REPORTS FOR 1951–52 MARKETING YEAR

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, the Secretary of Agriculture is preparing to formulate marketing quota regulations governing the issuance of marketing cards, the identification of tobacco, the collection and refund of penalties, and the records and reports incident thereto on the marketing of cigar-filler and binder tobacco, types 42–44 and 51–55, inclusive, for the 1951–52 marketing year.

It is proposed that a within quota marketing card be issued to the operator of each farm on which the acreage of tobacco harvested in 1951 does not exceed the farm acreage allotment, and that an excess marketing card be issued to the operator of each farm on which the harvested acreage of tobacco exceeds the tobacco acreage allotment. Memoranda of sale included in such marketing cards would be executed by the buyer of any farm tobacco who would also record the sales on the marketing card to be returned by the buyer to the producer. The producer would return the marketing card to the county PMA committee after completion of marketing tobacco from the farm. Under section 314 (b) of the act the Secretary must require collection of the marketing penalty upon the proportion of each lot of tobacco marketed from the farm equal to the proportion which the tobacco available for marketing from the farm in excess of the farm marketing quota is of the total amount of tobacco available for marketing from the farm unless satisfactory proof of disposition of the excess tobacco is made prior to any marketing of tobacco from the farm. In issuing excess marketing cards it is proposed to enter the applicable converted rate of penalty on the marketing card and on each memorandum of sale contained in the card. The converted rate of penalty would be commensurate with the extent to which the harvested acreage exceeded the allotment. The amount of penalty to be collected by the buyer would be the amount obtained by multiplying the converted rate of penalty by the total pounds represented in the sale.

The regulations in accordance with the act will provide that the buyer shall collect the penalty and may deduct an amount equal to the penalty from the amount paid the producer.

Provision would be made for the storage under bond of excess tobacco representative of the entire 1951 crop of tobacco produced on the farm prior to any marketing of tobacco from the farm. The tobacco so stored could be removed from storage, but penalty thereon to be paid by the producer to the county PMA committee would become due at the time of such removal. However, an amount of such stored tobacco could be removed from storage and marketed free of penalty the following year if the harvested acreage on the farm in the following year should be less than the allotment commensurate with the amount of tobacco removed from storage for sale based on the normal yield per acre for the farm.

It is proposed that buyers keep such records as would enable them to furnish the Director, Tobacco Branch, or the State PMA committee with respect to each sale of tobacco made by producers to them (1) date of sale, (2) name of the producer from whom the tobacco was purchased, (3) the serial number of the memorandum of sale used to identify the sale, (4) number of pounds sold, (5) gross sale price, and (6) the amount of any penalty and the amount of any deduction on account of penalty from the price paid the producer. Buyers would be required to maintain records which would show the disposition made of all tobacco purchased by them from producers. In addition, each buyer would keep such other records as the Director, Tobacco Branch, found necessary to insure the proper identification of the marketings of tobacco and the collection of penalties due thereon. Each buyer would furnish the State PMA committee a report of each purchase of tobacco made from producers including date of sale, name of producer selling the tobacco, the serial number of the memorandum of sale issued by the buyer from the marketing card for the farm to identify the sale, the total pounds of tobacco in the sale, the gross amount therefor, the converted rate of penalty, and the amount of penalty due. He would furnish such reports not later than the end of the calendar week following the week during which such purchases were made and forward with such reports a remittance covering all penalties due and all memoranda of sale covering such tobacco.

Each person engaged to any extent in the business of trucking tobacco for producers would be required to keep such records as would enable him to furnish the Director, Tobacco Branch, or State PMA committee a report with respect to each lot of tobacco received by him showing (1) the name and address of the farm operator, (2) the date of receipt of the tobacco, (3) the number of pounds received, and (4) the place to which it was delivered.

Each person engaged to any extent in the business of sorting, stemming, packing, or otherwise processing tobacco for producers would be required to keep such records as would enable him to furnish the Director, Tobacco Branch, a report showing (1) the information required above for truckers, and in addition (2) the purpose for which the tobacco was received, (3) the amount of advance made by him on the tobacco, and (4) the disposition of the tobacco. Each such person would make such reports to the Director, Tobacco Branch, as the Director found necessary.

For the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any report made or record kept, or of obtaining information required to be furnished in any report but not so furnished, any buyer, common carrier, or person engaged in the business of sorting, stemming, packing, or otherwise processing tobacco for producers would be required to make available for examination upon written request by the State PMA committee or Director, Tobacco Branch, such books, papers, records, accounts, correspondence, contracts, documents, and memoranda as the State committee or Director may have reason to believe would be relevant and within the control of such person.

Records required to be kept and copies of the reports required to be made by any person under the regulations would be required to be kept by him until September 30, 1954, and for such longer period of time as might be requested in writing by the Director, Tobacco Branch, or State PMA committee.

Prior to the final adoption and issuance of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or recommendations pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing to the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. All submissions must be postmarked not later than March 2, 1951, in order to be considered.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 15th day of February 1951.

BURLEY AND FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

NOTICE OF DETERMINATIONS BY SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WITH RESPECT TO NATIONAL MARKETING QUOTAS PROCLAIMED FOR BURLEY AND FLUE-CURED TOBACCO AND STATE AND FARM ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS FOR 1951–52 MARKETING YEAR

The Secretary of Agriculture is preparing to review the national marketing quota of 542,000,000 pounds for Burley tobacco and the national marketing quota of 1,235,000,000 pounds for flue-cured tobacco proclaimed for the 1951–52 marketing year in sections 725.202 (d) and 725.205 (d) (15 F. R. 8216) to determine whether such quotas should be increased, and, if so, the amounts of any such increases.

Section 312 (a) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1312 (a)), authorizes the Secretary to increase the amount of the national marketing quota for any kind of tobacco not later than March 1, 1951, by not more than 20 percent, if he determines that such increase is necessary in order to meet market demands, or to avoid undue restriction of marketings in adjusting the total supply to the reserve supply level.

In the event that the national marketing quota for Burley or flue-cured tobacco is increased, it is proposed that (1) the State acreage allotment heretofore established for the 1951–52 marketing year (§ 725.207 or 725.208) be increased by the same percentage as the national marketing quota is increased; and (2) that farm acreage allotments for the 1951–52 marketing year be redetermined under the regulations contained in §§ 725.211 to 725.228 (15 F. R. 5871) on the basis of the increased State acreage allotment.

The Secretary has under consideration also a proposed amendment to § 725.218 (15 F. R. 5872) to permit the State Production and Marketing Administration committee in each State producing Burley or flue-cured tobacco to use not less than one-half of one percent nor more than two percent of the total acreage allotted to all farms in the State for the 1950–51 marketing year for making adjustments in allotments for "old" tobacco farms. This would be accomplished by changing the last sentence of said § 725.218 to read as follows: "The acreage available for increasing allotments under this section shall not be less than one-half of one percent nor more than two percent, as determined by the State committee, for the 1950–51 marketing year."

Any interested person may submit his views in writing with respect to (1) whether such quotas should be increased, and, if he believes the quotas should be increased, the amounts of any such increases and the procedure for redetermining State and farm acreage allotments, and (2) the proposal to permit the State committee to use up to two percent of the total acreage allotted to all farms in the State for the 1950–51 marketing year for making relationship adjustments for old farms, to the Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. All submissions must be postmarked not later than seven days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER in order to be considered.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 15th day of February 1951.

Acting Administrator.

HANDLING OF IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN COUNTIES OF CROOK, DESCHUTES, JEFFERSON, KLAMATH, AND LAKE IN OREGON, AND MODOC AND SISKIYOU IN CALIFORNIA

EXEMPTION CERTIFICATES AND SAFEGUARDS

Notice is hereby given that the Secretary of Agriculture is considering the approval of rules and regulations, hereinafter set forth, which were recommended by the Oregon-California Potato Committee, established under Marketing Agreement No. 114 and Order No. 59, as amended (7 CFR Part 959), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the counties of Crook, Deschutes, Jefferson, Klamath, and Lake in the State of Oregon, and Modoc and Siskiyou in the State of California, issued under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). Such rules and regulations would supersede the exemption rules and regulations heretofore issued under Order No. 59 and currently in effect.

Consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto mailed in triplicate to the Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., so as to be received by him not later than 15 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed rules and regulations are as follows:

Sec.
959.100 General.
959.101 Definitions.
959.102 Area determinations.
959.103 Exemption certificates.
959.104 Safeguards for special purpose shipments.

AUTHORITY: §§ 959.100 to 959.104 issued under sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 608c.

§ 959.100 General. Unless otherwise provided in the marketing agreement and order, or by specific direction of the committee, all reports, applications, submittals, requests, and communications in connection with the marketing agreement and order shall be addressed to the committee at its principal office.

§ 959.101 Definitions. For the purpose of §§ 959.100 to 959.104, "agreement" means Marketing Agreement No. 114 and "order" means Order No. 59, as amended (7 CFR Part 959), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the counties of Crook, Deschutes, Jefferson, Klamath, and Lake in Oregon, and Modoc and Siskiyou in California, and the terms used in such sections shall have the meanings set forth in said agreement and order.

§ 959.103 Exemption certificates—(a) Application. Any producer or handler applying for exemption from regulations issued pursuant to § 959.4 shall file such application with the committee, or its duly designated agent for such purpose, on forms to be furnished by the committee. Each application shall state (1) the name and address of the applicant, (2) the grade, size, and quality regulations from which exemption is requested, and (3) facts demonstrating that the potatoes, for which exemption is requested, were adversely affected by acts beyond the applicant's reasonable expectation and control. In addition, producer applications shall set forth the information required by subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) and (4) of this paragraph, and handler applications by subparagraphs (5), (6), (7), and (8) of this paragraph, and such additional information as the committee may find necessary in making determinations with respect to such applications.

(1) The location of the applicant's farm or ranch, and the field or storage facility where the applicant's potato crop may be inspected;

(2) The applicant's acreage and production of potatoes for the current season, varieties produced, and the quantity of each variety stated in terms of hundredweights, grades, and sizes;

(3) An estimate of the percentage of such applicant's potato crop which cannot be shipped because of regulations issued and in effect pursuant to § 959.4, stated in terms of varieties, grades, and sizes;

(4) A statement of the amount of the applicant's potato crop (i) which has been sold during the current marketing season, and (ii) remaining to be sold, each stated in terms of varieties, hundredweights, grades and sizes;

(5) The quantity of potatoes acquired by the applicant during and immediately following the digging season and stored, stated in terms of varieties, hundredweights, grades, and sizes;

(6) The location of the cellar, warehouse, or other storage facility where such potatoes are stored;

(7) An estimate of the percentage of the applicant's holdings of ungraded potatoes which cannot be shipped because of a regulation issued and in effect pursuant to § 959.4, stated in terms of varieties, grades, and sizes; and

(8) A statement of the total amount of potatoes referred to in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph which have been sold by the applicant during the current marketing season and the total amount of such potatoes remaining to be sold, each in terms of varieties, hundredweights, grades, and sizes.

(b) Investigation of applications. (1) Each exemption application filed with the committee shall be accompanied by the applicant's certified statement setting forth the total quantity of such applicant's potatoes which have been graded; the quantity of such potatoes which are culls; the quantity of such potatoes which meet regulatory requirements in effect on the date of the application; and the quantity of such potatoes (exclusive of culls) which fail to meet such requirements on such date. Such certified statement shall be based upon the actual packout or grading of such potatoes. The committee, or any specifically authorized representative thereof, including a Federal-State inspector, may make such further investigations deemed necessary by the committee to verify the foregoing statements, and the cost of any such Federal-State inspection shall be borne by the applicant for exemption. If more than one exemption certificate is issued to an applicant during a marketing season, the total quantity of potatoes authorized to be shipped by such certificates shall not exceed the proportion specified in paragraph (c) of this section.

(2) The committee shall keep account of the exemptions issued to applicants in those cases where the exemption certificate covers only a portion of the applicant's production or storage holdings. The quantity of potatoes exempted, if computed on a part of an applicant's production or storage holdings, shall be taken into consideration prior to issuing any future exemptions on the remainder of such applicant's production or storage holdings and shall be computed as part of the exemptions granted to such applicant during the then current season.

(3) In any case where the committee feels that the total quantity of graded potatoes referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph is not representative of the applicant's entire production or ungraded storage holdings, the committee may require the exemption application to be accompanied by a report of a Federal-State inspector, which report shall contain the following:

(i) A statement by the inspector that he personally visited the farm, ranch, cellar, warehouse, or storage facility described in the application, and that a representative sample of the potatoes remaining therein or contained thereon was taken by him;

(ii) A statement of the percentage of the potatoes sampled by him which meet the grade, size, and quality requirements of regulation then in effect;

(iii) A statement of the defects or damage causing such potatoes to fail to meet such grade, size, and quality requirements. In the event that different regulations are in effect for different varieties of potatoes, the inspector's report shall show such percentages for each variety separately. The cost of the above inspection shall be borne by the applicant for exemption. The committee, or any specifically authorized representative thereof, may make such investigations as is deemed necessary to determine whether the exemption requested should be granted.

(c) Issuance of certificate. (1) Whenever the committee finds and determines, from proof satisfactory to the committee, that the applicant is entitled to an exemption certificate, the committee shall issue or authorize the issuance of an exemption certificate, which shall authorize the applicant to ship, or cause to be shipped, such quantity of potatoes which fail to meet the minimum grade, size, and quality requirements in effect at the time thereof as is authorized by § 959.4 (g).

(2) The manager of the committee, or any employee authorized by him may issue exemption certificates for and on behalf of the committee: Provided, That the committee shall have first determined the "average proportions" or percentages referred to in § 959.4 (g).

(3) If it is determined that an applicant is not entitled to an exemption certificate, the applicant shall be so advised in writing and given the reasons therefor.

(4) Each certificate of exemption issued as provided herein shall contain the producer's or handler's name and address; the location of his farm or ranch, or, in the case of a handler, the location of his cellar, warehouse or storage facility with respect to which the exemption is granted; the particular grade, size, and quality regulations from which exemption is granted; the amount of potatoes which may be shipped by virtue of such exemption; and such other information as may be necessary to evidence the rights of the producer or handler to ship potatoes which do not meet the requirements of particular grade, size, and quality regulations. Each certificate of exemption shall be transferable, in whole or in part, with the potatoes in accordance with the amount of potatoes transferred.

(d) Reports and records. For the purpose of enabling the committee to perform its functions, pursuant to the provisions of the order, each handler shall report shipments under exemption certificates to the committee in such form and at such times and substantiated in such manner as shall be prescribed by the committee. All forms, reports, correspondence and documents used, pursuant to this subpart, shall be kept on file by the committee and records thereof shall be maintained by the manager of the committee. A record of all exemption certificates issued (if any) shall be furnished weekly by the manager to the Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 959.104 Safeguards for special purpose shipments—(a) Application for Certificates of Privilege. (1) All handlers desiring to make shipments of potatoes for the following purposes shall, when such shipments are regulated pursuant to § 959.5, obtain from the committee prior to initiating such shipments, a Certificate or Certificates of Privilege permitting such shipments:

(i) Grading or storing in the production area;

(ii) Export;

(iii) Distribution by relief agencies or consumption by charitable institutions;

(iv) Manufacture or conversion into specified products or byproducts;

(v) Livestock feed.

(2) Handlers desiring to make shipments of seed potatoes may be required to first apply to the committee for and obtain a Certificate or Certificates of Privilege permitting such shipments.

(3) Applications for Certificates of Privilege shall be made on forms furnished by the committee. Each application shall contain the name and address of the handler, the quantity of potatoes to be shipped, name of the consignee, destination, certification as to correctness of statements made, a statement that the applicant will comply with disposition stated therein, and such other information or documents as the committee may require in safeguarding against the entry of such potatoes into trade channels other than those for which the Certificate or Certificates of Privilege were granted.

(b) Reports. Each handler shipping potatoes for any purpose set forth in paragraph (a) of this section shall supply the committee with a report thereon showing the name and address of the shipper, car or truck number, Federal-State Inspection Certificate number (if such inspection is required by regulation at time of such shipment), loading point, destination, and consignee.

(c) Denial and appeals. The committee may rescind a Certificate, or Certificates of Privilege, issued to a handler pursuant to this section, or deny Certificates of Privilege to a handler, upon proof satisfactory to the committee that such handler has shipped potatoes contrary to the provisions of this section. Such committee action denying a Certificate or Certificates of Privilege shall apply to and not exceed a reasonable period of time as determined by the committee. Any handler who has been denied a Certificate of Privilege, or who has had a Certificate of Privilege rescinded, may appeal to the committee for reconsideration. Such appeal shall be in writing.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 14th day of February 1951.

Communications should be submitted, in triplicate, to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington 25, D. C. All communications received by March 21, 1951 will be considered by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rule. Copies of such communications will be available after March 22, 1951 for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

The basis and purpose of the proposed rules are set forth in the attached explanatory statement.

The proposed amendments are set forth in the attached proposed rule.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of Title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. The proposed rules when finally adopted by the Board may be considerably changed in view of the comments received in response to this notice of proposed rule making.

(See 205 (a), 52 Stat. 984; 249 U. S. C. 425 (a). Interpret or apply secs. 401, 407, 416, 52 Stat. 987, 1000, 1004; 49 U. S. C. 481, 487, 496)

Issued February 14, 1951 at Washington, D. C.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

Explanatory statement. Since June, 1947, Part 291 of the Board's Economic Regulations has authorized operation in air transportation without a certificate of public convenience and necessity by a class of air carriers now known as "Small Irregular Carriers." Since June, 1948, Part 242 of the Regulations has required such carriers to file statistical reports setting forth pertinent financial and traffic data. The latter requirement was promulgated to enable the Board to determine the nature and extent of the operations being conducted and the relative importance of such operations to air transportation needs.

From the reports received and other information available to the Board, it appears that the great majority of these carriers own aircraft of 6,000 pounds or less maximum certificated take-off weight, which are operated in air transportation only for convenience, in emergency, or incident to some regular means of livelihood. Only a very few of the more than 2,000 Small Irregular Carriers who hold Letters of Registration own aircraft having a maximum certificated weight between 6,000 and 12,500 pounds; the total being approximately 177 aircraft (of which 154 are twin-engine Beechcraft Model 18 airplanes) operated by about 113 carriers. It also appears that the bulk of all activities of such carriers in air transportation is conducted by a small percentage of the carriers, with the total of all reported operations equalling only about 2 percent of the domestic trunk and feeder revenue plane mileage.

It thus appears that the reporting requirement previously referred to has served its purpose and is no longer necessary. It may also be concluded that the degree of affirmative control over such carriers' operations involved in requiring the obtaining and maintaining of a letter of registration to operate as a Small Irregular Carrier is no longer in the public interest.

There have been practically no complaints about the operations of Small Irregular Carriers (except for a few involving operations between points within a Territory or possession), and the Board has not found it necessary to initiate proceedings for the suspension or revocation of a single letter of registration for a Small Irregular Carrier. In addition, since the issuance of a letter of registration does not depend upon any showing by the applicant of its ability to perform services in air transportation, the letters' only function, other than as control device, is to count noses. This function can be equally well performed by examination of the files of the Civil Aeronautics Administration since, under the provisions of the act and the Board's Civil Air Regulations, each such carrier is obligated to obtain an air carrier operating certificate from CAA before beginning operations.

We have, therefore, tentatively concluded that it is no longer in the public interest to require a Small Irregular Carrier to have an effective letter of registration to conduct operations now authorized by Part 291 or to file the reports currently required by Part 242.

In addition, consideration has been given to permitting an even broader operating authority to carriers operating only aircraft of less than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight. Recently there has been formed a National Air Taxi Conference, composed largely of Small Irregular Carriers, which has proposed to provide a connecting air service between certificated points and off-line points. This proposal appears to have the support not only of the organizing group but also of the Air Transport Association and the certificated carriers.[1] It is our opinion that the service contemplated should be encouraged, partly because it is the kind of service which can well be conducted by small carriers, and also because it affords a means of serving many small communities which would otherwise be without air connection to major terminals. However, the successful conduct of such operations must necessarily involve regular, if not scheduled, operation on the part of many of the small carriers involved.

Mindful of our obligation under section 2 (c) of the act to prevent the development of unfair or destructive competitive practices, we have examined this proposal from the standpoint of its possible competitive effect on operations of the certificated carriers. It is our conclusion that small aircraft have a higher seat-mile cost, are slower, less comfortable, and, where all weather operations are concerned, less reliable than large aircraft. For these reasons, it is probable that a person would utilize small aircraft only where large aircraft were not available, or where some particular convenience or service were to be had. It is, therefore, our tentative conclusion that small aircraft can in no sense be competitive with large aircraft.

We, therefore, propose to permit the frequent or regular operation of aircraft by air taxi operators. However, as a safeguard against possible adverse effect on certificated operations, we do not propose to allow such operation between points within Territories or possessions of the United States (but see Part 292 of Economic Regulations for scope of noncertificated operations authorized for Alaska pilot-owner air carriers). Since experience may indicate that other limitations or exceptions may be necessary or desirable in the public interest, the proposed regulation reserves the Board's right to reconsider the application of the authorized exemption to specific cases where it is shown that circumstances not now envisioned are making the operations contrary to the public interest. Moreover, it is provided that the exemption shall expire in 3 years, which means that the Board will at that time reconsider this subject in the light of experience gained pragmatically.

1. It is proposed to promulgate a new Part 298 to read as follows:

PART 298—AIR TAXI OPERATORS

§ 298.0 Applicability of part. This part establishes a classification of air carriers known as "air taxi operators," provides certain exemptions from Title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, for such carriers, and establishes rules and regulations applicable to their operations.

§ 298.1 Definitions. (a) As used in this part, terms shall be defined as follows:

(1) Act. "Act" means the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(2) Air taxi operator. An "air taxi operator" is an air carrier which directly engages in the air transportation of persons or property only in aircraft of less than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight without having obtained a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

(3) Point. The term "point" as used in this part shall mean any airport or place where aircraft may be landed or taken off including the area within a 25-mile radius of such airport or place.

(4) Maximum certificated take-off weight. "Maximum certificated take-off weight" means the maximum take-off weight authorized by the terms of the aircraft airworthiness certificate. (This figure is found in the airplane operating record or the airplane flight manual which is incorporated by regulation into the airworthiness certificate.)

§ 298.2 Classification. There is hereby established a classification of air carriers to be designated as "air taxi operators" which consists of all air taxi operators as defined in § 298.1 (a) (2).

§ 298.3 Extent of exemption. Except as otherwise provided in this part,[1] each air taxi operator shall, to the extent necessary to permit operations authorized by § 298.7, be temporarily exempt from the following provisions of Title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended:

(a) Subsection 401 (a);
(b) Section 403;
(c) Subsection 404 (a): Provided, That air taxi operators shall abide by those provisions of this subsection which require air carriers to provide safe service, equipment and facilities in connection with air transportation;
(d) Subsection 404 (b);
(e) Subsection 405 (c);
(f) Subsection 407 (b), (c), (d);
(g) Section 408;
(h) Subsection 409 (a); and
(i) Section 412.

§ 298.4 Duration of exemption. The temporary exemption from any provision of Title IV of the Act provided by § 298.3 shall continue in effect only until such time as the Board shall find that enforcement thereof would be in the public interest, or would no longer be a burden on air taxi operations: Provided, That upon such a finding as to any air taxi operator or class of air taxi operators, such exemption shall to that extent terminate with respect to such operator or class of operators: And provided further, That unless otherwise ordered by the Board the temporary exemption granted by § 298.3 shall terminate three years after the effective date of this part.

§ 298.5 Approval of certain interlocking relationships. To the extent that any officer or director of an air taxi operator would, without prior approval of the Board, be in violation of any provision of subsection 409 (a) of the act, by reason of any interlocking relationship directly involving such air taxi operator, such relationship is hereby approved: Provided, That nothing in this part shall be construed as approving any interlocking relationship with any other carrier which would otherwise be subject to subsection 409 (a) of the act.

§ 298.6 Effect of exemption on anti-trust laws. The temporary exemption granted in § 298.3 from sections 408, 409 (a), and 412 shall not constitute an order made under such sections, within the meaning of section 414, and shall not confer any immunity or relief from operation of the "anti-trust laws," or any other statute (except the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended) with respect to any transaction, interlocking relationship, or agreement otherwise within the purview of such section.

§ 298.7 Scope of service authorized. (a) Except as prohibited by paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section an air taxi operator is hereby authorized to engage in any direct air transportation of persons or property in aircraft of less than 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight.

(b) Within the Territories, or within the possessions of the United States other than the Territory of Alaska, no air taxi operator shall offer or perform any service in excess of that described in subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph. For the purpose of applying these limitations all flights for compensation or hire, whether regarded by the carrier as common carriage or noncommon carriage, shall be counted.

(1) Operations in excess of a total of eight flights in the same direction during any period of four successive calendar weeks between any two points;

(2) Operation of flights between any two points in the same direction on the same day of two or more successive calendar weeks; or

(3) Operation of a total of three or more flights between any two points in the same direction during any period of two successive calendar weeks unless such period is followed by a break of at least one calendar week during which no flights are operated between such points; or

(4) Operations so arranged as to result in the observance of breaks required by subparagraph (3) of this paragraph at regularly recurring intervals; or

(5) Operations so arranged as to result in any uniform pattern of normal consistency of operations between any two points.

(c) No service shall be offered or performed by an air taxi operator within the Territory of Alaska (see Part 292 of this chapter, for authorization of service in Alaska).

§ 298.8 Requests for statement of authority. In any instance where an air taxi operator is required by a foreign government to produce evidence of its authority to engage in foreign air transportation under the laws of the United States, the Secretary of the Board will, upon request, furnish the carrier with a written statement outlining its general operating privileges under this part for presentation to the proper authorities of the foreign government.

§ 298.9 Enforcement. Any violation of the provisions of the act, or any rule, regulation, or order issued thereunder may subject the violator to a proceeding pursuant to section 1002 or 1007 before the Board or a United States District Court, respectively, to compel compliance therewith, or, in the case of a wilful violation, to criminal penalties pursuant to the provisions of section 902 (a) of the act.[2]

2. It is also proposed to amend Part 291 to eliminate the coverage of small irregular carriers now contained therein, and to terminate the letters of registration now held by such carriers.

3. It is proposed further to amend Part 242 as follows:

a. By amending § 242.2 to read as follows:

§ 242.2 Statistical and flight reports required. (a) Statistical reports shall be filed with the Board by each large irregular carrier and noncertificated cargo carrier in accordance with § 242.4. Flight reports shall be filed with the Board by each large irregular carrier in accordance with § 242.5 and by each noncertificated cargo carrier in accordance with § 242.6.

(b) Each carrier referred to in paragraph (a) of this section, shall keep all accounts, records, and memorandums (including the accounts, records and memorandums of traffic, as well as of the receipts and expenditures of money), which are needed in order to accomplish full compliance with the reporting requirements of this part. Such accounts, records and memorandums as related to statistical reports shall be preserved for three years, and such as relate to flight reports shall be preserved for one year.

(c) The reports referred to in paragraph (a) of this section, shall be filed in accordance with the requirements of this part, and shall be certified to be correct by a responsible officer of the reporting carrier.

b. By deleting § 242.3.

[F. R. Doc. 51-2426; Filed, Feb. 16, 1951; 8:51 a. m.]

[1] The Aviation Development Advisory Committee, composed of representatives of various industry segments, in a report to the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics under the date of August 1950, has also strongly recommended the authorization of a "jitney" type service.

[1] See § 298.7 for scope of noncertificated operations authorized for performance by air taxi operators.

[2] In addition it should be noted that the fact that an air taxi operator or class of air taxi operators are, or have been engaging in practices which constitute a violation of the act, or rules, regulations or orders issued pursuant thereto, is an important consideration in determining whether the enforcement of a provision or provisions of the act, from which § 298.3 exempts such operator, is in the public interest.

At 10:00 a. m. on February 27, 1951, the lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals become subject to application, petition, location, or selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 90 days from February 27, 1951, to May 28, 1951, inclusive, the public lands affected by this order shall be subject to (1) application under the homestead or homesite laws, or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609, 43 U. S. C. sec. 682a) as amended by qualified veterans of World War II, for whose service recognition is granted by the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747, 43 U. S. C. secs. 279–283), as amended, subject to the requirements of applicable law, and (2) application under any applicable public-land law, based on prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation. Applications by such veterans shall be subject to claims of the classes described in subdivision (2).

(b) Twenty-day advance period for simultaneous preference-right filings. For a period of 20 days from February 6, 1951, to February 26, 1951, inclusive, such veterans and persons claiming preference rights superior to those of such veterans, may present their applications, and all such applications, together with those presented at 10:00 a. m. on February 27, 1951, shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

(c) Date for non-preference right filings authorized by the public land laws. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on May 29, 1951, any of the lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, or selection by the public generally as may be authorized by the public land laws.

(d) Twenty-day advance period for simultaneous non-preference right filings. Applications by the general public may be presented during the 20-day period from May 9, 1951, to May 28, 1951, inclusive, and all such applications, together with those presented at 10:00 a. m. on May 29, 1951, shall be treated as simultaneously filed.

A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

(2) The construction and operation of a pipeline approximately 78 miles in length consisting of 24-inch, 22-inch, and 16-inch pipe extending from Laingsburg to Pontiac and Mount Clemens, all in Michigan, with lateral lines having an aggregate length of approximately 17 miles extending therefrom to the Southeast Division of Consumers Power Company in southeastern Michigan;

(3) The construction and operation of necessary regulating and measuring stations to be used in connection with the facilities referred to in paragraph (2) above.

(4) The construction and operation of 7,400 horsepower of additional compressor capacity at the Applicant's Muskegon River Compressor Station;

(5) The construction and operation of 30 miles of 26-inch loop pipeline between Laingsburg and Mount Pleasant junction;

(6) The construction and operation of 10 miles of 12¾-inch pipeline from the Riverside Gas Field to the Applicant's Muskegon River Compressor Station.

The total estimated over-all capital cost of the proposed facilities, including the acquisition of Riverside Gas Field and the facilities therein, is $10,866,000, which Applicant proposes to finance by the issuance and sale of First Mortgage Bonds. Applicant states that a contract has been negotiated with various purchasers for the sale of such bonds and it is anticipated that the bonds will be issued and sold early in February 1951.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 5th day of March 1951. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

NEW ENGLAND POWER CO.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 12th day of February A. D. 1951.

New England Power Company ("NEPCO"), a subsidiary of New England Electric System ("NEES"), a registered holding company, having filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 an application under the third sentence of section 6 (b) of said act and Rule U-50 thereunder with respect to the following transactions:

NEPCO proposes to issue and sell $12,000,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, Series D, to be dated February 1, 1951, and to mature February 1, 1981. The interest rate (which shall be a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent) and the price to be paid to NEPCO (which, excluding accrued interest, shall not be less than 100 percent nor more than 102.75 percent of the principal amount) are to be determined at competitive bidding. NEPCO proposes to issue the bonds under an Indenture of Trust and First Mortgage dated November 15, 1936, as amended and supplemented by supplemental indentures dated July 1, 1948, and July 1, 1949, and a third supplemental indenture to be dated February 1, 1951.

The application states that the proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used by NEPCO to pay indebtedness to banks which it is expected will aggregate $10,500,000 at the time of receipt of such proceeds and that the balance of the proceeds will be used to pay for construction expenditures made or to be made (see Holding Company Act Release No. 10363).

In connection with the system program for financing the construction requirements of the subsidiaries of NEES, including, among other things, the maintenance by NEES of a reasonable equity base for the required senior financing, the application contains the same statement quoted in the order of this Commission dated October 27, 1950, in Beverly Gas and Electric Company et al., Holding Company Act Release No. 10182.

Notice of such filing having duly been given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 under the act and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect thereto within the period specified in said notice, or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon;

The issue and sale of said bonds having been expressly authorized by the Department of Public Utilities of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the State commission of the State in which NEPCO is organized and doing business, and by the Vermont Public Service Commission and, subject to the entry of a supplemental order with respect to the results of competitive bidding, by the New Hampshire Public Service Commission, in which States NEPCO also does business;

Applicant having requested that the period for the invitation of bids as prescribed by Rule U-50 under the Act be shortened to six days and that the Commission's order herein become effective upon issuance; and

The Commission finding that said application, as amended, satisfies the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and the rules thereunder, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application, as amended, be granted effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions specified below:

It is ordered, Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act and the rules thereunder, that said application, as amended, be, and hereby is, granted, effective forthwith, and that for the purposes of this proceeding the ten-day period for the invitation of bids as prescribed by Rule U-50 be, and it hereby is, shortened to a period of not less than six days, all subject, however, to the provisions of Rule U-24 and to the following terms and conditions:

(1) That the proposed issue and sale of said bonds shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding and the supplemental order of the New Hampshire Public Service Commission with respect thereto shall have been made a matter of record in this proceeding and a further order entered by this Commission on the basis of the record so supplemented, which order shall contain such terms and conditions, if any, as may then be deemed appropriate, jurisdiction being reserved for this purpose; and

(2) That jurisdiction be reserved with respect to the payment of all legal, accounting and auditing fees and expenses in connection with proposed transactions, including fees and expenses of counsel for the successful bidders.

By the Commission.

FIRST YORK CORP. AND COMMERCIAL CONTROLS CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C. on the 13th day of February A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that First York Corporation (First York), 103 Park Avenue, New York, New York, on behalf of itself and Commercial Controls Corporation (Commercial), Rochester, New York, has filed an application under section 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 for an order of the Commission exempting from section 17 (a) of the act, certain transactions involved in a proposed recapitalization of Commercial.

First York is a closed-end, nondiversified, management investment company registered under the act. Commercial is engaged in the manufacture and distribution of mailroom equipment and through its subsidiary, Electromode Corporation, in the manufacture and sale of electric space heating equipment. First York owns 38.72 percent and International Business Machines Corporation (IBM) owns 61.28 percent of the 25,825 shares of preferred stock of Commercial outstanding. First York owns 58.81 percent and IBM owns 41.19 percent of the 20,228 shares of Class A stock of Commercial outstanding. First York owns 54 percent, IBM owns 36 percent and Charles R. Ogsbury, president of Commercial, owns 10 percent of the 100,000 shares of common stock of Commercial outstanding. Commercial, therefore, is an affiliated and controlled person of First York within the meaning of the act so that various phases of the proposed plan of recapitalization are prohibited by section 17 (a) of the act.

Pursuant to the proposed plan of reorganization, IBM and First York will exchange their holdings of preferred and Class A stocks of Commercial for promissory notes of Commercial. IBM will receive promissory notes amounting to $1,353,000 which represents the book cost to IBM of its investment in preferred and Class A stocks of Commercial, after the book cost to IBM of 36,000 shares of common stock of Commercial at $1.00 a share has been deducted. The book value of the preferred and Class A stocks of Commercial held by IBM on September 20, 1950, was approximately $80,000 in excess of the face amount of notes to be issued to IBM.

First York will receive promissory notes amounting to $1,325,500, which is equal to the book value, as of September 30, 1950, of the preferred and Class A stocks of Commercial held by First York. The book cost of First York's investment in preferred and Class A stocks of Commercial amounts to $1,860,645 after deducting $1.00 per share for its investment in 54,000 shares of common stock of Commercial.

The notes to be issued by Commercial will be dated as of December 31, 1950, will bear 3 percent interest and will mature 20 years from date. Commencing on December 31, 1961, Commercial is to pay annually $135,300 in reduction of principal of notes held by IBM and $132,550 in reduction of principal of notes issued to First York.

Upon consummation of the foregoing exchange of stocks for notes, IBM will sell its holdings of 36,000 shares of common stock of Commercial at a price of $1.00 per share to a Management Group. (The Management Group will consist of Charles R. Ogsbury, C. E. Love, J. A. Trainor, W. J. Kaiser, W. M. Kearns, L. Scott Cass and W. E. Betts, all of whom are officers or employees of Commercial.) The Management Group will then enter into an agreement with First York and Commercial whereby First York and Commercial will have first right to purchase common stock held by members of the Management Group in the event such members intend to sell their stock. IBM will grant to The Equity Corporation, First York and Commercial, first offer rights with respect to the notes of Commercial to be received by IBM and First York will grant to IBM reciprocal first offer rights to the notes to be received by First York. Commercial will reduce the par value of its common stock from $1.00 per share to $0.10 per share and will eliminate its preferred and Class A stocks.

For a more detailed statement of the matters of fact and law asserted, all persons are referred to said application which is on file in the offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C.

Notice is further given, that an order granting the application, in whole or in part and upon such conditions as the Commission may deem necessary or appropriate, may be issued by the Commission at any time after March 1, 1951, unless prior thereto a hearing upon the application is ordered by the Commission, as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act. Any interested person may, not later than February 27, 1951 at 5:30 p. m. submit to the Commission in writing his views or any additional facts bearing upon this application or the desirability of a hearing thereon, or request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. and should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person submitting such information or requesting a hearing, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by the application which he desires to controvert.

By the Commission.

AMERICAN POWER & LIGHT COMPANY

NOTICE OF FILING AND ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 15th day of February A. D. 1951.

Notice is hereby given that American Power & Light Company ("American"), a registered holding company under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, which has been required by the Commission, pursuant to section 11 (b) (2) of the act, to be dissolved, has filed with the Commission a notice, pursuant to Rule U-44 (c) of the general rules and regulations of the Commission promulgated under the act, notifying the Commission of its intention to dispose of its entire interest in The Washington Water Power Company (the "Washington Company") by a sale of stock or of physical properties to two or more Public Utility Districts of the State of Washington, or part thereof to such Public Utility Districts and part to municipalities presently served by the Washington Company. American states that it will endeavor to negotiate and consummate such sale or sales as soon as practicable after February 26, 1951. American represents that the purchasers (referred to in the notice as "public bodies") are municipal corporations, and are State political subdivisions, agencies, authorities, and instrumentalities, and American contends that the Commission has no jurisdiction to deal with the merits of the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said notice, which is on file in the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C., and copies of which are being airmailed forthwith to the regional office of the Commission in Seattle, Washington, for a description of the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

1. American would dispose of its entire direct and indirect interest in the Washington Company of every kind and nature to public bodies as above described.

2. The public bodies would acquire either all of the common stock of the Washington Company or the physical properties of said Company, as may later be determined; in either case the Washington Company would be immediately dissolved and, in the process thereof, the holders of the First Mortgage Bonds 3½ percent Series Due 1964 would be redeemed at the maximum redemption price of 106 percent of principal amount specified in the indenture securing said Bonds, together with accrued interest to the date of their redemption, and the $6 Preferred Stock of the Washington Company would be redeemed at the redemption price of $110 per share, plus accrued dividends to the date of the redemption thereof.

3. It is the understanding of American that the purchasers would require that American, out of the proceeds of the sale, make certain provisions for payments to employees of the Washington Company which, together with the amounts already made available to the Trustee under the Washington Company's Retirement Plan, would total some $2,700,000; that this amount, in the absence of eventualities which American does not expect to occur, would be made available for distribution to such employees over a period of time through trust funds; that the employees so benefited would include all these who are members of the established Retirement Plan of the Washington Company and all those who are included in a so-called Provident Reserve Group; and that the purchasers would offer employment to all the present employees of the Washington Company with few exceptions.

4. The purchase price to be received by American would be subject to an adjustment predicated on the assumption that the Federal income tax liability of the Washington Company for the period up to consummation of the transactions will not exceed the amount accrued therefor by the Washington Company, and American would be required to meet certain obligations of its own arising from the transactions. American would receive in the transactions, whether embracing the sale of physical assets or of stock, a net amount of cash and securities dependent in part upon certain tax contingencies. American states that, based on existing tax laws, the net proceeds which would be received by American, after reflecting every reasonably conceivable liability and adjustment of price and all costs incident to the transaction, would not be less than $56,000,000, and that the net proceeds to American might reasonably be as much as $61,000,000.

5. American has included in its notice certain information relating to the cost to American of its interest in the Washington Company properties, the estimated cost of reproducing such properties less accrued depreciation, financial statements for the year 1950 and for the twelve months ended January 31, 1951, the net earnings applicable to the common stock of the Washington Company for the past three years, the budgeted earnings for the years 1951 and 1952, and the possible impact on earnings to result from the proposed construction of a plant at Cabinet Gorge. American states that the most advantageous method, in the interest of American's stockholders, of complying with the dissolution order of the Commission would, in the opinion of American's management, be to dispose of its interest in the Washington Company to public bodies as outlined above.

6. The net proceeds which may be received by American will be partly in cash, partly in the form of U. S. Treasury Bonds, and partly in the form of bonds of the acquiring public bodies. The U. S. Treasury Bonds which would be so received would not exceed $5,000,000 principal amount, valued at the then market price thereof, and any bonds of public bodies to be so received would not exceed $15,000,000 principal amount, valued at such price as may be agreed upon at the time of such transactions but not in excess of the price to underwriting groups.

7. Upon the disposition of American's interest in the Washington Company, American would promptly file with the Commission a plan for distribution of the cash proceeds to its stockholders. As soon thereafter as practicable, American would distribute to its stockholders either the United States Treasury Bonds and any bonds of public bodies received in the transactions, or the proceeds received by American from the sale of all or part thereof. Such distributions would be consummated following application to the Commission with respect thereto and such proceedings as might be required thereon.

8. American would request, in connection with such a transaction, that the Commission enter an order containing the recitals required by Supplement R of the Internal Revenue Code, to the effect that the disposal of American's interest in the Washington Company is necessary or appropriate to the effectuation of the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Holding Company Act and constitutes a step in compliance with the Commission's order for the dissolution of American.

9. American states that no commitment has been made under which anyone is committed to purchase any property or securities from American as outlined above, but that American believes that there are reasonable prospects of completion of the transactions after the regulatory status thereof has been determined by the Commission.

10. In support of its contention that, by reason of the provisions of section 2 (c) of the act, the Commission has no jurisdiction to deal with the merits of the proposed transactions, American cites certain testimony submitted by the Commission in 1945 and 1946 to the Securities Subcommittee of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives, and the fact that the Congress did not thereafter amend the Holding Company Act to confer additional jurisdiction upon the Commission.

The Commission having before it in its files a comprehensive record concerning the Washington Company and the interest of American therein, and having heard argument on the issue whether American should be required to distribute the common stock of the Washington Company to the common stockholders of American; and Rules U-44 (c) and U-44 (b) (3) of the Rules and Regulations under the Act permitting consummation of the proposed transactions without further proceedings unless, within the 10-day notice period therein specified, the Commission shall have required American to file a declaration; the Commission having received certain requests that it require American to file a declaration with respect to the proposed transactions; it appearing to the Commission that substantial questions exist concerning the propriety of such action by the Commission; it appearing further to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest that opportunity be given to show cause why the filing by American of such a declaration should or should not be required by the Commission within the 10-day period specified in Rule U-44 (c), and that within said 10-day period further proceedings should be had herein by the Commission, limited to the following issues:

(1) Whether the Commission has jurisdiction under the Act to require that a declaration be filed by American with respect to the proposed transactions; and

(2) Whether, if the Commission has such jurisdiction, it would be appropriate, in the light of the provisions of section 2 (c) and other applicable provisions of the act for the Commission to require that a declaration be filed by American with respect to the proposed transactions;

It is ordered, That all interested persons shall show cause, if there be any, why the Commission should or should not require that a declaration be filed by American with respect to the proposed transactions, either before Commissioner Richard B. McEntire, or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose, in the United States District Courtroom, Third Floor, United States Court House and Post Office Building, Riverside Avenue and Lincoln Street, Spokane, Washington, on February 20, 1951, at 10:00 a. m., P. s. t., or as soon thereafter as such persons can be heard; or before Commissioner Paul R. Rowen, or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose, in Room 102, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., on February 20, 1951, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., or as soon thereafter as such persons can be heard. Such cause shall be shown either orally or in writing, by way of argument, statements of position, and or offers of proof. Said Commissioners and said officer or officers so designated are hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act, and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

Notice is further given that all persons who shall have appeared at the above proceedings, either in person or by counsel, or by the filing of written argument, statements of position, or offers of proof, may then and there request leave to be heard in oral argument before the Commission on February 23, 1951, and that the Commission will hear such oral argument in the offices of the Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., at 10:00 a. m. on that date. On that date the hearing room clerk will advise as to the room in which such oral argument will be heard.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 20-10]

PART 20—PILOT CERTIFICATES

COLOR VISION REQUIREMENTS FOR PILOTS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of February 1951.

Under current regulations applicants for commercial pilot certificates are required to meet the second-class physical standards. Such standards include a requirement for "normal fields of vision" which has been interpreted to require those applicants to have normal color vision. Under current requirements student and private pilots who are required to meet third-class physical standards have not had to demonstrate normal color vision. An amendment of Part 29, being adopted concurrently with this amendment, changes the color vision requirement for the second-class physical standard to make it more directly related to aviation safety, and for the first time adds a color vision requirement to the third-class physical standards. The amendments provide that applicants for all pilot certificates shall have the ability to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white. (See the amendment of Part 29 for details with respect to the changed requirements and the manner of administration thereof.) This amendment of Part 20 provides that an applicant who is unable to distinguish these aviation signal colors may still be issued a pilot certificate, restricted, however, to the exercise of the certificate privileges under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, as will not require the ability to distinguish aviation signal colors.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 20 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 20 as amended) effective March 20, 1951.

1. By amending § 20.5 (a) to read as follows:

§ 20.5 Physical standards—(a) Powered aircraft. Applicant shall meet the physical standards of the third class prescribed in Part 29 of this subchapter: Provided, That an applicant who is unable to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white shall be issued an airman certificate appropriately endorsed to prohibit the holder thereof from exercising the privileges of such certificate except under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, which would not require the ability to distinguish such aviation signal colors.

PART 22—LIGHTER-THAN-AIR PILOT CERTIFICATES

COLOR VISION REQUIREMENTS FOR LIGHTER-THAN-AIR PILOTS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of February 1951.

Under current regulations applicants for commercial lighter-than-air pilot certificates are required to meet the second-class physical standards. Such standards include a requirement for "normal fields of vision" which has been interpreted to require those applicants to have normal color vision. Under current requirements applicants for student and private lighter-than-air pilot certificates who are required to meet third-class physical standards have not had to demonstrate normal color vision. An amendment of Part 29, being adopted concurrently with this amendment, changes the color vision requirement for the second-class physical standard to make it more directly related to aviation safety, and for the first time adds a color vision requirement to the third-class physical standards. The amendments provide that applicants for certificates who are required to meet physical standards of the third class shall have the ability to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white. (See the amendment of Part 29 for details with respect to the changed requirements and the manner of administration thereof.) This amendment of Part 22 provides that an applicant who is unable to distinguish these aviation colors may still be issued an airman certificate, restricted, however, to the exercise of the certificate privileges under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, as will not require the ability to distinguish aviation signal colors.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 22 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 22 as amended), effective March 20, 1951.

§ 22.10 Student lighter-than-air pilot certificate. * * *

(e) Physical condition. Applicant shall meet the physical standards of the third class prescribed in Part 29 of this subchapter: Provided, That an applicant who is unable to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white shall be issued an airman certificate appropriately endorsed to prohibit the holder thereof from exercising the privileges of such certificate except under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, which would not require the ability to distinguish such aviation signal colors.

PART 29—PHYSICAL STANDARDS FOR AIRMEN

COLOR VISION, NEAR VISION, AND BLOOD PRESSURE REQUIREMENTS FOR AIRMEN

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of February 1951.

Part 29 currently establishes physical standards of the first, second, and third class. One of the first-class standards, which are currently required to be met only by applicants for airline transport pilot ratings, is that the individual shall have normal color vision. Applicants required to meet the second-class standards are required to have "normal fields of vision," which has been interpreted as requiring those applicants to have normal color vision. Commercial pilots, flight navigators, and flight engineers are currently required by Parts 20, 22, 34, and 35 to meet the second-class physical standards. The third-class physical standards, currently required by Parts 20, 22, and 33, respectively, to be met by student and private pilots, free balloon pilots, and flight radio operators, include no color vision requirements.

The amendments now being promulgated require individuals being examined in accordance with the second- and third-class medical standards to recognize aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white. They become applicable to current holders of airman certificates at the time they apply for renewal of their medical authorizations. In the event that such an individual is unable to distinguish those aviation colors, he is required to demonstrate to an authorized representative of the Administrator his ability to interpret such signals under conditions usually encountered by an airman. If the individual can pass such a practical examination, he will be issued a waiver and will then become eligible for the issuance of an airman certificate. It is anticipated that this color vision examination will be administered by the physician conducting the physical examination. However, if the physician does not have the equipment to conduct this test, it is also anticipated that the Administrator will provide a means whereby such individual can take the aviation signal color test. In these latter instances it is believed that the test can be administered without requiring the individual to incur the expense of accomplishing a flight test to determine his ability to distinguish aviation colors. Only where the individual cannot distinguish such colors should he be required to undergo a flight test. Then, if he can accomplish the flight test, he will be issued a waiver. In each case of the issuance of a waiver based upon the practical examination, the individual will not thereafter be required to retake that examination.

When the individual cannot meet the proposed color vision requirements, including the practical examination, he can be issued an airman certificate, but such certificate will be appropriately endorsed to prohibit the exercise of the privileges authorized by the airman certificate except under conditions, or with the use of equipment, such as two-way radio, which would not require the ability to distinguish aviation signal colors. For example, a pilot who is unable to meet the color vision requirements in any way may be authorized to fly only with two-way radio communications available or under conditions where aviation lights would not be used for communication.

It will be noted that Annex 1 to the Convention on International Civil Aviation contains medical recommended practices which provide that the abovementioned airmen be able to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white.

In addition, the near vision requirements of Part 29 are being amended to establish the use of correcting lenses as an alternate to meeting requirements by natural vision. This will permit an individual to meet the first-class physical standards without issuance of a formal waiver as is currently the case.

Part 29, § 29.2 (c) (2), prescribes that reclining blood pressure shall not exceed 135 mm. systolic, nor 90 mm. diastolic, for the first-class physical standard which at present applicants for airline transport pilot ratings are required to meet. The amendment hereby adopted eliminates this general restriction and establishes instead specific limitations based upon age, with limited adjustments where the results of a complete cardiovascular examination are shown to be normal.

The new limitations give recognition to the normal tendency of blood pressure to increase with age, and, in their operation, would allow the pressure readings of an applicant to be slightly above the limits set for his age if, in effect, examination shows no evidence of heart disease. It is believed that this change in the regulation would, consistent with safety, permit trained personnel to fly at advanced ages with more effective utilization of their experience, and would afford more meaningful data for research and statistical purposes.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 29 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR, Part 29, as amended), effective March 20, 1951:

1. By amending § 29.2 (a) (9) to read as follows:

§ 29.2 First class—(a) Eye. • • •

(9) A near vision of at least v=1.00 at 18 inches with each eye separately without the use of correcting lenses: Provided, That if near vision in either or both eyes is poorer than v=1.00 at 18 inches the applicant shall possess the necessary correcting lenses.

• • • • •

2. By amending § 29.2 (c) (2) to read as follows:

§ 29.2 First class. • • •

(c) General physical condition. • • •

(2) Unless the adjusted maximum readings apply, applicant's reclining blood pressure shall not exceed the maximum readings for his age group, as indicated in the table below. The adjusted maximum readings shall apply to any applicant, age 30 years or more, whose reclining blood pressure exceeds the maximum readings for his age group and whose cardiac and kidney conditions, after complete cardiovascular examination, are shown to be normal.

Age group	Maximum readings (reclining blood pressure in mm.)		Adjusted maximum readings (reclining blood pressure in mm.)
	Systolic	Diastolic	Systolic	Diastolic
20–29	140	88	.....	.....
30–39	145	92	155	98
40–49	155	96	165	100
50 and over	160	98	170	100

3. By adding a new § 29.3 (a) (9) to read as follows:

§ 29.3 Second class—(a) Eye. • • •

(9) The ability to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white.

• • • • •

4. By adding a new § 29.4 (a) (3) to read as follows:

§ 29.4 Third class—(a) Eye. • • •

(3) The ability to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white.

• • • • •

5. By amending § 29.5 to read as follows:

§ 29.5 Waiver of physical standards. (a) An airman certificate shall be issued to an applicant who does not meet the appropriate physical standards if the Administrator finds that the applicant's operational record, ability, and judgment as an airman compensate for his physical deficiency and he meets all other requirements for the issuance of said certificate. Such certificate may be limited as to type of operation, type of aircraft, or period of reexamination.

(b) Where the Administrator's finding regarding an individual's ability and judgment as an airman is based upon a practical test, that individual will not be required to retake such practical test during subsequent physical examinations unless, in the opinion of the Administrator, the individual's physical deficiency has become more pronounced.

PART 33—FLIGHT RADIO OPERATOR CERTIFICATES

COLOR VISION REQUIREMENTS FOR FLIGHT RADIO OPERATORS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of February 1951.

Flight radio operators are currently required to meet the third-class physical standards. Under current provisions of Part 29 the third-class physical standards do not include a color vision requirement. However, an amendment of Part 29, being adopted concurrently herewith, provides a color vision requirement in the third-class physical standards. (See the amendment of Part 29 for details with respect to the changed requirements and the manner of administration thereof.) This amendment of Part 33 provides that an applicant who is unable to meet the color vision requirement may still be issued an airman certificate appropriately limiting the holder thereof from exercising the privileges of the certificate except under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, as will not require the ability to distinguish aviation signal colors.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 33 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 33, as amended), effective March 20, 1951:

By amending § 33.27 to read as follows:

§ 33.27 Physical standards. An applicant shall present evidence that he has, within the 12 months immediately preceding the date of application, met the physical standards of the third class prescribed in Part 29 of the Civil Air Regulations: Provided, That an applicant who is unable to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white shall be issued an airman certificate appropriately endorsed to prohibit the holder thereof from exercising the privileges of such certificate except under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, which would not require the ability to distinguish such aviation signal colors.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply secs. 601, 602, 52 Stat. 1007, 1008, 62 Stat. 1216; 49 U. S. C. 551, 552)

PART 34—FLIGHT NAVIGATOR CERTIFICATES

COLOR VISION REQUIREMENTS FOR FLIGHT NAVIGATORS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of February 1951.

Under current regulations applicants for flight navigator certificates are required to meet the second-class physical standards. Such standards include a requirement for "normal fields of vision" which has been interpreted to require those applicants to have normal color vision. An amendment of Part 29, being adopted concurrently with this amendment, changes the color vision requirement for the second-class physical standard to make it more directly related to aviation safety and provides that the applicant shall have the ability to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white. (See the amendment of Part 29 for details with respect to the changed requirements and the manner of administration thereof.) This amendment of Part 34 provides that an applicant who is unable to distinguish these aviation signal colors may still be issued an airman certificate, restricted, however, to the exercise of the certificate privileges under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, as will not require the ability to distinguish aviation signal colors.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 34 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 34, as amended), effective March 20, 1951:

By amending § 34.5 to read as follows:

§ 34.5 Physical standards. Applicant shall meet the physical standards of the second class as prescribed in Part 29 of this subchapter: Provided, That an applicant who is unable to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white shall be issued an airman certificate appropriately endorsed to prohibit the holder thereof from exercising the privileges of such certificate except under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, which would not require the ability to distinguish such aviation signal colors.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply secs. 601, 602, 52 Stat. 1007, 1008, 62 Stat. 1216; 49 U. S. C. 551, 552)

PART 35—FLIGHT ENGINEER CERTIFICATES

COLOR VISION REQUIREMENTS FOR FLIGHT ENGINEERS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 13th day of February 1951.

Under current regulations applicants for flight engineer certificates are required to meet the second-class physical standards. Such standards include a requirement for "normal fields of vision" which has been interpreted to require those applicants to have normal color vision. An amendment of Part 29, being adopted concurrently with this amendment, changes the color vision requirement for the second-class physical standard to make it more directly related to aviation safety and provides that the applicant shall have the ability to distinguish aviation signal red, aviation signal green, and white. (See the amendment of Part 29 for details with respect to the changed requirements and the manner of administration thereof.) This amendment of Part 35 provides that an applicant who is unable to distinguish these aviation colors may still be issued an airman certificate, restricted, however, to the exercise of the certificate privileges under such conditions, or with the use of such equipment, as will not require the ability to distinguish aviation signal colors.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 35 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 35, as amended), effective March 20, 1951:

[NPA Order M-38]

M-38—LEAD

This order is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the authority of section 101 of the Defense Production Act of 1950. In the formulation of this order consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the necessity for immediate action, and because the order affects a large number of different trades and businesses.

1. What this order does.
2. Definitions.
3. Lead forms and materials to which this order applies.
4. Inventories.
5. Records and reports.
6. Applications for adjustments.
7. Communications.
8. Violations.

AUTHORITY: Sections 1 to 8 issued under sec. 704, Public Law 774, 81st Cong. Interpret or apply sec. 101, Pub. Law 774, 81st Cong.; sec. 101, E. O. 10161, Sept. 9, 1950, 15 F. R. 6105.

SECTION 1. What this order does. This order sets forth limitations on inventories of lead and materials containing lead, other than ores and concentrates, and explains the conditions under which reports are required in connection with production, receipt, shipment, use, and inventories of lead and materials containing lead.

SEC. 2. Definitions. As used in this order:

(a) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons and includes any agency of the United States or any other government;

(b) "Primary refiner" means any person who produces lead in refinery shapes mainly from lead ores and concentrates, or who has such lead produced for him on toll agreement;

(c) "Secondary refiner" means any person who produces lead in refinery shapes mainly from lead scrap;

(d) "Dealer" means any person who receives physical deliveries of pig lead, lead-base alloy, lead scrap, or lead products, and sells or holds same for resale without change in form.

(e) "Import" means to transport in any manner into the continental United States from areas outside the continental United States, including territories and possessions. It includes shipments into foreign-trade zones, customs bonded warehouses, and customs custody, except when such shipments are merely in transit through the continental United States, to destinations outside the continental United States, as shown by the bills of lading or other shipping documents. However, if any such material in transit is halted or diverted to a destination in the continental United States or subjected to processing or manufacture in the continental United States, it becomes an "import" for the purposes of this order.

SEC. 3. Lead forms and materials to which this order applies. This order applies to the following lead forms and materials: pig lead, lead-base alloys, lead scrap, and lead products. For the purpose of this order these items are defined as follows:

(a) "Pig lead" means and includes soft lead and antimonial lead in refinery shapes current in the trade.

(b) "Lead-base alloy" means any alloy containing 50 percent or more of lead metal by weight.

(c) "Lead scrap" means all materials or objects which are the waste or by-product of industrial fabrications or processes, or which have been discarded for obsolescence, failure, or other reason, and which contain lead commercially recoverable.

(d) "Lead products" means semi-processed materials, finished parts or sub-assemblies which have been produced from pig lead or lead-base alloys.

SEC. 4. Inventories. (a) No person shall receive or accept delivery of a quantity of pig lead, lead-base alloy, or lead products, if his inventory of such material is, or by such receipt would become, more than the smallest quantity of such material which he reasonably requires to meet his deliveries or maintain his currently scheduled rate of operations during the next succeeding 60-day period, or in excess of a "practicable minimum working inventory" as defined in NPA Reg. 1., whichever is less.

(b) No dealer shall receive or accept delivery of any quantity of lead scrap, unless during the 60 days immediately preceding the date of such acceptance he shall have made delivery or otherwise disposed of such scrap to an amount at least equal in weight to his inventory of scrap on the date of such acceptance, exclusive of the delivery to be accepted.

(c) A person may import any materials to which paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section apply acquired prior to landing without regard to the inventory restrictions of this section. However, if his inventory of such material thereby becomes in excess of the amount permitted, he may not receive further deliveries of it from domestic sources until his inventory is reduced to permitted levels. The inventory restrictions of this section do apply to any deliveries of the imported materials he makes, and to the amount of it that any person accepting delivery from him is permitted to receive.

SEC. 5. Records and reports. (a) Any primary refiner who produces or ships 10 short tons or more of pig lead during any month, or who has 10 short tons or more of pig lead in his possession or under his control on the last day of any month, shall complete and file Bureau of Mines report form 6-1075-M on or before the 25th day of February, 1951, with respect to January, 1951, and on or before the 20th day of each month thereafter with respect to such transaction or possession during the preceding month.

(b) Any secondary refiner who produces or ships 10 short tons or more of pig lead during any month, or who has 10 short tons or more of pig lead in his possession or under his control on the last day of any month shall complete and file Bureau of Mines report form 6-1116-M on or before the 25th day of February, 1951, with respect to January, 1951, and on or before the 20th day of each month thereafter with respect to such transaction or possession during the preceding month.

(c) Any dealer who receives or ships 5 short tons or more of pig lead during any month, or who has 10 short tons or more of pig lead in his possession or under his control on the last day of any month shall complete and file Bureau of Mines report form 6-1078-M on or before the 25th day of February, 1951, with respect to January, 1951, and on or before the 20th day of each month thereafter with respect to such transactions or possession during the preceding month.

(d) Any person using pig lead to produce lead products who puts into process 5 short tons or more of pig lead in any month, or who on the last day of any month has in his possession or under his control 10 short tons or more of pig lead, shall complete and file Bureau of Mines report form 6-1078-M on or before the 25th day of February, 1951, with respect to January, 1951, and on or before the 20th day of each month thereafter with respect to such transactions or possession during the preceding month.

(e) All reports required by this order shall be addressed to the Bureau of Mines, Washington 25, D. C., ref: M-38, together with such number of copies as may be specified on the report form.

(f) Each person participating in any transaction covered by this order shall retain in his possession for at least 2 years records of receipts, deliveries, inventories, production, and use, in sufficient detail to permit an audit that determines for each transaction whether the provisions of this order have been met. This does not specify any particular accounting method and does not require alteration of the system of records customarily maintained, provided such records supply an adequate basis for audit. Records may be retained in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals.

(g) All records required by this order shall be made available at the usual place of business where maintained for inspection and audit by duly authorized representatives of the National Production Authority.

SEC. 6. Applications for adjustments. Any person affected by any provision of this order may file a request for adjustment or exception upon the ground that such provision works an undue or exceptional hardship upon him not suffered generally by others in the same trade or industry, or that its enforcement against him would not be in the interest of national defense or in the public interest. Each request shall be in writing and shall set forth all pertinent facts and the nature of the relief sought and shall state the justification therefor.

SEC. 7. Communications. All communications concerning this order other than reports, shall be addressed to the National Production Authority, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-38.

SEC. 8. Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provisions of this order or any other order or regulation of the National Production Authority or wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information in the course of operation under this order is guilty of a crime and, upon conviction, may be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. In addition, administrative action may be taken against any such person to suspend his privilege of making or receiving further deliveries of materials or using facilities under priority or allocation control and to deprive him of further priorities assistance.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act (P. L. 831, 77th Cong., 5 U. S. C. 139-139F).

This order shall take effect on February 16, 1951.

Dated: February 15, 1951.
